Butler Pleads Guilty To Charge Of Manslaughter

Jeffrey A. Butler, 27, Salisbury, Pa., pleaded guilty to manslaughter by automobile in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the hearing, and accepted the defendant's plea, which was an allford plea. An allford plea is made when the defendant realizes that the presented evidence is sufficient to convict him. The judge then ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Other charges of reckless driving, speeding, and failure to keep right of center were merged with the manslaughter charge. The charges stemmed from an automobile accident on October 28, 1990, that claimed the life of an 11-year-old Finzel girl, after which Butler was indicted by the Grand Jury.

Candy Sue Opel died as a result of injuries sustained in the crash which occurred on alternate U.S. Route 40 near Finzel. Butler was operating a 1982 Pontiac TransAm, traveling west on Rt. 40 when he collided with a 1990 Chrysler Imperial, operated by David E. Opel, father of the deceased, as he was exiting a private driveway. Other passengers in the Opel vehicle were Dorothy J. Opel, mother of the victim; and David E. Opel II, 15, brother. The 15-year-old was seriously injured in the accident and was hospitalized. The defendant was also injured, as well as Melissa L. Durst, 22, Salisbury, Pa., a passenger in Butler's vehicle.

According to the report, an investigation into the accident revealed that Butler was traveling at an estimated 122 miles per hour prior to the crash. The report also indicated that the

SHS World Affairs Team Wins Best Delegation Honor

The 1991 World Affairs team from Southern High School received the honor of Best Delegation at the 32nd Annual World Affairs Institute in Morgantown, W.Va., on April 18. As a member of the 1991 Model Security Council, the delegation from Southern represented France and was faced with many serious issues. One such issue was International Group Organization, where students must determine who receives diplomatic immunity and whether diplomats are responsible to host countries for all or any crimes committed.

"THE WACKADOO ZOO" opened April 26 at Aurora Elementary School. In this zoo, cows mooed, lions roared, goats barked, monkeys brayed, and pigs neighed. Three speech professors from the university arrived to try to help these crazy, mixed-up animals, but were soon sent packing.

when the animals decided sometimes being different is a great way to be. The musical play was performed by first through third grade students and the kindergarten students sang selections prior to the performance. The "Wackadoo Zoo" was written by Jill Gallina.

GCC President Asks Commissioners To Examine Funding, Salary Inequities Says "Do The Right Thing"

Garrett Community College (GCC) President Dr. Stephen J. Herman this week approached the Board of Garrett County Commissioners in an effort to obtain "assistance and guidance from the county commissioners to close the inequity gap" between the administrative staff and faculty at the college and comparable positions throughout the state and within the local education board.

During his presentation, Dr. Herman implored the county officials to "do the right thing" for the sake of maintaining the accreditation status at the college, as well as to bring into better alignment the salaries of the college administration and faculty staff with comparable positions at the state and local levels.

"GCC's salaries are uniformly the lowest in the state, uniformly below that of Allegheny Community College and, surprise of surprises, lower than the local Board of Education -- in lots of instances, dramatically below," stated Herman.

Herman explained that, although he has been aware of these salary inequities for some time, the recent publication of education board administrative staff salaries prompted him to reconsider the final budget request for FY1992.

"It's pretty well understood that college personnel

Turkey Hunter Accidentally Shot By Partner

Jerry Burkins, 46, Port Deposit, was accidentally shot by James N. Crabill, 71, Monkton, on Monday morning while the two were turkey hunting. Burkins was flown by the HealthNet helicopter to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., after the incident, which took place in a wooded area on Myers Road off Route 42. He was listed in fair condition this morning at Ruby Memorial.

According to a spokesperson for the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) police, the two were with three to four other men on the morning of the accident, and were walking through the woods in a staggered line. Crabill heard a rustle in the underbrush, and then saw what he thought to be a turkey and shot his rifle. He had mistaken Burkins' camouflage pants' leg for the bird, and the shot entered the victim, causing serious internal injuries.

Both Crabill and Burkins had completed a course on hunter safety prior to the accident. Charges against Crabill are pending, a DNR spokesperson said, concerning the type of shot he was using. The DNR officer explained that Maryland has specific ammunition rules, and that only a certain type of shot is allowed for turkey hunting.

Education Board Asks Commissioners For Budget Monies Over $10 Million

The Garrett County Board of Education presented its fiscal year 1992 operating budget proposal to the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday, with a total request of $10,884,341. The amount asked for exceeds last fiscal year's approved budget by $1,741,341. Board President Beverly Murphy stated that the board was aware that the higher request was "not in the direction" of the commissioners' memo asking county agencies to limit their requests to no more than what was allotted last year, but that the board members feel strongly about the needs of the schools, and are "not apologizing" for the costly request.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, exposed to second-hand smoke. Following the presentation, Archer told the commissioners that, in the average workplace with average ventilation and an average number of smokers (about 30%), statistics have shown that one out of every 1,000 workers would be afflicted with lung cancer over a 40-year period.

He also stated that the Garrett County Health Department will be providing consultation services to groups and organizations who "want to move forward on this." He noted that a meeting to organize local

Archer Discusses Tobacco Smoke Concerns At County Staff Meeting

Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer this week shared his concerns regarding "environmental tobacco smoke," an issue that has recently been receiving much research and increased public awareness, with the Garrett County Commissioners and various county agency heads at the regular monthly county staff meeting.

During the meeting, Archer presented a videotaped recording, prepared by the American Cancer Society, which revealed statistics concerning the hazards of tobacco smoking and "passive" or "involuntary" smoking by persons who are exposed to second-hand smoke. Following the presentation, Archer told the commissioners that, in the average workplace with average ventilation and an average number of smokers (about 30%), statistics have shown that one out of every 1,000 workers would be afflicted with lung cancer over a 40-year period.

McHenry Couple Sentenced On Charges Of Battery Against Six-Year-Old Male

A McHenry couple found guilty of battery on a six-year-old male in Garrett County District Court on January 9 were sentenced this week by Judge Jack R. Turney.

Ricky S. Moats Sr., 27, and Earline P. Moats, 26, were both found guilty of one count each of battery against the child in January and Judge Turney ordered pre-sentence investigations at that time.

At a sentencing hearing last week, Judge Turney handed each of them a one-year suspended jail term, fined each of them $50, and placed them both on 18 months of supervised probation. They were also ordered to meet with the Department of Social Services on a regular basis during their probationary period.

In a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office in January, charges of child abuse against the two were not prosecuted.

The pair had been charged by the Maryland State Police on December 5, 1990, after Earline Moats struck the child on the back with a belt and Ricky Moats Sr. squeezed the victim's neck with such force that it left

CARE Group To Help With Park Clean-Up Effort

Members of Concerned Area Residents for the Environment (CARE) will assist in the clean-up effort at Deep Creek Lake State Park this Saturday, May 4, following the removal last weekend of approximately 225 dead or dying trees by members of the Maryland Forest Association (MFA).

Volunteers from the general public are urged to join CARE in this project, and may donate any amount of time, beginning at 9 a.m.

The trees were removed by MFA on a volunteer basis, following an announcement by Maryland Department of Natural Resources officials that state monies were not available to perform the removal. The park was recently forced to close because of the dangerous situation.

Trees that were removed from the park will reportedly be taken to Savage River State Park, where they will be milled into lumber, and then used as building materials for a facility at Sandy Point State Park.

Three-Vehicle Mishap Sends One To Hospital

A three-vehicle mishap early Saturday morning on Alternate U.S. Route 40 resulted in one person being treated for minor injuries at Sacred Heart Hospital and then released, according to a report filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Treated for minor injuries was Bruce L. McKenzie, 20, Frederick, who was transported to the hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

The accident occurred when Ricky R. Winebrenner, 20, Frederick, operating a 1987 Chevrolet 150 pickup truck in lane one, attempted to pass a 1990 Nissan, operated by McKenzie. The Winebrenner vehicle struck a third oncoming vehicle, a 1982 Chevrolet pickup truck operated by Terry A. Spiker, Grantsville, in the left front. In an attempt to avoid the Winebrenner vehicle, McKenzie ran off the right side of the road and struck an embankment.

Winebrenner was charged with failure to drive on the right half of the roadway, driving in excess of reasonable and prudent speed, and negligent driving.

A one-vehicle accident Monday sent a Friendsville man to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and then released.

Injured was Dewey E. Wakefield, 56, Friendsville, who was operating a 1984 Toyota pickup truck on U.S. Route 219. Police said he failed to stop at an intersection and struck a guardrail in "extremely" foggy weather.

Tfc. J.W. Hare investigated the 11:15 a.m. mishap and charged Wakefield with failure to stop for a stop sign. Wakefield was transported to the local hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

An Oakland man was treated and released at the local hospital last Thursday from injuries he received when he lost control of the 1986 Honda ATV he was operating on private property off Md. Route 39.

Robert L. Crocco Jr., 19, reportedly twisted his ankle when he struck a bump, causing him to lean sideways. Crocco was taken to the hospital by private vehicle.

Tfc. D.W. Broadwater investigated the 7 p.m. mishap.

A hit and run accident last Wednesday in Deer Park resulted in multiple charges against a Swanton man.

Jay S. Dixon, 21, was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, negligent driving, failure to drive on the right half of the roadway, and leaving the scene of a property damage accident.

Police reports indicated that Dixon was operating a 1988 Dodge Omni on Church Street in Deer Park when he crossed the center of the road and struck an unattended vehicle on the northbound shoulder. He then allegedly fled the scene without notifying the owner of the unattended vehicle, Steven G. Edgar, Deer Park.

Dixon was later apprehended at Erv's Bar by Tfc. W.E. Dixon and charges were subsequently filed.

Deer Park Man Charged With CDS Violations

A Deer Park man was charged with numerous controlled dangerous substance (CDS) violations Monday evening by the Maryland State Police, according to reports filed at the McHenry Barrack.

Michael C. Fitzwater, 31, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of marijuana paraphernalia, and three counts of possession of schedule IV prescription drugs.

Tfc. R.T. Wilson apprehended Fitzwater at Erv's Bar in Deer Park.

State Police are also currently seeking information in the thefts of two lawn tractors. Both thefts occurred in the northern end of the county on Friday.

Larry R. Savage, Grantsville, told police that someone broke into a shed at his residence and removed a 16 HP International Cub Cadet lawn tractor with a 44 inch mower deck. Tfc. J.W. Hare is the investigating officer.

Lois W. Thomas, 61, Friendsville, reported that she had left her red Sears garden tractor parked in her front yard Friday night and had removed the keys. She said the tractor was missing when she awakened Saturday morning. Tpr. G.S. Becker is investigating.

In other State Police news, an arrest is pending in a reported assault and battery case involving Anthony D. Golden, 31, McHenry. The name of the accused was not available in the report.

The assault and battery allegedly occurred early Sunday morning and resulted in injury to Golden.

Bloomington Public Reviews School District Study

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, and Bryan Paugh, education board member, met with the Bloomington School Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) on Tuesday in the first of a series of meetings to explain and discuss the results of a recent study of the southern elementary school districts. Approximately 75 citizens attended the meeting, according to a spokesperson, and many concerns about the plan were expressed.

Altman & Altman architectural firm of Uniontown, Pa., recently completed the study of the schools, and has recommended the consolidation of Bloomington, Crellin, Red House, Loch Lynn, and Kitzmiller into two new schools, with one situated in Swanton and the other in a location west of Oakland. After hearing the recommendations at the last school board meeting, Ryscavage then arranged meetings with each school involved to discuss the findings.

Bloomington citizens raised a number of questions, largely centered on the process by which any final decisions will be made. They also voiced concerns about the traveling that would be required of their children, and expressed apprehension about the Bloomington mountain route. They also asked questions about the possibility of sending their sixth, seventh, and eighth graders to Southern Middle School.

Ryscavage concluded the meeting by explaining that when he has met with parents in all the school communities affected by the plan, he and the education board members will conduct a series of hearings concerning the matter before they take any action.

Ryscavage and various board members will meet in similar sessions with the Crellin PTA tonight at 7:30 p.m.; Loch Lynn PTA on Tuesday, May 14 at 7:30 p.m.; Kitzmiller PTA on Thursday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m.; and Red House PTA on Monday, May 20, at 7 p.m.

All members of the public are invited to attend any or all of the informational sessions, Ryscavage said.

OVER $11,000 has been recently donated to local charity organizations by First United National Bank via its program entitled Helper CD Campaign, in which the bank donated $5 for every $1,000 of new money to the bank that was placed in a certificate of deposit. Above, Brian Saldara, First United customer service officer, presents a check to Allosa Ann Ridder, a representative of the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, one of the beneficiaries of the program. Other local organizations that received similar support were Friends Aware, Make a Wish, and Dream Come True.

First United Donates Over $11,000 To Area Charities

"Our Helpers CD campaign benefited many area residents, thanks to our customers' support," stated Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board and president of First United National Bank & Trust. He said that First United donated over $11,000 total to Friends Aware, Make a Wish, Dream Come True, and Garrett Organization for the Handicapped.

Since early in the fall, First United has conducted a program entitled the Helper CD Campaign, in which the bank donated $5.00 for every $1,000 of new money to the bank that was placed in a certificate of deposit. The customer has the option of designating one of the four charities above to be the recipient of the contribution.

A representative from Garrett Organization for the Handicapped stated, "Because of First United's donations, we can continue several of our projects such as promoting efforts for handicapped accessibility, giving scholarships for Special Education majors, and providing social events for our local handicapped people. It was a nice surprise to have this extra fund-raising program available this year."

"As the campaign comes to a close, I would like to thank our customers who helped to make it a success. The Helper CD campaign was a true partnership with our local community," concluded Stanton.

Persons Arrested For Drug, DWI, Theft Charges

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office made various arrests this week on charges including theft, drug possession, and driving while intoxicated (DWI). Several incidents of theft were also reported to the Sheriff's Office.

Bradford L. Shifflett, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, and Carl H. Shifflett, 19, Oakland, were arrested Saturday on charges of felony breaking and entering, felony theft over $300, destruction of property, and misdemeanor theft. The two teenagers apparently attempted to break into a truck owned by Carl Belt, Inc., located in the parking lot of Southern High School.

A janitor at the school saw the defendants at the truck and approached them, chasing them away. The janitor then contacted the Sheriff's Office, and police officers tracked the boys to the Don Nine Apartment complex, where they confessed to the breaking and entering crime. Upon further investigation, officers discovered missing property in the apartment, including a vehicle battery and other stolen items, and proceeded to arrest the Shiffletts.

The defendants were incarcerated in lieu of $5,000 bond each, which Bradford Shifflett posted. Carl Shifflett remains in jail, according to an office spokesperson.

Joseph M. Baker, 31, Oakland, was arrested on April 28 on charges of DWI, possession of a concealed deadly weapon, and possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). Dep. J. Murphy made the arrest after stopping a motorcycle operated erratically by the defendant.

In a search of the defendant, Murphy reportedly found a pipe and marijuana residue, as well as a "dirt" knife. The 12:15 a.m. incident occurred on Boiling Springs Road. Baker was later released on his own recognizance.

Sheriff deputies worked with Maryland State Police officers to investigate a complaint concerning a loud party at an Oakland-Sang Run Road residence on Saturday. The officers entered the yard and searched the area, finding suspected marijuana in the possession of Kimberly A. Taliaferro, 24, and Robin R. Dimick, 32, both of Oakland.

Both women were charged with possession of marijuana. Three other persons were present at the party, but were not charged, according to the report.

Gary L. Whetzel, 28, Oakland, was charged with DWI after Dep. Murphy stopped him for a safety equipment violation. The officer made the arrest on Rt. 39 in Rosedale on April 28, according to the police log.

Joseph W. Miller, 39, Oakland, was also stopped for a safety equipment violation when Officer Murphy detected the odor of alcohol on the defendant. Miller was charged with DWI after the arrest, which took place on Sand Flat Road.

Clayton L. Donham, 33, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested for DWI on April 25 at 12:15 a.m. According to the report, Donham failed to stop at a stop sign while being observed by Murphy. The arrest took place on Boiling Springs Road.

Thefts Reported
David A. Rolf, Loch Lynn, reported the theft of a rifle scope to the Sheriff's Office. Rolf told police that the scope was on the front seat of his truck, which was parked in an alley between Shenandoah and Roanoke Avenues, behind his home, on the night of April 11.

Rolf said the scope was taken from the seat sometime in the evening. The doors of the vehicle were unlocked at the time of the theft. The scope is worth $325, according to the report.

Russell A. Freeland, Oakland, reported the theft of two four-wheeler tires and wheels, which were taken from his Hutton residence some time on April 29. The wheels and tires were on his porch, Freeland explained. The loss has been estimated at $140.

Ervin F. Shreve of the Buffalo Coal Company reported an incident of theft of property was reported by Sandra L. Harvey, Swanton. Ms. Harvey told police that she found the carcass of a turkey had been placed on the back seat of her car, which was parked on Mt. Zion Road. The incident occurred on April 22.

Blood from the turkey soaked into the material on the seat, and caused $100 worth of damage, according to the report.

It's All Relative...

One can quickly become depressed if he ponders too long and hard about the various local issues of late, concerning everything from the actions of those in county government to teachers' salaries to the tax rate to recycling problems to rabies. The problems are so complex and there is so much negativism surrounding them, it makes one not want to ever again pick up a newspaper (we shudder at the thought!).

However, when one puts everything into a relative perspective, he usually discovers that such crises are really nothing when compared to those being faced by so many other people in the world. One need only watch five minutes of international news to realize that, on a relative basis, he really has little to complain or worry about.

We turn our attention specifically to the displaced Kurdish people of Iraq, who are dying daily, by the hundreds, to disease, starvation, and exposure. We are told about the outbreak of cholera in South America that has claimed over 1,000 lives so far. On Tuesday of this week, a cyclone struck Bangladesh and today the estimates of fatalities range as high as 200,000 and probably millions injured and/or homeless. It was also noted this week that the famines in Africa are predicted to be the worst ever this year and as many as 26 million men, women, and children may suffer slow, agonizing deaths. Twenty-six million is 1,000 times the population of Garrett County.

There is great concern, too, that charity giving is down considerably and expected to remain so this year, meaning relief efforts for many of the above situations will be severely limited. Those of us who have are apparently not willing, or feel we are unable, to share our wealth with people exceedingly less fortunate.

We are not suggesting that we should ignore or cease being concerned about the local issues and problems in our day-to-day lives here in Garrett County. Indeed, we should continue to work diligently to solve them. However, it truly helps to take a step back once in a while, consider the big picture, put things into perspective, and realize that our problems don't often hold a candle to those of millions of others. It also might encourage us to make a contribution to assist some of those folks who are so far worse off than we.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Earlier you received a letter saying that teachers should get a real job, and that they make enough money, but if we did not have teachers, who would educate dentists and doctors?

A good example is Mr. David Zimmerman. He does not work a day, he works nine, grading papers, because he does not have an assistant. He teaches six classes a day and has a wonderful chorus program which over 50 students enjoy. He does this in his planning and lunch time, with no extra pay. He has been in the school four weekends in a row, working four hours a day getting ready. He also instructs a band program in which any student can enjoy.

Yes, I know he sounds like a busy man, but that's not all. He has a dance every other Saturday and D.J.'s other dances for free, and finds time to spend with his family.

So who says teachers need to get a real job? And it isn't just Mr. Zimmerman, it is all teachers. He is just one of the good examples I know, because I am a student of Mr. Zimmerman, and all the hardworking teachers at Broad Ford Elementary.

Sincerely,

Handi Carpenter

To the Editor:

We would like to thank the directors, cast, musicians, crew, and supporting organizations and businesses for the fine production of "Man of La Mancha" that we enjoyed so much last weekend. It was a pleasure to see this thought-provoking and entertaining musical performed here with the creative talents of our gifted residents.

We feel fortunate that these people, organizations and businesses are committed to providing high quality entertainment here. It takes so much time, energy, talent and resources to bring a play to life. The families of the people involved with "Man of La Mancha" are also due thanks for sparing their loved ones to bring us wonderful community theatre.

In a room built for theatre, the musicians are usually in front of the stage so the conductor can see the singers for cues and tempo. The small loft cleverly built behind the stage for the musicians, while it made the best of a difficult situation, probably diminished their ability to see and hear the singers on stage. Since the lecture hall in which Garrett County's community theatre usually takes place, cannot easily accommodate productions of this quality and size, we support having a place here for the theatre, music, dance and related arts and humanities programs that can really develop the potential of Garrett County's gifts in these areas and be hospitable for invited touring performers as well.

We'll look forward to seeing "Man of La Mancha" at Garrett Community College again in July, when all these dedicated people and groups rehearse, labor, perform, and finance this musical for the community's benefit again.

Sincerely,
Liz Jeff, and Suzanne Gilbert

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to an article in the Weekender stating that a group of people are going to educate the people of Garrett County on liquor sales on Sunday.

We have six days a week to buy alcohol and if we can't buy enough for Sunday, too bad. Why doesn't this group of people step into a policeman's shoes and go out and take care of the domestics and child abuse caused by alcohol? It is getting pretty bad when you can't go to a restaurant on Sunday without alcohol.

We have a pretty good idea who this group of people are, and who cares what they do in Harford County? What is their problem?

Are the churches of Garrett County going to stand still and let these "groups" tell us we need to go out and drink on Sunday, too? A lot of people won't go into a restaurant that sells alcohol on Sunday, so maybe they can hurt their business rather than help it. It just goes to show what kind of a world we are living in. Talk about drugs. Alcohol is the leader in drug abuse. If it isn't, why have we had all the famous people in the Betty Ford Center? It isn't only the rich and famous that are alcoholics.

Come on, people of Garrett County. Are we so uneducated we need to learn we need alcohol sales on Sunday? Stop this before it gets started.

I guess we will see what kind of churches and Christians we have, won't we? I don't pretend to be a Christian, but even I am not this dumb.

We do not need alcohol sales on Sunday. What ever happened to remember the Sabbath Day and keep it holy?

I am in prison for forgery. I have been for 12 1/2 years, and while I've been here, I have been reading the paper (The Republican). I see that people who are found guilty on sex charges on little kids only get 2 to 5 years in prison. I feel they hurt the little ones and others, and I never hurt anyone. They should get the same, if not more for their crimes.

Creating A Wildflower Garden by Willetta Russell

Are you one of those fortunate people who knows where to feast your eyes on a patch of lady slippers, or some other of the rarer wildflowers? One of the joys of spring is to watch the progression of wildflowers as they guide us through the days until summer. As interest in wildflowers and their identification increases, so does the desire to bring some of those beauties to our own garden. In terms of conservation, this may be fortunate since some of our plants may be doomed to extinction as urbanization of the countryside, draining of wetlands and clearing of forests reduces their native habitats.

Successful gardening with native plants requires careful attention to the specific requirements of the particular plants. The wildflower gardener works with nature to observe wild plants in their native habitat, then chooses only those plants that can grow in the environment he can give them. Although some wild plants are adaptable to varied growing condition, most will not survive in conditions too different from their native situations. Specific needs of light, soil acidity, moisture and drainage, and fertility must be met for native plants to survive, thrive and propagate in a garden setting. Few of the early flowering species can tolerate full sun or dry soil, but many can transplant easily to a shady woodland location. Good choices for this are: bloodroot, hepatica, Jacob's ladder, Dutchman's breeches, bellwort, wild geranium, wild columbine, anemones, varieties of phlox, iris, trout-lilies, trilliums, Virginia bluebells, and for the very experienced gardener, yellow lady's slipper. Partridgeberry, wintergreen, Canada mayflower and trailing arbutus are groundcovers that do well in shaded areas.

Sunny, drier conditions such as open fields are more suitable for such plants as aster, bouncing bet, butterfly weed, penstemon, lupine, sunflower, tansy, mallow, lobelia, lilies, black eyed Susan, coneflowers, and yarrow.

Creating a wildflower garden may be done with plants collected from the wild, or grown from seed. If possible, plants that bloom in the spring should be moved after they bloom, those that flower in late summer or early fall should be moved in the spring. When moving perennial plants, it is helpful to dig them with large clumps of their own soil for transfer to locations similar to those they came from. However, choose carefully which plants you try to move, and be sure that you can duplicate their requirements. Plants moved to alien conditions, even if they survive, are not likely to produce the blooms you desire, and may eventually die. If the plant remains healthy for several years and continued to bloom, chances are it made the adjustment.

Some plants are almost impossible to move; for example, the pink lady's slipper is so exacting in its needs that it almost always dies if disturbed, or even if the bloom is picked. When collecting from the wild, care should be taken to leave at least two-thirds of a colony to continue propagating, the only exception being plants rescued from disruption by bulldozers.

An excellent source of plants or seeds are wildflower nurseries which specialize in producing for naturalizing. Not only are you assured of healthy plants, but you may acquire plants suitable for your garden that are not readily available in your locale. Many nurseries also provide native shrubs which may enhance your wild garden. When established, a wildflower garden may provide years of pleasure with very little maintenance requirements.

Our library has several books on wildflower gardening. Gardening with Wildflowers, by Frances Tenenbaum, is particularly helpful.

To the Editor:

We would like to thank the many people who called and stopped to tell us of their experiences when dealing with the Garrett County deputies. Our thanks go out to Mr. Curtis. Thumbs up to him, no matter what his address may be. Our thanks to Mrs. Harvey for speaking out.

In response to Deputy Dave Stoner's parents' letter! I am not trying to win a popularity contest by writing about our deputies. You started your letter like you know me. You don't! I served my country for four years. I have worked at Westvaco for 25 years. I stay out of trouble, and do my best to see that my family does the same. I do have my home in order. I also have a right to complain when I see injustice with a Sheriff's Department deputies (all of these occurred while the deputies involved were in uniform, on duty, in a patrol car); giving beer to 18 and 20-year-old girls while one was driving, and both were on duty at the rescue squad; driving a young lady to the lake and attempting to force himself upon her; having a high speed chase through the town of Oakland after the two young ladies; taking a young lady out spotlighting deer. Just having fun? Taking a young lady while her hands were numb from being handcuffed so tight behind her back and ramming her backward into his car, mashing her head into the roof. Grabbing her by the foot when she fell on her back and twisting until the bones cracked. Deputy brutality? Not unless you can show it on a camcorder. I certainly don't want to walk in these deputies' shoes. From their actions they must have gotten their training in Baghdad.

I feel Sheriff Evans is a good man and employs some outstanding deputies. He also employs some bad deputies. Our sheriff has a huge responsibility and can't watch them all of the time. They certainly won't turn each other in for help because of retaliation from their own group. Sheriff Evans cannot do anything unless the people come forward when his deputies break the law. He can hire 'em, but he can't fire 'em without proper evidence. Due to the actions of a few, they all get a bad reputation.

As for lying, I have no reasons to lie about this matter. We have witnesses to these facts! They are not hearsay, gossip, nor lies!

Mad? Yeh, I am mad, because the people who called are afraid of our deputies, afraid of our deputies who are supposed to help and protect them, not intimidate or promise threats of retaliation for speaking out against injustice. For the information of all the people in Garrett Co., in the Annotated Code of Maryland law book, Article (36) Section (d) exceptions, it states a person can carry a concealed deadly weapon as a precaution against bodily injury or apprehended danger.

As my daughter's first trial, her lawyer would not even look at this evidence or show anything that involved our deputies. Deputy Gnegy had my daughter subpoenaed to testify against Deputy Dave Stoner. After this, Deputy Gnegy apparently hid! He did not offer her any assistance or protection. She and members of our family received information she would "get her head bashed in" by certain deputies. They would get even. Out of fear for her life, she put a novelty paperweight brass knuckles in her purse for protection. We did not want her to end up like Cathy Ford!

Thank you,
Frank & Lucy DeWitt

To the Editor:

May 11, 1991, is prom night for area high school students. It is supposed to be one of the best nights of a teen's life. However, as part of the celebration, illegal drugs and alcohol are sometimes included.

Friends and relatives can play a major role in preventing the use of illegal drugs and alcohol. Individuals over the age of 21 years purchasing and providing alcoholic beverages to minors may be charged with two different crimes. The fines are determined by the state's attorney's office and are not to exceed $250 per individual involved.

For example, a parent who has the idea of providing a place and alcoholic beverages to help keep their teenager off the road may actually be creating a bad situation. Imagine your child plus 25 of their friends at such a

The Mind Wanders

Another Mouse Story
by Pam Aahby

Some of the best-laid plans in life are often side-tracked by more preening matters. I must be coming of age, however, because I have, after 39 years of living and learning, finally accepted the fact that I seldom control my own destiny. Someone or something is always there to remind me that my itinerary is indeed going to be re-arranged or scrapped altogether.

I took Monday afternoon off to go home and be domestic for awhile. You see, the dust balls and cobwebs have taken over while my busy little family works or goes to school every day. And with all the after-school and Saturday activities we share with our children, there's precious little time to sweep the floors, scrub the bathrooms, and dust the furniture. (I do the mounds of laundry between midnight and 2 a.m.)

I digress. So anyway, I arrive home Monday at about 2 p.m. and begin picking up gum wrappers, socks, Barbie shoes, magazines, and other assorted "drop me anywhere" items in preparation of vacuuming and scrubbing floors. I am happy. I am well on my way to accomplishing something when what to my wondering eyes does appear -- my 12-year-old daughter screaming, "Alfie caught a mouse and he brought it to me while I was in the bathroom."

After calming her down and pretending I wasn't terrified at the prospect of having to dispose of a half-dead rodent, we began the search. Alfie, the cat, had lost interest in his prize mouse and dropped it SOMEWHERE.

"Yikes!" I exclaimed. "There it goes -- into Kate's bedroom."

Did that surprise me? No. Most of the mice that come here to live (briefly) take up residence in Kate's room. Her room is mouse friendly. There's usually plenty of food hidden in her drawers and closet. Scrap paper abounds to make for the creatures to fashion little nests. The endless clutter makes for great hiding places. Life is good for a mouse in Kate's room.

So Annie and I embark on the "great mouse chase" armed with a broom and a purple baton. These weapons were for our protection, lest the mouse attack us. And chase we did -- from under the dresser to inside the baseboard heater to behind the two boxes of doll clothes to inside the doll house to the closet and back into the baseboard heater.

"Mom, turn the heater on and he'll run into this grocery bag," Annie suggests.

"Good idea," I say.

"No wait," Annie begs. "That's too cruel."

So it was back to chasing, foolishly thinking we could chase that cagey mouse into the bag.

Enter Katy. Hello hysteria.

"Katy, we're in your room," I yell. "It seems you have another critter in your room. He's been enjoying that bag of potato chips you left in your closet."

So Katy joined the chase -- the chase that lasted until 5 p.m. when Dad arrived home to save the day.

I didn't get my homework finished. Katy was faced with the task of putting her room together. Annie sulked in her room because of the fate of the mouse. But, all in all, the day wasn't a total loss because I got to spend some really fun time with my daughters as we laughed and squealed at the antics of the mouse while Alfie snoozed away under Kate's bed. Oh, Annie was a little miffed when I touched the back of her leg with a baton while she peered into the dark closet in search of the mouse. She thought the mouse jumped up her leg while she had her back turned. But, alas, she laughed and we all howled.

The nice thing about Monday afternoon was that my plans were pushed aside by a necessary mission -- a mission of merriment and wild abandon with my precious daughters. I only hope they will look back on that day as I will. What a grand and hilarious time we had!

The potential fine could be $6,500.

Individuals under age caught possessing alcoholic beverages will also be fined. Minors operating a vehicle and determined by Breathalyzer to have a level of greater than .02 (approximately equal to one can of beer) will have their license taken away.

What is the solution? Make yourself aware of where your child is going on prom night and with whom. Don't be afraid to discuss your feelings and values with your child. Tell them beforehand what to say and how to confront the situation of illegal drugs and alcohol use. Also, call ahead to see just what kind of party it is and who will be supervising.

Don't let this wonderful occasion turn into something that you will regret forever. Take the time to talk with your teenager now. Let them know you care. May 12, 1991, may be too late. We care.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter requested that it appear in this column. Dear Commissioner Groves:

I am still waiting for your answer to my questions about the funds you received for your master's program. Will they be paid back to the county?

Could you please tell me why certain county officials have $5000 in funds available to pay fees which are not covered by the county insurance policy?

Mr. Groves, I believe that county policies need not be studied, but should be adhered to by county officials. I really do not wish to continue writing letters, but it seems questions never get answered.

First Cinco de Mayo Mexican Festival To Feature Games, Music, Good Food

Cinco de Mayo, a traditional Mexican festival, will be celebrated this year for the first time at Deep Creek Lake in McHenry on Saturday, May 11. Merchants and restaurants along Deep Creek Drive will offer the public the excitement of a Mexican Festival with continuous live music, children's games and pinatas, lots of prizes and giveaways, a chicken and rib Bar-B-Que, seafood and fresh fruits, and the fun of a Las Vegas Casino Night.

The celebration, sometimes called Mexican Independence Day, will begin at noon in the parking lot of the Stray Cat Cafe with tables and displays set up by the participating merchants. The festivities will continue until 8 p.m., when the Las Vegas style games of Casino Night will begin. Sponsored by the Oakland Council 1771 of The Knights of Columbus Las Vegas Casino Night will be held in the building adjacent to the Stray Cat Cafe.

Music by popular local groups and artists will fill the air throughout the day. Performing will be: Jim and Mike from "The Limit", Jimmy Flanigan, The Short Brothers, Rob Smith, Buzz Peele, and Rolando Fontana.

Quality Marine will have boat on display and the Greg Rouse Ski School will exhibit water skiing on nearby Deep Creek Lake.

Superb dining is available from participating restaurants: Stray Cat Cafe, McClive's and The Point View Inn. Other businesses participating in the Cinco de Mayo Festival are: The Silkcreener, Deep Creek Outfitters, Plaza Deli, Railey Realty and Evening Star Cruises.

As a special honor, Governor William Donald Schaefer has sanctioned the Cinco de Mayo Festival as a special event of the Maryland Proskness Celebration.

Just as the Mexicans have celebrated Cinco de Mayo since they defeated the French at the Battle of Puebla in 1867, the participating merchants intend to continue the Festival for area residents and visitors to Deep Creek lake for many years to come.

Archer Discusses

Continued from Page A-1 efforts to deal with the problem will be held June 6 by the American Cancer Society.

In addition, Dr. Archer presented material to the county commissioners outlining policies for the Clean Indoor Act, including the recommendation that all indoor environments accessible to the public, all health care and public health facilities, all worksites, and all schools be maintained in a smoke-free manner.

Update On Sanitary Commission Charges

The recent reporting of allegations lodged against Garrett County District Administrator Wendell Beitzel and the Sanitary Commission prompted Beitzel to explain his position to other county agency heads during the staff meeting this week.

Beitzel stated that it was "disturbing that one person could cause this kind of havoc, and taint the character of a really good organization so vital to the county." He added that the actions of Michael Goodfellow, former Sanitary Commission employee who made the charges of environmental violations and of his improper dismissal from his employment there, had served to "demoralize the operator at the Deep Creek Lake facility."

Beitzel told the commissioners that, in his 10-year career as Sanitary District administrator, approximately $40 million worth of sewer and water projects have been completed throughout the county, and added that most municipalities, seven/eight years ago, did not have those systems in place.

He also emphasized the fact that only $11,000 of the local taxpayers' money was used by the Sanitary District last year, the rest of the funds having come from state and federal grants. "We try to operate all the systems in a cost-efficient manner, because we must answer to the people."

He concluded his statements by saying, "I assure you there have been no environmental crimes by any of our employees, and no willful violations."

Comments in support of Beitzel's efforts throughout his tenure as Sanitary District administrator were also voiced by several other department or agency heads during the staff meeting.

A letter was received by Beitzel last week from Maryland Assistant Attorney General Howard P. Nicholson, stating, "This office recently reviewed its investigation of the wastewater treatment operations of the Garrett County Sanitary District. No criminal charges have been filed as the result of our investigation. At this time, the investigation is closed. Any seized Garrett County Sanitary District documents will be promptly returned to you by the Maryland State Police assigned to this unit."

Board Of Education Activity Update

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage was on hand to announce several board activities of public interest, one of which is the scheduling of meetings concerning the Southern Elementary School redistricting study.

Ryscavage reported that the school board recently met with its architect to review the study. The first of a series of public meetings was held Tuesday evening at Bloomington Elementary School. Following is the upcoming schedule for the additional meetings: Crellin Elementary School, May 3; Loch Lynn Elementary School, May 14; Kitzmiller Elementary School, May 18; and Red House Elementary School, May 20.

Dr. Ryscavage also noted that a director has been named for the Office for Children, Youth and Family committee, which met for the first time last week. Robert Stephens, Keyser, W.Va., was named as the new director. He is employed by the Department of Juvenile Services.

The organization is mainly involved with crisis counseling for children, youth and families.

Ryscavage also shared his concerns with the commissioners regarding the current testing activities in the schools, which, he said, "have disrupted to a serious extent" the regular schedule of instruction.

Students in the third, fifth and eighth grades are currently being administered the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills -- which has replaced the California Achievement Test -- and will begin next week to take the Criterion Reference Test (CRT), which is a new testing tool developed by the state for the Maryland School Performance Program.

Next year, the eleventh grade students will also take the CRT and two areas of study (social studies and science) will be added to the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills. That test now includes the areas of reading, writing, language arts and math.

Although Dr. Ryscavage expressed his belief that the students benefit from the testing and "reflect a more comprehensive knowledge" as a result, he explained that it is difficult to disrupt teaching schedules and to move the teachers around in order to administer the tests.

Economic Development

-- Runway Expansion

Garrett County Director of Economic Development Tom Jones announced at this week's staff meeting that it has officially been confirmed that funds from the Federal Aviation Administration will be forthcoming to expand the runway at the Garrett County Airport.

The 3,000-3,300-foot expansion, said Jones, will serve to accommodate different types of aircraft, making Garrett County more accessible to potential business enterprises.

He added that there is "an outside chance that substantive -- but not construction -- work could be done within this calendar year." (See separate story for more details on the expansion.)

Jones also stated that the department is now ready to submit applications to the Community Development Block Grant and Appalachian Regional Commission programs to secure funds for the further development of the Northern Garrett Industrial Park, near Grantsville.

He also noted that two privately owned and privately financed facilities located in two of the industrial parks will now have occupants.

"JACKETTES" OUSTED -- The GOBA "Jackettes" were dethroned this year at the Junior Women's Civic Club Community Fund by the Deep Creek Lake Volunteer Fire Department. GOBA, who had won the previous three years, congratulated the Deep Creek fireman. Pictured are the "Jackettes," posing as the ever-familiar figure seen on the corner of Second and Alder streets in his three-piece suit, suspenders, tape measure, coffee cup, and sneakers. In the photo, clockwise, are Tarry King, master of ceremonies; Joanne Ashby, Lisa Thayer, Lori Orr, Jack (etta) Jones, president of GOBA; and Teresa Feather.

Community Action Projects

Community Action Director Duane Yoder reported to the commissioners that an opportunity has been presented to expand the Head Start program, beginning in September. He noted that he has been discussing the expansion with the board of education on how the two agencies can collaborate on the project.

The "key elements" of the proposal have been developed, he stated, and explained that he is currently constructing a written report. Those key elements of the expansion include plans for three additional Head Start Centers in Oakland, one in Friendsville and one in the Grantsville area.

In other news from Community Action, Yoder announced that the design for the Grantsville Senior Citizens' Center is in progress and being read for the funding application. The preliminary design, he said, is being offered free of charge.

Yoder reported that bids for the Center Street renovation project "all came in over budget." A clearer picture of the budget will be completed this week, he said.

He also stated that, be-

Harvey Announces Church Drive For Habitat Fundraiser

The Rev. Ellis Harvey, Swanton, will again be serving as the church drive chairman for Habitat for Humanity, according to Sandy Flanagan, fundraising chairman for Habitat.

Flanagan stated, "Several years ago, Rev. Harvey served as coordinator for a fundraising drive with area churches, to support Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. His motivation and dedication led to very successful campaigns. We have asked him to again chair this charitable drive."

Area churches will soon receive a letter from Rev. Harvey requesting participation in a special offering on Pentecost Sunday, May 19, or another Sunday in the near future.

Flanagan noted that this has proved to be an "excellent way for church congregations to spread the 'good word' about habitat and to assist financially."

In addition, several area church groups regularly serve Habitat's endeavors by preparing meals for work camp groups.

In accepting the position as this year's coordinator, Rev. Harvey stated, "In the six years of its existence, Habitat has built 20 homes and made many needed repairs on existing homes. Most of the labor for these projects is volunteer, including work camp groups from churches in other states. However, the money needed to finance the building of Habitat homes requires the time and money of many people. Churches have formed the Foundation for this endeavor, not only with donations but with prayers and volunteers workers from various congregations."

Flanagan added that Habitat is a Christian ministry whose purpose is to provide affordable and decent shelter for low-income persons. "Habitat is not a handout program," she stated, rather homebuyers are asked to contribute 300 hours of volunteers time before their home is started and they must repay their interest-free mortgage in 15-30 years.

Rev. Harvey explained, "The average cost of a new home has increased from $22,000 to $29,500 in the past six years. 1990 was a low year for raising new funds as this was the first year we did not receive a significant Foundation grant."

He continued, "We built only two houses in 1990. The churches in this area gave $5,479.61. It would be great if the churches could double this amount in 1991, or better yet, finance the materials for an entire house. I firmly believe that anything is possible through prayer and trust in God. This is why I am asking area churches to give through the Pentecost offering."

Harvey noted that if offering envelopes are needed, if speakers for a service are needed, or if a video is needed to explain Habitat's work, church officials may call 334-9275 or 387-5235. More information may also be obtained by writing Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, P.O. Box 363, Oakland, Md. 21550. Checks should be made payable to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity.

Garrett Forestry Board Convenes

The Garrett County Forestry Board met April 15 in the Department of Natural Resources - Forestry Division Office at Mt. Nebo.

The Board members discussed the Arbor Day Program held in Oakland and the tree plantings that were scheduled for April 20 at the Round Glade Landfill and Garrett Community College, as a part of Governor William Donald Schaefer's Tree-Mendous Month.

The Maryland Association of Forestry Boards, in cooperation with the Department of Natural Resources - Forestry Division, is sponsoring the School Reforestation Project again this year. This program is funded through Governor Schaefer's Green Shores Program as a part of the Chesapeake Bay Cleanup.

The goal of the School Reforestation Project is to help educate the students about the benefits of trees as a natural resource, for watershed protection, and other environmental benefits. Last year seven schools participated in the project, and this year eight schools are participating. The following schools will take part in the program this year: Loch Lynn Elementary, Dennett Road Elementary, Southern Middle School, Accident Elementary, Northern High School, Northern Middle School, Grantsville Elementary, and Route 40 Elementary.

The plans for the 1991 Forestry, Conservation & Natural Resources Week, scheduled for July 28-August 3 at Camp Hickory, are continuing. This program is for high school students grades 9-12 who are interested in pursuing a career in a conservation related field. Each forestry board in the state will select two students to attend the week long program. The Forestry Boards will solicit sponsorships from local businesses, organizations, etc., to cover the costs of sending the students to the program.

The Garrett Board discussed the plans for the tour of the U.S. Forest Service Fernow Experimental Station near Parsons, W.Va. The tour is scheduled for May 16.

Work Session Held Friday At Dennett Road School Arboretum

Fifth grade students, parents, and staff gathered April 26 at Dennett Road School's arboretum grounds for an Earth Day work session.

Students selected for this event were: Roy Cheshire, Chris Gridley, Fred Helbig Jr., John Manning, Aaron Mountain, and Melissa Upole. The work crew included the following adults: Mrs. Carol Tuomisto, Arboretum Committee co-chairperson; Mrs. Sharon Schwalm, committee member; Mrs. Linda Fleming, Mrs. Donna Cook, Mrs. Lynn McDaniel, school staff and committee members; Mrs. Bonnie Friend, Mrs. Hala Laverdure, and Mrs. Kayla Cathell, parent volunteers.

The crew worked at spreading a large load of wood chips throughout another portion of the arboretum's pathways. Appreciation is expressed to John Forman and Wood Products, Inc., for their donation of this truckload of wood chips, as well as a load that had been donated and delivered earlier in April for the school's Arbor Day workshop.

Volunteers also planted jonquils around the flagpoles, courtesy of Mrs. Fleming. Additionally, parent volunteers donated an azalea bush that was then planted in honor of Secretaries' Week for the school's two secretaries, Mrs. Sue Roberson and Mrs. Jo Cvetnick. A second azalea, part of a shrub-and-tree donation from Dave Taylor of Green Acres Garden Center, was planted also.

A 10-foot wooden picnic table and a birdbath were placed on the grounds, both donated by Kayla and Carl Cathell, Dennett Road parents.

Locations are now being staked for the plantings of trees this Friday, May 3, at 1 p.m. In addition to trees donated by Dave Taylor (two crabapple, one blue spruce, four serviceberry), the Forest Conservancy District Board recently awarded six trees to Dennett Road as a participant in the Chesapeake Bay School Reforestation Project. Specifically, the grant award consists of one of each of the following tree varieties: white pine, red maple, red oak, black cherry, sugar maple, and serviceberry.

It should also be noted that the school has just learned it has been awarded one of two $500 mini-grants given across the state by the Maryland Environmental Trust Program.

Arboretum Committee co-chairpersons Mrs. Barbara Schick and Mrs. Carol Tuomisto had applied for this grant through writing a proposal for the creation of a bird vista within the arboretum. A spokesperson for Dennett Road stated that the school is "very excited" with this news, and the two co-chairpersons are finalizing plans for this phase of the project.

On behalf of Dennett Road School staff, students, and the Arboretum Committee, Mrs. Schick and Mrs. Tuomisto expressed their gratitude to all of the many local organizations, businesses, and private donors who have thus far participated in the growth of the arboretum. "It is only through this tremendous community involvement that the school's goals of establishing a thriving arboretum and a true learning laboratory will be achieved," Mrs. Schick said.

Annual Bird Count Slated For May 11

The May Bird Count for 1991, conducted by the Maryland Ornithological Society, will be held throughout Garrett County, Saturday, May 11, for a 24-hour period, beginning at 12 midnight Friday and continuing through to 12 midnight Saturday, according to local count coordinator Fran Pope.

Pope stated that volunteers are needed to conduct the count, either at residential sites with birdhouses or in the field. "We're looking for returning resident birds, as well as exciting new spring migrants," said Pope.

Results of the count will be published in Maryland Bird Life, a quarterly publication. Interested persons may contact Pope at 334-4908 or Connie Skipper at 387-5227.

No fee is required to participate, and potential bird counters are asked to respond by May 10.

Letters

To the Editor:

You have had so many excellent letters to the editor and editorials in recent months that it is very encouraging to me.

There are so many areas that need fresh new approaches to solve the problems. Your editorial on Elwood Groves and your question will he return the thousands he never should have had in the first place because he is not a permanent employee and I hope the voters see he is not an elected official, in due course.

I agree wholeheartedly with the charter home rule petition committee! It's past time the citizens had some real say in this county with our taxpayer money.

A czar, a county executive we don't need. We are paying exorbitant salaries now for no real say in our monies expenditure.

As for letting our "governing bodies" know what and how one thinks, forget it - rarely does anyone want to know!

I personally, many years ago with two of the present commissioners and the third now thankfully out of office, in a Tuesday regular meeting with Dr. Rysavage appearing in behalf of his budget and others there in his behalf, spoke against the budget in relation to the past and future raises for the administrative personnel. Some people there seemed to be astounded at my audacity to question Dr. Rysavage on the raise ratio for administration. At that time I had investigated the salaries and the raises according to the teachers' salaries and it was appalling. The administrative personnel were to receive the same ratio or raise as did the teachers at that time, but the teachers' salaries were so low, their raise was so little while at that time what was $30,000 plus amounted to quite a hefty yearly raise for the administrators. From the figures quoted, I assume it's still going on or the equivalent thereof and the addition of assistants to the assistants. I called years ago for a re-evaluation of the administrative personnel by the Board and I do so now. Nothing should have higher priority than the education of our children and the care of our mentally ill. Throwing money at a problem doesn't always solve it, but providing teachers with a livable salary is a necessity.

I would like to express our thanks to all the advertisers, boosters, newspapers, radio and TV who by their support, make the event possible.

A special thank you goes to the caring citizens of the area who purchased tickets or donated money for the handicapped and the underprivileged to attend the event.

Due to their generosity, in excess of 3,500 free tickets were distributed to charitable organizations, nursing home facilities, and underprivileged children in the tri-state area to attend the Shrine Circus.

We thank you for your support, and we look forward to bringing this family entertainment to the area again next year.

Sincerely yours,
Ronald L. Cross, Potomac

Asthma: Major Cause for Missed School Days

According to a recent article in the medical journal, Patient Care, asthma causes more restricted activity and missed school than any other chronic illness. Also, asthma is becoming more prevalent among children. Asthma symptoms include wheezing (whistling sound), coughing, chest tightness, and breathlessness.

Asthma in children may result from allergic reactions to certain foods or materials such as house dust, plant pollen, or the hair or feathers from pets. Cold, windy weather may trigger asthmatic attacks. Some children seem to have fewer problems with asthma as they reach the mid-teens. It is thought that this is due to enlargement of the airways as children grow. However, many children who get better in their teens have a resurgence of symptoms in their 20s and 30s.

Asthmatic children should avoid exposure to environmental factors that trigger asthma symptoms. Preventing exercise-induced asthma often can be achieved with prescription medicines called beta agonists in metered-dose inhalers. These medicines cause rapid dilation of the air passages. Other prescription medicines which have been found to be useful include theophylline, cromolyn sodium, and steroids such as prednisone and beclomethasone.

Beachy Speaks To DAR About Quest Program

Seventeen women attended the meeting of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, Monday, April 15. Lillian Reckner, regent, opened the meeting with the ritual.

Mrs. Rosanne Sherwood introduced Gerald Beachy, pharmacist in Grantsville and county director of Quest, a drug prevention program that has been used in the Garrett County middle schools the past three years.

It is sponsored by Lions District 22-W and they take care of the cost of training the teachers, the materials used, and the overall development of the program. Linda Youman, Northern Middle School, and Michelle Gnegy, Southern Middle School, are the trained teachers who have helped to develop this comprehensive educational approach to drug prevention. It helps the students, not only to be informed about drugs, but also to develop social skills of self-confidence, emotions, friendships, family structure, decision making, all of which bolster the student's self-esteem. The teachers work closely with the guidance counselors, Jack Settle and Nancy Learey. Basic guidelines are given in the book "Partnership with Lions" written by a teacher. A kindergarten program is also in the planning stage.

In the business meeting, Mrs. Virginia Stemple, treasurer, reported 52 members and two associate members. Mrs. Wilda Sanders gave the National Defense report. A gift was made to the Garrett County Historical Museum in memory of Mrs. Margaret Echard. Mrs. Mary Jane DeWitt reported the plans for the May dinner meeting and asked that checks be written to the Will O' the Wisp. Mrs. Reckner read the chapter reports that she had submitted for the convention.

Mrs. Reckner and Mrs. Sherwood reported from the 86th DAR State Conference held at the Marriott's Hunt Valley Inn, Hunt Valley, Maryland. The entertainment was a luncheon and fashion show at the Hunt Valley Inn and in the evening they heard the main speaker, SPEAKS TO DAR ABOUT QUEST - Gerald Beachy, director of the Lions Club Quest Program, was a guest of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution meeting, held recently in Oakland. Beachy is pictured with Lillian Reckner, regent, who presented a gift to Beachy. See story.

National President General, Mrs. Eldred Martin Yockim. The State Regent, Mrs. Roger Wronn Carroll, also spoke to the convention and 50-year DAR members were introduced. Youghiogheny Glades Chapter received a first place certificate award for "Use of Theme in Program Titles" and second place certificate award for "Publicity." Recognition was also given to the chapter for the map of Indian Trails of Garrett County, given by Mrs. Mary Jones to the American Indian School, Bacone College.

Mrs. Reckner has made reservations for the State Regent's visit in May. Mrs. Martha Kahl will order the grave markers for two deceased members. The chapter will share in the local Memorial Day Celebration to be held on May 27.

For information about DAR, persons may contact Mrs. Martha Kahl, Route 4, Deer Park, MD 21550.

Lakers Play Nine Games In Seven Days; Win Six, Lose Three

When bad weather forced postponement of several baseball games, it usually results in an extremely busy week for any given team when the skies eventually clear. Such was the case this past week for the Garrett Community College Lakers, who have played nine games since last Thursday.

Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt's team swept Charles CC in McHenry Thursday, 13-1 and 11-7, edged CCAC-Allegany 8-6 Friday afternoon in Hopwood, Pa., split a twinbill with visiting Dundalk CC Saturday afternoon, winning the first game, 7-1, and dropping the nightcap, 8-4, then dropped both ends of a doubleheader to arch-rival Allegany CC Sunday afternoon, 9-2 and 9-1, also at the McHenry Campus diamond, and finally swept a pair of easy wins yesterday over the Frostburg State jayvees.

Jake Sawyers, a freshman, was the hero of the day for the Lakers Thursday against Charles, as he went the distance on the mound in the first game for the win and pitched into the sixth inning of the second to earn a second win. The Lakers were led by Mike Leshok and Chad McCullough, who each finished with six hits. Leshok rapped two homers, two doubles, and two singles. McCullough's total included a double and a three-run homer.

Leshok led off the first game like he had two previous games, with a home run, and Mick Bayle followed with another one to give Garrett a 2-0 lead.

D.G. Largent added a three-run shot in the third, Leshok stroked his second one of the day in the fourth for two more runs, and Largent followed with a two-run double to put the game away.

Charles took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap, but McCullough's three-run homer in the bottom of that inning gave the Lakers the lead for good.

A two-run single by Mike Clark and a two-run homer by Bayle in the second inning made it 7-2. A run-producing single by Bayle and a two-run homer by Buddy Leichter gave Garrett a 10-3 advantage in the fourth.

Charles came back with a run in the fifth and three more in the sixth, but could not close.

Angelo who went the distance for the second time this season to record the 8-6 win over CCAC-Allegany. Angelo, who had tossed a no-hitter against Frederick CC three days earlier, struck out eight batters, gave up nine hits, and walked four.

Bayle led Garrett's hitting with two doubles and a single to increase his average to .477.

Allegany scored a run in the first inning, but the Lakers responded with five runs in their half of that frame, with RBI by Leichter, Chris Lollis, Rod Freeman, and Kevin Green.

Garrett made it 8-1 in the second on an RBI double by Bayle, a single by Freeman, and a steal of home plate by Leichter.

Another outstanding pitching performance, this time by Brian Shaffer, was the highlight of the Lakers' win over Dundalk in the first game of that twinbill. Shaffer, who pitched a one-hitter against Potomac State earlier last week, allowed only one hit again on Saturday. He had a no-hitter going until the seventh inning, an RBI single.

The Lakers took a 3-0 lead in the third inning on RBI doubles by Leshok and Leichter, made it 4-0 in the fifth on a solo homer by Bayle, and moved to 7-0 when Leshok smacked a three-run double in the sixth.

Shaffer stayed on the mound into the fourth inning of the second game, when the Lakers were trailing 3-0. They came back to tie the score in the bottom of that inning when Dave Butina rapped a two-run double and Mike Clark sent Butina home with a double.

on top 4-3 with a solo homer in the fifth, but Dundalk came back to take the lead for good on a two-run bloop single in the sixth.

On Sunday the pitching accolades all went to the nationally ranked Trojans of ACC, as Daryle Gavlick allowed just three singles and one earned run in the first game and Steve Kline followed with a two-hitter in the nightcap. Gavlick, whose ERA is an amazing 0.77, is now 7-0 on the season, while Kline upped his personal mark to 6-0.

The Lakers scored their first run in the fourth inning of the first game on an error and recorded the second one in the sixth on a single by Clark.

The only run by the Lakers in the second game was a solo homer by Freeman in the fifth inning.

The victories upped Allegany's overall mark to 33-3 and 16-1 in the JUCO Conference. The double loss dropped the Lakers to 18-13 and 8-7.

The Lakers rolled over Frostburg's jayvees Wednesday afternoon, 13-3 and 12-2, to improve their record to 20-13.

For the fourth time this year and second time in a week, Leshok led off the first game with a solo homer, his eighth of the year. Buddy Leichter smacked his ninth and 10th home runs of the season, while John Cullen rapped his second, all in the first game. Leshok also had a double and four RBI, Leichter added a single and walk to his two homers, scored three runs, and had three RBI. Cullen's homer and a single accounted for three Laker runs.

Tim Bower homered for the FSU jayvees, who were held to just three hits by Tony Angelo. Angelo, who improved his record to 5-3, struck out five and walked three.

The second game's hitting was highlighted by a three-run homer by Chris Lollis and a two-run shot by Dave Butina.

Mike Clark singled twice and walked. Bayle added two doubles and a walk, while Lollis also hit a single and a triple, and Butina had two singles to go with his home run. Cullen finished with a

Rams Whip Tornado, Split With Indians, Defeated By Campers

The Southern High School varsity baseball team played four complete games this past week and concluded another that had been suspended earlier because of darkness, all resulting in three wins and two defeats to make their record 8-4.

The Rams concluded a game Saturday with visiting Keyser that had been suspended on April 4, winning 16-13, and then defeated the Golden Tornado again the same day, 5-2. Then they split a doubleheader with Berkeley Springs on Monday, losing the first game, 13-5, and winning the nightcap, 5-4, before falling to Allegany yesterday in Cumberland, 9-6.

The suspended game against Keyser was picked up at the beginning of the fifth inning after the Rams had scored 10 times in the bottom of the fourth on April 4 in Keyser. Jeremy Bosley finished the game with four singles and five RBIs. Brett Rice had four singles and two RBIs, and Dave Kurtz rapped a three-run homer.

Billy Bittinger earned the win on the mound, with Rice picking up the save.

Darren McIntyre rapped a double and a single for Keyser, while Mike Keesacker finished with two singles.

In the regularly scheduled game, the Rams went on top 2-0 in the third inning after Shane Skipper singled and Bosley reached on an error off his bunt. Jason Rinker followed with a sacrifice and Garth Glatfely sent Skipper and Ryan home with a single.

Keyser knotted the score in the top of the fifth when Rodney Mangold doubled and came home when Justin Smith reached on an error, after which Mike Keesacker singled home Smith.

The Rams won it in the bottom of the fifth as Bosley walked, stole second, and scored on a single by Rinker. A throwing error later allowed Rinker to score and Shawn Ryan followed with a triple to single home Glatfely who had singled.

Berkeley Springs pitcher Brian Day held the Southern batters to six hits, while three Southern tossers gave up 14 to the Indians.

Berkeley Springs scored four runs in the fourth inning, four more in the fifth, and two each in the sixth and seventh frames for the easy win.

Southern's best effort was in the fourth when Britten Martin rapped an RBI single and James Bateman hit a two-run double. Rice and Bateman each had two hits.

Rice raised his pitching record to 3-2 in the second game, as he went the distance and the Rams came from behind to record the win.

Southern took a 3-0 advantage in the first inning on RBI singles by Bateman, Martin, and Shane Skipper. The Indians came back to lead 4-3 in the sixth inning behind a three-run double by Keith McClintock.

However, Jason Rinker led off the Rams' sixth with a walk. Joby Tasker then reached on an error and Garth Glatfely walked to load the bases. Ryan drove the tying run home with a sacrifice fly and Martin walked to force Tasker home with the winning run.

Rice aided his own cause. Berkeley Springs 13 Southern 5 with a double and a single.

The split left the Indians with a 10-5 record.

A sub-par catching performance by the Southern players, which has plagued them all year, led to the tough defeat yesterday to the Campers of Allegany, after the Rams had jumped out to a 5-0 lead.

"It's been our story all year," stated Southern Coach Jim Bosley. "Until we start catching the ball and stop making so many mental errors, we are going to have trouble winning ball games."

The Rams wasted no time taking the lead in the game, as Glatfely led off the game with a triple and Rice sent him home with a sacrifice fly.

They made it 2-0 in the second inning when Shane Skipper singled and scored on a single by Glatfely.

They added three runs in the third, as Ryan walked, Rice singled, and Martin rapped a two-run triple. Bateman then singled to send Martin home.

Allegany cut the Ram lead to 5-4 in the bottom of the fourth as they began to drop the ball and commit throwing errors. After a lead-off walk and a single by Johnny Fields, the Rams committed two errors that yielded two runs. A sacrifice fly by Jim O'Neal sent home the third run and John McCann singled home the fourth.

The Campers took the lead with five runs in the fourth on a three-run homer by Fields and a two-run single by McCann to make it 9-5.

The Rams threatened in the seventh when they lead-

Northern Huskies Win Three Before Falling To Indians

The Northern Huskies continued their winning ways this past week by winning three straight games, but then fell victim to Region I rival Mount Savage yesterday afternoon, 7-4, on the Indians' diamond. The wins came over Flintstone last Thursday, 10-3, in Flintstone, over visiting Turkeyfoot on Friday, 10-0, and against East Preston on Monday, 10-3, in Terra Alta. The Huskies' record is now 9-2.

Jarrett McKenzie led the Northern offense against Flintstone, while Eric Umbel anchored the defense by tossing a three-hitter in just his second start of the season. McKenzie drove home three runs with two singles, Dennis Deigert recorded two RBI with a pair of singles, Mark Beals added a two-run single, and Doug Brenneman and Chad Anderson each finished with a pair of singles.

Jerry Uphold repeated Umbel's performance on the mound Friday against Turkeyfoot by giving up just three hits and striking out eight. His record improved to 3-1.

Chad Sines paced the Huskies hitting effort with three singles. Umbel doubled and singled for a pair of RBI. Deigert finished with two singles and one RBI, while Anderson and Brenneman each added run-producing singles.

The Huskies took command of the contest in the McKenzie was the star in Monday's game against East Preston, when he went four-for-four, smacking a pair of home runs and two doubles. His homers came in the first and second innings.

Ahead 6-3 in the fifth, and with two outs and the bases loaded, the Huskies increased their lead when Harrison Foy smacked a two-run single and Rich Schofield followed with an RBI. Foy finished with a pair of singles for three RBI and Brenneman recorded two singles and one RBI.

The winning pitcher was freshman Derek Mason, who gave up only one earned run, struck out six, and walked only one in upping his record to 3-0.

Rick Sharpless led the Eagles (3-8) with two doubles and a single.

The Huskies were upset yesterday by Mt. Savage (8-6) on the strength of home runs by Eric O'Neal and Ken Reeve.

Pleads Guilty

defendant applied the brakes and skidded 136 feet before coming in contact with Opel's car, which was torn in two on impact. Butler's vehicle then skidded 231 feet more before coming to a stop. Several witnesses expressed the opinion that the accident may have been avoided if the defendant had not been traveling at such a high rate of speed.

A date for sentencing was not indicated in the court document. Defense attorney for Butler was Leonard Eiswert.

In other circuit court news, two Baltimore men were sentenced to prison terms in the Garrett County Jail for possession of marijuana.

Terry A. Wacławski, 22, Essex, and Richard R. Reynolds, 26, both pleaded guilty to the possession charge at a January hearing, at which time Thayer had ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Then on April 25, the judge sentenced Wacławski to one year in jail, and Reynolds to five days with credit for time served (one day).

The marijuana charge was lodged against the defendants after they were observed by park rangers as they allegedly smoked marijuana at a picnic table in Deep Creek Lake State Park. The Department of Natural Resources policemen arrested Wacławski and Reynolds immediately following the June 1990 incident.

This controlled dangerous substance violation was Wacławski's fourth offense and Reynolds' first, according to a courthouse spokesperson, which explains the difference in prison terms for the men.

John R. Toston, assistant public defender, represented both Reynolds and Wacławski.

Dean F. Norton, 28, Swanton, pleaded guilty last week to driving while intoxicated (DWI) and failure to drive in a single lane. Judge Thayer accepted the plea and sentenced Norton to one year in the county jail, with all but 60 days suspended. Two years of supervised probation were also ordered, and Norton was fined $50.

Norton was charged with the offenses after he wrecked a vehicle in August 1990, and then apparently fled from the scene. The accident occurred on Rt. 42 near Hoyes Road. Police found him walking along U.S. Rt. 219 shortly after the mishap, and arrested him.

Defense attorney for Norton was Robert C. Hesson.

Rhonda R. Uphold, 24, Oakland, was found by the court to be guilty of technical violation of probation. Thayer reimposed the defendant's original sentence of two years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, suspended. He also ordered that sanctions be withheld, and that Uphold would receive two years of supervised probation.

Original charges against the defendant included uttering forged checks, an offense for which she was placed on two years probation. This violation of probation was the defendant's second.

Blood Collection

tions during the summer months. Blood donated in May helps to sustain an adequate blood supply during the summer, in order to accommodate emergency situations as well as the ongoing needs of patients in our local hospitals.

According to Majoris, all types of blood are needed. However, type O negative is always on demand because it can be transfused to all types. Also, a type O recipient can only receive type O blood, which further increases the need for type O.

Individuals age 17 or older, who weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in good health can donate blood. It is an easy and painless process which takes less than an hour.

"Giving blood is an excellent way to begin the summer. Only about half of the population meets the age and medical eligibility requirements to give blood. Therefore, it's important for everyone who can give blood to do so. It is too late to recruit blood donors and collect blood once an accident or disaster happens. An adequate blood supply must be available every day of the year," said Majoris.

Garrett County Chapter is a part of the Johnstown Region Blood Services. Blood collected is separated into its component parts, so that one donation can help three or more patients. It is also tested for hepatitis B, HIV (AIDS), hepatitis C, HTLV-I, non-A, non-B hepatitis, and syphilis.

of Planning and Zoning John Nelson reported that a special meeting of the zoning board will be held this evening to discuss a variance request for a proposed shooting range located 200 yards off Sand Flat Road at the intersection with Boy Scout Road.

Nelson noted that the request has produced some controversy among county residents, and that he has received various calls and letters regarding the request.

Nelson also explained that the Planning Commission has received news that Program Open Space funds, cut this year by state legislators, "has been somewhat salvaged by bonding." He added, "The impact will still be felt, but not as badly as we originally anticipated."

He reported that some funds have also been retrieved into the Agricultural Land Preservation Fund, another program whose funds were cut during the 1991 Maryland General Assembly session. He did note, however, that the program will, basically, be operating two years behind schedule.

Extension Office - Gypsy Moth Spray Update

Alice Hevner, extension director with the Extension Service, reported there is an approximate two-thirds decrease in the amount of acres to be sprayed this year from last year, and noted that none of the municipalities (with the exception of a portion of Oakland) have elected to be sprayed this year.

She explained that the gypsy moth is now starting to hatch, and will begin to move up the trees for their source of food as soon as the leaves appear, which should be in about two to three weeks. She added that the spray schedule will also be contingent on weather factors.

General Services - Tower Replacement

Director of General Services Gary Mullich announced that a 60-foot portable tower was purchased last week that will temporarily replace the communications tower used by the Office of Emergency Management.

"Fire service will now be restored to 100% capability until the new tower is built," stated Mullich.

Breast Cancer Prevention Plan Underway In GC

The Wellness Together Program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH) and Garrett County Health Department has undertaken a significant new program to try to reduce the incidence of breast cancer in the area. It is called the "Special Touch Breast Health Program," and is a part of the Maryland Health Service Cost Review Commission Illness Prevention Program. The program is being monitored by the American Cancer Society.

According to the American Cancer Society, about one out of every ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer during her lifetime, making breast cancer a major cause of illness and death among American women today. Until the disease can be prevented, the best method of protection is through early detection and prompt treatment. By discovering breast cancer at the earliest possible stage, the chances for cure are nearly 100%, said a GCMH spokesperson.

The Special Touch program features the sale of a coupon that entitles the buyer to a physician's visit for a clinical breast examination, instructions on breast self-examination, and a baseline screening mammogram. The coupon sale is available to women aged 35-39 who have never had a mammogram and women aged 40 and over who have not had a mammogram in the previous 12 months. The GCMH spokesperson said that the cost of the Special Touch coupon is a considerable savings because of the cooperation of area physicians in reducing their fees for this program, as well as the services of the Centre Radiology Group, which are largely donated.

Area women are hearing about the importance of breast examinations and mammograms through a variety of methods. Several women's groups and work sites have hosted the educational component of the program, which has been developed by the American Cancer Society and is presented by the Wellness Together staff. The program includes an audiovisual tape, a flip chart presentation, the relating of personal experiences, and realistic learning models.

Area women have begun to buy the coupon and receive their baseline mammograms, the spokesperson said. The Radiology Department at the hospital is under the leadership of Director Mike Reed, and mammograms are performed by Rosalia Sinae, Mary Norwiah and Carol Berkeridge, all who are radiology technologists. The department is committed to making the program a success, the spokesperson said.

For more information on the Special Touch Program, persons may call the Wellness Together Program at Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 334-2155, ext. 382.

Education Board

and athletic events, as well as activity buses for both the Northern and Southern schools. The trips for band and sports groups and the activity buses were originally cut from the budget proposal, which caused a protest from many concerned parents and teachers.

This is the first time in Ryscavage's tenure of nearly 11 years that the education board has requested such transportation monies of the commissioners.

The superintendent and Mrs. Murphy also presented a prioritized list of the items that would be cut from the budget if the total amount is not funded by the commissioners. Mrs. Murphy explained the reason for the display was to avoid criticism that the board has received in the past for not stating which budget items would be pared down when total funds are not approved.

The first item scheduled for deletion, as announced last week by the school board, is the extra three percent salary increase for all education employees, bargained for by the Garrett County Teachers' Association (GCTA), among other groups. The commissioners expressed anger and frustration over this condition last week when the board first announced it, stating that the board members were "drawing a battle line" between the two elected boards.

Other speakers simply urged the commissioners to grant the pay raise for teachers and support personnel. The raise will also be given to the administration and supervisory employees. Tom Shaffer, director of Uniserv and a chief negotiator for the GCTA, asked the commissioners to first consider the funding increase as an investment in the future.

"We get what we pay for," Shaffer concluded.

Jim Raley, president of GCTA, also spoke briefly to the elected officials, stating that the budget proposal

RECYCLING SUPPORTERS - B&S Scrap strongly supports the recycling effort. Pictured at the Farm Fresh building in Oakland are workers from B&S Scrap, who have been stationed in various locations throughout the county on Sundays from 2-5 p.m. to collect recyclables. The service will be provided until the Garrett County Commissioners have four bins in place at local dump sites. The LWV encourages all citizens to join together in this effort. and that they were "holding the education employees hostage in the budgeting process." The commissioners said nothing about the condition on Tuesday, however.

The second item to be cut will be the $75,000 driver simulator, scheduled for installation at Southern High School. The black top paving at Accident Elementary would also be canceled, as would the Camp Hickory food service. The plan suggests the transfer of field trip funding from local costs to state costs to pay for planetarium, Camp Hickory, Allied Health, and College and Me programs.

Farther down the list of prioritized cuts was VICA funding, the connecting corridors at SHS, and two mock trial advisors at the high schools, who were requested by students. The fourth group of items included furniture, floor tile, paving, and physical education storage at SHS; and bleachers at NHS. The last group of cuts included the addition of an elementary guidance counselor and reading books for elementary schools.

At the close of Mrs. Murphy's presentation, the commissioners opened the floor for comment. Education board members Rodney Durst stood up and stated that he had "great concern" about the budget and the list of prioritized cuts, and that the entire plan was arranged before the board met last Monday to discuss it. Durst did vote for the budget, but said he felt that the conditional plan was "political," and that it was an effort to "pass the buck," an action that he disliked.

Durst went on to say that great mistakes had been made in the past concerning funding choices, and that the needs of the schools have been overlooked, in his opinion. He also stated that teachers in the county make approximately $20 per hour, according to his calculations, and that rate is enough for "an honest day's pay for an honest day's work." Some teachers in attendance at the presentation disagreed with Durst's calculations, however.

Other speakers simply urged the commissioners to grant the pay raise for teachers and support personnel. The raise will also be given to the administration and supervisory employees. Tom Shaffer, director of Uniserv and a chief negotiator for the GCTA, asked the commissioners to first consider the funding increase as an investment in the future.

"We get what we pay for," Shaffer concluded.

Jim Raley, president of GCTA, also spoke briefly to the elected officials, stating that the budget proposal

"reflects the requests of the educational community as a whole, and the school board has been sensitive to these needs by including them in the proposal." Raley also reiterated the fact that teachers in Garrett County are lowest paid on the statewide pay scale, on average $2,000 lower than the second last county, which is Somerset.

Raley stated that the GCTA understands the commissioners' position as fiscal authorities during a time of recession, but asked that the decision makers remain committed to the students' future.

The commissioners have maintained that it is their right to designate where funds will be allocated and where they will be cut. The final budget for the county will be completed no later than June 11, Commissioner Braskey stated last week.

GCC President

the faculty does not want to organize, and that morale has been maintained at a high level at the college in recent years. He cautioned the county commissioners, however, to understand that it is not employees who create unions; rather, it is employers.

Herman then explained to the commissioners that, in order for the college to remain a "viable" institution, and to be able to compete on a national level, accreditation through the Middle State Association (MSA) must be maintained.

Five years ago, he said, the college was in jeopardy of losing its accreditation, but a two-year review process by the association's accreditation team brought the college closer to that goal and accreditation was, once again, confirmed. That status, however, was contingent on certain requirements by the college, one of which was that our "management information system," or the computer network, must be brought up to date to provide adequate data to the team from the college.

That goal has been reached, he noted, with the recent replacement of the old IBM System 36, "an antiquated system." The cost to the college for the new system was $283,000, said Herman.

The funding requirement for accreditation is still outstanding, he noted, stating, "One of the biggest issues in the funding requirements was our compensation scale, and MSA was very concerned that GCC couldn't compete on a national basis for positions we are obligated to announce under a full and fair search."

Herman stated that a letter received in 1988 from the Commission on Higher Education indicated doubt that the college could obtain sufficient funding to be a quality college. "At that time, assurances were made by the county commissioners that funding would be forthcoming, although no commitment to a dollar amount was made," he said, continuing. "The commissioners said they would do what was fair and proper for the college and MSA accepted their word."

Herman noted that a "common goal" had been understood between the commissioners and the college that the funding increases would come about in "a measured way."

"We tried to look at it in the context of what the county could afford," he added. He explained that, in FY1990, the state contributed 47% of the college funding; the county contributed 32% (the statutory requirement); tuition and fees accounted for 19%, and other (grants, donations, etc.) amounted to 2%.

This compares to the state averages for community colleges: state contribution -- 31%; county contribution -- 37%; tuition and fees contribution -- 29%, and other contributions -- 3%.

"We can't say the state is not doing its job in terms of the funding partnership," he said, noting that, in the case of Garrett, the state's contribution is 16% higher than the state average. All other contributions, however, fall below the state average, with the county contribution being 8% lower; the tuition and fees contribution 18% lower, and other contribution sources 1% lower.

According to Herman, the GCC Board of Trustees authorized a $4 per credit hour increase in tuition during FY1990, as well as another $4 increase at the March budgetary meeting. The result, he said, is a 30% increase in a two-year period. That increase is not significant enough to change the actual budget structure, he stated, confirming with GCC Comptroller John Culp that, considering the enrollment level at GCC, a $1 per credit hour increase amounts to only $12,000 in revenue each year.

The county commissioners have not yet officially responded to Herman's presentation.

Note: Salary comparison charts were presented to the commissioners this week by John Culp. Those charts will appear in The Republican newspaper next week.

Rabies Clinics

be brought to the clinics in a wire cage or a tightly secured box with air holes.

Last year Garrett County experienced a record number of 45 laboratory confirmed positive rabies cases. There were 33 raccoons and 12 skunks which were positive for the disease. This year the county has already experienced two positive cases of rabies. Both of these cases involved raccoons.

According to Dr. Rex Archer II, Garrett County Health Officer, the vaccination of dogs and cats is one of the most critical measures which can be taken by pet owners in protecting their families and themselves from possible exposure to the rabies virus. Last year 1,623 cats and dogs were vaccinated at the county-sponsored rabies clinics. This number was up from the 1,137 animals which were vaccinated at the 1989 clinics; however, this number is down from the 2,191 dogs and cats seen at the 1983 rabies clinics when rabies was first noted in the county.

The record number of 45 confirmed cases is nearly twice that of the previous record number of cases seen in 1984, Dr. Archer said. "The rise in attendance seen last year is encouraging, but as wildlife rabies has continued to be present in Garrett County and has taken such a dramatic increase since 1984, all pet owners are strongly urged to bring their pets to one of these clinics," he said.

Dr. Archer expressed concern with the number of unvaccinated dogs and cats which had to be destroyed in 1990 to protect their owners after they were exposed to rabid animals. The necessity of destroying family pets which are unvaccinated can be easily avoided by keeping vaccinations current, he said. Thus far in 1991, all animals exposed to laboratory confirmed rabid animals have been currently vaccinated and merely required boosters after the incident. Archer said it is hoped that this trend will continue and all pet owners will provide their pets with the same low cost protection.

Because of the wide geographical distribution of rabies seen in 1990, no dog or cat being kept in Garrett County can be considered safe from exposure to the disease, Archer said. In the 45 positive cases of rabies in 1990, both pets in rural settings and pets in more densely populated areas were involved with rabid animals. Pet owners are strongly encouraged to check the expiration date on their pet's rabies certificate to determine the need for re-vaccination at one of the upcoming clinics or at a local veterinarian's office. While Maryland law requires dogs and cats over four months of age to have the required vaccination against rabies, animals at least three months of age can be brought to the clinics and adequately protected by vaccination.

Dog licenses can be purchased at each clinic.

- 6 radishes, thinly sliced
- 2 tablespoons sliced green onions
- 1 tablespoon chopped cilantro
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Chutney Dressing

In large bowl, combine all ingredients and toss. Add dressing and mix well.
Chutney Dressing: Puree 1/2 cup Major Grey's or hot mango chutney. Mix in 2 tablespoons lime juice, 1 tablespoon vegetable oil and 1 teaspoon grated lime peel. Makes about 1/2 cup.

TAOS LEG OF LAMB

Makes 12 Servings

- 1 lean fresh American leg of lamb, shank removed and boned (approximately 4 to 5 pounds boned weight)
- 1/4 cup olive oil, divided
- 1/2 cup medium diced red bell pepper
- 1/2 cup pine nuts
- 2 cups cornbread stuffing mix crumbs
- 1 jar (9 ounces) Crosse & Blackwell Major Grey's or Hot Mango Chutney

Trim all visible fat from lamb. Place on cutting board boned side up. Lay a sheet of plastic wrap over meat surface. Using meat pounder*, flatten to 1-1/2 inches thick, set aside.

In medium skillet heat 2 tablespoons oil and sauté red bell pepper and pine nuts for 3 to 4 minutes, stirring occasionally. In medium bowl, combine bell pepper mixture, cornbread stuffing and chutney, mix until well blended.

Remove plastic wrap from lamb, evenly distribute stuffing mixture over lamb and roll up jelly roll style. To secure meat roll, tie with string at 1-1/2 inch intervals. Place on rack in roasting pan, set aside.

In small bowl, blend remaining oil, garlic powder and red pepper sauce. Brush on lamb.

Roast in preheated 325°F oven for:
25 to 29 minutes per pound (140°F)—rare
29 to 32 minutes per pound (150°F)—medium
32 to 34 minutes per pound (160°F)—medium well

Remove from oven, cover and let stand 10 minutes. Slice 1/2-inch thick and serve.

Make your holiday buffet an unforgettable event with this picturesque Southwestern menu.

Add a pitcher of your favorite drink, a splash of flowers and your guests will be ready to celebrate the blossoming of spring.

If you're searching for something inspirationally contemporary to serve for spring holidays, whether Easter, Passover or Mother's Day, you can create a truly memorable meal with very little fuss this season.

Applying a dash of Southwestern flair, makes lamb, beans and chutney the perfect ingredients for a captivating afternoon or evening buffet.

Fresh American lamb, a spring classic, transforms typical fare into the exceptional with a few simple spices and easy preparation. Who can resist tender slices of succulent lamb, leaner than ever with only 176 calories per three-ounce serving? An excellent diet food, lamb has little or no marbling, and lots of B-12, niacin, iron, zinc and protein.

Look for the country's finest lamb, labeled "Certified Fresh American Lamb," a U.S. Department of Agriculture guarantee.

Versatile beans from Idaho, considered among the world's finest thanks to the state's rich volcanic soil and clear mountain water, make a perfect companion for any spring buffet. Offering the quintessence of Southwestern cuisine, red, pink, pinto and kidney beans lend a healthy flair.

A good source of iron, potassium, calcium and B vitamins, these delectable beans provide cholesterol-reducing fiber, complex carbohydrates and essential protein with very little fat or sodium.

With ancient origins in India and adopted by the British in the 1800s, today's chutney has gained a reputation as the salsa of the 1990s. Usually a blend of mango, vinegar, sugar and spices, chutney used alone is a delicious accompaniment to any broiled, grilled, roasted or cured meat, poultry or game. As an ingredient, prepared chutneys—such as those made by

HANDY COOKING TIPS

- ❖ Serve lamb slightly pink for optimum flavor and texture.
- ❖ Allow larger roasts to stand 15-20 minutes after cooking to make slicing easier. During this time, the meat will cook a few degrees more, so the meat will cook at slightly lower degree of doneness than preferred.
- ❖ Soak beans before cooking. For every pound of dry beans, add 6 cups of water and let stand overnight or several hours in a cool place. For quick soaking, for every pound of beans, boil 6 cups of water, add beans and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat, cover and soak beans for 1 hour. Drain and add fresh water; cook.
- ❖ Bean Arithmetic: 1 pound dry beans equals approximately 2 cups dry beans or 4-6 cups cooked beans.
- ❖ Use chutney—often fat-free and high in fiber—as a savory alternative to thick gravies and butter sauces.
- ❖ Feeling adventurous? Split pickled jalapeños to the stem and scoop out seeds. Fill half with peanut butter, half with chutney and press together (a specialty created by The Fort restaurant in Colorado).

Actress is 'White Hot' as Thelma Todd

Loni Anderson plays starlet
By Amy Schmidt

"She was a real party girl, I think probably because alcohol is a downer, and she was flying around so high on diet pills," tells Loni Anderson of the woman she is to portray Sunday, May 5, on NBC. "I wear so many gowns in this movie because all she did was go from one party to another, and one man to another — and several at the same time!"

No, Anderson isn't talking about Marilyn Monroe, James Joplin or Vivien Leigh. She's talking about the subject of her title role in White Hot: The Mysterious Death of Thelma Todd. "Thelma who?" you might ask.

Bold, blond and beautiful, Thelma Todd was fast becoming Hollywood's queen of comedy in the early 1930s. Genuinely funny and talented, she starred opposite the Marx Brothers in Monkey Business and Horse Feathers, as well as in her own comedy shorts. But the actress led a dangerously wild life, flirting with alcohol, drugs and mobsters, such as Lucky Luciano. On a chilly night in December 1935, her battered body was discovered slumped behind the wheel of her Lincoln Phaeton convertible in a garage above the restaurant that bore her name, Thelma Todd's Sidewalk Cafe. In spite of the bruises on her face and body, authorities immediately declared her death a suicide, and the case was closed — or so they thought.

For the last 14 years, author Andy Edmond has researched Todd's tragic demise. Sunday's film conclusion leans toward Edmond's conclusion — and the gossip of the day regarding one of Hollywood's greatest unsolved mysteries.

But Loni Anderson isn't giving the ending away. The former WKRP bombshell is so enamored of the project she's milking it for all it's worth. "This movie has been kind of a wonderful monster," she says, describing the "fabulous" gowns she wore on the set and the film sites such as Thelma Todd's Sidewalk Cafe on Pacific Coast Highway in Malibu and the famous Coconut Grove, restored to its 1930's look.

"I must say that I had to work out and work out trying not to get an ounce of fat on my body, because these gowns are very unforgiving," confesses Anderson, explaining that all of the dresses she wore were originals that had been remade to fit her. "I ate dry lettuce leaves the whole time I made the movie," she laughs.

Even more enthralled is Anderson by Todd, herself. "She was so lovely and so funny, and playing someone with that sense of humor couldn't be more exciting. Everyone I talked to said, 'Oh she was so much fun. We just loved her.'"

Anderson's own life couldn't be less like her character's, though. "I'm so very content," she says warmly, if not downright giddy, of her relationship with husband Burt Reynolds. "I'm married to my best friend." And of the couple's 2-year-old son, she adds affectionately, "he's quite a little hell-raiser — all boy — just like his daddy."

Emmy nominee Loni Anderson stars in White Hot: The Mysterious Death of Thelma Todd, Sunday on NBC. The docudrama explores one of Hollywood's most legendary mysteries, the 1935 death of a party girl who was fast becoming cinema's comedy queen.

1:00 pm MOVIE: Black Beauty A magnificent horse is returned to the kindness of its original owner after a succession of cruel masters. Mark Lester. Walter Slezak. 1971.
1:05 pm MOVIE: Man-eaters Are Loose! Terror stalks a small, American national forest community when two tigers are abandoned in the forest. Tom Skerritt. Steve Forrest. 1978.

G.C. POST OFFICES COLLECT FOOD — The Oakland Post Office recently participated in "Harvest for the Hungry," a food-collecting effort for the needy. The Baltimore Division and associate post offices also participated in the effort. The Oakland P.O. and its two branch offices in Deer Park and Mountain Lake Park collected 174 pounds of food, according to a spokesperson. More food was collected by nearby offices in Garrett County. William Henderson and David Taylor were recently elected as senior and junior warden respectively, at the monthly advisory board meeting of the Garrett County Episcopal Mission. The term for both men will be one year, during which the wardens will serve as principal lay leaders of the church and will work in a collaborative and collegial style with the vicar, according to a spokesperson.

The responsibilities of the newly elected wardens range from property maintenance, finance management, and administration, to assuming the ministry of the spiritual leader. All aspects of parish life come before their review.

Her story, "The Mystery Panny Got Lost," won second place in the state in the fourth grade category. Pictured in the center is Melissa DeWitt, a third grader in Mrs. Poncaroff's third grade class, who won honorable mention with her story, "Santa Said Ho Ho Ho." Fundraisers Set For G.C. Heart Queen Candidate Weekly events at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant and Gift Shop, Friendsville, have been planned to raise money for Garrett County's only candidate for Heart Queen, Nova Matthis. All proceeds will benefit the American Heart Association, Western Maryland Division.

Miss Matthis invites all citizens to attend the two fundraisers to show support for the county's future Heart Queen.

Scouts' Popcorn Sale Termed Most Successful

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, recently concluded its annual popcorn sale, and, according to Kim Leonard, Council Special Projects chair, it was the most successful in the six years the Council has participated in the fund-raiser.

"Our Cub Scouts and Explorers sold more than those in our two neighboring councils (Shenandoah, near Winchester and Mason-Dixon, in Hagerstown) combined. This is quite an accomplishment considering both councils are larger than ours," Leonard said.

In many units, the unit portion of popcorn earnings is applied to the boys' summer camp fees. The council's portion is used to help maintain Camp Potomac, the council's 114-acre year-round camp facility near Oldtown.

As an incentive to Scouts for participating, top council and district salesmen are awarded prizes. This year the top council Cub Scout salesman was Matt Sullivan, Pack 91/10, LaVale. Top council Boy Scouts salesman was Rick Rando, Troop 42, Frostburg.

Deep Creek District top salesmen were: first, Aaron Miller, Troop 82, McHenry; second, Danny Sweitzer, Troop 82; and third, Robert Dunn, Pack 31, Oakland.

Top unit sales in the Deep Creek District were: first, Pack 31, Mt. Lake Park; second, Pack 70, Oakland; third, Pack 80, Oakland; and fourth, Troop 82, McHenry.

How To Save Up To $43,380.51 On Your Mortgage.

Now you can save a substantial amount of interest on your mortgage and pay it off more quickly. It's easy with a Bi-Weekly Mortgage, new from First Federal Savings Bank.

The idea behind a Bi-Weekly Mortgage is very simple. Instead of making one monthly mortgage payment, you make 1/2 a payment every two weeks. So how do you save all that interest?

Simple mathematics tells you that 1/2 a payment every two weeks over the course of a year equals 26 bi-weekly payments—or the yearly equivalent of 13 monthly payments. So your mortgage is paid off more quickly, meaning less interest as well.

Your payments will be automatically deducted from a First Federal checking account, so you won't have to worry about writing two checks a month instead of one.

Still not convinced? Well, just take a look at how much you'd save on both a fixed rate and an adjustable rate Bi-Weekly Mortgage versus a traditional monthly mortgage:

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate	10.50% Fixed (11.024% A.P.R.)
Term	15 Years
Monthly Payment	$829.50
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT	$414.75
Total Paid (Monthly)	$149,310.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY)	$134,793.75

INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE! $11,516.25

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 12 1/2 YEARS INSTEAD OF 15!

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate	8.75% Adjustable (9.732% A.P.R. *)
Term	30 Years
Monthly Payment	$590.25
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT	$295.13
Total Paid (Monthly)	$212,490.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY)	$169,109.49

INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE! $43,380.51

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 22 YEARS INSTEAD OF 30!

*The annual percentage rate is subject to change after consummation.

Find out how much you could save on your mortgage by choosing a First Federal Bi-Weekly Mortgage instead of a traditional mortgage plan. Call today for current rates and an estimate on your possible interest savings.

State Envirothon Slated May 17-18 At 4-H Center

The Maryland State Envirothon is being held at the Western Maryland 4-H Center in Bittering May 17-18. The Envirothon is a natural resource competition for high school students sponsored by the Maryland Association of Conservation Districts and the State Soil Conservation Committee.

There will be seven conservation districts (or counties) participating in the competition this year: Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Baltimore, Prince George's, Talbot, and Dorchester.

Participating students are tested in five natural resource areas: aquatics, forestry, soils, and wildlife, plus a fifth area that will incorporate a current environmental issue. In 1991, the environmental issue is waste management.

Local Student Doing Internship At Kennedy Inst.

Leigh Knotts, Kitzmiller, is a senior at Hood College and is doing an internship this semester at the Kennedy Institute, a center for handicapped children with behavioral disorders, in Baltimore. The psychology major assisted with a research project on compliance training to find out what method works best to train parents to deal with their children's behavioral skills. She also holds family therapy sessions where the main goal is to help parents manage the children's behavior.

Ms. Knotts heard about the internship through her academic advisor and decided to try it. "Last semester I did an internship at a psychiatric center where I worked mostly with adults," Ms. Knotts said. "It was an in-patient program that dealt with people who had all types of disorders. This semester I wanted to work with children and my advisor suggested the Kennedy Institute."

"I really like it. It is fun to meet with the different families and work with the children. It's also very challenging. For example, some of the children I work with have a problem with setting fires. It has been a great feeling to be able to get one of these children to improve and stop doing what could be dangerous to them and their family," she said.

Ms. Knotts plans to attend graduate school in psychology after graduation. "I like studying psychology, particularly the medical aspects of it. I am learning that many of these children's behavioral disorders are due to fetal alcohol syndrome. And, like any other psychology major, I enjoy this field because I like working with people and helping them get better," she said.

Ms. Knotts is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Knotts.

Local Student Initiated Into Hood Honorary

Melanie N. Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Barr, Mt. Lake Park, was recently inducted into Hood College's Ionia Society, which recognizes outstanding leadership and service to both the College and surrounding community.

A sophomore at Hood, a consistent dean's list student, winner of the Chemistry Achievement Award and the Beta Beta Beta Biology Freshman Award last year, Ms. Barr is currently serving as her class pianist and representative to the academic judicial council. She is a 1989 graduate of Southern High School, where she was drum major and member of the concert and marching bands.

Founded in 1977, the honorary group promotes service, taking its name and precepts from the four Ionic columns of Alumnae Hall, representing hope, opportunity, obligation, and democracy. Each year, selected sophomores are chosen for membership, based on their service to the College and their embodiment of the principles represented by the columns.

BANKERS PLANT 1700 TREES -- Employees of the First United Bank & Trust recently donated jeans and high-topped boots to participate in Governor Schaefer's Tree-Mendous Maryland month by planting 1700 trees at the Garrett County landfill. The efforts of the bank employees helped to support the governor's goal of planting one million trees in the state during the month of April. The eighteen volunteers planted white oak, white ash, and white pines at the location, which was chosen by the Md. Department of Natural Resources. First United was the lead organization in volunteers at the April 20 effort. Pictured above, front row, left to right, are Kayla Elliott, Jennifer Sanders, Lori Thomas, Linda Sanders, Anita Lantz, Annette Chapman; second row, same order: Jim Elliott, Renee Elliott, Gretchen Rush, Vickie Bond, Brian Selders, Roger Sisler, and Terry Chapman. Dinner Slated To Benefit Local Red Cross Chapter

The American Red Cross, Garrett County Chapter, will sponsor a dinner at the Deer Park Inn on Friday, May 10. The proceeds from the event will benefit the local chapter. Tickets are priced at $17 per person, plus gratuity, and may be purchased by calling the American Red Cross at 334-3916. If tickets remain on the day of the dinner, they will be sold at the door.

There will be two seatings, with the first beginning at 6:30 p.m., and the second at 8:30 p.m.

Cindy Kutchman, executive director of the local chapter, explained that the two services that must be supplied by the non-profit organization are disaster relief and aid to the military and their families. Most community Red Cross chapters are funded by United Way, but this help is not available in Garrett County, Mrs. Kutchman said, so the local chapter must seek other methods of funding.

Mrs. Kutchman also stated that local volunteers are currently in training to earn various certifications concerning disaster relief and other services to the community. She stated that the support offered by the community through the Deer Park Inn dinner as well as other fundraisers will be used to help the helpless in times of disaster, such as fires or tornadoes. The monies raised in this event will stay in the county, she said.

C&P To Change Mailing Process

The mail crunch will be eased a bit this month as the U.S. Postal Service and C&P of Maryland implement a new coding system that will speed the handling of telephone bills, according to a C&P spokesman.

Each of the phone company's 2.1 million monthly bills will be delivered to the post office with a "bar code," a series of coded lines that are visible through a window in the corner of the bill envelope. As the bar code is passed through electronic post office scanners, the bills are sorted automatically for forwarding to the proper destinations. The scanner reads the bar codes faster than manual sorting, even if nine-digit zip codes are used in the manual process.

The introduction of bar coding is expected to save C&P over $200,000 a year in postage because the bills go directly to the post office's automated processing section. The company plans to use the savings to help offset a postal rate increase that took effect earlier this year.

Oakland Senior Center crafts will be displayed in the window of Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, beginning May 1, and Flowery Vale Senior Center paintings may be seen at the Ruth Enlow Library, Accident, during the last two weeks of May.

Stokey Art On Display At GCC, Reception Slated

"Ceramic Vessels and Sculpture" by Daniel L. Stokey, professor of ceramics at Frostburg State University, will be on display in the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College from May 3-31, according to Ron Skidmore, coordinator of the gallery. An opening reception for the artist will be held this Friday, May 3, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Stokey, who holds an MFA degree in ceramics from Pratt Institute in New York, and a B.S. degree from Frostburg with extensive studies in printmaking and drawing, creates a variety of forms in clay and pushes the clay medium to new dimensions. His approaches to ceramics range from the evocative to the functional, from the simple pot to the larger scale floor piece and the sculptural and expressive form. He has chosen the vessel -- a form which is semi-enclosed and can depict every shape from a cup to a human-size organic form -- to direct his work on a thematic basis.

Of his own work he states, "My unique background and traditional clay training in New York has been a strong influence on the current focus of my work. The vessel is a significant reference point to my craft background, and I strive to make my pieces speak a new language about myself and the creative dialect ceramics has to volunteer. This concept, combined with my avid interest in applying color and line on the surface of my pots, has led to the pieces I now produce. Firing these works in a variety of methods achieves the vocabulary I wish to convey in clay."

The public is welcome to attend the reception and to visit the gallery during the hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and Thursday evening from 6-10 p.m. The gallery will also be open weekends during special events.

Weed Control in Asparagus
Keeping weeds out of asparagus takes the fun out of growing it. Also, the competition from the weeds certainly reduces yields and quality. Before plowing or planting the bed, spray the existing vegetation with Roundup. Roundup will kill the weeds and their roots. Roundup can be used anytime that the asparagus plant tops are not above the ground. If grass is a problem, the herbicides Poast or Fusilade 3000 can be used safely overtop the asparagus. Cultivation is the only method of broadleaf weed control during the first growing season. On established asparagus, Princep or Sinbar applied after cutting will give broadleaf weed control.

Registration Problems Seen For Agriculture's "Minor Use" Chemicals

The American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) says that one of the most urgent problems facing agriculture is the loss of chemicals registered for "minor uses."

The nation's largest general farm organization urged Congress to give top priority to minor use chemicals as it considers reauthorization of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA).

The increased cost of data development and establishment of maintenance fees have made it unprofitable for companies to maintain registrations and the production of many vitally important "minor use" chemicals, Keith Eckel, AFBF board member and president of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, recently told the House Subcommittee on Department Operations, Research and Foreign Agriculture.

A product is considered "minor use" if it is applied to specialty crops with limited acreage or major crops which require treatment only in a specific region.

Products in the "minor use" category include those registered for all fruits, vegetables, nuts, nursery products, ornamentals, and aquaculture. Major commodities such as wheat, corn, cotton and soybeans also sometimes have unique problems for which minor-use chemicals are necessary.

It is bitterly ironic that in the well-intentioned process of re-registration, we are losing these products primarily for economic reasons, rather than for health or environmental reasons," Eckel testified.

Farm Bureau was actively involved in past reauthorizations of FIFRA and supported the re-registration of chemicals, but now believes Congress should examine the underfunding and serious backlog facing the re-registration effort. "The accelerated re-registration of older chemicals also accelerated the decision of many registrants to support or drop many minor-use chemical registrations," Eckel told the Congressmen. "A large number of these products are no longer being manufactured and more than 1,000 represent critically important tools for farmers and ranchers. These decisions literally could mean the difference between growing or not growing certain crops."

He said preservation of these critical uses is also important from an environmental standpoint. Loss of an important product ripples through an entire farming operation forcing changes in management, cultural practices, conservation, pest control alternatives and marketing strategies. Often, no viable alternatives are available.

Maryland Gains Acres In CRP

Seventy bids were tentatively approved recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture setting aside an additional 1,638 acres of land in Maryland for the Conservation Reserve Program. During the 10th sign-up for the program in March, 1991, 102 bids had been forwarded to USDA.

Of the 70 tentatively accepted bids, the average cost was $53.96 equalling approximately $122,354. Acres entered into the Conservation Reserve Program are environmentally sensitive and highly erodible.

Nationally, 564,969 acres were accepted into the program at a cost of $30,487,259. The Conservation Reserve Program falls under both the 1985 and 1990 Farm Bills. The 1990 Farm Bill, titled the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990, is a massive piece of legislation according to Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan.

It will require a Herculean effort to be implemented in a timely fashion," he said. "It was written in anticipation of using the Conservation Reserve Program to help protect environmentally fragile lands. This preliminary sign-up information indicates we have been successful."

The secretary said more than 72,000 acres of the approved land came from conservation priority area watersheds such as the Chesapeake Bay, Long Island Sound and the Great Lakes regions. Of this acreage, Madigan said more than 10,000 acres are from high priority watersheds specifically targeted by USDA to improve water quality.

Nationally, of the 564,969 acres tentatively accepted, over 27,867 require useful-life easements of 15 or 30 years. Of these, 19,666 acres are for wildlife habitat improvement; 3,442 for filter strips; 1,952 for salt-tolerant grasses to control salinity; 1,071 for field windbreaks; 941 for grassed waterways; 437 for contour grass strips; 328 for shelterbelts; and 29 acres for living snow fences. In addition, more than 346 miles of filterstrips may also be installed and trees are to be planted on 101,000 acres.

Madigan said producers wishing to participate in the Conservation Reserve Program for 1992 should take advantage of the next sign-up, which will be held July 8-19. This sign-up will be for 1992 contracts only.

An average of 3.4 days was suitable for fieldwork during this past week according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, none of the topsoil was very short or short of moisture, 58 percent was adequate, and 42 percent was surplus. Subsoil moisture ended the week as follows: none was very short or short, 68 percent adequate, and 32 percent was surplus. All the small grains were in good condition across the state. Pastures were in excellent condition.

East Preston FFA Holds Last Banquet At Terra Alta School

Approximately 300 members, family and guests attended the 14th annual East Preston FFA Parent-Member Banquet Friday, April 19, in the East Preston gym in Terra Alta.

The Chapter meeting was called to order by President David Hardesty. Following the dinner, Melissa Roy recited the FFA Creed and Melissa Evans gave her prepared speech, "BST and the Dairy Industry."

Special guest Delegate Dave Miller, chairman of the West Virginia State Agricultural Committee, and a faculty member at East Preston, reviewed West Virginia legislation affecting agriculture. This included a W.Va. apriary law, the "dead chicken bill," upgrading the W.Va. auctioneers' law, updating the plant pesticide act, updating the milk production laws, the study of aquaculture using heat from power plants, the $350,000 state gypsy moth spraying program, work with the deer population, timber regulation bills, and a ground-water bill.

Del. Miller discussed swine regulations involving pseudo rabies, a disease which can infect cattle, sheep, dogs and cats as well as swine. The problem, he said, is that there is no vaccine for the disease, and the animal must be destroyed.

Miller congratulated the students on their accomplishments, and said that "agriculture, most importantly, features the work ethic, the family, and what life is all about." He said he enjoys working with the many varied groups in the legislature, and concluded by inviting everyone present to visit Charleston during the legislative session.

A slide presentation of the chapter's activities during the past year was given, accompanied by popular country music selections that related to the agricultural theme.

Production Awards were presented to members excelling in their projects. Awards were presented to: Danny Metheny, Fruit and Vegetable Production; Kenny Pomeroy, Swine and Beef Production; Daniel Fint, Dairy Production; Warren "Chip" Rinehart, Ag Mechanics; Joe Hauser, Forest Management; Dayton Bolyard II, Ag Sales and Service; David Hardesty, Poultry and Sheep Production; Melissa Roy, Creed Contest; Melissa Evans, Prepared Public Speaking; Daphne Collins, Extemporaneous Speaking.

FFA Advisor Terry Hauser expressed his regret that this would be the last FFA banquet held at East Preston High School, and perhaps his last banquet as an FFA advisor, and said he hopes the students continue to prosper in their FFA projects. "In this area," he said, "FFA has been a tradition, and has played a big part in many lives."

Hauser presented special

NO. 1454 CIVIL ACTION IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT
COUNTY, MARYLAND

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

This is to give notice that on the 10th day of April, 1991, a Petition was filed in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, by Patty L. Glover, Treasurer and Collector of Taxes for the State of Maryland and for Garrett County, Maryland against all unknown Defendants.

The Bill alleges in substance that Patty L. Glover, Treasurer and Collector of Taxes, is holding the sum of SIX THOUSAND ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($6,100), representing the amount received from the sale of property owned by the late Walter Weir and Thomas Weir, that all reasonable efforts were made to ascertain the heirs of the decedents, and believe Exhibit 5 filed therewith contains all heirs of the late Walter Weir and Thomas Weir; however, it is not known whether all heirs were ascertained and that the said sum shall be distributed to the known heirs as listed on Exhibit 5 unless cause to the contrary be shown.

The relief prayed in the Petition is substantially as follows: That an Order of Publication be issued against all unknown heirs of Walter Weir and Thomas Weir, warning them the Circuit Court for Garrett County shall pass an Order distributing the aforesaid sum of $6,100, less cost of $180.26 to the heirs as shown on Exhibit 5, unless cause to the contrary be shown.

WHEREUPON, it is ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, this 10th day of April, 1991, that the Petitioner cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in a newspaper published in Garrett County once a week in each of four successive weeks, before the 10th day of May, 1991, giving notice to the said Defendants of the objects and substance of the Petition and warning them to show cause, if any there may be, on or before the 10th day of May, 1991, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Maryland Bureau of Mines will submit an application to the U.S. Department of the Interior, Office of Surface Mining, for funding of abandoned coal mine reclamation projects. The funding will be in accordance with Title IV, Section 405 of Public Law 95-87, Reclamation Act of 1977.

Qualification for Federal Funding under Title IV is contingent on an approved State Surface Coal Mining Regulatory Program and a State Abandoned Mine Lands Reclamation Plan. Maryland has received Office of Surface Mining approval of both programs. Project funding will originate from the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund, administered by the Office of Surface Mining.

It is the goal of the Maryland Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program to promote the reclamation of abandoned coal mine areas in Maryland that have been left in an inadequately reclaimed condition and endanger the health and safety of the public, degrade the quality of the environment, and/or diminish the beneficial use of land and water resources.

Comments are solicited on the relative priority of the projects listed below and/or any other abandoned mine problem in the Maryland Coal Region. The Bureau requests information from the public concerning abandoned mine problems that pose a potential threat to the public health and safety or severely degrade the environment.

A public meeting concerning the proposed projects will be held as follows:

Tuesday, May 15, 1991
10:00 A.M.

Maryland Bureau of Mines
69 Hill Street
Frostburg, MD 21532

Further information concerning any of these projects can be obtained by contacting the Maryland Bureau of Mines, 69 Hill Street, Frostburg, MD 21532, (301) 689-4136. Written comments concerning these projects and the Maryland Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program will be received at the public hearing and until Wednesday, May 22, 1991. Address all comments to the Maryland Bureau of Mines, 69 Hill Street, Frostburg, MD 21532. Attention: Anthony Abbar.

The proposed project description includes the county location, nearest town or physical feature, and the nature of the problem.

1. Bessemer AML Project, located 1 mile Northwest of Frostburg in Allegany County.

An abandoned surface coal mine encompassing approximately 15 acres and poses a threat to the general health, safety, and welfare of the public due to hazardous water bodies and a dangerous highwall.

2. Wilson Deep Mine Channelization Project, located 5 miles West of Westport in Allegany County.

An abandoned deep mine entry and the associated refuse piles encompassing approximately 2 acres is causing frequent flooding of nearby residence due to periods of increased deep mine discharge.

3. Little Meadows AML Project, located 25 miles East of Grantsville in Garrett County.

An abandoned surface coal mine encompassing approximately 60 acres posing a threat to the public health, safety and welfare due to steeply sloped spoil piles and hazardous water bodies. The exposed spoil bank is also causing sediment loading to Meadow Run.

4. Aaron Run Grove AML Project, located 4 miles West of Westport in Garrett County.

An abandoned surface coal mine is posing a threat to general health, safety and welfare due to a dangerous highwall in close proximity to a county road and residence. The exposed spoil banks are also causing sediment loading to Aaron's Run.

PUBLIC NOTICES

safety and welfare due to dangerous water bodies and a dangerous highwall. The exposed spoil piles cause sediment loading to Meadow Run.

6. Kempton Coal Waste Stabilization project, located in Kempton, Maryland in Garrett County.

An abandoned deep mine complex encompassing 10 acres that poses a threat to public health, safety and welfare due to steeply sloped and unstable coal refuse piles, hazardous facilities and equipment, residential waste, and a vertical entry. The refuse piles extend into an existing wetland causing sediment loading and acid runoff to the North Branch Potomac River.

7. Midlothian AML Project, located in Midlothian in Allegany County.

An abandoned surface coal mine encompassing 30 acres located near the 4H Recreation Center poses a threat to public health, safety and welfare due to hazardous water bodies. The pr areas and associated spoil piles extend into Cunningham Swamp thus degrading its quality.

9. Vale Run Stream Rehabilitation Project, located 2 miles South of Frostburg in Allegany County.

Approximately 1,600 lineal feet of Vale Run has been severely impacted from sedimentation and loss of flow into abandoned deep mine workings.

Lynne Barnes To Perform Harp Concerts, Workshop At Festival

Ms. Lynne R. Barnes, Cumberland, will perform harp concerts and conduct a harp workshop during the McHenry Highland Festival Saturday, June 1, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Her presentation, "Harp of the British Isles: A Historical Perspective," is part of the "From the Old Country to the New Country" workshops, and is made possible at the festival with funding from the Maryland Humanities Council, through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Graduated from Mansfield University in Mansfield, Pa., Ms. Barnes' degree is in music education, and she has taught elementary music in Washington State, Michigan, and Maryland. She now teaches private lessons in piano, guitar, lap dulcimer, and celtic harp. She is originally from Columbia, where she taught privately and served as her church's organist and choir director. She also played harp in the Washington metropolitan area at the Willard Hotel, Omni Shoreham Hotel, and the U.S. Capitol Building. Since moving to Cumberland in 1987, Ms. Barnes has expanded her harp concerts into the tri-state area.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over. Ms. Barnes will also participate in the celloph on Saturday evening at 8 p.m., at the McHenry House at Wisp Ski Resort. Admission $3.00. A Kirkin' O' the Tartans will be held Sunday, June 2, at 10:30 a.m., at St. John's Episcopal Church on Route 135 in Deer Park.

GCC Student Places Fourth In Photo Contest

A Garrett County College student captured fourth place in the "Marylanders at Work" Community College Photography Contest, an event which was limited to amateur photographers enrolled in one of the state's 17 community colleges.

Charley Coleman was one of five top winners, all of whom received hotel accommodations and meals at various Maryland resorts. The object of the contest was to capture, on film, Marylanders at work.

First place went to Irvin Albert, a student at Catonsville Community College. Second place was won by Lynda Anderson, Dundalk CC, followed by Marvin F. Bloom, Montgomery College, Coleman, and Susan Fisler, Montgomery College.

The five winning entries and 18 honorable mentions were selected by a panel of professional judges, including Kevin Fleming, photographer for National Geographic; Gil Watson, Sunday editor of The Baltimore Sun; Lloyd Marcus, graphic design specialist at WJZ-TV; and Middleton Evans, freelance photographer and publisher.

The contest was sponsored by the Department of Economic and Employment Development, the Maryland Higher Education Commission, and the "Maryland, You Are Beautiful" program, in conjunction with the State Board for Community Colleges. Among the local co-sponsors are Silver Tree Inn, Deep Creek Lake, and Wisp Resort, McHenry.

Planning Comm. Solicits Growth Plans From Towns

The Garrett County Planning Commission last week discussed plans to solicit growth plans from the county's municipalities, in an effort to prepare for anticipated legislation from next year's Maryland General Assembly.

Bills to limit the sprawling growth in Maryland and to protect the Chesapeake Bay from further pollution were sent to summer study by state legislators this year, but reports indicate that some sort of growth limit legislation will be enacted next year. Since Garrett County is the only jurisdiction in the state without county-wide zoning, county officials believe steps need to be taken to ready the county for the imposed growth restrictions.

According to Peggy Jamison, Planner II, with the Garrett County Planning and Zoning Office, "We need to ask the towns for growth plans now, so a greater amount of land can be considered as growth areas. We will assist them with future growth plans in the interim."

Wendell Keaton, municipal administrator, is acting as liaison between the towns and the Planning Commission.

In other news from the Planning and Zoning Office, a letter was sent by the Planning Commission, as well as by the Garrett County Commissioners, regarding the management plan for the Piney Creek Reservoir Watershed for improvement to the town of Frostburg's reservoir system. Both letters indicated non-support of the recommendations included in the plan.

Jamison explained that the study requests that Garrett County establish a protection plan for the part of the watershed area located in Garrett County, although the county would not have access to any of the water. "That's the planning commission's biggest problem with it," she stated.

In the letter sent to the Frostburg Mayor and Town Council by the Garrett County Commissioners, it was stated, "The commissioners understand that the City of Frostburg was obligated to develop a watershed

A FORMIDABLE, COOPERATIVE EFFORT FOR A MONUMENTAL ROCK - Western Maryland's first Vietnam Veterans Memorial will soon be a reality, thanks to the cooperative actions of Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer, two state agencies (Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Maryland State Highway Administration), personnel at Savage River State Forest and several area Vietnam veterans. This week, an 11-ton rock was moved from its location within Savage River State Park, and will now be transported to Sideling Hill in Allegany County to become part of a Vietnam veterans memorial. The memorial will be dedicated in early August, and will appropriately be located along what will then be known as Interstate 68 or Maryland Vietnam Veterans Memorial Highway. The monument will be part of a rest and interpretive area on Sideling Hill, according to local resident Tom Bratton, first vice-president of the Vietnam Veterans of America, Chapter 172. Bratton explained that a letter written by Brian Hall, a Cumberland resident and Vietnam vet, gave life to the idea when a request was made to the State Highway Administration. The rock was moved approximately 150 yards down an embankment to Rt. 495 by DNR Park Ranger Roland Schoch, pictured at right, who expertly operated the bulldozer to the sounds of "oohs" and "aahs" from observers. Shown above, standing on the rock (as it awaits its next leg of the journey), are, left to right, Larry Maxim, Savage River State Forest manager; Schoch, and Gary Yoder, DNR liaison. Standing in front of the rock is Bratton.

Fires Destroy Garage, House; Another House Heavily Damaged

Local volunteer fire fighters had a busy week, as a Friendsville area house was destroyed, another in the same area was heavily damaged, and a garage near Red House was leveled, the owner of which sustained severe burns.

The first blaze destroyed the home of Leon and Norma Sisler, located along the White Rock-Cranesville Road near Friendsville. The Friendsville, Accident, and Deep Creek VFDs were called to the residence at 11:11 a.m. last Friday morning and, upon their arrival, found flames shooting through the roof of the one-story wood frame structure.

Darrell Sisler, brother of the owner, who resides nearby, discovered the fire and called 911 for assistance. No one was home at the time of the fire and there were no injuries reported.

According to Jim Martin, fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett counties, the cause of the fire is still under investigation. He estimated the loss of the structure and its contents to be $75,000.

Firemen brought the blaze under control in about 45 minutes, but remained on the scene for about three hours.

The second fire, which destroyed a garage, occurred just after noon on Saturday at the residence of Arlie William Martin, located along the Mason School Road near Red House.

Gorman and Oakland fire fighters were called to the residence after oil being heated on a woodburner ignited and set the 24-by-40 structure on fire. Martin, 60, told investigator Martin that he was heating the oil to spray underneath his pick-up truck to prevent rusting.

Martin was burned while attempting to move an antique car out of the garage. He reportedly sustained first degree burns to his face, second and third degree burns to his left arm, and third degree burns to his right hand. He was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad, where he was treated and released.

While Martin was successful in saving his antique car, lost in the blaze, in addition to the garage, was the 1972 Chevrolet pick-up. Continued on Page A-14

Woman Injured In April 19 Mishap Succumbs Sunday

Rose Mae Patterson, 81, Friendsville, died Sunday, May 5, 1991, at Ruby Memorial Hospital. She had been a patient there since April 19, having received multiple injuries in a two-vehicle mishap near her home, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Earlier reports of the accident indicated that Mrs. Patterson attempted to pull into a driveway on the Mattingly Hill Road and failed to notice a van, operated by Carl L. Hanford, Clairton, Pa., in her path. The two vehicles subsequently collided. Mrs. Patterson's vehicle then struck a tree.

Neither Hanford nor his passenger, Virginia A. Birtges, 51, Murrysburg, Pa., were seriously injured.

Born May 15, 1909, in Hazelton, W.Va., Mrs. Patterson was the daughter of the late Walter and Catherine (Matthews) Uphold.

She was also preceded in death by her foster parents, Charles and Anna Belle (Savage) Thomas.

Mrs. Patterson was a member of the Sand Spring Church of God and was a retired file clerk with Workman's Compensation in Cleveland, Ohio.

She is survived by her husband, Leroy D. Patterson.

Friends were received in the Newman Funeral Home, Friendsville, where a service was held Wednesday with the Rev. James Show officiating.

Interment was in Sand Spring Cemetery.

FAA Grant Approved For G.C. Airport

The Garrett County Commissioners recently announced the approval of a $1,060,020 Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) grant for improvements at the Garrett County Airport. The funds will be used to do the following described work:

Extend and mark runway 8/26 (approximately 800'x75'); rehabilitate and mark existing runway 8/26 (approximately 2,500'x75'); remove existing runway lighting system and install medium intensity runway lights (MIRL), (approximately 3,300 LF); construct a stub taxiway (approximately 270'x35'), and construct a tiedown apron (approximately 6,700 SY).

This will be the first phase of an expansion project which will eventually see the runway extended to 4,300 feet.

The Garrett County Airport was purchased in 1962 by the county with the assistance of a $162,000 FAA grant. In the mid-1970's, local users and nearby industries recognized a need and urged the strengthening and lengthening of the existing runway. A plan proposing the lengthening of the runway from 2,500 feet to 4,200 feet was initiated, but funding for the expansion was not available and the plan

Zoning Variance, Exception Denied For Rifle Range

The Garrett County Zoning Appeals Board last week denied two requests, one for a zoning variance and one for a special exception, made by a local resident in order to operate a trap and rifle shooting range near the intersection of Pergin Farm Road and Sand Flat Road.

Ron Marc reportedly purchased a 97-acre piece of property in the fall of 1989. He maintains a residence at the site and has plans for a firearms/ammunition retail operation there as well.

Marc's requests received publicity when a significant number of letters and phone calls protesting the requests were received by the Garrett County Planning and Zoning Commission. The letters, as well as two petitions, were heard by the Zoning Appeals Board Thursday evening.

According to John Nelson, Garrett County Planning and Zoning director, the special exception request was made by Marc in regard to the type of outdoor commercial use permitted in the lake residential zone which, Nelson said, allows for commercial use but only as long as the use is "compatible" with the surrounding neighborhood.

The zoning variance request, he said, stemmed from a "setback requirement." Nelson explained that one sideline of the proposed shooting range is situated only 315 feet from the road. A 600-foot distance is the

Oakland Town Meeting Set To Discuss Bradley Manor Bankruptcy Hearing

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and legal representative Robert Watson recently attended a federal court bankruptcy hearing in Baltimore concerning the Bradley Manor housing complex. The mayor planned to express his and the council members' objection to the proposed renovation of the complex, but that stance was reportedly rejected by the court. An Oakland town meeting concerning the hearing as well as future action has been scheduled for Tuesday, May 14, at the Oakland Volunteer Firehall, beginning at 7:30. A spokesperson for a local group of concerned citizens urges all persons to attend.

The bankruptcy situation revolves around a group of business persons who are called the "Oakland Associates" and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). One of the persons representing the Oakland Associates is Morton Sarubin, who was the owner-developer of Bradley Manor in the early 1970's. His goal is reportedly to renovate the apartment complex, which is against the wishes of the Oakland Town Council.

According to Mayor McCain, all objections made by the town to Sarubin's testimony were overruled by the presiding judge, often without explanation. The apparent futility in presenting the town's stance prompted the council to stop objecting, and later to decide not to pursue the matter in court any further because of the projected expense. The town council will now depend on HUD to suspend Sarubin's renovation proposal.

Sarubin told the judge that HUD appointed him in the early 1970's to build housing developments in every Maryland county, all similar to the Bradley Manor complex. The buildings were constructed in a defunct airplane hanger in the eastern part of the state, according to Sarubin's testimony. He told the court that he had advised HUD of the inferiority of the buildings even at the time of construction, but that HUD had ignored his warnings. HUD officials claim that this information is untrue.

When Bradley Manor was completed, Sarubin stated, HUD took the complex from his control and slowly closed it out. Then the department of housing gave control back to Sarubin and told him to manage it. Sarubin now wants HUD to reimburse him for the monies he invested in the complex, totalling $273,000 per year for the next ten years. HUD has rejected the reimbursement, claiming that Sarubin has no legal right to receive it. Another hearing is scheduled for May 20, which McCain will attend, although possibly only as an observer.

The town has objected to the renovation plan for several reasons, such as the troubled history of the complex involving serious structural problems, the location of the structure in a floodplain, and other negative aspects typical of low-income housing. Back taxes on the development in the amount of $40,000 are owed to the Garrett County government, and $20,000 to the town of Oakland.

Sarubin has stated that if he is permitted to proceed with the renovation, he will complete the work in eight months and the complex will be re-opened.

The purpose of the May 14 meeting is to explain the situation to the public, and to answer questions. Council President Mary Lou Stemple stated that the council wishes to know the opinions and ideas of the public

Third Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The third rabies case of this year was confirmed Tuesday by the Garrett County Health Department. The animal infected with the disease was a raccoon, which was killed by a vaccinated dog early in the week.

The raccoon reportedly fought with the dog, which is owned by David Ritchie, in the Thousand Acres area at Deep Creek Lake. The dog killed the animal, and two persons proceeded to handle the dog immediately following the encounter. These persons are reportedly seeking the advice of their physicians concerning any treatment they may require.

The pet was re-vaccinated and will be under observation for 90 days, a health department spokesperson said.

Persons should not handle pets immediately following an encounter with a rabid animal because the rabies virus can survive on the coat of the pet for approximately two hours. If owners must handle the pet, gloves should be worn without exception.

Rabies Clinic Noted

Tina Buckel, health department sanitarian, wished to remind pet owners that the rabies clinics are continuing in the county. The remaining clinic schedule is as follows: this evening at the Friendsville Elementary School from 5-6 p.m.; Friday, May 10, at Broad Ford Elementary School from 5-6 p.m.; and Saturday, May 11, at Grantsville Elementary School from 10 a.m. until noon.

Several Arrests Noted By County Sheriff's Office

The members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office made several arrests this week, including the capture of a man wanted in the state of Florida as well as a West Virginia man charged with vehicle theft.

Dennis Sullivan, 38, Wewahatchka, Fla., was nabbed early Sunday morning near the Jordan Apartments in Mountain Lake Park after officers received a phone call concerning the defendant, who is wanted in Florida on charges of sexual assault against a minor. The police responded to the location immediately. Sullivan had fled, but was captured a short time later by the sheriff's deputies.

Other charges against Sullivan are lewd and lascivious acts upon an child under 12, the manufacture of marijuana, and violation of probation. The defendant was jailed without bond, according to the police report.

David Leary, 24, Horse Shoe Run, W. Va., was arrested Friday and charged with the felony theft of two vehicles. Leary reportedly went to T&K Auto Sales in Elkins, W. Va., and took a vehicle for a test drive. He did not return the car to the dealership, but drove it to the Team 1 automobile dealership in Oakland on the following day. He then apparently asked to test drive another vehicle, and again did not return to Team 1 with the automobile.

The West Virginia State Police force was alerted to Leary's theft, and members of the force were able to locate him and place him under arrest. He is currently awaiting extradition from W. Va., according to the report.

Six counts of battery and one count of destruction of property were lodged against Timothy G. Skipper, 27, Oakland, after he allegedly attempted to back over Vickie L. McCrobie with his truck. He also reportedly tore the rear-view mirror off her vehicle, and dented the driver's side door by kicking it repeatedly.

Skipper was arrested Monday on the strength of a warrant issued from the Garrett County District Court. He was later released on $500 bond, according to the police record.

Jeremy S. DeWitt, 19, Oakland, was arrested on Saturday for driving while intoxicated (DWI) and possession of a controlled dangerous substance. DeWitt was stopped by Dep. J. Murphy for illegal passing, and after a search of the defendant, the officer discovered a black pouch which contained suspected marijuana seeds.

OUTSTANDING CREW -- Posing in the dungeon, their work completed for the set of Man of La Mancha, the successful production staged by the GCC theatre department recently, are the three students mainly responsible for the construction of the outstanding set. Along with Ben Sincelli, they worked long hours hoisting timbers and forming alone walls that simulate a dungeon of the Spanish Inquisition. Left to right are Tim Foster, Janet Nicholas, and Alex Hicks. Man of La Mancha will be presented again by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival on July 5, 6, 8, and 9, in the collage auditorium.

The accused was verbally abusive to the deputy, according to the report, shouting obscenities and not cooperating with the policeman. After arriving at the jail for processing, DeWitt reportedly behaved uncontrollably, and was finally restrained in a strait jacket and leg irons.

The defendant was incarcerated, and was later released on $1,000 bond.

Timothy C. Crawford, 34, Bunker Hill, W. Va., was arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace on Saturday evening. Deputy Murphy responded to Upper Green Glade Road after receiving a complaint that an intoxicated person was hanging on doors in the area.

Murphy found Crawford along the roadway, and attempted to drive him to a relative's home, but the defendant was not able to locate the residence. He was then incarcerated in the county jail on the disturbance charge.

Roy L. Friend, 19, Oakland, was charged with possessing a concealed weapon on Saturday when sheriff deputies investigated a report of a loud party occurring at a Fingerboard Road residence.

At the sight of the police officers, the 50-60 persons at the party fled into a wooded area behind the home. Dep. Murphy ordered Friend to stop, but the defendant ran on and was then nabbed by the officer.

After being caught, Friend told the officers that he was in possession of a butterfly knife. The officers removed the weapon and cited the defendant with the violation.

Charles E. Sliger, 43, Oakland, was arrested for DWI on Sunday by Dep. J. Sowers. Sowers stopped the defendant on Third Street in Oakland after observing him cross the center line of the roadway. He was later released.

Gary W. Cook, 40, Rawlings, W. Va., was arrested for DWI on May 2 after Dep. Murphy stopped him for a faulty exhaust system. The arrest took place on Old Crellin Road at approximately 11:30 p.m. Cook was later released into the custody of a sober friend, according to the police report.

A warrant issued from district court was served to Dana L. Chapman, 23, who is currently lodged in the Frederick County Jail. The defendant is charged with violation of probation, according to the police report.

A bench warrant was issued for Arnold W. Miller Jr., 25, Oakland, for failure to pay $125 to district court. The bench warrant was served on May 6.

The budget for the approaching fiscal year was discussed, and a budget hearing was planned for the next town meeting, which will be held on Monday, May 20, at 7 p.m.

Office hours at the city hall were recently established. The office will be open four days a week: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday; from 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. A clerk will be in the office during those days and times, and persons may pay their water bills there.

Sheriff Van Evans attended the meeting and talked with the group about policing problems in Grantsville. The main topic of discussion centered on a loitering problem that has been occurring late at night at the drug store, car wash, and post office. The loitering will no longer be allowed, the spokesperson stated.

A trash day will be scheduled in May, either on the 17th or the 24th. Persons Recycling was discussed at the town meeting, and is slated for further discussion at the council's future meetings.

Grantsville Town Council Announces Lowered Tax Rate

The Mayor and Town Council of Grantsville met recently and discussed several topics, including the tax rate for 1991-92, two bid awards, and office hours at the city hall.

The council set the tax rate for 1991-92 at $.58 per $100 assessed property value, and $42 ad valorem tax. This drops the overall rate by approximately $.05, according to a spokesperson for the town council.

The council awarded bids for street work to Keystone Lime Company, and for garbage collection to Perry's Solid Waste.

MLP Man Charged With Battery, Child Abuse

Reports were released this week by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, that a Mtn. Lake Park man was charged with battery and child abuse against a four-year-old female.

Charles P. Hacek, 27, was charged in late March for allegedly using a belt to discipline a child for not eating. That incident reportedly occurred on March 24.

Hacek is scheduled to appear in Garrett County District Court on May 14.

In other state police news, an accidental shooting was reported on Saturday resulting in a McHenry man being hospitalized at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Charles E. Thomas, 68, was admitted to the hospital for an injury to his calf, but has since been released, ac-

SHS AUTO TEAM AMONG BEST—The auto mechanics competition team at Southern High School has qualified as one of the top 10 teams in the state, and has advanced to the "Hands-On" portion of the Maryland Finals of the 1991 Plymouth-AAA Trouble Shooting Contest. The team members are, pictured left to right, David Rager and Greg Dawson, with Elmar Moreland, Tabitha Lewis, and Tony Ludwig serving as alternates. Tom Powers is their instructor. The contest is a competition between schools that offer a high school level course in automotive technology. The contest is divided into two areas of competition: a written examination and a "Hands-On" competition. Qualifying teams will compete against each other in diagnosing and correcting identical malfunctions deliberately installed in 1991 Plymouth Voyagers equipped with 3.3 liter EFI engines. Workmanship, speed, accuracy, and written examination test results are applied as factors in the judging process. The Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corp. and the American Automobile Association have announced that more than $1.2 million in scholarships are available at the state level to the winners of this year's contest. More than 14,800 students will be competing for a $3,000 to $13,500 scholarship per student for the championship team in all 50 states. The Maryland competition will be held at Catonsville Community College in Baltimore this Saturday, May 11. The winning team will represent the state of Maryland at the National Finals in Washington, D.C. on June 17.

Investigations are continuing into the incidents, according to the police records.

Charter Home Rule Committee Elects Officers

The committee established recently by the Garrett County Commissioners to write a charter for the county has announced that Jack Hinebaugh has been named the chairperson, with Dorothy Leighton as vice-chairperson and Charlotte Sebold as secretary.

The committee tentatively plans to hold public meetings every two weeks, and the next scheduled meeting will be held Monday, May 13, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., at Garrett Community College, in Rm. 304 of the Continuing Education Center.

According to member Spencer R. Schlosnagle, the committee plans to hold special evening meetings so that the public may access them more easily. He stressed that the public is urged to attend and contribute ideas to the committee's process.

The charter home rule form of county government will be considered on the 1992 General Election ballot.

Hospital To Conduct Survey Via Telephone

In an effort to assess the services offered by Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the hospital's Long Range Planning Committee will conduct a community telephone survey over the next three weeks to determine the general public's opinions, concerns, and desires relating to the hospital and the services it provides.

"We will be calling about 800 households in Garrett, Preston, Tucker, Mineral, and Grant counties to get peoples' opinions about the hospital, its physicians, and health care services," stated Benjamin Rosenthal, hospital president. "It is the Long Range Planning Committee's responsibility to assess our services, add to them, and/or suggest ways to improve them, and the survey is one of the tools used to do this."

Rosenthal said the survey will take 12 to 15 minutes and noted his appreciation in advance for cooperation by those who are called. "This will greatly help us plan for the future at our hospital," Rosenthal said.

GCSO Probing Recent Thefts, Car Damages

Three persons contacted the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week, concerning apparent crimes committed against them, including breaking, entering, theft, and destruction of property.

Lee R. Steyer, Deer Park, reported an incident of motor vehicle destruction of property which apparently occurred sometime during the evening of April 27. Steyer told police that his 1984 Ford Tempo was parked in his driveway that evening when something forcibly struck the vehicle. The entire driver's side was dented and scratched, according to the report, causing approximately $1,800 in damages.

In a separate incident, Gloria J. Sisler reported the theft of two new 20-inch mountain bikes from her Oakland residence sometime on May 1-2.

Ms. Sisler told police that the bikes were parked by her children at the front of the home on May 1, and were gone on May 2. The bikes are white with gray stripes and gold decals.

The loss in the theft has been estimated at $250.

A spokesperson for the Blooming Rose Church told Sheriff's Office personnel that an unknown person apparently entered the church sometime between April 24-27 and removed three items. The items stolen were a microwave oven, valued at $170; a metal chair worth $25; and $13 in cash. The spokesperson told Return of Bradley Manor?

We are distressed with the news this week that efforts are underway to refurbish and reopen the Bradley Manor low-income housing complex, the carcass of which now lies rotting on the western edge of Oakland. The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland have been attempting to put a stop to the plan, but they have found that their resources for legal services cannot hold a candle to those of the owner of the complex, who is the same owner that founded Bradley Manor just over 20 years ago.

While we recognize that a need exists in Garrett County for low-income housing, we need only look at the track record of Bradley Manor to realize that this project was riddled with problems from its beginning. The units were built on marshy ground and, by the standards of most builders, they were poorly constructed. Proper maintenance was almost nonexistent while the complex was in operation. The apartments became infested with rodents, roaches, and fleas. Unrest and domestic problems were common, resulting in police being called to the location on a routine basis. While some of the residents did attempt to organize and address some of the problems, they received little or no assistance from management.

Because of their current dilapidated state, we can't imagine that the present units can be restored to a safe condition. The simple fact of the matter is that the Bradley Manor project was tried and it failed. Now the same owner of the property wants to try again. We are told he will yield about one quarter of a million dollars annually for the next 10 years if he is successful in getting approval to proceed. He claims that HUD (Housing and Urban Development) is to blame for the mismanagement of the apartments the first time, and preliminary information indicates that HUD is certainly not blameless in all of this. The owner claimed that HUD "tied his hands" when it came to proper management of the complex, and for all we know right now, he may be right. However, while some of the mistakes and problems of the past may be rectified this time around, we still cannot believe that the shells that remain, still in the same flood plain, can be reconditioned and maintained to provide safe, adequate housing.

At the very least, the town of Oakland and its residents should receive some kind of legally binding guarantees whenever such projects are proposed. Of course, there are many examples of how legally binding guarantees that have turned out to be worth less than the paper they were written on. If one has enough cash, it seems most anything can be "overturned" and rendered non-binding.

There will be a town meeting next Tuesday evening at the Oakland fire hall to discuss this matter. We would urge not only Oakland residents, but all those concerned about low-income housing projects, to be present. One never knows whose town may be next.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Garrett County Commissioner Brenda Butscher requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Commissioner Butscher:

As a voting Garrett County citizen and taxpayer, I feel compelled to share with you and your colleagues my thoughts pertaining to the budget request of the Garrett County Board of Education for fiscal year 1992.

I have followed with interest the formulation of this budget these past few months, attending public meetings pertaining to budget requests at both ends of the county.

With one major reservation, I agree with the Board of Education in its stated position that the budget request is appropriately made without apology. It is, after all, the implicit role of the Board of Education to act as advocates of all our children in fulfilling educational needs and requesting funding for those needs.

Perhaps the most controversial item in this year's request is a six percent wage increase for school system employees. Garrett County teachers and support staff have articulated compelling reasons supporting this request at this time. The primary consideration here is the fact that our teachers are poorly remunerated when compared with their professional colleagues across the state. A secondary rationale justifying the request is a growing disparity between local salary levels funded for teaching and administrative staff.

The issue of appropriate funding for instructional staff salaries has been publicly debated through every stage of school budget formulation this year. In addition to solicitation of public comment, the process has involved a compelling articulated rationale, independent mediation, and mutual compromise. Consequently, the school board's request for a six percent funding increase for teaching staff reflects awareness of both demonstrated need and fiscal reality.

This is not the case with the current six percent salary increase requested by the Board of Education for administrative and supervisory staff. To my knowledge, the inclusion of administrative staff in a six percent salary increase for the next fiscal year was never once recommended or justified until the Board of Education's most recent closed session meeting, which occurred just prior to presenting your office with funding requests for fiscal '92. Accordingly, the public has been given no opportunity to consider or debate the merits of salary increase for administrative staff at this time. Moreover, the propriety of linking increased funding for administrative salaries with increased funding for instructional staff has been neither explained nor publicly justified.

What I question here is the process whereby funding requests for school employees are developed and proposed. In this year's budget formulation, the process has been an extensive public exercise as it pertains to teaching salaries, but a closed-door, executive-session exercise with respect to administrative and supervisory salaries. The result is a budget proposal documented and supported by demonstrated need in most, but not all, respects. The wisdom of funding any capricious request in the current economic climate should certainly be subject to close scrutiny.

My request to you and your colleagues serving as the county's fiscal authority is that you consider the merits of requested increases in instructional and administrative salaries as separate issues. Perhaps you could request the rationale of the Board of Education in linking the issues in its budget proposal. I personally am not aware of any such rationale being articulated thus far this year.

Sincerely,
Steve Schlossagle

"What's Black And White?" Event To Benefit GLAF Summer Arts Festival

by Jenianne Stitt

What showcases terrific theatre, magnificent music, and posh puppets all in one summer season? That answer is easy -- the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. But what's black and white, (and probably without it, there would be no arts festival)?

Actually, no riddle, it's simply the June 22 GLAF gala benefit, which this year took as its theme, "What's Black and White?" in hopes of creating a sophisticated, yet fun, evening to raise funds for the annual summer festival. Patrons, for example, will be encouraged to dress in black and white.

"Anything goes," said Ferne Belmonte, who has spearheaded the benefit since its inception four years ago. "Attire doesn't have to be formal or even dressy -- just black and white."

As the arts festival's biggest fundraiser held yearly at the Wisp Resort's McHenry House, the gala benefit, with a hard working committee of 10 area women from Garrett and Allegany counties, each year tries to create an elegant evening, complete with cash bar, dinner and wine, musical entertainment, and the gala's highlight -- an art auction. But this year, under auction chair Diane Thayer, the auction will have fewer but exquisite pieces of art, plus other select items like a gourmet dinner for eight (watch for details), a stay at a condominium near Disney World, and a landscaper's delight package.

Artists who have submitted works for the popular auction will be spotlighted in the upcoming weeks so that patrons will learn more about them, according to Mrs. Thayer, who dropped names of some of this year's artists, such as Dorothy Speiser, Ducks Unlimited Flyway artist, Bob Yonke, water colorist from Pittsburgh, Pa. and Deep Creek Lake, and Bob Watson, local photographer and attorney.

"There's more," Thayer stated, "and this year's auction is shaping up to be the best and most diverse ever."

While invitations will soon be mailed to past patrons and others in the area, GLAF benefit committee members are now taking table reservations for groups, businesses, and organizations that might prefer a round table for eight or ten persons.

For reservations or just more information on "What's Black and White?" to be held June 22, beginning at 6:30 p.m., telephone 387-6371. Tickets will be mailed.

To the Editor:

Pursuant to last week's report on Dr. Archer's plea to the county commissioners for public smoking controls, I wish to voice my unconditional support of such a program.

Imagine trying to breathe while someone is standing on your chest. You'd be working pretty hard to breathe, wouldn't you? Sometimes this is what it is like when trying to breathe with asthma. If you can understand this, then try to understand why second-hand smoke is such a health hazard to those who have any kind of lung disease. Such individuals already have a diminished lung capacity without adding tobacco smoke to aggravate the problem. What's more, it is an unnecessary, preventable (and often times outdoor) pollutant, because people don't have to smoke to get their nicotine -- they can chew special gum.

As Americans, we would all like to think we can, or should be able to, control our own destiny. But many non smokers do not have such means as long as smokers continue to pollute their air. Oh, sure, non smokers can opt to stay out of stores, restaurants, offices, or any other place where smoking is allowed. But is this freedom?

One must buy groceries, often one must work in an office, one would like to eat out once in a while or attend a banquet. But when a non smoker is someone who has asthma or another kind of lung ailment, the choices become limited: (a) go, and try to avoid the smoke (lots of luck -- the darn stuff goes everywhere); (b) take extra medication ahead of time (above and beyond normal dosage already being taken); (c) request that smokers abstain (Ha! Just try that, especially on a stranger! And watch your friends swing their smoking arms behind their backs or move a few feet away, as if that's going to help); or (d) play it safe and stay home (and risk being pitted or labeled "anti-social").

From a health standpoint, smoking is bad for everyone. Smoking hurts not just those who smoke, but those around them as well. And when those around them are their own children or those who have a lung disease, the problem is much worse. Studies have shown that children of smoking parents suffer many more upper respiratory infections than those of non smoking parents or parents who do not smoke around them. Still other studies have shown that second-hand smoke is worse than first-hand smoke, possibly because of the way smokers blow their smoke away from themselves.

From a social standpoint, smoking parents or other role models give the wrong message to children and adolescents. "Do as I say and not as I do" is just isn't that effective. In fact, the implicit message becomes "Smoking is OK when you're grown-up." What adolescent doesn't want to look more grown-up?

If I sound like I have an axe to grind, maybe I do. All I know is, it really isn't right that smokers should go on fouling the air of others around them. The right of an individual to smoke holds true only until the smoke reaches the nose and mouth of someone who doesn't wish to breathe it. It is an infringement on the right of all others who wish or need to breathe smoke-free air. It is a matter of life and death to those of us with lung diseases.

Mrs. Gnegy's letter opposing Sunday liquor sales stirred me to take my stand in agreement with her. I think she said it well as to the alcohol-related ills our society is already dealing with.

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

While the advantages of living in Garrett County are often obvious -- clean air, low crime rate, easy pace, etc. -- the disadvantages are more difficult to name, it seems. The burden of high unemployment and the stigma of being labeled one of the state's poorest counties certainly represent two problems of long-standing durability.

The sting of a harsh winter for those of us who are not quite "equipped" to deal with it, and the relative lack of goods and services so far from our reach are but two additional drawbacks to life in Garrett County.

In most cases, the "trade-off" seems worth it. In some cases, however, the very nature of our county -- its topography, its distance from major metropolitan areas -- seems to lend itself to a condition of unwieldiness.

So it might be a safe assumption that our biggest problem, if you will, is that we are too big and too sparsely populated to efficiently manage as a whole. In this extremely extended community, where just travelling from one place to another involves considerable time and energy, we are a fragmented populace.

Garrett Countians, for instance, when asked to identify themselves in terms of geographic location, say they are from Garrett County -- not Oakland, not Accident, not Swanton -- but Garrett County. It seems that no one single municipality or post office district contains enough of a population to warrant the distinction.

Envy verges on frustration, at times, when I see small towns "out there," with their manageable numbers, working toward common goals (or at least fighting over uncommon goals), taking stances, and making formidable impressions.

Our size, here, is so cumbersome, our spaces so vast, it seems our voices are easily lost in the wilderness -- even to each other.

When I feel this most sharply, I wonder how we can more easily find each other, our fellow Garrett Countians, to communicate and to bring about a dialogue of knowledge and understanding among ourselves and to the rest of the world, as well. Our collective voice seems sometimes to be ineffective because its components are just too scattered.

Maybe in this mountainous community, we've carried the "every man for himself" motto a bit too far, and need to start thinking more seriously about the "all for one and one for all" concept. After all, there's a time to inwardly reflect in the woods and a time to get out there and share those introspective thoughts for the good of everyone.

The isolation and insulation we experience here can lead to a false sense of the big picture.

The territory on which we tread, for instance, becomes quite dangerous, when we stake our claims (especially to land) so fiercely that we become enmeshed too deeply in that sole pursuit, losing worldly perspective. Guarding our property precludes stepping away from it to exchange ideas and feeling with our neighbors.

It's time to add dimensions to our concern for the human condition and for the earth, because standing, unmoved, on one spot, will surely cause us to sink. And, because, if we don't scream loud enough to be heard at the state or national centers of government, we are really making no sound.

Loch Lynn into one school? So if you are for consolidation, loss of community schools, and bigger is better, you are in luck. If you believe in community schools and are pleased with the job they are doing in educating your children, you lose.

Respectfully,
Dr. Ronel R. Williams

Drug Counts Against W.Va. Man Not Prosecuted In District Court

Two drug counts against an Elk Garden, W.Va. man were not prosecuted in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week, according to court documents.

Billy L. Dawson, 26, had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department with possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana paraphernalia. The State's Attorney's Office decided not to prosecute those counts.

Dawson had been arrested on November 23, 1990, after being stopped on a traffic violation. A search of the vehicle he was operating allegedly revealed a marijuana clip, a marijuana cigarette butt in the ashtray, a small plastic bag found in a jacket containing suspected marijuana, a pipe usually used for smoking marijuana, and some rolling papers.

In other District Court news, an Oakland man who had pleaded not guilty to one count of assault, one count of battery, and one count of theft, was found not guilty by Judge Jack R. Turney.

Robert W. Gray, no age given, had been charged with battery on November 8, 1990, by Matthew M. Plevyak, Oakland, and with theft and assault by Debora S. Harvey, Oakland, that same day. Harvey contended that Gray stole bricks from an alley beside St. Peter's Catholic Church that belonged to her. She said when Gray attempted to leave the scene he backed his truck into the path of her son. Plevyak charged that Gray grabbed him by his arms.

Stemming from the same incident, Cathy J. Gray, 32, Oakland, was also found not guilty of theft.

In another court case, an Oakland man who pleaded not guilty to theft was found not guilty by Judge Turney.

Joseph E. Fink III, 18, had been charged with the theft of a gold chain by Lynette D. Sigel on February 8. The chain was reportedly valued at between $250 and $300.

In a criminal and related Department of Natural Resources police case, a Friendsville man was found guilty of numerous counts and sentenced for those crimes in District Court last week.

Christopher A. Williams, 22, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and two counts of killing deer with a firearm during closed deer season. In a plea agreement with the state, charges of possession of marijuana paraphernalia, two counts of casting a ray of light with firearm possession, and two counts of carrying a loaded gun in a motor vehicle were not prosecuted.

For the drug charge, Williams was given a 90-day jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined $100, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. On each of the deer killing counts, he was fined $25.

Williams had been charged with all the counts by the Department of Natural Resources Police on three separate occasions in October and November of last year.

An Oakland man was sentenced last week following a pre-sentence investigation that had been ordered by Judge Turney on November 11, 1990.

Thomas E. Naylor, 20, had been found guilty of one count of fourth-degree sexual offense against a 14-year-old female in District Court proceedings in November.

Naylor has been sentenced to a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation with one-to-one counseling mandated by the judge.

Naylor had initially been arrested stemming from March and July incidents last year when he reportedly engaged in sexual intercourse with the juvenile. A second count of fourth-degree sexual offense was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state.

A Newburg, Md. woman pleaded guilty and was found guilty of battery against a female juvenile.

A pre-sentence investigation has been ordered by Judge Turney for Judy Oliver, 38, who was found guilty of the battery charge. A charge of child abuse against the woman was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state.

Oliver had been charged with those counts by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department stemming from an April 6 incident when Oliver grabbed the juvenile by her hair and threw her against the wall and to the floor. The girl was treated at the local hospital for abrasions to the face and ear.

A Kentucky man was found guilty of carrying a handgun in his truck. In a plea agreement, a charge of possessing a controlled dangerous substance was not prosecuted.

Weekend Mishaps Send Seven To Local Hospital

Two motor vehicle accidents sent seven persons to Garrett County Memorial Hospital this weekend, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

A two-vehicle accident Sunday afternoon resulted in five persons being transported to the local hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. All were treated and released, according to an emergency room spokesman at the hospital.

Treated and released were Katie Richter, 7, and Allison Richter, 3, both of Oakland; and Vicki L. Tasker, 32, Courtney Keeys, 11, and Ashley Keeys, 7, all of Deer Park.

The accident occurred when Tasker, operating a 1975 Buick LeSabre, was traveling east on Md. Route 135 and stopped in the travel portion of the road to make a left turn into the IGA Food Store. Her vehicle was struck in the rear by a 1988 Ford Aerostar, operated by Donald R. Richter, 35, Oakland. Neither Richter nor his wife, Sheila Edwards, 36, were injured in the 2:57 p.m. mishap.

Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated and charged Richter with failure to control speed to avoid an accident. Tasker was charged with failure to wear a seat belt.

In a separate Sunday mishap, two young Oakland boys were treated for minor injuries at the local hospital

Kitzmiller Residents Honor Troops

A ceremony honoring returning Operation Desert Storm troops Michael Brantner, Wayne Moyer, Richard Virta and John Griffin, jointly sponsored by the Kitzmiller Civic Association and the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmiller, was held Tuesday, April 16, at the Kitzmiller Community Building.

Brian Noble, president of the Kitzmiller Civic Association, welcomed the 150 plus family, friends, and neighbors of the returning servicemen.

Pastor Dennis Pressly gave the invocation and led the group in the pledge to the American flag. Matthew Paugh played the "Star Spangled Banner" and the Kitzmiller Elementary Chorus sang "America the Beautiful."

Mayor William White then recognized each soldier and presented them with a memorial plaque from the Kitzmiller Civic Association and the Mayor and Town Council inscribed "Your friends, family and loved ones of the Kitzmiller area appreciate your dedication and service on their behalf in Operation Desert Storm. We're proud of you."

Other speakers included Carl Shaw, District 189 Commander, Barton; Butch Haggard, Second Vice-Commander of Post 24, Frostburg; and Sheriff Van Evans. ATC Gregory Moreland was also recognized as a returning serviceman who served along side Sgt. Brantner on the USS Saratoga.

The school chorus sang another patriotic song and Pastor Joseph Phillips gave the benediction.

Refreshments were served following the ceremony. Corsages were presented to the mothers and wives of the honorees. Lapel pins with miniature yellow bows, the symbol of support during the duration of the Mid-East Crisis, were also distributed to those attending.

The Kitzmiller Civic Association is taking orders for t-shirts, sweatshirts and hats with the town logo on them. Anyone wishing to place an order may contact Melissa Lucas at 453-3586 or Crystal Shaffer at 453-3393.

The Kitzmiller Civic Association will be holding its next meeting on May 23 at 7 p.m. at the Kitzmiller Community Building to discuss plans for the annual homecoming. Everyone is welcome to attend.

The Valley Forge Christian College Concert Choir from Phoenixville, Pa., will present a concert tonight at the Crellin Assembly of God, beginning at 7 p.m. The choir is under the direction of Dr. Lena Mae Leach, an accomplished director who has a lengthy background of academic accomplishments and music ministry experience.

Dr. Leach received a Ph.D. in music from Ohio State University. She is also a graduate of Central Bible College in Springfield, Missouri, with a diploma in sacred music; Friends University, Wichita, Kansas, with a bachelor of music degree in piano performance; and California State University, Fullerton, with a master of arts degree in piano performance.

She is the author of the self-study course, Playing the Piano for Church and Other Occasions.

Through their efforts, the Assemblies of God of the Netherlands was organized and the Central Pentecostal Bible College was founded. Dr. Leach organized the college music department and directed the college choir, which was well-known throughout Holland, Germany, and England.

Twenty-five students, selected by audition, compose the Valley Forge Christian College Concert Choir. The repertoire includes many styles, ranging from classical sacred to contemporary gospel music. Their singing is "dynamic and anointed," according to a spokesperson.

REGISTERING FOR CANCER SCREENING -- Employees of Garrett Manufacturing are pictured above as they register for the "Special Touch Breast Cancer Screening Program," offered to the plant's employees by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, AFL-CIO (ILGWU). The union has agreed to pay the fee for all eligible workers at the Deer Park work site. This is the first breast cancer screening program that the ILGWU endorsed. Francy Mountain, Wellness Together assistant, is shown above left as she assists the woman in registering.

Employees Of Garrett Manufacturing Provided With Cancer Prevention Plan

Garrett Manufacturing, located in Deer Park, is the first area work site to host the "Special Touch Breast Cancer Screening Program" for its employees, via the assistance of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union AFL-CIO (ILGWU). The cancer screening is a project of Wellness Together, which is a program of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Health Department. The project is a part of the Maryland Health Service Cost Review Commission/Illness Prevention Program, and is being monitored by the American Cancer Society.

The "Special Touch" project features the sale of a coupon that entitles the buyer to a physician's visit for a clinical breast examination, instructions on breast self-examination, and a baseline screening mammogram. Women eligible for the coupon sale are those who are aged 35-39 who have never had a mammogram, and women aged 40 and over who have not had a mammogram in the previous 12 months.

The Wellness Together staff coordinated a 30-minute program with Terry Wolfe, plant manager, for the employees, which was presented during the lunch break on Thursday, April 4. Ann Sherrard, R.D., informed the employee group of the importance of breast self exams and mammograms. She also advised them of the availability of the Special Touch coupon.

After the April 4 presentation, the Wellness staff was contacted by Clara L. Gummer, education director of the Upper South Department of the ILGWU, who related the union's interest in providing breast cancer screenings in its various work areas.

The ILGWU then agreed to pay for all eligible employees at Garrett Manufacturing to participate in the Special Touch program. In response to the offer, 39 workers at Garrett Manufacturing received mammograms during the week of April 15. Special scheduling was arranged by the radiology department staff to accommodate the work schedule at the plant, a spokesperson said.

"Garrett Manufacturing will be our first work site to hold a breast cancer screening program," Ms. Gummer stated. "We were making plans to have this service in other areas, but the Wellness Together Special Touch program was already underway, which helped us accomplish this goal in Garrett County."

Ms. Gummer also stated that the ILGWU "has always shown a strong interest in employee health and education programs. Sponsoring this screening is a part of that interest."

Response from interviewed participating employees was positive, according to a spokesperson. One woman stated that she would not have had the testing done on her own, even though she knows of its importance.

"It wasn't a bad experience at all," she said. "It was a little embarrassing, but it didn't hurt or anything."

This Special Touch Breast Cancer Program is available to interested individuals, work sites, and women's groups or organizations. The cost of the coupon is a "considerable savings," according to a Wellness Together spokesperson, largely because of the cooperation of area physicians in reducing their fees, as well as the services of the Centre Radiology Group, which are mainly donated. For more information, persons may call (301) 334-2155, extension 362.

Residents Urged To Have Septic Systems Checked

Maryland Secretary of the Environment Robert Perciasepe reminds all septic system owners that springtime is an ideal time to ensure that their systems are environmentally safe.

"About one in five Marylanders rely on septic systems for disposing of wastewater," said Secretary Perciasepe. "Proper maintenance of septic systems makes economic sense and is one way individual citizens can help clean up the Chesapeake Bay."

As the end of the rainy season approaches, certain conditions may indicate a septic system in need of maintenance. Water ponding over a septic system's drainage field, or a patch of unusually green grass, are indications that a system needs to be checked out.

"Septic system owners should inspect their systems periodically, and have them pumped out at least every three years," Perciasepe said. "A properly maintained septic system can dispose of household wastes in an environmentally safe manner. A failing system can release pollutants into groundwater, rivers and the Chesapeake Bay."

According to 1980 census data, 6,384 of the 9,549 residences in Garrett County are served by septic systems. About 5 percent of the 293,000 septic systems in Maryland may be failing. MDE works with local governments to provide low-interest loans to connect areas with a high rate of septic failures to existing sanitary sewer systems.

A septic system may be failing if drains and toilets empty slowly or if effluent seeps upward from the ground.

Septic system owners should not use their sinks and toilets as garbage cans, Perciasepe said. Leftover paints, de-greasers, solvents, and other similar household chemicals poured down the drain can damage the system and pollute groundwater.

In addition, garbage disposal units should be used sparingly to reduce the grease and solids flowing into septic systems. Grease and solids can clog septic systems and prevent proper drainage.

"It is also important for owners to know the location of their septic systems and keep cars and trucks off the drainage area. Intense pressure can break or crush underground pipes, causing the system to fail," Perciasepe added.

Marylanders can learn more about how to care for their septic systems by calling the Maryland Department of the Environment's Residential Sanitation Division at 631-3652.

WELLNESS TOGETHER

MAY WELLNESS TOGETHER

May's National Melanoma/Skin Cancer Detection and Prevention Month. Skin Cancer is the most common cancer as well as the most curable. Early diagnosis and treatment result in the highest cure rates. To help prevent skin cancer, sun exposure should be limited between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Effective sunscreen preparations should be used on all exposed parts of the body not protected by clothing. Monthly self examinations of your skin are important for the early diagnosis of skin cancer. This simple procedure could save your life by finding skin cancer early when it is most curable.

KNOW SKIN CANCER'S WARNING SIGNALS!

- Any ulcer of the skin that does not heal
- Any lump or growth that bleeds persistently
- Any lump or growth that enlarges, especially those that are hard or firm to the touch
- Any pigmented "mole" that is splotchy, brown, black, or has irregular indented borders
- Any growth or mole that is changing in shape
- Any mole that itches or is tender
- Any "mole" that appears on the palm of the hand or on the sole of the foot

If you have a warning signal, see your doctor.

The TOPS Club, Inc. (take off pounds sensibly) will have an open house on May 20th at 6:30 p.m. at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. It is medically oriented, it has very low membership fees and it sells no commercial products.

WORK AREA, LUNCH TABLE, WRITING SPACE -- A Garrett Manufacturing employee uses her work area to eat lunch and fill out the registration form for the "Special Touch" program. She and the other registered workers will receive a baseline screening mammogram and a physician's visit. A mammogram is a low dose x-ray of the breasts that detects tumors in the early stages, before a lump can be felt.

CHECKING IN AT GCMH RADIOLOGY -- An employee of Garrett Manufacturing is shown above as she checks in at the radiology department for her mammogram. The American Cancer Society recommends that women aged 35-39 receive a baseline screening mammogram, women aged 40-49 receive a mammogram every one to two years, and women 50 and over should receive annual mammograms.

Developmental Math Course Slated At GCC

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College has scheduled a developmental math course designed to assist students to prepare for college level mathematics. Students who enroll in this offering will have the opportunity to meet algebra and geometry competencies (Math. 95, 97 and or 98) which are prerequisites for college algebra.

The course is scheduled to begin on Monday, May 20, and will meet Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Students will also attend two hours of math laboratory each afternoon. The course is scheduled to end June 7.

"This course is designed to provide motivated students who may only require refresher skills, with the chance to complete the developmental math series and be eligible for 100 level credit courses in the fall," said Tom Kierstead, program coordinator. "The flexible nature and competency based design of this course will challenge students to meet their math preparation goals."

Although tuition waivers will apply for Maryland senior citizens (over 60), Pell grants and veterans benefits do not apply to non-credit offerings. Students who have not had their math skills evaluated should contact Jack DuBose. Students who have been evaluated should register at the Continuing Education Office in Room 300 of the Center for Community and Continuing Education.

For additional information, including fees, persons may contact Dr. Nancy Priselac or Tom Kierstead. The college telephone numbers are (301) 387-6666 or, toll free, at (800) 695-GCCI.

Planting Session Held At Dennett Road Arboretum

The weather cooperated for another of Dennett Road School's arboretum "work days" last Friday, May 3. Several staff, parent volunteers, and representative fourth- and fifth-grade students met on the arboretum grounds at 1 p.m. for a planting session.

Two major tasks that were completed were: spreading of wood chips throughout remainder of arboretum pathways, and planting of 13 trees and eight rhododendrons that had been recently received from two sources. Six trees were given by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources as this year's grant award to the school from the ongoing Chesapeake Bay School Reforestation Project. Dave Taylor, of Green Acres Garden Center, Oakland, had donated seven trees, eight rhododendrons, and numerous shrubs, the latter of which will be planted at a later date.

According to an Arboretum Committee spokesperson, more people appeared for this work session than ever before in the history of the project. The following fourth/fifth graders were part of the work crew: Stephanie Ballard, Jamie Durst, Eric Friend, Chris Gidley, Fred Helbig Jr., Michele McCartney, John Peterson, Ashley Reese, David Schrock, Steven Shiflet, Kane Wengert, and Shelly Winters. Kristen Schick, a seventh grader at Southern Middle School and an alumnus of Dennett Road, also joined the effort. Participating staff members were Clark Sharpless Sr., principal, and Linda Fleming, Chapter I resource teacher. Also present were parent volunteers Ernie Ackerman, Bonnie Friend, Hala Laverdure, June and Ronald Riley, Brad Stewart,

A PLANTING SESSION, conducted by students, faculty, parents, and even grandparents, was held Friday at the Dennett Road School arboretum. A number of local businesses and individuals, as well as the Department of Natural Resources, have made donations of trees, shrubs, and various other materials to bring the arboretum to life for study and enjoyment by future generations of students. See story.

Bert Youngs (father of Carol Tuomisto), and Barb Schick and Carol Tuomisto (Arboretum committee co-chairpersons).

Mrs. Schick and Mrs. Tuomisto stated that both community and school-level interest in the arboretum appears to be on the rise, resulting in a "very exciting time indeed" for all involved in its growth and development. In addition to the fifth grade class's caretaking responsibilities for the bird feeder, raising and lowering of flags, and watering the plantings as needed, another class has announced its desire to take part in the arboretum's maintenance. Ms. Suzanne Ryan's group of students, aged seven to 10 years, will begin cleaning and filling the bird bath on a weekly basis. Also, in the area of curricular activities related to science studies, Mrs. Pat Foley has requested a tour and explanation of the arboretum and its many plantings for her first graders. This was to be conducted by Barb Schick during this week.

Future arboretum events include the installation and dedication of a new school sign and the "passing of the golden bucket and shovel" from this year's graduating fifth graders to the incoming fifth grade class. More information about these activities will be announced by the end of May.

Group Discusses Forestry/Logger Field Day Plans

The Maryland Forests Association Planning Committee for the Second Annual Western Maryland Forestry/Logger Field Day met May 2 at Checkers Restaurant in McHenry, to continue plans for the Field Day.

Approximately 21 exhibitors have returned their contracts and will take part in the event. These exhibitors will be displaying some of the most modern logging equipment available today.

Information and education groups from colleges, universities, sportsmen's clubs, and conservation-minded groups will also be in attendance.

According to a committee spokesman, the purpose of the Field Day is to provide information and education for loggers, landowners, and the general public on the need to manage forests under good forest management.

The Department of Transportation and Maryland State Police will conduct truck inspections to show what they examine. Jeff Holt, Grantsville, will demonstrate horse logging each afternoon.

Southern Girls Finish Fifth In PVC Meet

While the Potomac Valley Conference Track and Field Championships were basically a disaster for the Southern High boys' team, the Southern girls made an impressive showing by placing fifth in the 12 team competition.

C.J. Getson placed sixth in the boys' 100-meter dash for the Southern boys' single point in the competition. The Rams finished 11th in the overall event, defeating only Berkeley Springs.

The Southern girls, coached by Bob Quick, recorded 46 points on the afternoon, as they were led by Khrystie Browning, who won both the 110 high hurdles (16.9 seconds) and the 300 hurdles (49.9). This was the first time since Southern has had track and field that one of its athletes has won two first places in the PVC championships.

Other Southern points were recorded by Jessica Gracie, who placed third in the 300 hurdles and sixth in the 110 hurdles, Cheri Browning, who finished sixth in the high jump, Josey Coviello, who was sixth in the 1,600 run, the Ram 4-by-100 relay team that won second place, and the 4-by-400 relay team that placed fifth.

The Keyser boys won first place easily by amassing 151 points, followed by Frankfort with 112, Hampshire, 100, Franklin, 56, Musseelman, 54, Tucker County, 43, East Hardy, 26, Petersburg, 8, Moorefield and Union, 2 each, Southern, 1, and Berkeley Springs, 0.

The Keyser girls also captured first place with 107 points, followed by Frankfort with 88, Hampshire, 80, Berkeley Springs, 61, Southern, 48, Petersburg, 43 and one half, Franklin, 36 and one half, Tucker County, 13, Musseelman, 8, East Hardy, 6, Moorefield, 5, and Union, 1.

Garrett County Boys Teams Fall In Beall Meet

The Southern and Northern boys track teams participated in the Beall High Invitational Tuesday evening, however, it was not a particularly good day for either Garrett County team, as the Huskies finished in seventh place out of the 11-team field and the Rams finished last. Northern recorded 21 points while the Rams failed to score at all.

The top finish on the day for the Huskies was a second place by Jerry Buckel in the 800-meter run, while the Northern 3,200 relay team placed third.

Fort Hill won the event with a total of 123 and one half points, followed by Allegany with 112, Keyser, 95, Meyersdale, 78, Frankfort, 61, Hampshire, 30 and one half, Northern, 21, Hancock, 17, Beall, 14, Bishop Walsh, 6, and Southern, 0.

NHS Tennis Teams Split With Keyser

The Northern High School girls' tennis team won its second match of the season last Thursday afternoon by edging visiting Keyser, 4-3, however, the winless Northern boys' squad was blanked by the Golden Tornado, 7-0.

Valerie Hamilton and Tracy Murray were each double winners on the day for the Northern girls, as each won their singles matches and then teamed up to take a doubles victory.

Denise Willis, Jami Woy, and Sandy Burnell each won singles matches for the Keyser girls.

In boys' action, A.J. Stevenson, Chad Haywood, Danny Williams, Matt Stoudt, and Mike Dunn all won in singles.

The win upped the Northern girls' record to 2-6, while the boys fell to 0-8.

Both Northern teams were topped by cross-county rival Southern on Tuesday (see separate story).

Heroic Firemen Come To The Rescue

Late Monday evening at the American Legion, a terrible incident occurred. A monstrous bat found its way into the bar. It probably only wanted a drink but it met its demise at the hands of Dennis Murray and John Feather. Thanks to their heroic efforts and the help of our trusty broom, we are now again bat free!

gun was also confiscated. Alexander had been charged by the Maryland State Police on February 4, 1991, after a search at the Finzel scale house revealed a handgun in his rig as well as a marijuana cigarette.

Antionette M. McVicker, 24, Brownsville, Pa., was initially found guilty of theft and later given six months of probation before judgment.

McVicker had been charged with September 15, 1990, theft after allegedly stealing a microwave oven from the residence of William Bever and then selling it to a man in Cumberland.

At a sentence revision hearing last week, a Swanton man who had been found guilty of three counts of battery and one count of destruction of property on January 10, had his ruling changed to probation before judgment.

Death is just another step
Along life's changing way
No more than just a gateway
To a new and better day.
And parting from our loved ones
Is much easier to bear
When we know that they are waiting
For us to join them there.
So death is just a natural thing
Like closing of a door
As we start upon a journey
To a new and distant shore.
So let your grief be softened
And yield not to despair
You have only placed your loved one
In the loving father's care.

Greg Latta To Perform Celtic Folk Music At Highland Festival

The Fourth Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 1, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry, will feature folk music by Greg Latta.

Latta has sung and played folk, bluegrass, Celtic and music of the Middle Ages for over 20 years. He started singing and playing guitar and banjo in the Akron, Ohio, coffeehouses during the late 1960s and early '70s. From 1974 to about 1984, he was a member of the group "We the People," based in Kent, Ohio, an offshoot of the "Up With People" movement of the 1960s. He was eventually drawn to bluegrass music where he played banjo and sang with the "Country Grass," the "Blue Mountain Boys," and the "Hamstrings" in the 1980s.

During the early '80s, he played tenor recorder with the Kent State University Collegium Musicum. Latta was drawn to the hammered dulcimer, and his enchantment with that instrument eventually led to his winning the 1990 mid-eastern hammered dulcimer championship.

In recent years, Latta has been performing solo on a variety of musical instruments, including the hammered dulcimer, banjo, guitar, Appalachian dulcimer, recorder and spoons. On the hammered dulcimer, he plays a wide variety of music, ranging from traditional Irish, folk and dance numbers to tunes from Broadway musicals and movies. He is also an award-winning banjo player, and plays and sings a variety of traditional bluegrass and folk music.

Latta tours and plays at many local and regional events, including the Rocky Gap Country/Bluegrass Festival, Kent State Folk Festival, Frostburg State University's "Catch a Rising Star" concert series, the Meyersdale, Pa., Maple Festival, Cumberland's Heritage Days, the Frostburg Downtown Festival, and Frostburg Candlelight Tour of Homes. He is a member of the Frostburg State University faculty, and hosts and produces the radio show "Just Plain Folks," which airs Saturday afternoons on WFWM 91.7 FM, the Frostburg State University public radio station.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $4.00 for adults and free for children under 12. Latta will act as emcee for the stage performances during the festival, and will participate in the ceilidh at 8 p.m., Saturday evening at the McHenry House at Wisp, hosted by the Wisp Ski Resort. His performances during the festival are funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council.

The festival is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council. For more information or advance tickets, persons may contact the McHenry Highland Festival, Courthouse, Oakland, Md. 21550, telephone (301) 334-1948.

Fires Destroy

and various tools and equipment. Martin estimated the loss to be $12,000.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed in Friendsville. Fire fighters remained on the scene for about one and a half hours.

The cause of third local structure fire of the week, which heavily damaged a vacant house along Trap Run Road near Friendsville, has been ruled intentional by the State Fire Marshal's office.

Friendsville, Deep Creek, and Accident fire fighters were called to the house at about 11 p.m. Saturday. The one-story structure is owned by Donald Frazee.

Martin said that the fire apparently originated in a bedroom of the house. Firemen were able to bring the blaze under control in about 30 minutes. There were no injuries reported.

Martin estimated the damages to be $30,000 and said that the investigation is continuing.

The fire was discovered by neighbors. Firemen remained on the scene until about 12:40 a.m. An Oakland VFD unit was called to stand by at Deep Creek's station.

Old Pike Days Events Set At Fort Necessity

The proud heritage of the National Road will be celebrated on Pike Days, Saturday and Sunday, May 18 and 19, at the Mount Washington Tavern of Fort Necessity National Battlefield. All activities will be held between 10:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Park Rangers, in period costume, will be giving tours of the tavern, explaining the importance of the National Road, and assisting with craft demonstrations. Crafts people will demonstrate their skills: blacksmithing, brick making, chair caning, sheep shearing, carding and spinning of wool, paper quilling, quilting, tatting, felting, sampler display and needleworking, bobbin and lace making, and basket, wheat and loom weaving, and musicians in harmony of the time.

Taverns in the 1800's not only provided food, drink, and sleeping accommodations to weary travelers, but also a place to vote and a post office for local people. For Pike Days a temporary post office will be set up and a mail cachet available with the Mount Washington Tavern Station cancellation.

This year the National Road, or the Old Pike, observes the 180th anniversary of its initial construction. It migrants and others were no longer bound to the Eastern Seaboard. During this road's golden era, from 1820 to 1850, great prosperity came to those who had businesses or services along the course of the Pike.

Mount Washington Tavern was one of the hundreds of inns in business along the National Road. It was built about 1828 by Judge Nathaniel Ewing and operated by James Sampy and his family. With the coming of the train in the early 1850's, travel diminished on the National Road, as did the business, and Mount Washington Tavern closed its doors.

Park entrance fees are waived for this event. Rain or shine, activities will be held both days. The picnic area is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Fort Necessity National Battlefield is located 11 miles east of Uniontown, Pa., on U.S. Route 40. For further information, persons may call (412) 329-5512.

foster parents received local certificates in recognition of their years of service, and the foster mothers were given flowers from the department.

The Garrett County Department of Social Services currently serves 37 foster children and their families through the foster care program. A total of 26 children reside in local foster homes and four of the children reside in more specialized homes. Three children are with their own families receiving "aftercare" services, and four are in semi-independent living situations, receiving supervision by their caseworkers.

The goal of foster care is to re-unify families. Temporary care of children is provided by foster parents while caseworkers and other professionals assist the parents or relatives in solving their problems and meeting the needs of their own children. This goal has been met for at least 15 children over the past year.

"Foster parents have played a big role in these success stories," said Debbie Ambrose, supervisor of Foster Care.

Persons seeking more information about the foster care program or persons wishing to become foster parents should call Ambrose at 334-5408.

A pair of artists work away quietly from the attic of their home in Mountain Lake Park, and sell their art to major advertising corporations which send the works to all corners of the world. The art is seen by millions—usually not in galleries or in museums, yet, but in magazines, advertisements, posters, and playbills, to name a few places. One sees this type of painting probably every day, perhaps on a cereal box at breakfast, or on an advertisement insert in a daily paper.

Any of these artworks may very well have been produced by Mark and Laura Stutzman, who compose "Eloqui, Inc." They are artists who devote their talents exclusively to illustration, and make a successful living in doing so.

Founded in 1984, Eloqui is a corporation owned by and composed of Mark and Laura. The works of illustration are mainly produced in a studio located on the third floor of their home, a historic Mtn. Lake Park residence known as the "Stone Cottage." They have renovated the third floor by laying hardwood floors and enclosing some of the open more than a full percentage point, from 8.1 percent to 6.9 percent.

After months of double-digit unemployment rates, Western Maryland's estimated rate dropped from 11.3 percent to 9.8 percent. The unemployment rates for all jurisdictions in that area dropped by more than a full percentage point.

An employment increase of more than 4,800 workers

However, double-digit unemployment rates persisted in Dorchester, Somerset and Worcester counties. Labor force declines in Cecil County contributed to the drop in that county's joblessness, from 13.7 percent to 8.8 percent, although auto industry layoffs continued to affect local residents.

Statewide, unemployment rates for the local jurisdiction ranged from 3.1 percent in Montgomery County to 13.4 percent in Somerset County.

area to make storage space for their ever growing collection of art. The studio is airy and bright, and a place of great inspiration.

Various illustration works are hung on the walls of the house, and there is a story behind each one. The artists submit the works to clients who have requested a certain type of illustration for various needs. The artist draws a sketch of his or her proposed work, and if the client is pleased with it, the final piece is begun. The entire process usually takes place in the span of about two weeks.

The artworks are used mainly in advertising—all one has to do is glance at a magazine, compact disc cover, newspaper, or any other published material to see art such as is produced by Eloqui, Inc. The drawings and paintings that casual readers may overlook, or simply take for granted, represent hours and hours of work for a creative illustrator. Without the illustrations, publishing and advertising would lack the eye-catching element, and thus would severely lack in effectiveness.

The Stutzmans each have their own style. Mark uses an airbrush with watercolor paint, while Laura uses opaque watercolor, also with an airbrush. The opaque watercolor is a somewhat thicker medium, and creates wider strokes of paint, while the straight watercolor makes more definite lines. Both styles create engaging and most effective illustrations.

Both artists use models for their work, often local people. The model (or models) is arranged in the position needed for a certain drawing, and then the artist photographs him. The model's task is done when the photographs give the artist enough to work with in creating a sketch and/or painted illustration. Images of both Mark and Laura can be detected in some of the illustrations, as can several local residents.

"We need every day, ordinary people for models," Laura explained. She noted that the famous illustrator Norman Rockwell used the same models over and over again.

"Right now the real trend in the business is toward boys in their early teens. There is always a certain type of person that is looked for the most, and right now it's definitely young boys," she said.

The actual paper and leg work required to transport the sketches and illustrations, as well as the ongoing effort to line up new clients, lies in the hands of Eloqui's representative, or "rep," who is currently located in Atlanta, Ga. The rep's job is comparable to an actor's agent: he or she advertises the artists' work, finds jobs for the artists, and then receives part of the income from successful assignments.

Eloqui has experienced extensive success in its seven-year existence. Both Mark and Laura have worked for well-known companies and associations, and their artwork has had worldwide exposure. Laura created an illustration for USA Today newspaper to promote the publication's sports coverage (see photo). Mark most recently completed the playbill cover illustration for the upcoming season of Washington, D.C.'s Arena Stage.

Laura's illustration of a bald eagle in front of a billowing American flag will be seen internationally on Armed Forces Day, May 18, 1991. She did the work for the American Forces Information Service, and stated that the chance to do it in this time of deep patriotism—and then for the illustration to be chosen for the occasion—was a great honor.

Mark was recently included as a main illustrator for a proposed advertising campaign for Domino's Pizza, Inc. However, after the illustrations were largely completed, the company decided against the campaign angle, and the project was scrapped. The Stutzmans explained that when this situation occurs, the artists are usually compensated monetarily for their work with what they call a "kill fee."

"Artists almost always get a kill fee when the idea is rejected in the last stages, or when the campaign is thrown out. But once in a while we don't. Occasionally we do a lot of work for nothing. Those are the clients we try to avoid," Mark said.

The choice to reside in Mountain Lake Park was what Laura called a "calculated risk." The artists are several hours away from any city, so connecting with clients personally is somewhat difficult. But the company has an entire portfolio available upon the request of any client.

"All that we have to offer is in the portfolio," Mark explained. "A client doesn't really need to see us. In fact, he can take his time to leaf through the collection and see if we are what he wants."

"Sometimes a client will want to see us, though," Laura said. "Some people just have to see the artists before they hire. In that case, we make the trip."

The couple met one another at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh several years ago while studying specialized techniques in graphic design and illustration. After graduating from the institute, Mark began working for KDKA-TV, and Laura was employed by the Pittsburgh Press.

The couple established Eloqui in Gaithersburg, and worked extensively in the Washington, D.C. area. The living conditions there were not always conducive to creativity.

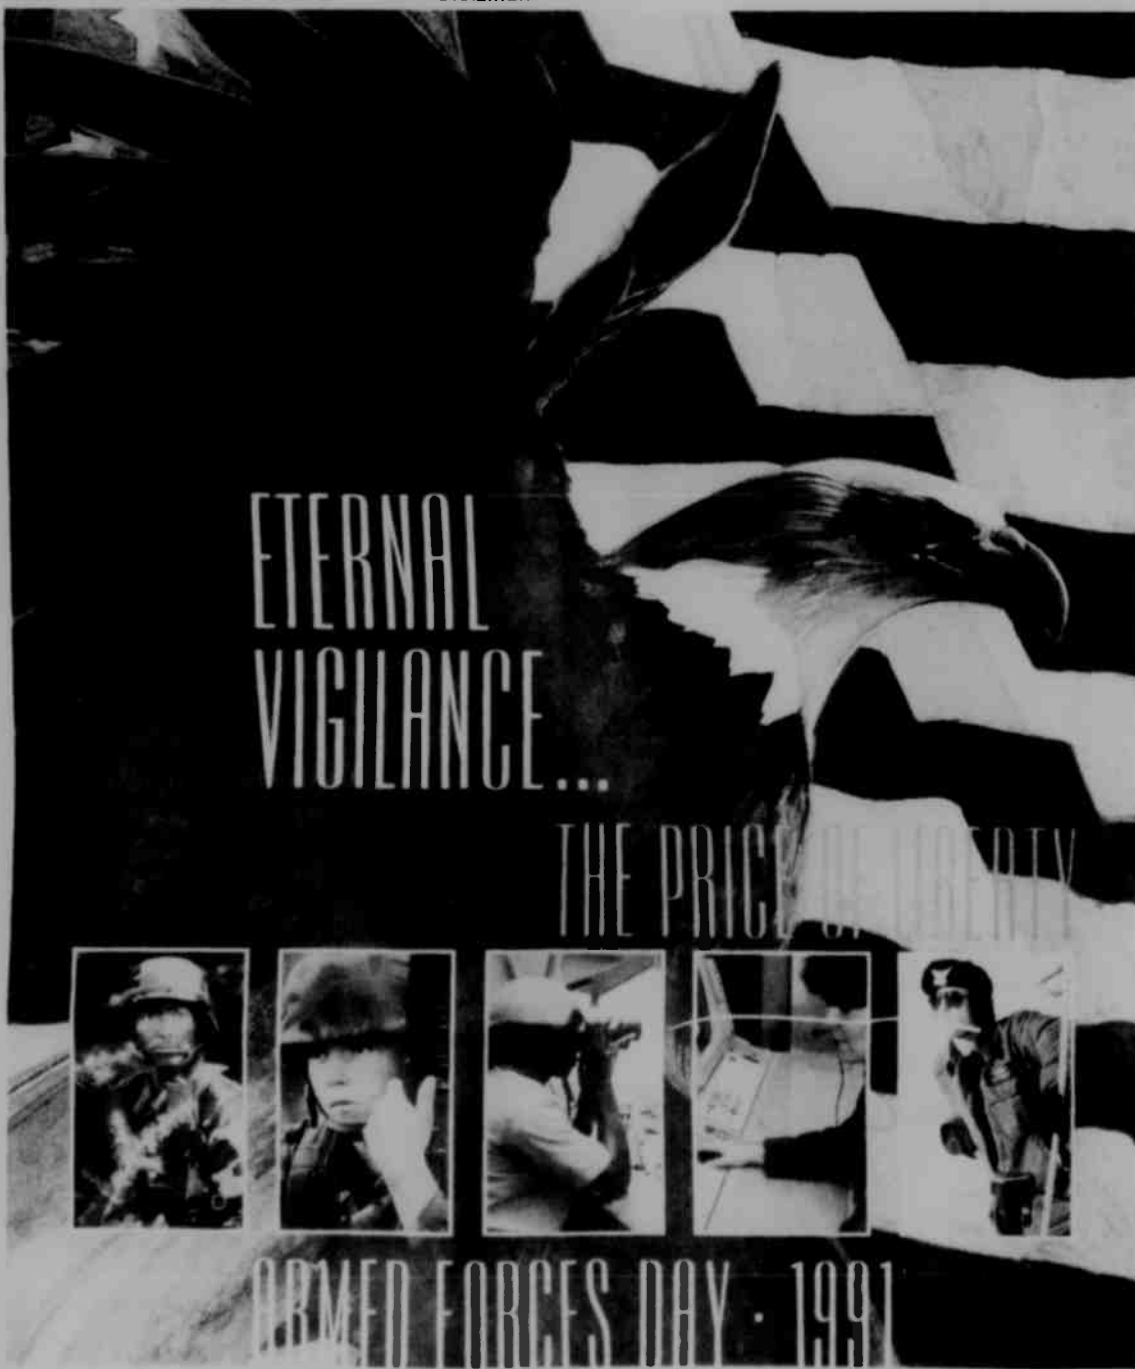

"There was so much 'garbage' in the city to distract us," Mark said, noting the traffic, the endless activity all around them, as well as the simple everyday struggle to cover the costs of living in an urban area. "By the end of the day, all we wanted to do was drop on the couch and watch television all evening. Mountain Lake Park is far more inspiring."

Laura, who grew up in Garrett County, said, "There's just enough stimulation here to keep us motivated. We didn't want to live way out on a farm somewhere, completely away from people. But we needed more space. The park is really a great place to work."

Potomac Edison Co. Files For Rate Increase

In an application filed last week with the Maryland Public Service Commission, The Potomac Edison Company requested an increase in its Maryland electric rates designed to produce additional annual revenues of $27.1 million. The company has requested the new rates become effective May 30, but expects that the increase will be suspended until November 26. During that time, the Public Service Commission will hold hearings on the proposed rate hike.

Potomac Edison says it has not increased base rates in Maryland since 1985. Since then the company has lowered base rates three times and the fuel rate four times and has implemented four fuel rate increases. This has decreased the net cost of a kilowatt-hour for residential customers from 6.2 cents in 1986 to 5.9 cents at present.

The company says it has made substantial investments in electrical facilities to continue reliable service to a rapidly growing Maryland customer base, has had

In general, the new rates will generate 9.8 percent in additional revenues annually. The percentage increase will vary among the residential, commercial and industrial classifications. Average residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a month would see their monthly costs rise $6.74 under the proposed increase, from $59.29 to $66.03. An electric heating customer using 2,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a month would see an increase of $12.81 a month, with costs increasing from $114.25 to $127.06.

Potomac Edison serves more than 172,000 customers in all or parts of seven Maryland counties.

was abandoned. Over the years, many changes have taken place and new services offered. Among these are year-round operation, flight instruction, charter flights, scenic tours, and maintenance facilities. The current fixed-based operator is Lakeside Aviation owned by Tom Glatfely.

During the early 1980's, a growing recreational industry at Deep Creek Lake initiated a new interest in upgrading the facilities. Preliminary studies and investigations by the Garrett County Board of County Commissioners suggested that activity at the airport had significantly increased and that, if an expanded facility were provided, even more activity could occur, including the potential for commuter air service. Discussions with the Federal Aviation Administration and the State Aviation Administration initiated a study to update the master plan and to provide additional documentation of increased airport activity. This was accomplished with a 1988 planning study requested by the Maryland Aviation Administration (MAA) and performed by Greiner, Inc., of Timonium, with 100% MAA funding.

The planning study projected that annual operations will increase from 13,000 to 20,500 by 1998. The number of aircraft based at the facility is expected to increase from 20 to 35 over the same period. Greiner, the county's airport consultant, also performed the required environmental assessment review during 1990 using another FAA grant of $68,940.

Once the present grant agreement is executed, design work on the project will be completed and then the project will be opened up for construction bids. A Fall 1991 construction start-up is anticipated.

requirement, he noted. The zoning variance request is granted only if a hardship can be proven. Marc reportedly stated at the hearing that the "natural topography" of the land was his reason for applying for the hardship rule. He explained that the terrain on the acreage was such that a natural valley existed at the center of the shooting range. That low point, said Marc, would provide for a safer operation.

But testimony given by some residents at the hearing argued that the natural valley created an amphitheater effect which would serve only to amplify the noise level there, disturbing humans as well as animals, particularly cattle and wildlife. Other considerations voiced by local residents included claims of the business being located in a wetland, possible lowering of surrounding property values, and danger from errant bullets.

According to Nelson, Marc has "limited options" for recourse, stating, "He can accept the ruling or he can wait one year and reapply the appeal decision to the Garrett County Circuit Court." Nelson noted that Garrett County Planning Commission members had earlier voted unanimously to deny the appeal based on the number of letters and calls received by them.

State, County Jobless Rates Fall In March

Seasonal conditions in March favorably affected labor force activity in every county in Maryland, pushing the state's estimated unemployment rate down to 6.0 percent from February's 6.5 percent, according to statistics released this week by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

This drop placed Maryland well below the nation's estimate of 7.1 percent for March.

Garrett County's jobless rate dropped from 13.1 percent in February to 11.8 percent in March. The March 1990 rate was 8.5 percent.

Between February and March, the state labor force increased by 21,643 workers, employment grew by slightly more than 32,500 people, and an estimated 10,900 unemployed workers were able to find work.

"We are pleased to report this drop in Maryland's unemployment rate as we begin to see signs of an improving economy," said DEED Secretary J. Randall Evans. "However, there are still 150,000 unemployed Maryland workers who need our best efforts to ensure their earliest possible return to work."

During March, normal seasonal activity led to the creation of jobs in agricultural, amusement, educational and business services and in retail trade, such as restaurants and other eating places. Although construction employment also grew, by 4,200 jobs, there were still 7,000 fewer jobs in that industry than at this time last year. Manufacturing, which also should have benefited from normal seasonal improvements over the month, experienced a sizeable reduction of 1,200 jobs due to layoffs.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, a decline of about 1,800 persons from the jobless rolls helped reduce the estimated unemployment rate for that region from 7.0 percent in February to 6.8 percent in March.

However, manufacturing layoffs adversely affected labor force activity, specifically in Anne Arundel and Baltimore counties and Baltimore City.

Improvements throughout the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area contributed to the drop in that area's unemployment rate, from 4.5 percent to 4.1 percent. Increased employment in Frederick County, in particular, enabled joblessness in that county to drop by ACCIDENT SCOUTS CLIMB TO MD.'S HIGHEST POINT — The Boy Scouts of Troop 82, Accident, along with Boy Scout Troop 10 of LaVale, recently participated in a backpacking hike up Backbone Mountain, to the highest point in Maryland. The marker atop the mountain was placed there in 1952 by Captain Charles E. Hoye, founder of the Garrett County Historical Society. The point, known as Hoye Crest, is 3,360 feet above sea level. The scouts accompanied Fletcher Hodges, Manhattan, N.Y., whose goal it is to travel to the highest point in each of the states. The scout troops used topographical maps, compasses and orienteering skills to find specific points along the way and to locate the marker. Participating scouts from Troop 82 were Tim Williamson, Gabe Rentschler, Austin Rentschler, Doug Mayle, Danny Sweetzer, Jeremy Reed, Curtis Chevelier, Brian Chaney, Aaron Miller, Tim Tusing, Tom Tusing, Jason Herman, Jason Reed and Lee Collins. Adults accompanying the group were Mike Reed, scoutmaster; Chevy Chevelier and Ralph Miller, assistant scoutmasters; Patty Reed and Wanda Mayle. Members of Troop 10 making the trip were Trey Countryman, Ryan Reichert, Kent Cadotte, Steve Owens, Kevin Tichnell, Benjamin Keith and Brent Smiley. Harry Countryman and K. C. Keith accompanied the group.

HELP SAVE OUR PARKS — Because the state has ceased to operate three state parks in the Grantsville area, a group of concerned citizens has been volunteering time and services to keep New Germany, Big Run and Casselman State Parks open to the public, at least until June 18. The group, "Friends of New Germany," is now soliciting monetary contributions to assist with the effort, with a goal of $15,000. According to a spokesperson for the group, "It is our intent to operate these parks and give the public the recreational services and facilities it deserves." Although the Maryland Department of Natural Resources has agreed to provide electricity during the time the park will not be operated by that agency, the volunteers will be required to furnish gasoline and oil for mowers, paper products, cleaning supplies, garbage and trash bags, repairs to mowers, as well as tools, electrical and plumbing supplies to be used in the cabins and other buildings. It was also noted that any contributions received for the effort would not go to the state. Any funds remaining after the three-month period will be turned over to park advisory committee, comprised of local citizens. Persons interested in making donations to the group are asked to send them to: Friends of New Germany, Star Route, Box 21, Grantsville, Md. 21536. Why not a WEDDING SHOWER SURPRISE?

*Anytime there's a wedding in the air,
the forecast is predictable:
Festive showers are sure to lie ahead.*

Brush up on novel ideas for a wedding shower. A collection of cleaning brushes makes a take-home centerpiece that will help ease household chores for the couple-to-be. The hairloom dresser scarf as table runner and Rubbermaid's casual dinnerware and drinkware make great take-home gifts too.

Showering the bride-to-be with presents—both personal and practical—is a tradition as old as marriage itself. Today, however, that tradition is taking some pleasant new turns.

One big change: showers are no longer For Women Only. In this era of sharing, the guys are also getting in on the fun. Not only are mixed-company showers gaining popularity, the bridegroom himself may be in for a share of the gifts.

A lot seems to depend on local customs. In New York, where they'd never actually call it a shower, the gathering might be at a restaurant, and gifts could run the gamut from Broadway tickets to dual memberships at the Museum of Modern Art. One recent New York City bride was showered with an entire fleet of limousines to whisk the wedding party from the apartment where the vows were said to a Fifth Avenue reception across town.

By contrast, the Midwest is openly "shower-happy," as one Kansas woman puts it. "It's the old barn-raising ethic still alive and well. Everybody loves to help send the couple off to their new life laden with all the things they'll need."

Not to mention, things they might never have guessed they needed. For an "Around the Clock" shower—a popular theme in the Midwest—guests are assigned a time of day, 7 a.m., say, or 10 p.m., in the evening. The gifts they bring should be appropriate to the hour—an egg poacher, for example, or a leather pillow or comforter.

Other wedding party ideas go far beyond traditional showers of gifts for kitchens and china closets.

Depending on the personal interests of the bride and groom, why not showers of tools or a tool box? Or showers of sports gear...of Christmas decorations...

handcrafted items...cookbooks, all to be shared?

She will still get the linens, of course, while he's showered with household repair tools (and how-to books for using them). But kitchen gadgets and cookery items have definitely become gifts for both the bride and groom today.

Also for the equalized household of 1991, a new, novel and much-appreciated idea in bridal parties: a shower of gifts for the cleaning closet. The hosts can set the mood—and the table—for a festive Sunday brunch, using a brace of Rubbermaid's blue brushes as a whimsical centerpiece. There are brushes for glasses, for vegetables, for bathroom fixtures and backs. The fluffy brush in the center of the centerpiece is the Puff Duster, just part of an arsenal of 50 cleaning tools the company has created to help give housework the brush-off, literally.

The food for the brunch is as elegant and easy as the mood is fun: salmon mousse with marinated shrimp, easy-bake spiral herb bread, strawberry lemon punch and brownie cups with white chocolate chunks.

Along with the practical centerpiece—which the bride and groom will take home—gifts could include pairs of rubber gloves and matching aprons. Most welcome of all, a promissory note from all the guests, volunteering a Saturday afternoon's worth of communal cleaning to help the couple set up housekeeping in sparkling new digs!

Showers are no longer for women only.

- 1 bay leaf
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 6 black peppercorns
- 1½ pounds salmon fillet, cut into 2-inch strips
- 1½ pounds large shrimp, peeled and deveined
- 2 packets unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- ¾ cup sour cream
- ½ cup chopped green onion
- 2 tablespoons dill, chopped
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- Dash of cayenne pepper
- Fresh dill for garnish

MARINADE FOR SHRIMP

- 4 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
- 1½ tablespoons green onion, chopped
- 1 tablespoon dill, chopped
- 2 tablespoons pimiento, finely diced
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper

Bring 1½ cups of water to a boil with onion, bay leaf, ¼ teaspoon salt and black peppercorns. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Remove onion, bay leaf and peppercorns (discard). Add salmon to the pan, cover and simmer for 15 minutes or until fish is cooked through. Remove with a slotted spoon, reserve liquid and let cool. Add shrimp to pan and simmer for 7-8 minutes, drain and cool.

Dissolve gelatin in a small saucepan with ½ cup of cold water and set aside. Blend mayonnaise, sour cream, green onion, dill, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, mustard, remaining salt and cayenne pepper. Gently flake salmon and stir into mixture.

Heat gelatin, stirring until dissolved and blend into salmon mixture. Refrigerate, stirring from time to time until mixture thickens. Spoon into a 9-inch ring mold and refrigerate until firm.

Blend ingredients for shrimp marinade. Toss with shrimp and refrigerate for at least an hour. Form salmon mousse, fill center of ring with shrimp and garnish with dill.

Serves 10-12.

SPIRAL HERB BREAD

- 1 teaspoon fresh thyme, chopped, or ½ teaspoon dried
- 2 teaspoons fresh tarragon, chopped, or 1 teaspoon dried
- 2 teaspoons fresh chives, chopped,
or 1 teaspoon dried
- 6 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
- 1 pound frozen bread dough, defrosted
- 1½ tablespoons melted butter

Preheat oven to 375°F. Oil a 4 x 8-inch loaf pan and set aside.

Combine thyme, tarragon, chives and parsley in a small bowl. Roll out dough to approximately 11 x 14 inches. Brush with some melted butter, sprinkle with herbs and roll up, jelly-roll style. Pinch the ends to seal and place in prepared loaf pan, tucking ends under. Cover with a towel and set in a draft-free place to rise until double in size, approximately 1 hour.

Brush top with remaining butter and bake for 35 minutes. Cool on a wire rack.

Makes one loaf.

STRAWBERRY LEMON PUNCH

- 1 12-ounce can pink lemonade, defrosted
- 2 20-ounce packages frozen unsweetened strawberries, defrosted
- 1 cup superfine sugar
- ½ quart club soda
- 4 cups ice cubes
- 1 pint strawberries
- Fresh mint sprigs

Dissolve lemonade with 4 cans of cold water. Puree strawberries, one bag at a time, in a blender or food processor. Strain to remove seeds. Blend with sugar and stir into lemonade. Refrigerate until ready to serve, then stir in club soda and ice. Garnish with fresh strawberries and mint.

Serves 10-12.

BROWNIE CUPS WITH WHITE CHOCOLATE CHUNKS

- 1 stick butter, cut up
- 4 ounces unsweetened chocolate, chopped
- 4 eggs
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 cup white chocolate, cut into small chunks

Preheat oven to 350°F and line two muffin tins with paper linings. Set aside.

Melt butter and chocolate in a double boiler and let cool. Beat eggs and salt until foamy. Add sugar and vanilla and beat until mixture is thick. Fold in chocolate mixture, then flour. Gently stir in ¼ cup of white chocolate chunks and spoon into paper cups, filling them ¾ full. Bake 30 minutes and cool on a wire rack.

Melt remaining white chocolate chunks in a double boiler, drizzle over brownie cups, using a fork or a pastry bag fitted with a fine tip.

Makes 18-24 brownies.

THE CHINESE
HAD A GOOD IDEA

In ancient China people paid their doctors to keep them well. Any time someone got sick, their doctor was not paid. This could be possible here, providing our doctors are given the opportunity to properly take care of you.

It is a fact now, that too many people are constantly taking home remedies which use only a temporary relief till the next dose. Too often, when they finally consult a physician, the damage has become serious and the body has been ravaged so that a cure becomes difficult. Some self-treatments are good, but if the condition in which they are taken keeps returning, you need a physician.

Bonded by Love

Emotion and suspense charge the atmosphere. The arrival of new life is imminent. Then the miracle—a kitten-like cry announces the birth of yet another human life.

Briefly, the physical connection between mother and child continues to pulsate. Then, with one swift motion, that bond is severed. Yet, the emotional bond which has existed between mother and child for months will remain intact always.

In time, the child will reach young adulthood. Though mother will be unable to "fix" the problems of her offspring as easily as changing a diaper, there is something she can do. While her child is small, she can introduce her son or daughter to a personal relationship with God. As Mary said to the angel in Luke 1:38, "I am the Lord's servant."

As we worship this week, may we thank God for the bonds of love between mother and child and between her child and our Heavenly Father. May they last forever.

ON VESSELS & TREASURES

Background Scripture: 2 Corinthians 13:1-6
 Devotional Reading: 2 Corinthians 13:1-6

I suppose there are a number of different reasons why many Christians fail to regard their lives as ministry. I from my own experience, however, I would think that the most prevalent reason is a sense of inadequacy. The ability to minister to others is often regarded as a kind of natural endowment, like the ability to be athletic or artistic. Most Christians lack of what and what they are and conclude that they are not among "the chosen few."

Actually, if you choose to be a disciple of Christ, you are automatically among "the chosen few"—that is, you are automatically called to be a minister (although not necessarily a member of the clergy). You cannot read the New Testament with any understanding and conclude that some Christians are exempted from ministry on the grounds that they are inadequate.

THE CRUCIAL ELEMENT
 What is wrong is not our perception of inadequacy. Actually, we may be quite inadequate to minister to others. No one can long be involved in ministry without feeling that way some of the time. What is wrong is the assumption that ministry is dependent upon our adequacy. It is, Paul himself says, "Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to claim anything as coming from us, our sufficiency is from God" (1:3). No matter how great or small the task, it is God's sufficiency that enables us to tackle it.

I don't mean for one moment that our own talents and capabilities are not important in ministry, but that they are not crucial. The only crucial element in ministry is the power of God. God has used many talented people throughout history, but he has also often accomplished his purposes through men and women who were not all that talented, but gave all they had for God to use.

Once again, Paul drives home this message: "...we have this treasure in earthen vessels, to show that the transcendent power belongs to God and not to us" (4:7). In ministering, it is the "treasure" of the gospel which we elevate, not ourselves, the "earthen vessels." If a considerable task seems to reveal our own personal inadequacy, we need to focus not on ourselves, but upon the grace of God that can be transmitted through us. Paul says to the Corinthians: "...you are a letter from Christ delivered by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts" (3:6b).

RENEWED DAILY

Another reason that people fail to see themselves as ministers is that, when they have briefly tried to minister, they may have found the obstacles overwhelming. Once again Paul reminds us of the source of the power to minister: "...Though our outer nature is wasting away, our inner nature is being renewed every day" (4:16). Yes, when we try to minister we may find ourselves beaten down, but that is a signal to let God restore us daily so that we can do the job. Instead of letting present obstacles overwhelm us, we need to take the long term view: "For this momentary affliction is preparing us for an eternal weight of glory beyond all comparison" (4:17). The task may seem frightening, the odds may be discouraging, but we need to look beyond all that: "...because we look not to the things that are seen but to the things that are unseen; for the things that are seen are transient, but the things that are unseen are eternal."

Marina Sirtis kept ambitions to act a secret from family

By Polly Voneties

Q: Marina Sirtis — she is at once the most beautiful and most sexy woman I have ever seen. I have trekked long and far to find out something about her; perhaps you can help. Tell me all you can about her and where I can write her. — Arturo Heaschel, Morehead City, N.C.

A: Marina, who plays Counselor Deanna Troi on Star Trek: The Next Generation, was born in North London to Greek parents. She demonstrated her inclination toward performing at an early age. "My mother tells me that when I was 3, I used to stand up on the seat of the bus and sing to the other passengers." Her parents didn't want her to be an actress and tried to push her toward "more serious" pursuits. After finishing the English equivalent of high school, Marina secretly applied to and was accepted by the Guild Hall School of Music and Drama. Her first job was with the Worthing Repertory Company. For the next few years, she worked extensively in British television, musical theater and repertory companies. Eventually she broke into supporting roles in such films as The Wicked Lady with Faye Dunaway and Death Wish III opposite Charles Bronson. In 1986 she moved to the United States. She is single and recently purchased her first home in the Hollywood Hills, as well as a Harley-Davidson and a convertible. Write to: Marina Sirtis, c/o Baker - Winokur - Ryder, 9348 Civic Center Drive, Fourth Floor, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

Q: Can you help me? I would like to know what happened to Johnny Mack Brown and Tim McCoy. Are they still alive? — Alvin Sewell, Greenville, N.C.

A: I am sorry to report that

your two favorite cowboys are no longer with us. Johnny Mack Brown died of kidney failure Nov. 14, 1974. He retired in the '60s and was host and manager of a restaurant. Survivors included his widow and four children. Col. Tim McCoy died Jan. 31, 1978, in the Raymond Bliss Army Hospital in Nogales, Ariz., where he had been living for 20 years. He was survived by two sons.

Q: Can you tell me if the daytime soap on NBC called Generations is ever going to be back on the air? I sure did like that show. I miss it. — Darlene Wilson, Bemidji, Minn.

A: Darlene, you are not alone. Many people miss it. Unfortunately there were not enough viewers to keep it on the air. The series is scheduled to re-emerge as a prime-time cable series on Black Entertainment Television. All 470 episodes have been purchased. The drama will air daily beginning this fall. There are no plans to produce new episodes.

HOROSCOPE

May 12
through May 18

By C.C. Clark

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
While others seem to think you have it all, your insecurities will not let you admit the facts to yourself. You have accomplished a lot lately and should praise yourself.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
It is difficult to step back and look at things from all sides, but it is imperative you do so now. Don't play games with others' minds; it will only cause you grief in the end.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
This seems to be a week for dwelling on the past. It is OK to have memories, just don't get stuck on them. The problems that caused this trip down memory lane will be over soon.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Prideful as always, you may have trouble letting your hair down this week, but at least give it a try. Nobody ever said you always have to be right, although you usually are.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
You may reveal a secret to a close friend that takes your relationship to new heights. A common sense approach to a financial decision sends you in the right direction.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Don't be too critical of yourself or loved ones this week. Everyone is just trying to do what they think is best. Be tactful when dealing with others.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Do not indulge in self-pity. It will get you absolutely nowhere. You simply cannot let other people dictate what is best for you. You are your own best judge.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
A love affair headed toward the rocks could make a hasty change for the better. All it takes is a few carefully chosen words from you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Remember work isn't everything and sometimes you need to put as much energy into your personal relationships. Show that special someone just how much you really care.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Try not to let your ego get the best of you. You are doing a great job and definitely deserve the praise, but remember other people were behind your efforts.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Follow your intuition and things should work out for the best. If someone close to you is in need of assistance, try to help them to the best of your abilities.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Although you have many friends, there are times you need to just be by yourself. This is one of those times. Take time to see the value of your life.

VIDEO BIJOU

Otto Preminger has more to name than 'Batman' role

By Steven Alan McGaw

Otto Preminger was, by many accounts, a difficult director to work with, and not all of his films are gems, to say the least. Some may only know Preminger for his turn as Mr. Freeze on Batman. Still, you can't dismiss a director responsible for classics like 1944's Laura and this week's featured videos Anatomy of a Murder (1959).

This movie is long, but you never feel the time passing. Everyone in the large cast is terrific, but the standouts are James Stewart as an easygoing but cagey defense attorney and Lee Remick as a woman who just can't resist the urge to flirt with every man she sees. The film is greatly enhanced by Duke Ellington's cool, evocative score. The Man with the Golden Arm (1955).

Younger viewers may not realize what a terrific actor Frank Sinatra was (or still could be) when he wanted to be. Those with any doubts should look at films like this one.

In 1955 a film about a heroin addict was very controversial, especially because of Sinatra's searing, assaultive performance. Eleanor Parker is fully his equal as the addict's crippled, long-suffering wife, and fine supporting work comes from Kim Novak and Darren McGavin. Music was important to director Preminger, and Elmer Bernstein's jazz score suits the film perfectly.

STEVE'S BEAT

Al Pacino, Michelle Pfeiffer to play Frankie and Johnny

By Steven Alan McGaw

Al Pacino and Michelle Pfeiffer will star in the big screen version of Terrance McNally's acclaimed play Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune. The film, titled simply Frankie and Johnny, will also feature Nathan Lane, Laurie Metcalf and Jane Morris. Garry Marshall will direct.

It appears John Goodman will play Babe Ruth in a film bio of the legendary ballplayer. Kelly McGillis is scheduled to co-star. Legendary Broadway director Hal Prince will head a new staging of Showboat. Producers promise an elaborate production complete with the script's suggested (but often trimmed) cast of 50. The show should open in Toronto in 1993.

Look for Michael Biehn this fall in the film version of the Tony-winning play about mountain climbing, K-2.

Here's good news, film fans! Production has started on Killer Tomatoes Go to France.

Congratulations to Jerry Lewis on his recent induction into the TV Hall of Fame at this year's National Association of Broadcasters convention.

Bravo to RCA Records for the recent commitment to package all new CD releases in recycled materials. Let's hope other companies follow their example.

Condolences to the family and friends of the late Natalie Schafer, best remembered as Mrs. Howell on Gilligan's Island.

Stacy Keach to play scapegoat in Navy's greatest disaster

Stacy Keach and Richard Thomas are making a new fact-based film in the Bahamas titled Mission of the Shark. Keach plays the commander of the U.S.S. Indianapolis and the scapegoat for the Navy's greatest sea disaster and Pentagon scandal. Thomas plays second-in-command of the ship. The film will be broadcast next season on CBS.

Some Dallasites think director Oliver Stone's new movie JFK, which advances a conspiracy theory, points an accusatory finger at the city of Dallas. After three close votes, county commissioners finally allowed Stone to film on the sixth floor of the former Texas School Book Depository, where Lee Harvey Oswald allegedly fired the shots that killed President John F. Kennedy.

NBC has announced it will pick up the comedy series Wings, starring Timothy Daly, Steven Weber and Crystal Bernard, for the 1991-92 season. After replacing Grand on Thursday nights, the show consistently won its time period.

Australian television networks have agreed to a self-regulatory code with regard to news and violence on television. Guidelines include such things as avoiding insensitive intrusion on griefers, over-detailing of suicides and excessive violence in repetitive news flashes.

CBS is selling a videotape chronicling the events of the Gulf war, Desert Triumph, culled from CBS news footage and narrated by Dan Rather, costs $49.95 plus shipping and handling.

New Kids On The Block are being sued for allegedly triggering a stampede at an Iowa concert last fall, sending 17 people to the hospital. Four plaintiffs are seeking damages for "pain and suffering" caused when singer Donnie Wahlberg jumped into the crowd.

The rap group Byches With Problems won't be allowed to use the videotape of Rodney King being beaten by Los Angeles police. The group had offered amateur cameraman George Holliday $1,000 for the rights to use the footage as a backdrop for its new music video "Wanted." Holliday says the video's storyboards and lyrics struck him as so anti-police, he declined the offer.

Fox's new 'Robin Hood' sees the light of day

Patrick Bergin,
Uma Thurman star

By Amy Schmidt

Robin and Marian, The Story of Robin Hood and just plain old Robin Hood—the legend of the arrow-shooting vigilante of Sherwood forest is as much a favorite on screen as in story-telling circles. Monday, May 13, Fox will spin the yarn again with its new film version of Robin Hood.

Starring in the title role is Patrick Bergin, who made his mark in Mountains on the Moon and has since starred in the box-office hit Sleeping With the Enemy with Julia Roberts and Love Crimes with Sean Young. Uma Thurman will co-star as Robin's legendary love interest Maid Marian. Thurman made her film breakthrough in Dangerous Liaisons and starred in last year's Henry and June.

The new film departs from Robin Hood lore of yore in a couple of ways. Robin Hood will don no clothing of hues in Lincoln green, and his hand of merry men will live in caves rather than trees.

The athletic and emotional ranges, says Bergin, are what appealed to him. "I like a challenge," he comments, "and what could be more so than the story of Robin Hood? It's a tremendously physical role, and I seem to spend most of my time up to my neck in ice-cold water, jumping from scaffolding or fighting off half-a-dozen Normans at once."

Bergin says his girlfriend, however, was slightly disappointed with his Robin Hood role. "Because," he says, "she was dying to get me into the traditional, if not historically accurate, green tights."

Great Salt-Out To Help Marylanders Reduce Risk Of High Blood Pressure

Restaurants throughout Maryland will help their customers shake the salt habit during the American Heart Association-Maryland Affiliate's Great Salt-Out on May 15. Participating restaurants will remove salt shakers from their tables for the day to prove that food doesn't need added salt to taste good.

May is National High Blood Pressure Month. "The Great Salt-Out reminds us that the first step in lowering high blood pressure in some people is taking the salt shaker off the table," stated Dr. Walter Naumann, Garrett County Branch of the American Heart Association. "Most Americans consume much more sodium than their bodies need every day."

Sodium is a mineral essential for good health, but too much sodium can contribute to high blood pressure in some people. High blood pressure is a major risk factor for heart and blood vessel diseases, the nation's leading killer.

According to the AHA, the average American consumes about six to 18 grams of salt each day, although the human body requires about one-half gram daily. "Most foods in their natural state contain sodium," Naumann said. "However, the majority of sodium in the American Diet comes from commercial processing or is added at home during cooking."

In responding to how salt can be reduced in the diet, Naumann responded, "First, take the salt shaker off the table. Although foods may taste a little bland at first, your taste will change in two to three weeks. In time, food with added salt will not taste good to you."

He continued, "Second, read the labels on prepared and prepackaged foods. Consumers should watch for the word 'sodium' and the symbol 'Na' on labels. These terms identify products that contain sodium compounds. When preparing meals at home, leave out the salt or cut in half the amount you normally use."

The AHA recommends that sodium intake should not exceed 3,000 milligrams per day. One-half teaspoon of table salt contains 1,000 milligrams of sodium. They advise that consumers check food labels for sodium content. Nutrition information is listed per serving and consumers should be aware of serving sizes.

"The portion listed as a serving on a label may be very different from the portion that you eat," said Naumann.

More information on high blood pressure and sodium may be obtained by contacting the American Heart Association at 1-301-729-4011.

Marylanders Help Plant Over One Million Trees For Tree-Mendous Month

More than 20,000 dedicated volunteers across Maryland helped plant over 1.5 million trees and seedlings in April as part of the state's Tree-Mendous Earth Month celebration. Garrett County participated in the Tree-Mendous program to help Governor William Donald Schaefer meet the state's goal of planting one million more trees in 1991.

"The citizen response and concern for Maryland's environment is outstanding," the Governor said. "So many individuals, businesses, community groups, scout troops, senior citizen centers, and churches across the state joined together to plant trees for Maryland and the Chesapeake Bay."

Chesapeake Cleanup Campaign coordinators, Department of Natural Resources foresters, and community leaders were instrumental in organizing hundreds of statewide tree plantings in April. The Chesapeake Bay Trust funded 29 Tree-Mendous Earth Month projects with $18,263 in grants. These monies were used by community groups to plant 5,800 trees along waterways.

Tree-Mendous Earth Month would not have been possible without the help of McDonald's and Hardee's Food Systems, Inc., who together distributed 600,000 free seedling to citizens in April. In addition, the Governor's cabinet members supported county efforts by attending tree plantings in every jurisdiction.

Tree-Mendous Earth Month was organized by the Governor's Office, the Maryland Office of Planning, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, and Hardee's Food Systems, Inc.

Teen Summit Event Addresses Parenting Issues

Members and staff of the Governor's Council on Adolescent Pregnancy met recently for a Teen Summit Meeting at the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center in Cumberland to discuss "Teen Parenting Issues: How Can The System Respond To Teen Parents?" Two members from the Garrett County Interdepartmental Committee on Teenage Pregnancy and Parenting -- Sue Sines, intake/counselor specialist with The Caring Connection Program of Garrett Community College, and Cindy Downton, pupil personnel worker with the Garrett County Board of Education -- attended the meeting. Two teen parents, both students at Southern High School and clients of The Caring Connection Program, represented Garrett County at the Summit Meeting as well.

Parenting teens from Garrett County and Allegany County agreed that child care is a major problem for these students. The Allegany County Board of Education has included in next year's school budget an on-site infant day care facility at one of its high schools.

This facility is pending final budget approval. Other issues of concern discussed by the teens in attendance included sensitivity of the teachers to the special needs of teen parents, the difficulty of balancing their roles as student and mother, and the value of family life classes being taught not only at the middle school level, but also in high school. Staff from the Governor's office will forward these issues to the Governor's Council on Adolescent Pregnancy via video tape which was recorded during this meeting.

MSP To Crack Down On Young Drunk Drivers

Maryland State Police are preparing for special prom season patrols which will focus on enforcement of the state's drunk and drugged driving laws on motorists 21 years of age or younger.

"The mere presence of an odor of alcoholic beverage could lead to the drunk driving arrest of motorists under 21 years of age," stated Trooper First Class Michael Krienderis of the Maryland State Police Chemical Test for Alcohol Unit. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, TFC Krienderis said warnings of strict enforcement have contributed to a decline in the number of drunk driving arrests among Maryland's youth.

"During 1990, there were 2,674 drunk driving arrests involving motorists under 21 years of age compared with 3,247 during 1989," TFC Krienderis added. "We arrested 14 individuals (for alcohol related offenses) under the age of 16, 321 arrests among teenagers 16 to 17, and 2,339 arrests between the ages of 18 to 20." Under Maryland law, an alcohol restriction is imposed on licensed drivers under the 21 years of age prohibiting an alcohol concentration in excess of .02 percent.

"Youthful drivers need to be reassured during prom season that parents really care about their safety," added Sergeant Frederick J. Kirkhoff of the Chemical Test for Alcohol Unit. Also appearing on the weekly radio broadcast, Sergeant Kirkhoff said there were fewer drunk drivers arrested by police statewide during 1990.

"There were 33,116 drunk driving arrests in Maryland last year compared with 36,573 in 1989," Kirkhoff stated. "The majority of those arrested for DWI were in the blood alcohol content range of 10 to .24," Sergeant Kirkhoff said.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

The contest included five categories and was open to graduate and undergraduate students from all three FSU campuses. Nearly 200 entries were submitted.

Winning honorable mention in the expository writing category was Kimberly Czuc-hery, of Grantsville, for her critical essay on writer Flannery O'Connor.

Fred Holliday, Grantsville, received honorable mention in the creative writing category for the teleplay of an episode of television's "Quantum Leap."

The contest is sponsored by the English Department and Sigma Tau Delta, English Honorary Society.

Northern GOP Women Convene

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met April 30 at Hill Top Inn, Grantsville, with President Carolyn Ganoe presiding.

The speaker was Sgt. William Lehr, formerly of Harford County and now a Garrett County law officer. His topic was drunk driving. He demonstrated how a driver is tested for blood alcohol content, using Danny Klotz, Susan Pyle, and his wife as subjects.

The business meeting followed, with Orpha Miller in charge of devotions.

Mrs. Ganoe asked for members to be prepared to help with the State Convention slated for October at the Wisp Resort in McHenry.

The recipe drawing yielded $50 for the club.

Members attending included Clara and Leanna Layman, Jean Friend, Hazel Margraff, Cora Bowser, Cleda Baker, Twila Mae Fike, Helen Keller, Carol Frazee, Evelyn, Stella Edwards, Lois Rowe, Louise McKenzie, and the others mentioned. The next meeting will be May 28, at which members of the Board of Education will be guests.

Westvaco Mines To Be Closed

The planned future shutdown of all Westvaco Resources, Inc., coal mining operations was announced last week by Jennings Stickley, WRI president.

WRI is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Westvaco Corporation. Stickley is administration manager at the company's Luke mill.

A total of 26 people will be affected when the surface coal mining operation shuts down permanently on August 1, 1991. WRI had cut its total workforce from 60 to 26 people in 1985.

Stickley explained that

WRI will continue a land management program on its 4,000 acres of company land in Garrett County, just west of Bloomington.

Current employees of WRI will be interviewed for possible future employment at Westvaco's Luke mill. Both operations have employees who are represented by separate locals of the United Paperworkers International Union.

Stickley praised the workers of the WRI mining operation. He stated that they had "worked diligently" to keep the mining operation open, but economic conditions made it impossible to continue the mining segment.

Retirement Of Carl P. Rebele Noted By B&L

Bausch & Lomb recently announced the retirement of Carl P. Rebele, Deep Creek Lake, after the completion of a successful career with the company that spanned over 20 years.

Rebele was hired as site manager of the engineering and administration functions for Bausch & Lomb at the Oakland facility in 1971. He was involved in the first OJT and MDTA training class at the local facility and later transferred to the company's new Softens Division, where he was later recognized with an Outstanding Achievement Award in the Sales Training Class. He accepted a position as a field salesman in the Softens Division and was named to the Par and Pinnacle Club for sales results. He also established the Professional Service Department and was responsible for establishing Bausch & Lomb soft contact lens programs with all departments of ophthalmology, School of Optometry Opticians, the military, Va hospitals, and USPHS.

In 1981, Rebele transferred to the Sunglass Division to form a team to help promote the sales and marketing efforts of that product line. He was recognized as the first Sales Person of the Year in 1982.

Along with Rebele's achievements with Bausch & Lomb, he has been active in local community organizations. He remains an active member of the National Ski Patrol, with the Wisp Ski Patrol as his home patrol. He earned a National Ski Patrol number, a status awarded to only a small percentage of National Ski Patrol members and only to senior patrollers who have completed both avalanche mountaineering training and have held offices on local, regional, and divisional levels of the National Ski Patrol.

He is past president of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association and a member of the Masonic Lodge. A Pittsburgh native, he is a graduate of Pennsylvania State University.

"Bausch & Lomb would like to wish Carl the very best in his retirement and give him a personal 'thank you' for all of his efforts and the dedication he has given Bausch & Lomb and the Oakland facility," stated a B&L spokesperson.

Local Woman To Vie For 1991 Heart Queen

American Heart Association officials recently announced that a Garrett County woman, Nova Matthis, is vying for the title of 1991 Heart Queen.

The winner of the contest will be determined by the amount of money a contestant raises for community programs and heart research sponsored by the AHA.

Matthis is sponsored by Garrett Community College and Twila's Old Mill Restaurant and Gift Shop. She is currently attending Garrett Community College and will graduate in May. Matthis is a sophomore representative for GCC's Student Government Association, a team member for Garrett County Little League, and the assistant managing editor for GCC's newspaper.

The winner of the Queen Contest is crowned at the 1991 Heart Ball which will be held on Saturday, May 18, from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

at the Cumberland Holiday Inn.

The theme for the Heart Ball is "Heart of Gold," and the colors are burgundy and gold. Entertainment will be provided by 52nd Street, and decorations are being fashioned by Magic Garden Florist. D'Attri D'Sign created the program, and Jay Dee Photography photographed the Garrett County Queen candidate.

The Heart Ball is held annually to raise funds for local community programs, public and professional education and heart research, sponsored by the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division. Last year, 39,000 individuals in Allegany and Garrett counties were reached by these programs.

Tickets for the event may be obtained by calling the local American Heart Association office at (301) 724-4011.

Scholarships For Local Students Are Announced

Two new scholarships for Garrett County high school students have been announced by the Career Expo Scholarship Committee.

Gregg's Pharmacy and the Career Expo Scholarship committee announce a new scholarship for graduating seniors. Gregg's has contributed $1,000 toward a scholarship award, one $500 award for a senior at Southern High School and one $500 award for a senior at Northern High School who plan to major in a health-related field. This award is a one-time award. The winner will be determined through an application process to be reviewed by the Career Expo Committee.

Also announced by the committee is a new scholarship established by Bausch & Lomb, offered to sons and daughters of Bausch & Lomb employees. The senior student must be planning on enrolling full-time in college next year and be planning to major in math, science, or engineering.

Deadline for application for both scholarships is May 15, 1991. Additional information may be obtained from the school guidance offices.

These scholarships are a result of a continuous effort by the Career Expo Scholarship Committee to obtain money to help Garrett County students further their education. Members of the committee include: Jo Ann Vent, scholarship committee chairperson; Wayne Johnson, Garrett National Bank; Lillian Mitchell, Garrett Community College; Al Boxley, McDonald's Inc.; and Al Coviello, Garrett County Board of Education.

THE RUTH ENLOW LIBRARY OPEN HOUSE CELEBRATION, held recently in commemoration of the library's 40 years of service to the community, featured musical entertainment from various local performers, including bagpipe music by Rev. John Grant, shown above at the library's main entrance. Other musical performers included Charles Morris, Marge Clever and Sue Peterson. The Ruth Enlow Library was opened in 1950 after the Maryland General Assembly passed the Public Libraries Law in 1945, and the Garrett County Commissioners appropriated $4,000. In 1946, E.E. Enlow made the first of several gifts for a new library to be dedicated as a memorial to his daughter Ruth. Bookmobile services began subsequently, and the vehicle currently circulates approximately 13,000 books per year. Branches were then opened in Grantsville, Accident, Kitzmiller, Friendsville and Finzel. In 1969, an addition was constructed at the main library in Oakland which tripled the existing space. Main and branch library employees are pictured below during the open house weekend. From left to right, front row, are Ruth Miller, George Harvey, Edith Brock, Lynn McDaniel and Diane Kianer. Standing in the second row, same order, are Michele Duda, Sheila Hughes, Kimberly Ushia, Lori Beltzel, Starr Harvey, Gail Broadwater, Eva Lou Harman, Janet Otto, Ruth Glaze and Marge Mahood.

Saturday's ceremony will begin with a procession by the FSU Commencement Ensemble, followed by the national anthem led by senior Lee A. Wineholt. The Rev. Lawrence A. Neumark of the FSU United Campus Ministry will give the invocation.

Grand marshals Dr. Harold J. Corbitt, with faculty marshals Dr. Paul P. Hunt and Dr. Gordon E. Kershaw.

Woodlot Owners Can Apply For Project Workshop

Woodland owners and managers interested in forest and wildlife management can apply to attend a free training workshop Sept. 5-8. The workshop is part of an ongoing outreach and training program called the Coverts Project, which is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service University of Maryland System and funded in part by the Ruffed Grouse Society.

The project gets its name from thickets that provide sheltering habitat for wildlife.

The Coverts workshop will focus on general forestry and wildlife principles that can be applied to the mountains of Garrett County, the flatlands of the Eastern Shore, or anywhere in between, according to an Extension Service spokesman. Participants will learn how sound forest management practices can make wildlife more abundant, healthy, and diverse, while enhancing timber growth, aesthetics and other forest benefits.

In return for the free training, reference materials and follow-up seminars, the participants -- dubbed "Coverts Cooperators" -- will be asked to establish a sound forest and wildlife management plan for their own property and to make an effort to share what they have learned with others through a variety of outreach activities.

ACES PROGRAM CONTINUES -- The ACES (Americans for a Competitive Enterprise System), jointly sponsored by the Md. Top Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Education, is currently in its third season. This program is conducted by area business leaders to familiarize them with area business and current employment trends. Recently the ACES group was hosted by McDonald's of Oakland. Pictured above, left to right, Bath Shaffer, Vonda Yunker, George Lander, Corilla Wilhelm, Alicia Eary, Harry Biggs, Louisa Newcomb, Rick Farrar, Jo Ann Vant (Board Liaison for ACES), Jeannia Whitehair, and Al Bozlay (owner of McDonald's).

"Our goal is to develop a statewide network of volunteers who can help individuals contemplating forest and wildlife management get the professional assistance they need to accomplish their land-use objectives," said Jonathan Kays, a regional Extension natural resources specialist and Coverts coordinator. The first 30 Coverts cooperators -- trained last year -- have begun this process by providing information to woodland owners, youth, and the general public in their communities.

Those interested in becoming a Coverts cooperator are invited to contact Jonathan Kays, Western Maryland Research and Education Center, 18330 Keedysville Road, Keedysville, MD 21756 (phone: 301-791-2298) or Bob Tjaden, Wye Research and Education Center, P.O. Box 169, Queenstown, MD 21658 (phone: 301-827-8056). Applications for the September 1991 workshop will be accepted until June 23.

A local business owner was recently recognized by leaders in her field as one of the nation's best.

Following her win, Reckner was interviewed for "Gift Basket Review," a monthly magazine for the gift basket trade.

Stroke Club Honors Greise; Slates Meeting

The Allegany County Stroke Club (ACSC) recently held its third annual Spring Luncheon at the Silver Leaf Restaurant, Braddock Square, LaVale. Forty-seven members and guests were present.

Terry Wolff, chairman, presented a plaque to Frankie Greise, director, American Heart Association (AHA), Western Maryland Division, in honor and appreciation of her work on behalf of the club.

Ms. Greise, at the suggestion of Ron Rader, Cumberland, was responsible for the organizational meeting of the ACSC under AHA sponsorship on August 17, 1988. From those eight members present at that meeting, the club has rapidly grown with Ms. Greise's and added sponsors' continued help.

The chairman announced that the next meeting of the club will be Friday, May 17, at 1 p.m., in the clubroom of the Kensington-Algonquin Senior Housing, 1 Baltimore Street, Cumberland. For the benefit of newcomers to the group, he advised that the building and the clubroom are accessible from the rear parking lot for wheelchairs, canes, and walkers.

The guest speaker for the meeting will be Thomas F. Conlon, owner of Conlon Travel Services, former mayor of Cumberland, and former delegate to Annapolis. Conlon, who was recently appointed to the Allegany Transit Authority Board, is an authority on the subject of his talk, "Transportation and Travel for the Handicapped."

The ACSC is a community-oriented, non-profit support group organized to work with and for stroke patients/stroke veterans, as well as with the families and caregivers.

All members, as well as the general public, are invited to attend and patronize the current ACSC fundraiser, a table at the flea market, GeeBee Parking.

HONORED BY STROKE CLUB — At the third annual Spring Luncheon of the Allegany County Stroke Club, members honored Frankie Greise, director, American Heart Association, Western Maryland Division, for her efforts on behalf of the club. Ms. Greise initiated the club's organization in 1988 and has been a constant source of assistance and advice since then, according to Terry Wolff, chairman of the Stroke Club (also pictured).

New VA Clinic To Open In Cumberland On July 1

Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D-Md.) has announced that the new veterans outpatient clinic for Western Maryland will open in Cumberland in a renovated schoolhouse at 710 Memorial Avenue on Monday, July 1.

The facility will be a satellite of the Martinsburg VA Medical Center, and will offer veterans from Western Maryland and portions of West Virginia and Pennsylvania easier access to VA medical services. The clinic will provide primary care evaluation, supervision of medication, diagnostic testing, post-hospitalization follow-up and non-specialty medical care.

"Two years ago, I heard horror stories from Western Maryland veterans about how far they had to travel just to get basic services," said Senator Mikulski. "VA medical care is a debt of honor, and I took up the fight in Washington for this new clinic. Veterans who served our nation with valor deserve to be served in dignity—that's the promise this new clinic fulfills."

Tom Weaver, the director of the Martinsburg VA Medical Center, said that he expected area veterans to be "pleased" with the new clinic. "We are aiming for a regular doctor's office setting, with first class equipment and care," he added, and by associating with Cumberland Memorial Hospital, we can provide greater depth to our services."

Cumberland Memorial Hospital owns and renovated the four-room schoolhouse that the VA will occupy for the clinic. The agreement calls for the Hospital to share labs, X-ray services and the provision of security and trash removal.

The clinic will occupy 4,000 square feet. Weaver indicated that the VA will need to make only minor alterations to the existing building, including electrical wiring, equipment placement, and painting.

Initial plans call for the clinic to be open Monday through Thursday, from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. It will be staffed by two part-time physicians, one nurse practitioner, one part-time registered nurse, one emergency medical technician driver, one coordinator, and one clerk. If demand for services is sufficient, other staff will be added in the future.

There are more than 30,000 veterans in the area served by the clinic, and the VA expects to have 7,500 medical visits during the first year. There will be a public meeting in the next two or three weeks to outline the services that will be provided and to discuss how interested volunteers can help at the clinic.

Pittsburgh Dancers To Perform At Highland Fest

The Pittsburgh Scottish Country Dance Society, pictured above, will perform at the fourth annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 1, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry. The performances by this group will be funded by the Garrett County Arts Council through a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council.

The Society originated in the early 1980s with a small group of friends getting together to dance in each other's homes. Today the group is affiliated with the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society, which was founded in 1923 to collect and revive the old authentic Scottish dances.

The actual steps of Scottish country dancing have their origin in the French ballet. Scottish country dancing is not folk or peasant dancing, but actually the ballroom dancing of Scotland.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over. The Society will also participate in the ceilidh (party) on Saturday evening at 8 p.m., in the McHenry House at Wisp, hosted by Wisp Ski Resort.

This festival is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, and funded in part by Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council, and the Maryland Humanities Council through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. For more information, persons may contact the McHenry Highland Festival, Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Over 100 Attend Democrat Dinner

Over 100 persons attended the recent annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner, sponsored by the Garrett County Democratic Club, at the Will O' the Wisp. John Braskey, county commissioner, was master of ceremonies and the invocation was given by Rev. Mark Hickman, pastor of the Bethel United Methodist Church, Mt. Lake Park. The pledge of allegiance was led by Donald Fratz, chairman of the Central Committee, and a welcome was extended by Phyllis Trickett, president of the club.

State Senator Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., president of the Maryland Senate, was introduced by Braskey. The Senator commented he felt the General Assembly had "a great year" and that its purpose was not to "just pass good laws but to defeat the bad laws." He added that when the political campaigns are over, the political adversarial relationships after the election have to be forgotten and "you have to work for the good of the people." Miller stated that they came away from the session keeping the state's AAA bond rating, balancing the budget, and taking away capital gains tax break from those who make more than $1,000,000 per year. He added that a "great working relationship" had been established among Sen. John Hafer, Del. George Edwards, and Del. Tom Hattery (of Frederick Co.), who were present at the dinner.

"Working together," he said, "we are able to accomplish great things for Western Maryland and the entire state."

Maurice S. Brookhart was named the Outstanding Democrat and received a plaque from Mrs. Trickett, on behalf of the Garrett County Democrats.

Braskey introduced Vera Hall, vice-chair of the Maryland Democratic Party, and Iris Reese, a member of the Baltimore City Council, who accompanied her to the event.

Also present and introduced by Braskey were members of the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee: Don Fratz, Bruce Opel, Harold Trickett, and George Brady; officers of the Democratic Club; Mrs. Trickett; Bruce Opel, vice-president; Doris Goldsborough, secretary; and Harold Trickett, treasurer; Senator Hafer, Delegate Edwards; Delegate Hattery; Asa McCain, Mayor of Oakland; Spencer Scholsnagle, Mayor of Friendsville; and Western Maryland representatives.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers case of the week concerns an attempted forced entry of a southern Garrett County home.

Unknown persons reportedly attempted to illegally enter the residence of Lon S. Babby, located on Turkey Neck Road, sometime around April 6.

The culprits tried to enter by breaking a rear patio door. Although entry was not gained, the incident resulted in damages in the amount of $200.

Persons who may have information about this or any other crime are urged to contact G.C. Crime Solvers either by calling (301) 334-1975, or by writing to Crime Solvers, P.O. Box 731, Oakland, Md. 21550.

Those who provide the authorities with information are not required to give their names, nor are they asked to appear in court. Rewards up to $1,000 are available to those persons who provide tips that lead to an arrest.

Wool And Lamb Projections Show Unprecedented Slump This Year

Preston County, W. Va., Extension Agent Thomas R. McConnell has extended a warning to area shepherds of an "unprecedented slump" in the sheep business.

In his recent letter to producers, McConnell stated that wool projections are "terrible." "I worry," he said, "I worry for each shepherd that reads this. Never have we had to endure low wool prices coupled with low lamb prices."

His letter concentrated on the sale of wool. Last year, he said, they rejected the bid at the wool sale and agreed to go to a consignment program with Mid-States Wool. He felt this was a good move because they received basically the same money, and got a good idea of what their wool quality really is. The average price was basically the same price offered at the wool sale, however, the price spread between individuals was from 18 cents to 68 cents per pound.

McConnell said that a lot of good information was learned about area wool last year. "It is a medium wool, mostly low which is coarse. It yields better than we have given credit for and it overall was cleaner than most groups that were consigned," he said.

An understanding of the 1991 wool market could tell producers what is at stake, McConnell stated. "All indications are that the 1991 market will be one half what it was in 1990," that suggests a price in the 18-20 cent/pound/range. The world situation is terrible and coarse wool is not moving. New Zealand and Australia is covered up with wool. The picture is certainly bleak."

The Extension agent said that it appears that most people feel the consignment program is worth trying again, however, it was made clear by everyone that the wool needed to be pooled earlier. This year's wool pool date is set for Friday, June 14, at the Preston Educational Center in Kingwood from 8 a.m. to noon.

McConnell says there are several good reasons for shepherds to consign their wool.

"The wool will be marketed by a farmer-owned cooperative called Mid-States Wool headquartered in Columbus, Ohio. These people market wool for farmers 365 days a year, giving farmers someone on the inside looking out for them.

"The wool will be graded and sorted 'sold off' the grading report. This will be just like a feeder calf sale where 'like' calves are co-mingled. Buyers like to bag wool of one grade. 'In these tough times, we should try to accommodate these buyers,' McConnell said.

"The better wools, as far as grade goes, will receive a higher price than the coarser wools. 'We had one producer last year that sold 300 pounds of wool for 68 cents per pound,' he added.

"Everyone has the opportunity to receive an eight-cent-per-pound bonus for wool that is free of manure, vegetable matter, urine stains, and black fiber or gray wool. McConnell stated that last year, five producers got the bonus not knowing that the program existed. "With planning at shearing time, several people will qualify," he said.

"It's a logical way to market wool. The best wool brings the highest price and the borderline wool will bring less.

McConnell is asking those with wool to sell to contact him by May 15 telling him how many pounds of wool they will be consigning. Those who consigned last year have bags because their bags were replaced by Mid-States; however, those who didn't consign will need bags. By contacting McConnell, the bags will be available at the Preston County Extension Office.

For more information on how the consignment program works, wool producers may contact McConnell at the Preston County Extension Office (304) 329-1391.

Horsemen Plan Spring Horse Sale

The Garrett County Horsemen's Association will hold its spring horse sale on Friday, May 17, at Friend's Stockyard, Accident.

The sale will begin with tack at 6 p.m. There will be a 10-item limit per person on used tack and a requirement that all used tack be sold. There will be a 15 percent consignment on all tack.

The sale of horses and ponies will begin at 9:30 p.m. with an eight percent consignment. An $8 no sale fee will be charged for horses, and $4 no sale fee for ponies.

Acceptable negative test papers must accompany the horse or pony, or the animal may be tested by an accredited veterinarian before leaving the sale. The rule is waived if the horse is identified as a slaughter animal and consigned to slaughter, either directly or through a dealer approved to handle such horses. Buyers pay all test fees.

All sales (cash or approved checks with proper I.D.) will be conducted through the sales office.

For more information, those interested may call John Wright at 387-6370, Raymond Yoder at (814) 662-2823, or Calvin Durst at 895-5783.

It wasn't until the late 1800s that milk gained widespread use as a beverage. Until that time, it was primarily used as a raw product to make cheese and butter.

Date Changed For Oakland FFA Banquet

The date of the Oakland FFA banquet has been changed from Friday, May 10, to Friday, May 17. The announcement was made this week by FFA Advisor Steve Kisner that due to circumstances beyond their control, the date had to be changed to May 17.

The covered-dish banquet will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria at Southern Middle School. Kisner said that all former FFA members and friends are invited to attend, and he hopes the change does not inconvenience those planning to attend.

Dairy Month Ads Show Support

Area dairy farmers and businesses are showing their support of the dairy industry and the way of life it represents by buying an ad showing their support or saying "We're proud to be dairy farmers." The ad will run once during "June Dairy Month" in The Republican.

This ad campaign was the brain child of Sheila Bender Miller when she was Maryland State Dairy Princess in 1985. The campaign has continued and grown throughout the years, and is now in progress for 1991 June Dairy Month.

Anyone who would like to show their support in this way during the month of June may call Farm Editor Bernice Kepple at 334-3968, or Garrett-Allegany Dairy Princess Committee Chairperson Nancy Savage, after 6 p.m. at 746-8174.

Contestants For Dairy Princess Pageant Sought

All single young women who are between the ages of 16 and 22, and from a dairy farm, are eligible to compete for the title of 1991 Garrett-Allegany County Dairy Princess.

The contest covers Garrett and Allegany counties, with the winner of the Dairy Princess Pageant, held during June, "Dairy Month." The winner will be eligible to vie, at the state level, for the title of Maryland Dairy Princess.

Since 1961, 29 state princesses and hundreds of local princesses have served as spokespersons for the dairy industry in Maryland. They appear at shopping malls, fairs, supermarkets and on radio and television to educate consumers about the dairy farmers' product.

Any single young woman who has completed her junior year in high school, is not over 22 years of age, and whose parents have been engaged in producing milk within the last four years or at the present time, is eligible. Also eligible are girls who have taken dairy-related 4-H or FFA projects (with the exception of dairy goats and dairy steers) for at least two years.

If under 18, the contestant must have her parent's consent. She must be single, never married, have had no children and must not marry during her reign.

The Garrett-Allegany Dairy Princess must be available for personal appearances during the year of her reign, and must agree to meet reasonable requirements set forth by the regional and state committees. She may not hold a farm or 4-H queen title that would cross over for more than two months during her reign as Dairy Princess.

Nominate Your Favorite Cow To Be Featured During Dairy Month

"Get the Scoop on Dairy Foods" is the theme for the 1991 celebration of June Dairy Month. As part of that celebration, The Republican would like to "get the scoop" on your favorite dairy cow. Dairy cows are the basis of the industry and each dairyman, his wife and children or hired help has their favorite cow. The Republican Newspaper would like to recognize your favorite cow during June Dairy Month.

To nominate your favorite cow, send the following information to The Republican, c/o Bernice Kepple, farm editor, P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. Information needed includes the cow's name, production record, reason for nomination, owner's name, address, and phone number.

All nominations must be producing dairy cows; however, high-producing cows will not be the only ones picked to be featured. Your reasons for nomination may be that the cow was the first heifer calfborn on your farm, or your child's pet cow, or a cow with unusual markings, or a variety of other reasons.

The owners of the cows chosen will be contacted and an appointment made for a photo to be taken. That photo and information about the cow and her owners will be used in The Republican's farm section sometime during the month of June. A 5" by 7" black and white copy of the photo used in the newspaper will be mailed to the owners of the cow as a keepsake.

Cows to be featured will be chosen by The Republican's editorial staff. All nominations should be mailed to The Republican by June 15.

Maryland Farm Bureau Offers Scholarships

The Maryland Farm Bureau, the state's largest agricultural organization, will offer three $500 scholarships during the 1991-1992 academic year.

Applicants must be full time college students (or entering freshmen intending full time study) at any community college or four year institution.

One scholarship will be offered to members or the children of members with an agricultural curriculum major or non-agricultural curriculum major. Two scholarships will be offered to members or the children of members with an agricultural curriculum major.

Selection will be made by a committee designated by the Maryland Farm Bureau Board of Directors. To apply students must fill out an application form and write an unsigned letter covering the following topics: agricultural background; Farm Bureau/agricultural organization involvement; school and extra curricular activities; future career plans; and employment history.

Letters must be limited to two pages. The selection committee will evaluate each letter anonymously.

Scholarships will be awarded to deserving applicants at the Maryland Farm Bureau Convention, December 8-11, 1991. Applications are due by September 1, 1991. Recipients will be notified prior to the convention. Winners should plan to attend the December 10, 1991, banquet for recognition. The committee reserves the right to interview scholarship applicants for determination of winners.

Applications may be obtained by contacting J. Hansen Hoffman, Jr., administrator, Maryland Farm Bureau, 8930 Liberty Road, Randallstown, MD 21133, (301) 922-3426.

Milk Production Up

Milk production in Maryland totaled 123 million pounds during March, up two million pounds from March 1990. Both the number of cows and the production per cow were slightly above a year earlier.

Milk production in the 21 major states during March was one percent above a year ago. However, milk cow numbers were 35 thousand below March 1990.

Maryland Livestock Production Increases

The 1990 value of production for Maryland cattle and hog producers increased substantially over 1989 as both poundage and prices improved. However, both production and prices were down for sheep producers after a good year in 1989.

Cash receipts for cattle increased due to higher prices, but were moderated by declining sales due to inventory increases.

Soil and Water Stewardship Week; Its Origin And Observance Explained

"As You Sow" is the theme of the thirty-seventh annual Soil and Water Stewardship Week sponsored by the National Association of Conservation Districts. The dates for the 1991 observance were April 28 to May 5. The theme is a reminder that individual actions (good or bad) do have an impact on the earth's environmental health.

The world as we know it could not exist without a fruitful agriculture. A regular harvest is a critical matter. But nature, like man, is erratic. There are times when the very elements seem to conspire against a yield.

When the rains cease and the earth cracks, when storms and pestilence wreak their havoc, fields become barren and livestock grow gaunt in search of grass. It is then, and particularly in times of prolonged hardship, that the call goes out for divine intervention to ease the suffering and restore the bounty of the soil.

That is what happened in France more than 1,500 years ago in the city of Vienne and its surrounding countryside. Bad weather, fires and earthquakes had brought crop failures and widespread hunger. The people responded when the bishop of Vienne, Saint Mamertus, called for prayer and penance on the three days preceding Ascension Day.

Word of what happened in Vienne spread throughout France and then to other countries beyond the Alps. The supplication filled a need in the hearts and minds of the people and, as the years went by, the practice of setting aside these special days — Rogation Days — was widely established on an annual basis. By the end of the eighth century, the church formally adopted the custom.

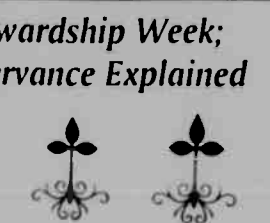

In this country, the decision to set aside a week each year to acknowledge our gratitude for God's gifts of soil and all the bountiful resources associated with it has met an evident need of a great many people.

The week — now known as Soil and Water Stewardship Week — has become a special time to remind all people that these gifts warrant their best in creative conservation and considerate management.

In 1966, the publishers of "Farm and Ranch" magazine took an initiative. They suggested to religious leaders in a number of southern states that one Sunday be set aside each year as a time for a special reminder to the men and women of their congregations about the ethical obligations of all people to serve as responsible stewards of the land.

The response of clergymen and laymen was so warm and widespread that observance of Soil Stewardship Sunday spread steadily to additional churches and additional states. In 1964, the publishers of the magazine (circulated primarily in the south) suggested to the officers of the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) that a still wider observance of Soil Stewardship Sunday could aid significantly in bringing about a national awakening and recognition of man's duties as stewards of the earth.

To help achieve this goal, the publishers offered to transfer their limited sponsorship of Soil Stewardship Sunday to NACD, which represents some 3,000 local conservation district organizations in all the states and territories of the nation. The NACD accepted and, beginning in 1965, undertook to foster the observance on a nationwide basis.

In its stewardship efforts, the association is guided by a Soil and Water Stewardship Committee, which includes clergymen advisors representing a number of the nation's major religious denominations. Many other church leaders have provided notable assistance. Officers and members of the NACD Auxiliary have been particularly helpful, as have members of several cooperating farm and conservation organizations.

The Soil and Water Stewardship Week observance, by its very nature, is one to be joined in by everyone who shares a sense of personal responsibility under God for the care of soil, water and other vital elements making up our environment. The prime concern of conservation districts, along with thousands of involved clergymen and laymen, is to encourage an evergrowing participation by Americans in this annual recognition of the continuing importance of thoughtful stewardship.

Small Grains Are In Heading Stage

By May 5, 38 percent of Maryland's winter wheat acreage was in the heading stage of development, ahead of last year's 33 percent. An average of 5.8 days was suitable for fieldwork during this past week according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, none of the topsoil was very short of moisture, 19 percent was short, 71 percent was adequate, and 10 percent was surplus. Subsoil moisture ended the week as follows: none was very short or short, 96 percent adequate, and five percent was surplus. All the small grains were in good condition across the state. Hay supplies were adequate. Pastures were in excellent condition.

Maryland's progress for the week ending May 5 follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage, and a percentage for the five-year average.

Western and North Central Maryland averaged 0.29 inch and 0.19 inch, respectively. Southern Maryland west of the Bay and the Eastern Shore averaged 0.18 and 0.29 inch, respectively. Temperatures averaged 64.3 degrees, 5.4 degrees above the normal of 58.9 for the April 26 to May 3 period. Weed Harvesting Orchardgrass

More and more orchardgrass is being grown as a major forage crop here in the county. Orchardgrass can be a very nutritious feed and the key to keeping the quality is to harvest early. I have seen several crops in excess of 20% crude protein. Some of the orchardgrass is ready to harvest. I would recommend that you apply 50 lbs. of nitrogen after you harvest. You will get a good response in growth from orchardgrass.

Big Business

McDonald's uses only U.S. produced beef at an estimated rate of nearly five million pounds daily (about 12% of the total U.S. beef supply). Overall, about 40% of all beef is marketed as around beef and McDonald's share is one-fourth.

Gypsy Moth Spraying

Plans are to start spraying for Gypsy Moth control after May 15. Spraying schedule will depend on the development of the oak leaves. The first areas to be sprayed will probably be in the lower elevations of Friendsville and Bloomington where the oaks leaf out earlier.

Asian Pears Show Promise

If you want to produce some backyard pears, I would suggest you plant an Asian variety. Asian pears are round like an apple. They also have the firmness and crunchiness of an apple, but they taste like a conventional pear, and they can be allowed to ripen on the tree. By contrast, conventional pears must be picked when green and kept in cold storage for four weeks to achieve best flavor.

The Asian pears grown in this country come from Japanese, Chinese and Korean parentage. So they are a mixture of various species. Japanese pears are tolerant of fireblight. There are about 200 varieties of Asian pears, but only about 20 are available commercially. One of the best from the standpoint of flavor and backyard adaptation is Nijisseki, a Japanese pear often seen in supermarkets. Asian pears cross-pollinate readily with the Bradford Ornamental pear and have a comparable hardiness range.

Mikulski, Sarbanes Fight To Keep Salmonella Task Force Alive

Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D-Md.) and Senator Paul S. Sarbanes (D-Md.) have requested that $3 million be set aside so that the Department of Agriculture can continue funding the USDA National Task Force on Salmonella Enteritidis for next year.

"This task force plays an important role in protecting the health of the people of Maryland and around the nation," said Senator Mikulski. "By making sure that consumers are getting a safe product, we are also making sure that the poultry industry remains a vital part of the Maryland economy."

"Salmonella is a disease which threatens not only egg and poultry production, but human health as well," added Senator Sarbanes. "The USDA Task Force has an important responsibility to combat the spread of this disease, and it is vital that the Task Force has sufficient funding to continue its work."

Dr. Roger Olson, assistant chief of Animal Health at the Department of Agriculture, Animal Health and Human Services, said, "Although salmonella causes nausea and diarrhea, it is seldom fatal. Fatalities may occur if the disease affects children, those on certain medications, those suffering from immune deficiencies, the elderly and debilitated."

The current concern over the safety of eggs began in 1988 when several salmonella related deaths occurred at a New York rest home, causing eggs from a Maryland producer to be embargoed. In an aggressive response, Maryland developed the first program designed to monitor egg quality, but the problem continued to spread throughout the eastern seacoast and then the nation. The USDA Task Force on Salmonella was formed in 1990 in response to the nationwide increase of salmonella in eggs and poultry.

Local Maryland health departments contact the task force after a possible salmonella diagnosis is made, then it traces the eggs back to the producer, eliminates the infected chickens and removes contaminated eggs from the market.

The Task Force also works to improve egg shipping and handling, educate the public on salmonella poisoning, regulate egg preparation in institutional kitchens and set standards for testing chickens for breeding.

For the past two years, funding for the task force has come from an emergency $6 million loan through the Commodity Credit Corporation. Now that the loan is expiring, Senators Mikulski and Sarbanes are requesting that the USDA be given a specific appropriation to keep the task force operating at the same level in 1992.

Consumers can get more information on preventing salmonella in the preparation and usage of eggs and chickens by calling or writing the Task Force on Salmonella's public information office at USDA - APHIS - LPA - PI, Rm 613 Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Rd., Hyattsville, MD 20782, (301) 436-7799.

Consumers may also call the USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline at (800) 535-4555 or (202) 447-3333.

NO. 1454 CIVIL ACTION IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND
ORDER OF PUBLICATION

This is to give notice that on the 10th day of April, 1991, a Petition was filed in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, by Patty L. Glover, Treasurer and Collector of Taxes for the State of Maryland and for Garrett County, Maryland against all unknown Defendants.

The Bill alleges in substance that the amount of property owned by the late Walter Weir and Thomas Weir, that all reasonable efforts were made to ascertain the heirs of the decedents, and believe Exhibit 5 filed therewith contains all heirs of the late Walter Weir and Thomas Weir, however, it is not known whether all heirs were ascertained and that the said sum shall be distributed to the known heirs as listed on Exhibit 5, unless cause to the contrary be shown.

The relief prayed in the Petition is substantially as follows: That an Order of Publication be issued against all unknown heirs of Walter Weir and Thomas Weir, warning them the Circuit Court for Garrett County shall pass an Order distributing the aforesaid sum of $6,100, less cost of $160.26, to the heirs as shown on Exhibit 5, unless cause to the contrary be shown.

WHEREUPON, it is ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, this 10th day of April, 1991, that the Petitioner cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in a newspaper published in Garrett County, once a week in each of four successive weeks, before the 10th day of May, 1991, giving notice to the said Defendants of the objects and substance of the Petition and warning them to show cause, if any there may be, on or before the 10th day of June, 1991, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Deep Creek Lake Cleanup Slated May 18-19

The Deep Creek Lake Management Program will be sponsoring its annual drive to clean up the Penelec buffer strip and land around Deep Creek Lake on Saturday, May 18, and Sunday, May 19, according to Paul Durham, lake manager.

Through a cooperative effort with the Deep Creek Lake Businessmen's Association, Arrowhead, Inc., and the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association, Durham said he hopes that this will continue to be a yearly effort which will insure the "beauty and integrity" of the shoreline surrounding the lake.

According to Durham, the most important contributor to the success of this project, however, will be the efforts of the individual landowners who have property around the lake. "It is hoped that all landowners in the lake area will take the time to gather up separated pieces of lumber from old docks, and empty barrels, provided holes have been punched in both ends of the barrels," said Durham.

He noted that such articles should be placed on the lake side of the roads immediately adjacent to Deep Creek Lake. It should be noted that the volunteers will not pick up leaves, brush, tires, household litter, stumps, or driftwood.

The roads that will be followed by the volunteers on Sunday, May 19, include the following: Marsh Hill Road, Deep Creek Drive (old U.S. Rt. 219), Lake Shore Drive, Mayhew Inn Road (Lake Shore Drive to breast of dam), Lake Forest Drive, Skipper's Point Road, Stockslager Road (along lake only), Shingle Camp Road (lake end), U.S. Route 219 between Deep Creek Bridge and Thayerville, Rock Lodge Road (along lake), State Park Road (Cherry Creek-Glendale Bridge), John Brant Road, Glendale Road (along lake), Glen Cove Road (along lake).

IT TAKES SO LITTLE to thrill a young child, such as the art of blowing bubbles. These kiddies took a recess from playschool yesterday to go out, enjoy the sunshine, and create hundreds of soapy spheres that drifted high into the air. The weather persons promise that excellent bubble-blowing weather, complete with July-like temperatures, will continue at least through tomorrow. Pictured above are Allison Richler, daughter of Dr. Donald Richter and Sheila Edwards, Oakland, and Jamie Peterson, son of Tom and Sue Peterson, also of Oakland. Photos by Craig Phillips.

Garrett County To Celebrate Pike Festival This Weekend

by Esther Bender
Garrett County will celebrate the National Pike Festival on May 18-19 with a wagon train, activities at the Grantsville Lions Park, and associated events.

Grantsville is the town with the highest elevation on the National Road, the Pike's Peak of the pike! Four miles east of town, the site of General Washington's and Braddock's Little Meadows encampments, written about in history books, still sleeps peacefully much as it did in early days. There is an iron marker by the highway. Otherwise, it is claimed by the birds and wildlife that live there.

Enough of history! What is there to see and do today in Garrett County?

You may want to see the wagon train. To see it in motion, drive east to meet it on the appropriate section of road (Route 40). The train will have a radio-assisted police escort to keep traffic moving and communicate with the wagonmaster. The published schedule for the wagon train lists approximate times. Wagonmasters say it is difficult to keep horses on a rigid schedule.

Saturday at the Grantsville Park, the Lions will be stocking up the barbecue pits for rafts of chicken. The first chicken will come off the fire at about 2:30 p.m. Northern Band Boosters will have a food booth from 11 a.m. on. There are swings and a jungle gym for the little kids, tennis courts, softball fields, flushing bathrooms, several pavilions, and plenty of grassy space.

The wagon train should roll in about 3 p.m. They will be setting up camp above the ball field and making a bonfire for their open kettle chili feast. Visitors are welcome to roam through the camp.

At 4 p.m., Grantsville School children will present a musical under the direction of Mark Ravenscroft. This will be followed by recognition of school kids with winning entries in the National Pike Poster Contest and a drawing for the grand prize.

The rest of the evening will be taken up by music and storytelling as announced on the schedule. The Birkby family, Alan and Alta and son Phillip, took both Maryland and Pennsylvania fiddling championships this year so they should be in fine form for stompin' good music. "Hammers and Strings," a group from the Oakland area, will play old-time music on old-time dulcimers.

Evenings in Grantsville Park are well appreciated by the local folks. Join them with your own folding chairs and blankets for sitting on the ground.

Also, on Saturday, you may want to go down the street (easy to walk) to the fire hall for a flea market and refreshments or down the hill (by car) to the

Oakland Residents Voice Opposition To Renovation Of Bradley Manor

Approximately 60 persons attended an Oakland Town Meeting, held Tuesday evening at the local fire hall, to hear more about the proposed renovation of Bradley Manor, now the subject of a federal bankruptcy court hearing in Baltimore, as well as to voice their opposition to such a venture.

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and Attorney Robert Watson discussed the present situation with the citizens, explaining that the court battle is between the Oakland Associates, which is a group of Baltimore business people headed by Morton Sarubin, and the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Watson explained that Sarubin and the Oakland Associates are attempting to claim "Chapter 11" bankruptcy. In order to do so, they must have a reorganizational plan approved by a bankruptcy court judge. Sarubin's plan in this situation is to renovate Bradley Manor in the span of eight months, and to sell the individual units. Watson explained that the housing development is simply a tax write-off for the members of the Oakland Associates, and if they do not succeed in receiving Chapter 11 bankruptcy, they will no longer be able to claim it as such.

"If the Oakland Associates achieve Chapter 11, they can literally put creditors off for years," Watson said. The town of Oakland is one of the creditors of the Oakland Associates, who currently owes Oakland $21,059.25 and the county $52,941.21 in back taxes.

HUD's goal is to retain the development and sell it to the town. If this occurs, McCain said, the entire decaying project will be demolished at a total cost of approximately $85,000. HUD also wishes to avoid paying Sarubin money he says HUD owes the Oakland Associates, citing a 30-year contract, ten years of which remain. Sarubin claims that the contract is binding, and that HUD owes the Oakland Associates an amount of $273,000 per year for the next ten years. HUD representatives stated that this claim is unfounded.

The federal housing department's case is built on evidence showing that Bradley Manor cannot possibly be renovated because of its dilapidated state. Watson explained that a building expert inspected the area, and came to the same conclusion after finding multiple bare wires, a leaking water system, unstable walls, and extremely weak or non-existent foundations.

The town has tried to claim the area a fire hazard, and the county's fire marshal agreed. However, when the state fire marshal inspected the area, he only advised that the owners should cut the tall grass and board up the windows, as well as keep the water system turned on. The water system is leaking, McCain said, and gallons of water per day are lost when the system is activated.

If HUD can prove that the Sarubin plan is unworkable, the Oakland Associates will not achieve Chapter 11 bankruptcy. If the judge agrees with Sarubin and grants Chapter 11, Oakland Associates will be free to renovate. At this point HUD, with the assistance of the town of Oakland, will most likely appeal the case.

The final hearing before the judge's decision is announced will be held Monday, May 20. McCain and Watson will attend, although they may only be spectators. The hearings thus far have been frustrating in that many objections made by Oakland's attorney (of Shapiro and Olander) have been quickly overruled by the presiding judge, often with no explanation. However, Sarubin's time on the stand was reportedly lengthy. McCain did explain that a great deal of both verbal and physical evidence in support of Oakland's stance has been entered in the hearing documents, and will be re-examined.

B&L To Sponsor Olympic Games; Events Slated

Bausch & Lomb has recently signed contracts with the International Olympic Committee and the Olympic organizing committees to become a worldwide sponsor of the 1992 Olympic Games to be held in Albertville, France and Barcelona, Spain.

In preparation for the event, special Olympic committees have been formed at each location to promote and become involved with the sponsorship. Jill Strapeson will be the committee chairperson at the Oakland location, with the following Bausch & Lomb employees as members of the committee: Betty Isaacson, Debbie Taylor, Linda Riley, Suzanne Clotfely, Sue Sharpless, Lori Malcolm, Chip Snyder, Ron Junkins and Sam Hook.

The committee is in the early stages of planning an array of activities to be held throughout 1991, the first of which is an Olympic Extravaganza scheduled for Sunday, May 19, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Bausch & Lomb parking lot. Rain date will be June 2.

Scheduled to appear at the event are Miss Maryland Kimberly Grimm, Tammy Tressler's Garrett Gymnast Club and the Ali Ghan Shrine Clown Unit. Scheduled events include face painting, raffles, a large flea market, as well as prizes for children, hand-dipped ice cream, freshly popped corn and a variety of other food items.

Admission will be $1 per car. All Bausch & Lomb employees displaying identification passes will be admitted free of charge.

The modern Olympic games were revived in the late 1800's by a French health and sports enthusiast, in support of peace. It is estimated that about 10,000 athletes from 166 nations will compete in the 1992 Olympics.

Two Local Men Found Guilty In Separate Sexual Offense Cases

A Mtn. Lake Park man and a Deer Park man were both found guilty of separate sex offense charges against them in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Dale W. Alexander, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to a fourth-degree sex offense (sexual contact with an underage victim without his consent).

Judge Jack R. Turney accepted Alexander's plea and sentenced him to one year in the Garrett County Jail. He will be ordered an appropriate probation following his release from prison.

Alexander had also been charged with a third-degree sex offense and battery. In a plea agreement with the State's Attorney, the other two charges were not prosecuted.

Alexander was charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department with the sex counts on April 4 after allegedly engaging in sexual contact with an 11-year-old male juvenile.

School Board Instructed To Cut 14% Off Budget Request; No Specifications

The Garrett County Commissioners returned the Garrett County School Board's 1992 fiscal year budget request with instructions to cut it by 14%.

"The Board of Garrett County Commissioners have during (its) budgetary deliberation determined that your budgetary request for fiscal year 1992 is unaffordable," states a letter to the education board.

While the commissioners granted a 12.5% increase last year, this year's budget pared down 14% will represent an increase of approximately 2.4%. Both the instruction and the quick response of the commissioners were unexpected by the board members.

"I was surprised that they reacted so quickly," Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage stated. "They usually take a lot more time. The implications of this request are very serious."

Ryscavage went on to explain that the school board will most likely have to cut the items previously prioritized, including the six percent salary increase for education employees, transportation funding, black top paving at Accident Elementary School, and food service at Camp Hickory. Ryscavage later commented that even a three percent raise for employees will be in jeopardy after the cut.

However, before making any decision to pare down the budget, board members decided to request a clarification from the commissioners as to how they arrived at the 14% figure. While the elected officials maintained two weeks ago that it was their right and duty to designate how funds are to be allocated and/or cut, they have now returned that responsibility to the school board, as indicated in the closing of the letter: "It should be noted that as part of your responsibility as the elected county school board (you are to) redistribute these funds in the manner which is in the best interest of the students."

The board members expressed frustration over the request, and astonishment at the difference in last year's increase compared to this year's.

"I think people should be outraged," Board Member Mikal Moomau said. "As taxpayers, parents, teachers, we should all be angry about this. They (commissioners) keep saying we have a communication problem. We don't have a communication problem—we've been open about every decision. We need to know their thought processes in going from last year's 12.5% increase to this 2.4%."

Board President Beverly Murphy was also dismayed at the request.

"I'm very disappointed that the commissioners can't see the importance of education in this county. Until we can all see it, we're going to continue having these battles," Mrs. Murphy said. Concerning the unspecified request, the board president said, "I believe we have been open with them. They should grant us the same courtesy."

James Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers' Association (GCTA), commented, "We (the teach-

Plans Finalized For Garrett CC Commencement

When the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums sound the notes of "Bluebells of Scotland" this Saturday, May 18, the academic procession for the 19th annual commencement at the college will begin. The public is invited to the ceremony scheduled for 10:30 a.m. in the college gymnasium.

Speaker for the commencement will be Clarence M. Bacon, director of the Maryland Veterans Commission. He will be introduced by college president Dr. Steve Herman.

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, will present candidates for degrees to Charles C. Bender, vice chairperson of the Board of Trustees, who will confer the degrees and certificates. Dr. Mitchell will also announce the graduate awards, the recipient of the Ann Dilgard Scholarship award, and the names of graduates selected for Who's Who.

Approximately 80 students are expected to receive degrees and certificates at Saturday's ceremony that will include musical selections by the Mt. Top Brass Quintet and the college chorus. Rev. A. Ray Beahm will give the invocation and the benediction.

Following the commencement ceremony, a reception will be held in the Student Center for all graduates, their families, and guests.

BAUSCH & LOMB OLYMPIC COMMITTEE FORMED -- A planning and promotion committee has been formed at Bausch & Lomb, and is now in the early stages of planning an array of events in celebration of Bausch & Lomb becoming a world-wide sponsor of the 1992 Olympic games to be held in Albertville, France and Barcelona, Spain. The first event to be sponsored by the committee will be held this Sunday, May 19, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., in the parking lot at Bausch & Lomb. The "Olympic Extravaganza" will feature appearances by Kimberly Grimm (Miss Maryland) and Tammy Tressler's Garrett Gymnast Club. Pictured above, left to right, are members of the committee, Debbie Taylor, Betty Isaacson, Pam Hook, Suzanne Clotfely, Chip Snyder, Ron Junkins, Jill Strapeson (chairperson), Linda Riley and Sue Sharpless. Not present at the time the photograph was taken was committee member Lori Taylor.

AS BRADLEY MANOR SLOWLY ROTS in western Oakland, a federal bankruptcy court battle rages in Baltimore concerning the possible renovation of the housing development. The units were erected in the early 1970's and occupied for only 14 years before being closed down by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in July of 1985. Now Morton Sarubin of the Oakland Associates (owners and developers of the complex) is claiming that the area can be renovated. The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are opposed to the plan, as are many citizens. The outcome of the bankruptcy hearing will be known next week. See story.

Oakland Man Arrested After Eluding Deputy

An Oakland man was arrested on several charges Tuesday evening after a conflict with a deputy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The violations included assault, reckless endangerment, and eluding a police officer.

Mark J. Harvey, 26, was reportedly operating a dirt bike on the Vindex Road in Kitzmiller when Sheriff Deputy J. Sowers motioned to him to stop. Harvey proceeded to accelerate, driving toward the deputy, who was standing in the middle of the road. Sowers again ordered him to stop, but the defendant continued toward him, and when passing by, reportedly reached out and struck the officer.

Harvey was charged with $500 in traffic citations, including two "must appear" orders, in addition to the charges listed above. He was also cited with failure to obey the order of a police officer during the 8:25 p.m. incident.

The defendant was incarcerated in lieu of $500 originally, but after a review of the altercation, the bond was increased to $5,000.

In other Sheriff's Office news, a Deer Park man was cited for operating an automobile at a speed greater than reasonable after he was involved in a single vehicle accident.

B&L EMPLOYEES PRESENT CHECK -- The employees of Bausch & Lomb Corporation recently presented a $10,000 check to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation as payment on their Capital Campaign pledge. The B&L employees pledged $50,000, which was then matched by the B&L Corporation, making the five-year $100,000 pledge one of the largest pledges received during the Capital Campaign. On hand for the presentation were, left to right, Elaine McDonald, vice chairman of the Foundation; Terry Weaver, vice president for the Financial Services at GCMH; Fernando Fajardo, Norma Dawson, Mike Kitzmiller, Donnie Tichnell, Maxine Eliesy, and Aletha Dunihan, employees of Bausch & Lomb.

Douglas E. Fitzwater, 31, was operating a 1978 Chevrolet truck northbound on Rt. 560 south of Dr. Tolson Road when he reportedly failed to negotiate a sharp turn. The truck traveled to the right side of the road way, flipped over, and came to rest on its top in the middle of the road.

Fitzwater was transported to the Garrett Memorial Hospital following the accident, where he was treated and released. The truck was damaged extensively, according to the police report.

David A. Smith, 24, Oakland, was arrested May 9 on the charge of battery against Barbara J. Steyer, Mountain Lake Park. The two were apparently involved in a domestic dispute when Smith grasped Ms. Steyer's neck and began choking her. He then went to the kitchen and reportedly said he was going to get a knife to cut her, and threatened to kill her. The victim ran from the house to a neighbor's, where she notified the Sheriff's Office.

Deputy C. Feller arrested Smith, who apparently cursed and yelled in the patrol car while being transferred to the Garrett County Jail, where he was incarcerated.

Harold B. Burgess, 39, was arrested on the strength of a warrant for battery. Burgess apparently battered a Friendsville female (no age given) on April 21 at 2:30 a.m.

The defendant was located in Morgantown, W.Va., where he waived extradition and was brought back to Garrett County.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Dennis F. Sullivan, 38, Wewahatchka, Florida. Sullivan was charged for giving threatening phone calls to Arbutus L. Sullivan on January 5. A criminal summons was served originally, but was recalled and the warrant was issued, which was served on May 6.

Two incidents of underage drinking were reported by the Sheriff's Office this week, involving several area teenagers.

Robert Morgan, caretaker of Del-Across Farm on Herrington Manor Road, called police on May 12 at 1:50 a.m. to report possible trespassing on the farm. Morgan reportedly heard what he thought to be a shot from somewhere behind a white show barn, located approximately one fourth of a mile south of Herrington Manor State Park. Morgan found the access gates opened and saw vehicle lights in the field.

Cpl. R. Sines investigated the scene, and found three cars parked around a campfire that was littered with beer cans and wine cooler bottles. Seven teenagers, who were sleeping in the vehicles, were given alcohol tests. Three were charged with underage drinking: a 17-year-old male, a 16-year-old male, and a 16-year-old female.

The youths were then transported to the Sheriff's Office where their parents were notified. They were then released into the custody of their parents.

Morgan decided not to pursue trespassing charges, according to the report.

In a separate incident, a 14-year-old Elk Garden, W.Va., boy was cited for underage drinking. Dep. Crossland was patrolling the town of Kitzmiller on the evening of May 9 when he observed two boys behaving suspiciously. When the officer approached them, they reportedly fled on foot.

One teenager was caught by the officer, and was under the influence of alcohol. The teenager was cited and then released into the custody of his mother.

Earl L. Dawson, 24, Elk Garden, W.Va., was arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI) on May 13. Dep. J. Murphy observed Dawson operating his vehicle in an erratic manner on Boiling Spring Road at 10:20 p.m.

A body attachment order was issued by Garrett County District Court for DeWayne E. Ashby, 38, Oakland. Ashby reportedly failed to appear in court on April 22. The body attachment was enforced on May 9.

Judge Fred A. Thayer of the Garrett County Circuit Court issued a warrant for the arrest of Roger C. Nolf, 55, Confluence, Pa., on the charge of violation of probation. The warrant was served on May 9.

Two bench warrants from district court were issued for Debra A. McRobie, 31, for failure to pay deferred payments. The warrants were served on May 9.

Other persons served with district court bench warrants for failure to pay deferred payments are as follows: Debra A. Hinebaugh, 31, Deer Park; Jeremy S. DeWitt, 19, Oakland; Sinele A. Brown, 28, Mtn. Lake Park; and Paul A. Dixon II, 30, Oakland.

Vehicular Hit & Run Incidents Reported

Two vehicular hit and run incidents were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office recently. The incidents resulted in a combined damage estimate of over $700.

Judith M. Sousa, Tyler-town, Miss., told police that she had parked her 1985

Schoolhouse Earth Donates Art Items For GLAF Gala Benefit

GATHERS ART FOR GLAF AUCTION -- GLAF auction chair Diane Thayer, kneeling in photo, recently visited Kathy and Tom Graham of Schoolhouse Earth to gather a "LamieDoodle" Gardner occasional table, and Jerri Ryel "Noah's Art" print, which are among several works of art and other items to be auctioned at the June 22 gala benefit called "What's Black and White?" "Oatie," the Grahams' family dog, by the way, is not up for sale.

Four special items to be auctioned at this year's June 22 Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Gala Benefit -- with the theme "What's Black and White?" -- have come from Schoolhouse Earth, owned and operated by Tom and Nancy Graham, long-time supporters of the annual fund-raiser.

Depicting an Amish theme, a limited edition print by Ben C. Richmond, called "The Gathering," was donated by the Grahams, who continually look for uniqueness and quality in not only the art their shop carries, but in all of its crafts, toys, and country accessories.

"We look for artists who have the same compassion about their work as we do about our shop," notes Tom Graham, who, together with wife Nancy, abandoned former "real" jobs to open Schoolhouse Earth near Deep Creek Lake in 1985. Besides works of art, the shop also retails unusual home furnishings like a small black and maple occasional table from the Gardner furniture line, folk art such as "Noah's Art" by Jerri Ryel, and whimsical children's toys like the stuffed "LamieDoodle" -- all items that will also be sold to the highest bidder at the benefit's auction.

"Businesses don't have to be impersonal and if people really loved what they did for a living, everyone would be happier," says the local couple, who year after year have supported the arts festival's annual benefit through contributions and "plenty of time and attention."

Besides Schoolhouse Earth, which represents many different artists and artisans, several other local artists have submitted works to be auctioned, including Charles "Chip" Evans, Ken Bauer, Patricia Filsinger, James McNeil and Robert Yonke.

For GLAF Benefit ticket information, persons may call 387-6371. Tickets will be mailed.

Health Advisory Comm. To Develop Health Objectives

The recently formed Garrett County Health Advisory Committee will hold its first meeting Tuesday, May 21, from 7-9 p.m., in Rm. 307, of the Continuing Education Center at Garrett Community College.

The committee will examine Garrett County's health problems and develop plans to deal with those problems. According to Garrett County Health Department officials, "All county residents are going to be asked for their input regarding Garrett County-specific health services programming for the 1990's and health objectives for the year 2000."

The first phase of this effort was to formulate the committee to give local residents a voice in the examination of the county's health problems. The committee will be involved in the assessment of the health needs of the community, the development and prioritization of county-specific health objectives, as well as the development of a community health plan.

The advisory committee includes key representatives from organizations throughout the county. They are as follows: Lois Ayers, Jerry Beachy, Milford Beckman, M. Van Evans, Marjorie Fratz, Richard Green, Dr. Steve Herman, Alice Hevner, Martha Jachowski, Rev. Robert Johnson, Wendell Keaton, Jack King, Terry King, Sandra J. Kolb, Mary Ellen Lichty, Diane Roberson, Ben Rosenthal, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Dr. Alta Schrock, Charlotte Sebold, Robert Shaffer, James Sherbin, Donald Sincell, Fred A. Thayer and Duane Yoder.

Tom Bratten and Dr. Alvin Friend will serve as ex-officio members.

The public is invited and encouraged to attend the first and all subsequent meetings of the Health Advisory Committee. More information may be obtained by calling the Garrett County Health Department at 334-8116.

County Receives School Computer Equipment Grant

The Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) has selected six local education agencies in Maryland, including the Garrett County Board of Education, to receive $2,000 grants to purchase computer equipment to operate "Visions," the state's computer-based career information software program.

According to Charles O. Middlebrooks, DEED assistant secretary for employment and training, the grants are also being issued to local education agencies in Kent, Worcester, Caroline, Somerset, and Wicomico counties.

"The Visions software system resulted from our interest in developing a user-friendly, computer-based software program that could help students in their career planning efforts," said Middlebrooks. "The Discover Division of the American College Testing Program in Hunt Valley, Maryland, was able to meet the challenge and these grants are helping to make the program accessible to more people."

Visions, which was introduced last fall, offers comprehensive information about more than 450 occupations, 3,000 two- and four-year colleges and universities, nearly 200 Maryland apprenticeship programs, over 600 Maryland apprenticeship sponsors, high school equivalency programs, 41 state and federal financial aid programs and 95 vocational education programs.

High school and college students, people making career changes, displaced homemakers, veterans, students-at-risk, single parents and displaced workers are only a few categories of people encouraged to use the career information system.

The Maryland State Department of Education has provided funds to enable DEED to issue the grants to the six local education agencies. Once the additional software packages and computers are purchased, the number of sites where Visions may be found will increase to 120. Eventually, the program will be available at over 350 sites statewide.

For information about the nearest site where Visions is located, the public may call the Maryland Occupational Information Coordinating Committee at DEED at (301) 333-5478.

Irresponsible Action...

The Garrett County commissioners have labeled the Board of Education's proposed budget for the 1991-92 school year "unaffordable." We wish to label this action "irresponsible."

The commissioners have instructed the Board to cut its overall budget request by 14 percent, which means they have awarded about a two and one-half percent increase over what was granted last year. This means that teachers can forget about their six percent salary increase, plus everything else on the list of priorities and needs throughout the county school system, including student supplies, will be slashed to the same bare bones they have been for several years now.

We absolutely do not understand the thinking of the commissioners. Are they so paranoid about raising taxes and possibly harming their own political futures that they are willing to sacrifice quality in education for thousands of young people in Garrett County? Monies paid for education should not be viewed as an expense, or money down a rat hole. They should be viewed as investments in our future as a county and in the future of every single student who travels through the system. We OWE this to our children! If you three commissioners aren't willing to fulfill such an obligation, then you should remove yourselves from office.

Yes, we know there is waste in every budget, and we have harped and harped on our objection to the administrative and supervisory personnel of the Board of Education receiving the same percentage pay increase as the teachers receive. We are still disappointed that the A&S people haven't done the courageous and equitable thing and agreed to turn down a pay increase this year. But this represents only a tiny percentage of the overall budget.

It would require a tax increase of approximately 20 cents per $100 of assessed value to provide an additional million dollars for education in Garrett County. A 20-cent jump is, without question, a big jump. But in real dollars, it represents about a $50 annual tax increase for the average Garrett County property owner. That is less than 15 cents per day! FIFTEEN CENTS PER DAY!

The commissioners are not serving in the best interest of our county and its citizens by "holding the line on taxes" when it comes to education, and we encourage all readers who agree with this position to call the county commissioners and tell them so.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's Note: The writer of the following letter to Roddy Durst, a member of the Board of Education, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Mr. Durst,

At the recent county commissioners' meeting you took issue with the hourly rate for teaching professionals, basing your calculation on a crude formula which clearly distorts the issue and brings to question your role as a member of the Garrett County Board of Education. The formula you used, supplied at a previous Board of Education meeting by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryseavagi, takes into account nothing but the exact contractual days and hours required for teachers during the school year (187 days x 7.5 hours).

The formula you chose to present reflects a situation we label as "work to rule" where employees only work the contractual job requirements and hours, for a teacher, that means papers which cannot be graded during the work day get put on hold. Science fairs, excellence programs, PTA meetings, field trips, etc., are all eliminated from the school program. Surely you don't want education in Garrett County to come down to a "work to rule." Surely you don't want the teachers to leave papers unchecked and our schools and extra activities vacant after the children leave for the regular school day.

To show you how ridiculous it was for you to say, "I do believe in this day and age, $20 an hour is an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. We're not paying you for a whole year - we're paying you for 187 days," I've decided to make a similar hourly calculation to share with the tax-paying public. As a member of the Garrett County Board of Education, you collect an annual salary of $3,600 for the 12 meetings you are required to attend. The agenda for your meeting usually reflects an approximate 7.5-hour business day. With this information in mind, one could conclude for your 90 hours of service (12 meetings x 7.5 hours) per year, you are being compensated $40.00 per hour ($300 per day from public tax dollars as an elected official, twice the hourly rate of a teaching professional. Now, if we factor in that a teacher spends a minimum of four years of training and preparation plus expends tens of thousands of dollars to be come a teacher and a Board member simply pays a $25.00 election filing fee, it may seem ludicrous to pay such an exorbitant amount to govern the public school system.

In closing, I hope you realize how unfair it was for this distorted information to be used to justify one's position or other's salaries. I believe undermining the salaries of the lowest paid teachers in the State of Maryland is an injustice to our educational community. Basically, our response is simple: Teachers don't work by the hour - our product is far too important.

Sincerely,
Jim Raley, President
Garrett County Teachers Association

To the Editor:

What happened to the news of the troops in the Gulf? There doesn't seem to be anymore. The war is over, the fighting is stopped, and so has the caring. I'm sure a lot of people feel the same way I do: thank GOD the fighting is over, but what about the people still in the Gulf? When the war first started everywhere you looked there was support for the troops. Anytime you listened to a conversation there was always talk of war. Now it's all over. Organizations, churches, clubs, etc., were sending packages in numbers, now there's hardly any mention. A lot of troops have come home and I'm happy for them and their families, but what about the troops still there?

It's very hard for the troops over there now when they wonder everyday when we're going home. They went over for the war, now the war is over and they are still there. When the war first

Elder Abuse - A Growing Epidemic

by Adina Brude, Director
Garrett County Agency on Aging

Each year our nation designates the month of May as Older American's Month, a time during which the Aging Network encourages communities to recognize the value of their elderly citizens. Unfortunately, during this "special" time, as throughout the year, elderly individuals are being abused! Actual incidence figures are unavailable due to the lack of reporting. However, it is estimated approximately two million elderly Americans are abused yearly, which is 4% of the 60+ population.

The estimates do not include institutional abuse, but rather abuse, neglect, and exploitation in the domestic setting.

Garrett County elders may not suffer as high a rate of abuse; data derived from a 1988 national study, which included 24 states, indicates a 1% lower report rate in rural states as opposed to urban states. Even so, the problem does exist in the county as evidenced by the number of complaints filed with Department of Social Services in 1991.

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging has decided to take steps to increase public awareness of this appalling problem through a two-part educational series with the hope of reducing or eliminating elder abuse in Garrett County.

The first of our two-part series which follows explains what elder abuse is, who the victims and abusers are, and why it happens. The information provided in the series has been taken from the Scriptographic Booklet, Channing L. Bete Co., Inc., entitled "What Everyone Should Know About Elder Abuse." Copies of these booklets are available by contacting the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, 301-334-5856 or 301-334-9431.

WHAT IS ELDER ABUSE?

Elder abuse is the mistreatment or neglect of an elderly person. The abuser is typically a relative or other individual in a caregiving role. Because elder abuse happens more often than you might imagine, it is a very serious problem. Nobody wants to believe that adults, children, or other caregivers abuse elderly people, but elder abuse happens frequently.

Elder abuse may include emotional, physical, or verbal abuse; financial exploitation; neglect; threats of assault; and violation of an elderly person's rights. Many victims are ashamed or unable to report abuse, or fear reprisals if they do speak up.

You can help end elder abuse by being aware that a serious problem exists and by learning what you can do about it.

THE VICTIMS AND THE ABUSERS

Many victims are age 75 or over, more often female, frequently suffering from mental or physical impairment, and relying on the abuser for basic needs. However, many victims are financially independent and in good health. Emotional problems between relatives or caregivers may lead to abuse.

Typically, the abuser is a family member who acts in a caregiving role. Abusers may suffer from stress due to marital or personal problems, lack of money, or strain of caring for an older person. Unless caregivers find a way to relieve this stress, the possibility of abuse increases.

While an elderly abuse victim may depend on the abuser for basic needs, the reverse may also be true. An abusive relative may rely on the elder for their own needs, especially money or housing.

WHY ELDER ABUSE HAPPENS

Caring for an elderly relative can be exhausting. Family members may resent the demands placed on them. Often a dependent elderly person returns to his or her family after being away for many years. If love and friendship for the relative are missing in the family, abuse may follow.

Because people are living longer, there are more elderly than ever before in our society. Without the needed health and social services in the community, caregivers may be unable to cope with the responsibility of caring for an aged relative.

Many families caring for older people are on limited incomes. Caregivers or relatives may depend on the elderly person for money to help meet rising costs. This situation may lead to abuse.

To find out more about available services and to receive a free copy of the booklet entitled, "What Everyone Should Know About Elder Abuse," contact the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging at 334-5856 or 334-9431.

started it took an average of 4-5 weeks to get something sent to a loved one. Now they receive packages and letters within 4-5 days. Why? Because nobody but immediate family is sending anything because the war is over.

From talking to families, and I have family over there still, it's becoming very hard for them now. The days are getting very hot, therefore they can't work as many hours in a row. They work for a while and rest because of the heat, then go back to work.

The unit my brother is in has been in Saudi Arabia since the first of January. He was in Ft. Pickett over Thanksgiving and left for the desert the first week of January. Those guys have missed holidays with loved ones, a lot of them have missed births of babies, a lot of them are missing their children's graduations, something they have worked for 18 years and for some, the only chance they will have. They have the time to sit and think about things like this. They were receiving mail from people they didn't even know every day. Now the only mail they get is from family because the war is almost a forgotten thing already.

A few weeks ago you sat glued to the TV for news of a loved one, now you sit and search for some little bit of news. These guys are not scheduled to leave until as late as January, 1992.

Take a few minutes out and think of the troops. Take a little time out and send a card to a soldier. I had a woman tell me the other day that she has continued to pray and will continue to pray until the last one returns home and she said she has even started to pray for the people who have quit praying that they will start praying again.

For a lot of troops, the war is not over. They still contend with the heat, the sand, and heartache of being away from their families. Also, give a minute's thought of the families who still have loved ones in Saudi Arabia. These families have been without them for 16 months and have another 6-8 months to face. It's not easy. And remember, there is still a need for supplies, cards, letters and, most of all, a lot of prayers.

To the Editor:

I was 10 years old at the end of World War II. In the 11th and 82nd Airborne during the Korean War, and fighting demonstrators when the Vietnam War was in progress.

The people of this country listened to the wrong message. Most of the demonstrators were drugged out of their minds. After 250 arrests were made and everything broke up, I had the unpleasant duty of questioning two young teenage girls on what it was that compelled them to demonstrate against the war. Their answer, "What war? We're here for the drugs and sex that come after the demonstrations."

The media harped about the innocent civilians who were wantonly killed, but left out the actual circumstances. (You sell more newspapers that way.)

One major, in tears, explained that he would be passing a woman, sitting with a child on each side of her spread-out skirt which hid automatic weapons. Still waving and smiling as the men passed, the children would pull out the weapons and shoot his men in the back. This man was tortured by the fact that to save himself and his men, he had to shoot a woman and children.

The media didn't explain that half-naked children were sent to the perimeter with unprimed hand grenades stuffed in their arm pits, begging for food. When the G.I. picked them up, they both died.

The men and women who survived this hell, along with the normal war, returned home to a special brand of homemade hell from their neighbors, friends, and yes, even veterans of other wars. The shame is ours.

Now we are preparing to welcome home our new war veterans and I'm all for it. Let love of country and pride in our fighting men and women steal the hour and days to come. But I also think it's time to say, "I'm proud of you, Vietnam veteran, and I'm sorry for the way some people treated you."

You guys and gals who served in Vietnam were great and I'm proud to know you.

To the Editor:

The Charter Committee, drafting a charter for Garrett County, has the option of providing for an elected or an appointed county executive. An appointed county executive exists, to my knowledge, only in one county in Maryland.

If the Charter Committee were to provide for an appointed county executive, such appointment by the county council would be contrary to the charter government's being a more representative government as claimed by the advocates of charter government.

The Mind Wanders

For Whom Does The Bell Toll?
English Language, the Bell Tolls for Thee.

By Mary Sincell McEwen

The subject of this column has more than once been about proper grammar. In fact, it's been the topic more than twice or three times, we think. But, I work as a writer in an office with three other writers, and the glaring grammatical errors made every single day by so many people - politicians, newscasters, public education representatives - grate on our nerves so badly that at least one of us daily threatens either to write about it, call someone up and really fuss about it, or leap from our second story window screaming, with the error-ridden papers glued to our heads in a wild rebellious rage. I've chosen to write about it.

The following is a list of words and phrases often misused, which get high marks in the "Cheesh!" category here in the office: In regards to, due to, sit/set, it's/its, lie/lay, went/gone, fiscal/physical year, became/become, try and try to, and a really irritating agreement error made with the noun "Association" or any other word for a group.

Okay, now that I've gotten lots of folks annoyed, here is the first sentence, which contains at least four errors:

"Due to a recent hubbub in the county commissioners' office, its became obvious that one elected official is laying low in regards to a healthy lump of cash that he decided to take from the county in order to try and get a master's degree in administration."

First error: the word "due" really only pertains to money owed. Honestly. Yes, even Peter Jennings uses it this way, but according to most dictionaries, using "due to" in this manner is an "Americanism," which means it's wrong but Americans say it anyhow because they want to. Of course, a certain debt is mentioned in this sentence, but apparently it doesn't count.

"Its became" just hurts, doesn't it? Firstly, "its" needs an apostrophe in this case, and became ought to be become. The other things is like this: He is, She is, It is - He's taken, She's taken, It's a real mess. Or, His, Hers, Its - His conscience, Her motive, Its consequences. And that's that.

"Laying low" should be lying low. A person lies down, or he lay down yesterday. People lie in another way, too, while lying low, but that doesn't really apply here. "In regards to" - Yikes. A person may be regarding a picture, or give her regards to Broadway, but when prefacing a sentence with that phrase, it's supposed to be "In regard to." And "try and" is wrong, even though it's used incessantly in commercials, newscasts, and everywhere else. (This one in particular causes our editor to pull his hair out in big fistfuls.) The phrase is try TO. People should keep writing letters to try to get a certain elected official to do two things in an upward way: fess and pay.

Sentence number two: "In response to the return of the 1992 physical year school budget, the education board has decided to set on their decision until the commissioners have went back and explained the request of a 14% cut."

Yowza. The word is fiscal, not physical. The 'fis'kel year. The board has decided to sit, not set. For instance, persons sit at a round table and discuss things; they set aside their differences. Perhaps.

When "the board" is the subject of a sentence, then in later references in the same sentence, the board is an it, not a they. An Association is an it. The GCTA made its stand, the board of commissioners did not make its reasoning clear. Like that.

"Have went" - we get the shivers from that one. Have gone. For example: We went to find one sound housing unit at Bradley Manor, but soon found that they were all long gone.

So much for grammar. I suppose it really doesn't matter, or so think a lot of Americans (a lot is two words). I certainly don't believe that the use of proper grammar is necessarily a sign of high intelligence or nobility, any more than are physical appearances or lengthy resumes. But to the grammarians out there, and other treasurers of the English language - this one's for you. (Please ignore all the sentence fragments - I'm only human.)

County Recycling Schedule Noted
The interim county recycling program, as set up by the Garrett County Commissioners, is as follows:
May 19 - Garrett Community College Parking Lot
May 26 - Oakland Town Parking Lot

B&S Scrap will be at the sites from 2-5 p.m. on each of the dates to receive the collectibles. Note: Newspapers are now being accepted at the sites.

Garrett County would want, in the event that the charter prevails, the county council electing the chief executive of the county. Rather, I believe the people of Garrett County would wish to directly elect the county executive, the person who will have more say than any elected official in the government's policies, practices, and doings.

I urge you to make your views known to those on the Charter Committee.

Sincerely,
Jerome W. Cox, Attorney

GCMH Recognizes Team Work During National Hospital Week

Editor's note: The following article was prepared by the Community Relations Department of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

During National Hospital Week, May 12-18, the message from hospitals to the community is "Our Team Works For You." With these words, hospitals are renewing their commitments to their patients, their employees, and to the public-at-large.

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital has built its 40-year reputation on teamwork and a commitment to caring. It serves a population of over 30,000 in Garrett County, Maryland, and Tucker, Mineral, Grant and Preston Counties in West Virginia.

The Hospital is directed by a 16-member Board of Governors. This dedicated group spends many volunteer hours, not only making decisions on major hospital policies and setting the direction to be taken in the future, but also on keeping up-to-date on the ever-changing issues in health care today. The Board members include elected officials, bank representatives, county commissioner appointees, and several members-at-large, who convene at least once each month for a full board meeting and on many other occasions for committee work. They receive no compensation for their time and effort, other than the satisfaction of being a part of such a professional, dedicated "hospital family."

The physicians staffing the GCMH are predominantly Board Certified, American trained family physicians, perfectly suited to the rural community. They provide an unlimited array of services, such as diagnosing and treating a wide variety of life-threatening illnesses, delivering babies, implanting pacemakers, as well as performing minor elective surgery. They assess health risk factors and counsel their patients to make lifestyle changes.

The highly skilled surgeons, again predominantly Board Certified and American trained, offer a diversity of surgical skills. Surgical services include vascular, orthopedic, general and ophthalmic.

To keep abreast of the latest technology, the hospital now offers laparoscopic surgery. Laparoscopy procedures (primarily gall bladder) require smaller incisions than standard surgical procedures, thereby reducing abdominal trauma and post-operative pain. Patients often can be discharged the same day or after an overnight stay. The laparoscopic equipment was purchased through the Hospital Foundation's community fund-raising efforts to help provide top-quality health care.

The hospital has developed an extensive list of outpatient services. Some of the more major of these include angiography, nuclear medicine, IGP's, OPG's, (vascular), mammography, carotid and cardiac doppler (ultrasound), computerized tomography (CT scanner), mobile medical services (home oxygen, equipment rentals, and mobile testing). These services are performed by highly skilled, certified laboratory, cardiopulmonary, and radiology technologists. Rehabilitation programs and services are monitored and evaluated by licensed physical therapists.

The Wellness Together Program offers chemistry screening profiles, preventive health checks, health promotion and the Wellness Calendar. Among the newest features of the Wellness Program is Heartworks, a work-site cardiovascular risk reduction effort. This program has been enthusiastically sponsored by the area businesses for the last year and a half. The Heartworks Program was specifically designed to help reduce the incidence of heart disease.

As a full service, acute-care community hospital, GCMH provides 76 beds for treatment of general medical illness, injuries, surgical, and obstetric patients. The professional nursing staff offers the patient the clinical, emotional and physical support they need. To respond to the future of health care, the Department of Nursing is working on the implementation of a progressive care unit. This unit would care for patients who have a need for more intensive nursing care than available on the medical/surgical units, but not as closely monitored as patients in the cardiac intensive care unit.

Other future plans at Garrett County Memorial Hospital include the renovation and/or expansion of several of the existing departments, including Cardio-Pulmonary, Radiology, Computerized Tomography, Inpatient-Outpatient Registration, Medical Records, Pharmacy and the Cafeteria. More detailed information about these and other services will be provided through the media in the next several months.

There are many other skilled teams working behind the scenes day and night. These employees provide invaluable services such as clerical, counseling, housekeeping, laundry, dietary, and maintenance.

The GCMH hopes the hospital community will join with them to celebrate National Hospital Week in recognition of all the teams working to give us the best in modern hospital care.

CAN THEY BE RENOVATED? The answer to that question is currently being determined in a federal bankruptcy court in Baltimore. Morton Sarubin, developer, owner of the Bradley Manor complex in western Oakland, claims that each unit can be renovated at a cost of $22,000 in the span of eight months, and then sold for over $50,000 per unit. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) disagrees with Sarubin and the other members of the Oakland Associates (made up of several business persons from the Baltimore area), citing various pieces of evidence such as photographs of the decaying development, similar to the ones shown here, as well as written and verbal testimony of former residents of the complex and current residents of the surrounding area. Oakland Mayor Asa McCain will attend the final hearing in this case on Monday, May 20. A decision will be rendered at that time as to whether or not Sarubin will be permitted to pursue his plan. See story.

New DNR Team To Address Sierra Club

The next meeting of the local chapter of the Sierra Club, to be held Tuesday, May 21, will feature presentations by two members of the new leadership in the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), who will discuss the recent reorganization of DNR, its impact on Western Maryland, and issues of concern to environmentalists.

DNR officials Paul (Rusty) Ruszin and Eric Schwaab will lead the discussion, which will be followed by a question and answer period.

The reorganization of DNR has brought about a change in leadership positions within the department, especially in the forests and parks division.

The public is urged to attend the meeting, which will be held in the assembly hall of St. John's Episcopal Church, Broadway Street, Frostburg. The program will begin at 7:45 p.m., and will be preceded by a pot-luck supper, to which the public is also invited to attend.

Benedict Joins GCC Music Dept.

The Garrett County Memorial College Music Department has recently announced the addition of Elinor Benedict to the music faculty. Ms. Benedict will coordinate the instruction of strings for the department, and will be offering classes in violin, viola and cello.

Benedict received her bachelor's degree in music from Radcliffe College, her master's degree from Vassar, and then studied cello at Juilliard School of Music. She has also studied at the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood, Mass., playing under Leonard Bernstein.

After graduating, she became a member of the cello section of the National Symphony Orchestra, in Washington, D.C., under Howard Mitchell. She has been a cello soloist at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum, the Boston Public Library, St. Mary's College in Maryland, and the National Gallery of Art, in Washington, D.C.

Benedict taught music for 22 years in the St. Mary's County public school system, during which time she worked as a choral instructor.

She began playing the country fiddle in 1986, and won first place in the 1990 Maryland State Fiddle Championships in the senior category.

Persons interested in string classes are asked to contact George McDowell, Jr., coordinator of music at GCC.

Northern, Southern Business And Marketing Classes Visit GNB

In cooperation with the Youth Employability Program of the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett National Bank, the Northern and Southern high school business and marketing classes recently spent a morning learning the working areas of the bank.

JoAnn Vent, Youth Employability teacher, Ann Sallie and Donetta Nice, business and marketing teachers at Southern and Northern high schools, made arrangements to bring their classes to Garrett National Bank. The students then had a "hands-on session" with employees, equipment, and the various departments of the bank. The tours were coordinated by Wayne R. Johnson, compliance and training officer at GNB.

The students were welcomed by Johnson for Milford E. Beckman, GNB president. George Evans, senior vice president of personnel and marketing, spoke to the two groups pertaining to "What the Bank Looks For in New Employees."

"The major assets we look for are the ability to get along with others, good attendance, good communications skills in writing and speaking appropriately, and good math skills," said Evans.

An overall view of the bank was demonstrated by a video tape, "You Can Bank On It." This was presented and discussed with the students by Johnson.

The classes were then divided into three groups to visit the teller area, the ATM, the vault, the new accounts desk, the receptionist, and the switchboard. The importance of establishing and maintaining good credit was stressed to the students. Wayne Smith, loan officer, explained how an installment loan is obtained, and William Rohrt, collections officer, told the group what happens when a loan is not kept current.

Trish Rumer, Virginia Kitzmiller, and Sandy Winters showed the class book keeping, accounting, check processing, and proofing departments and the computer room. They also demonstrated the machines used in those sections of the bank.

Fran Martin explained central file and Mary Lou Rohrbaugh discussed the mortgage department before the students returned to the boardroom for a question and answer session at the conclusion of their tour.

President Beckman stated, "How pleased we are at Garrett National Bank to have the opportunity to show our high school students the inner workings of our bank. We have hired several of the students from last year's classes and some from this year as part-time employees. We naturally are very much interested in our community, its schools, and its students. This is another way we can contribute to our community by helping the students get started in life."

Scholarship To Be Awarded By WEPCO

The deadline is fast approaching to submit entries for the first student scholarship offered by WEPCO Federal Credit Union.

To enter, students must be a member of WEPCO and enrolled as a freshman for the 1991 fall semester in college. All entries must consist of a completed application form, high school transcript, and an essay on the following topic: "In planning for your financial future, what steps might you take and what role can WEPCO Federal Credit Union play?"

Deadline for entries is July 1, 1991. For additional information and/or an application form, persons may contact Lana Smith at the Credit Union office by calling 359-3081 (Bloomington area), 334-3231 (Oakland area), or 1-800-292-8139 (toll-free in Md. or W. Va.).

The students learned about the qualities of a good employee, the workings of the equipment, and the various departments at the bank. The tours were coordinated by Wayne R. Johnson, below right, compliance and training officer at GNB.

Weekend Retreat Scheduled By Youth For Christ

Mt. Top Youth for Christ recently announced plans for a weekend retreat in the Terra Alta area. This event is for young people in grades six through 12. Students from Preston County and Garrett County are invited.

The retreat will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, June 7, at Camp Gallilee. It will end at noon Sunday, June 9.

Any interested young person should call the office to receive a registration form. Even if price is a problem, YFC requests that those interested should call any way. Registration deadline is May 31.

A YFC spokesman said, "This camp is intended to challenge, first, those young people who have never considered entering a relationship with Jesus Christ, to give it some thought and, second, for those who have a relationship with Christ to grow deeper in their commitment to serve him."

The camp is being planned by Larry G. Mattingly, Mary Ann Whitehair, Frank and Kathy Brubaker, and Jon Zeigler.

Mt. Top Youth for Christ is a non-denominational, non profit youth outreach governed by a local board of directors. It relies wholly upon local contributions by individuals, businesses, and churches for its income. Financial statements and ministry brochures are available upon request. The office is located at 505 N. Street, Mtn. Lake Park, and the phone number is 334-9244.

Habitat Plans Craft Show For Memorial Day

"Habitat volunteers not only build houses, some make crafts," stated Pat Vetter, chairperson of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity's craft fund-raising project. "Our craft show over Autumn Glory weekend was so successful that some area residents have asked us to continue showing our crafts. So, we're making our summertime plans already," she continued.

Habitat will participate in downtown Oakland's show at the Mountain Producers' Fresh building over Memorial Day weekend. Volunteers will sell crafts from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on May 25. Supporters of Habitat have made a variety of items for the show, ranging from decorative accents for the home to special holiday items. If the show proves successful once again, the volunteers will "get back to work" on preparing for other seasonal events, Ms. Vetter said.

All proceeds from the sale will support Habitat for Humanity's efforts in providing affordable, attractive housing for Garrett County families who do not qualify for conventional financing. Selection of homeowners is determined by actual need based on the condition of their shelter, the ability to pay the interest mortgage, and the character of the applicant's household. Garrett County Habitat for Humanity is funded and supported by the generosity of local churches, businesses, and individuals in the community. The Garrett County Chapter has built 20 homes and improved 50 others since 1983.

To obtain additional information about Habitat or to make a donation, persons may contact Habitat's office at P.O. Box 363, Oakland, Md. 21550; telephone (301) 334-9431.

Scottish Highland Cattle To Be Exhibited At Highland Festival

The fourth annual McHenry Highland Festival, to be held Saturday, June 1, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry, will offer an exciting array of activities, including an exhibit of Scottish Highland Cattle owned by local farmers, Gorman and Virginia Beitzel, Bittinger.

"Scottish Highland cattle are quiet and docile, long-lived, easy keepers, disease-resistant, and calve easily. They produce lean beef, require little shelter, and have strong mothering instincts," stated Gorman Beitzel. He added, "Each summer the Scottish Highland Cattle very noticeably improve the pastures, seeming to prefer weeds to grass."

This breed of cattle is centuries old, from the rugged highlands of Scotland, and has adapted well to Garrett County's climate. Gorman and Virginia Beitzel are members of the American Scotch Highland Breeders' Association and the Appalachian Cattle Society.

Admission to the festival is $4 for persons 12 years of age and older. The festival also offers a ceilidh at 8 p.m., Saturday, in the McHenry House at Wisp, hosted by Wisp Ski Resort, and a ceilidh on Sunday at 10:30 a.m., at St. John's Episcopal Church on Rt. 135 in Deer Park.

The festival is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, and is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council, and the Maryland Humanities Council, through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. More information may be obtained by contacting the McHenry Highland Festival, Garrett County Courthouse, Oakland, Md. 21550, or by calling 301-334-1918.

Outdoor Training Session Held By Area Scouts

On a recent weekend at Camp Potomac, Potomac Council's outdoor facility near Oldtown, a group of men and boys honed their leadership skills at the outdoor session of Boy Scout Adult and Junior Leader Basic Training.

"On going training is an integral part of the Scout Movement," said Mark Atchison, Council training chair. "It gives veteran Scouters a chance to brush up on skills they may have used as boys and it gives junior leaders, who are themselves Scouts, the self confidence to train younger boys who are eager to learn these outdoor skills." Leadership building is a major goal of Scouting, he said.

The more than 30 boys and men representing over 10 different units spent the day reviewing basic outdoor skills such as safely using wood tools, firebuilding, and backpacking. They rotated between adventure stations learning the proper way to use a map and compass, first aid, knots, and nature. During an afternoon session they learned specific techniques in Scout leadership and unit planning, and the advancement program.

Boys and leaders representing all three Potomac Council Districts were present: Troops 27 and 35, Keyser; Troops 4 and 17, Cumberland; Troops 24 and 41, Frostburg; Troops 11 and 21, LaVale; Troop 82, McHenry, and Troop 31, Oakland.

Instructors included Jack Rafferty, Don Schneider, Dave Grapes, Shawn Smith, Ray Larsen, Dan Folk, Mark Middleton, and Brad Burr.

Dennett Road Parent Advisory Group Convenes

Dennett Road School's Parent Advisory Council (P.A.C.) held a breakfast meeting on May 9 in the school library. Approximately 30 parents gathered before 9 a.m. for registration, each bringing a covered dish for the breakfast buffet. Mrs. Donna Cook, Chapter I resource teacher assistant, welcomed everyone, led the pledge of allegiance, and invited all to partake of the meal, which was complete with a juice bar and coffee.

Following breakfast, Mrs. Cook began the meeting's program, "Surviving the Summer with Your Kids." She introduced the four guest speakers, each of whom gave a description of planned, local, summer activities available through their individual program sites for pre-school and school-aged children. The following presenters spoke for their representative programs: Mrs. Mary Lou Stemple, Summer Recreation Program of Garrett County Schools; Kenneth Meyers, State Park Service; Mrs. Lynn McDaniel, Ruth Enlow Library; and Mrs. Deborah Reall, Broadford Recreation Area. A P.A.C. spokesperson stated that the information which was given should prove helpful to parents in taking full advantage of available resources throughout Garrett County with their children during the summer months.

At the meeting's conclusion, Mrs. Naomi McKenzie drew names of the two door prize winners. Both prizes were donated by Crafty Critters and were awarded as follows: Mrs. Sharon Schwaln, a country basket lined with peach-colored fabric; and Mrs. Deborah Reall, a decorative, wind-up copper locomotive.

Mrs. Cook thanked the four guest speakers for their presentations and expressed appreciation to parent volunteers Mrs. Susan Sines (registration manager) and Mrs. Bonnie Friend (morning hostess).

Hoyes Church Hosts Annual May Fellowship

Hoyes United Methodist Church hosted the annual May Fellowship Day on May 3, conducted by Garrett County's Church Women United.

Charlotte Mousch, CWU president, spoke about the organization's 50-year jubilee, commenting on some of the things the group had accomplished since it was founded in 1941.

Rev. Samuel Wachter, Hoyes UM pastor, welcomed those in attendance. The theme for the worship service was "Journey Toward Jubilee." Leaders included Helen Glatfelter, Lori Schmuck, Mary June Harvey, Helen Silber, Helen Keller, Cora Bowser, Audrey Brennehan, Mary Kathryn Speicher, and Mary Strauss.

Martha Glatfelter served as pianist and ushers were Virginia Ruiney and Alice Hauser.

Other music was provided by the women of Otterbein UM Church, Swanton, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident, with Wanda Maphis, pianist, and Lori Schmuck.

There were 26 persons in attendance, representing three denominations - United Methodist, Lutheran, and United Church of Christ. Individual churches represented were: Hoyes, Otterbein (Swanton), McHenry, Paradise, Gorman, and White United Methodist churches; St. Paul's (Accident), St. John's (Accident), Emmanuel (Bittering), and St. John's (Meadow Mountain) Lutheran; and the United Church of Christ.

The next meeting and service will be Sunday, Sept. 15, 7:30 p.m., for the jubilee celebration. The annual World Community Day program will be held November 1 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident.

AN "EARTH DAY EXTRAVAGANZA" was held at Red House School April 25. The students had several visitors, including Adam Lucas of Lucas Nursery, pictured above center, who donated a Redspire tree and planted it on the school grounds. Other guests were Louise Upole of the Department of Natural Resources, who spoke about conservation and presented each child with a seedling. The classes entertained the guests with skits, and Mary Streets, first grade teacher, led the students in earth-related songs. The school's PTA provided the children with refreshments.

DUELING PITCHERS - The Southern Rams and Northern Huskies met each other twice this past week, and the Rams came away the winner both times, topping the Huskies 15-8 and 5-4. Above are the pitchers in Saturday's contest, with Derek Mason hurling for the Huskies and Shane Skipper recording the win for the Rams. Both teams are headed for regional playoff action this Friday afternoon, with the Rams in the Class AA competition and the Huskies in Class A. Southern finished its regular season with a 12-4 record, while the Huskies concluded at 11-4. See stories for details about the playoff schedule.

Rams Defeat Huskies Two Times; Both Teams Headed For Playoffs

While both Garrett County high school baseball teams are enjoying successful seasons and are playoff bound, the Southern High Rams earned county bragging rights this past week by defeating the Northern High Huskies twice. Coach Jim Bosley's team rolled over the Huskies Saturday in Accident, 15-8, and then edged them Monday at Southern, 5-4.

The results left the Rams with a 13-4 record, while Coach Phil Carr's Huskies dropped to 11-3. The Huskies were then topped by host Beall on Tuesday, 12-3, however they are still guaranteed a spot in the Class 1A Region I playoffs.

Saturday's contest was highlighted by three-run homers by Southern's James Bateman and Brett Rice, and a two-run shot by Shawn Ryan.

The Rams took a 3-0 lead in the first inning when Ryan singled. Britten Martin walked, and Bateman recorded his home run.

Northern came back for a pair of runs in the second, as Chad Anderson walked, Doug Brennenman singled, and Eric Umbel followed with a two-run double.

The Huskies took a 5-3 advantage by scoring three runs in the third inning. Chad Sines singled, Jarrett McKenzie reached on an error, and Dennis Deigert walked to load the bases. Anderson followed with a run-producing single to score Sines. Brennenman sent home McKenzie with a sacrifice fly, and Deigert scored on a fielder's choice.

The Rams took control of the game in the fifth by scoring nine runs. Ryan led off the inning with a double, after which Rice walked and Martin singled to score Ryan. Bateman was then hit by a pitch and Shane Skipper and Nathan Dixon drew walks to force home two runs. Dave Kurtz followed with a grounder that was mis-handled and Jason Rinker rapped a sacrifice fly that scored two runs. Rice followed with his three-run blast to make the score 12-5.

The Huskies did not give up, as they responded with two runs in the fifth on a single by Paul Edwards, an RBI double by Brennenman,

In Monday's contest in Oakland, Rice went the distance on the mound, striking out 10 batters and allowing only four hits and two walks to raise his personal record to 5-2.

Jerry Uphold also pitched an outstanding game for the Huskies, as he also went all the way and gave up only three hits. All five of the Rams runs were recorded in the fifth inning, all unearned.

The Huskies, who finished with two unearned runs, took a 3-0 lead into the bottom of the fifth, as Uphold held the Rams hitless through the first four innings. Nathan Dixon reached on an error to begin the Rams' rally. Kurtz then walked and Jeremy Bosley followed with an RBI double. Garth Glatfely and Rice then reached on errors that sent two more runs home. Bateman then singled home Glatfely and Rice scored what would be the winning run on a wild pitch.

The Huskies came back for a single run in the sixth. Houser had a double for the Huskies.

and a run-producing single by Jon Houser.

The Rams made it 15-7 in the sixth with Ryan's three-run homer.

A sacrifice by Sines scored Rob Speicher in the Huskies' sixth to conclude the scoring.

Skipper, who pitched into the sixth inning, earned the

Huskies Will Host Playoff Game Friday

The Northern Huskies, who finished the regular season with an 11-4 record and are seeded second in the Region I Class A standings, will host third-seeded Williamsport this Friday in a semi-final contest at Garrett Community College. The game will get underway at 2 p.m.

The winner of this game will meet the winner of the Beall-Clear Spring contest in the regional finals on Saturday afternoon. If fourth-seeded Beall upsets top-rated Clear Spring and the Huskies are successful against Williamsport, the Huskies will also host Saturday's contest.

"Most area coaches believe that the region is wide open this year and any one of the four schools could win it," stated Northern Coach Phil Carr.

In commenting on Williamsport, a team with an 11-7 record, Carr said they are a "good-hitting, good defensive team." He added that they have an excellent pitcher who will start against the Huskies tomorrow.

"We are coming off three tough losses in a row, but they were to very good teams (Southern and Beall)," Carr said. "Hopefully we can turn things around tomorrow afternoon."

Admission to the game at the GCC Campus will be $2 per person.

Huskies Fall To Beall In Season Finale

The regular season of the Northern Huskies ended Tuesday afternoon with a loss to Region I Class A rival Beall, 12-3, in Frostburg. However, the season is not over for the Huskies, who are headed for the regional playoffs where they will quite possibly get another crack at the 11-7 Mountaineers.

Beall hammered out 18 hits against the 11-4 Huskies, while the Northern offense was limited to just two hits by three Mountaineer pitchers.

The game was close until the bottom of the fifth, when Beall erupted for seven runs after leading by just one, 4-3.

Northern held a brief 3-1 lead by scoring three runs in the top of the fourth on a two-run single by Eric Umbel and a run-producing single by Houser, but Beall took the lead for good with three runs in the bottom of that inning.

Jon Winebrenner led Beall's hitting effort by smacking a double and three singles. Shannon McKenzie and Todd Stewart each finished with three hits, and Brian Thomas, Eric Schurg, and Greg Fike had two hits each.

The three Beall pitchers struck out 12 Husky batters, with McKenzie recording five of them.

The Huskies are slated to face Williamsport this Friday in the playoffs, while Beall will meet top-seeded Clear Spring.

Rams To Meet Middletown In Region Opener

The Southern Rams, seeded third in the Region I Class AA standings, will face second-seeded Middletown this Friday afternoon in the regional playoffs.

If the Rams are successful against Middletown, they will meet the winner of the Allegany (fourth seed) and Watkins Mills (first seed) on Saturday afternoon.

Southern Coach Jim Bosley believes that the Rams will be facing the best team among the four when they meet Middletown, particularly because of an ace pitcher.

"Brian Hefner is a senior left-hander who is exceptional," Bosley said. "He is being recruited by a lot of Division I colleges. He is what makes them an outstanding team."

Starting against Hefner on the mound in the 4:30 p.m. contest will be Southern's Brett Rice, who is currently 5-2 on the season. Hefner's mark is 8-1.

"If we play flawless defense and manage to keep the score low, we will have a chance of winning," Bosley said.

The winner of the Region I crown will travel to the state tournament in Frederick next Tuesday.

Persons from Garrett County wanting to attend the Middletown game tomorrow afternoon should follow U.S. 70 East past Hagerstown and take the Middletown Myersville exit, turn right and go south toward Middletown for about four miles, turn left at the first stop light, go about one-half mile and turn left on Hill Street, which is where the school is located.

The Southern High School track teams hosted a pair of multi-team meets this past week, one on Friday and the other on Tuesday, and the Southern girls' team was the winner of the Friday event, while the Northern boys won first place in Tuesday's contest.

The Lady Rams recorded 144 points against Frankfort (130), Northern (80), Hampshire (80), University (46), and Westmar (29) on Friday behind three wins by Khrystie Browning, the Northern boys, led by Jerry Buckel's four first places, rolled to an easy win on Tuesday over Southern, Beall, Central Preston, University, and West Preston.

Browning won the 100 and 300 hurdles and was on the winning 1,600 relay team. Jessica Grace won the triple jump for the Rams.

Placing first for the Northern girls was the 800 relay team.

In the boys' competition on Friday, the Northern Huskies placed third with 87 points, behind Frankfort (127) and Hampshire (95). University placed fourth with 26 points and Southern was last with 18.

Buckel also recorded four wins for the Huskies in that meet, in the 800, 1,600, and 3,200 runs, and as a member of the winning 3,200 relay team.

The best Southern finish was a second place by C.J. Getson in the 100 dash.

The Southern girls were edged in Tuesday's meet by Beall, 167-144, while Northern placed third with 95 points, followed by University (46), Westmar (34), West Preston (10), and Central Preston (10).

Browning again recorded

TEARING UP THE TRACK this year with outstanding performances have been Northern High School's Jerry Buckel and Southern High's Khrystie Browning. Buckel has dominated the area in distance running, recording numerous first places in the 800-, 1,600-, and 3,200-meter runs, while Browning is the top female hurdler in the 100- and 300-meter events. Open Athletic Games Set For Fourth Annual Highland Festival

Clans gathered centuries ago in northern Scotland to display their strength in athletic and military contests, often using materials available at local farms, and these traditions will continue with the Open Athletic Games of the Fourth Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 1, at the Fairgrounds in McHenry. Both professional and amateur athletes will take their three turns in each of the seven events of the Heptathlon.

The athletes will pursue these traditional events: the sheaf toss (a burlap sack filled with 16 pounds of hay is thrown over a crossbar); 56-pound weight throw (the block or bell-shaped weight on a chain is thrown as far as possible); 28-pound weight throw (same objective as the 56-pound weight throw); 22-pound hammer throw (the weight is thrown over a crossbar); stone putt (16-22-pound stone is thrown like the contemporary shot put); and caber toss (a log weighing approximately 100 pounds and standing approximately 20 feet is flipped so that it lands a certain way).

First, second, and third place medals will be awarded in each of the seven events, and the winner of the heptathlon will receive the McHenry Highland Festival Heptathlon Cup. Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over.

Wisp Ski Resort will host a traditional ceilidh (party) that evening at 8 p.m. in the McHenry House at Wisp (admission $3.00). A Kirkin' O' the Tartans will be held Sunday, June 2, at 10:30 a.m. at St. John's Episcopal Church on Route 135 in Deer Park. This festival is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, and hosted in part by Wisp Ski Resort. It is funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council, and the Maryland Humanities Council through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

For more information or an application form for the Open Athletic Competitions, persons may contact the McHenry Highland Festival, Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Success Night Announced By Education Bd.

The Mettiki Coal Corporation and Westvaco Corporation have agreed to sponsor a program to recognize "successful" county students in the eighth through twelfth grades, according to a spokesman from the Garrett County Board of Education. A program entitled "Success Night" will be conducted in honor of pupils who have been especially successful during their school years.

Students will be selected on the basis of various criteria developed by the school faculties, according to the spokesman. The event is related to the "Schools for Success" effort now underway in Maryland, in which all public schools in the state work toward a set of goals which are to be reached by the year 2000.

The Success Night for students of both Northern and Southern High Schools will be conducted on Wednesday, June 5, at Northern High. This recognition ceremony will be hosted by Westvaco, and will begin at 7 p.m.

Successful students of the county's middle schools will be honored with Success Night on Thursday, June 6, at Northern Middle School, beginning at 7 p.m. Mettiki Coal Corporation will sponsor this program.

Highlighting each program will be a short address on success, followed by the presentation of a certificate to each student.

Board members hope that the event will become an annual affair until at least the year 2,000, according to the spokesman.

McCain and Watson asked if approval would be given by the public to pursue this matter in the court system. Watson estimated that the cost to be incurred by the town may be anywhere from $10-30,000 if an appeal process is entered. Residents at the meeting expressed strong support in pursuing the case regardless of the cost.

McCain stated that the monies used would not be replenished by raising taxes, but by cutting back on other services until the debt is paid. Watson also told the citizens that the town's bankruptcy lawyer, Robert Gordan, of Shapiro and Olander, has agreed to represent Oakland at the May 20 hearing free of charge.

McCain told the citizens that he and the town council members have asked the Garrett County Commissioners to support the town's stance, and also asked for some assistance in funding the court costs.

Found Guilty

tim testified that they occurred while she was a kindergarten student.

Charges were filed on March 29 by the Maryland State Police although that report was not released to the press before the trial date.

Eight counts of theft and one count of conspiracy against Edward L. Wilson, 24, Westernport, were dropped in District Court last week because the State's Attorney did not wish to prosecute.

Wilson had been arrested with two other men after they allegedly stole eight coats from Brodak's Lake Resort, Deep Creek Lake, on December 1, 1990.

In other District Court news, Robert L. Lewis Jr., 25, Oakland, who was found guilty of assault on March 26 and given a pre-sentence investigation, had his sentence pronounced last week.

Counts of reckless endangerment and battery against him were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the State's Attorney.

Allegany County District Court Judge Paul J. Stakem, who was presiding on the local bench in the absence of Judge Jack R. Turney, sentenced Lewis to 120 days in the county jail (110 days were suspended) and placed him on 18 months of supervised probation.

Charges had been filed against Lewis by Angela J. Lewis on January 3, 1991.

A Mtn. Lake Park man who had been found guilty of two counts of theft in District Court on March 26 and given a pre-sentence investigation was sentenced by Judge Stakem last week.

Wayne E. Burkey, 18, was handed a 60-day suspended jail term and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Burkey had been charged stemming from a December incident in which he stole Christmas lights from several homes in Mtn. Lake Park.

Franklin P. Polce Jr., 22, Mtn. Lake Park, who had been found guilty of possession of marijuana and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs earlier this year, had his sentence revised by Judge Stakem last week.

Police was given probation before judgment. He had been charged on October 10, 1990, by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

At another sentence revision hearing, Kevin A. Lohr, 18, who had been found guilty of one count of theft earlier this year, had his sentence revised to probation before judgment. He had been placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Lohr had been charged with two counts of theft and two counts of malicious destruction of property on November 15, 1990. The other charges were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state.

Evelyn L. Cameron, 54, Confluence, Pa., had her February 19 sentence revised to probation before judgment. She had earlier been sentenced to a 90-day suspended jail term, fined $50, and given six months of unsupervised probation. Her probation has been changed to 90 days.

Cameron had been charged with taking sausage and radishes from the Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop on November 13, 1990.

Barbara J. Sweitzer, 35, Deer Park, was given probation before judgment at a sentence revision hearing last week. She had been found guilty of theft on February 19 and given a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

She had initially been charged with taking money from Donna L. Broadwater in June of last year after she allegedly took orders and money for good and did not produce the goods.

First Quarter Earnings Noted By First United

First United Corporation, a multi-bank holding company headquartered in Oakland, recently announced net income of $1.12 million for the first quarter of 1991. While slightly lower than the $1.17 million net income figure reported for the same period last year,

First United officials said it continues to reflect a strong return on assets of 1.33% and return on shareholders' equity of 14.11%.

Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board and president, commented, "I'm pleased to announce that First United's earnings continue to remain strong, despite the current economic downturn. These consistently high performance levels reflect the hallmark of a banking company that depositors and shareholders can rely on as a safe depository and a sound investment over the long term."

During the first quarter net interest income increased to $4.02 million, or a 3.88% increase over last year's first quarter. Other operating income also increased to $5.59 million or a 7.27% increase, reflective of increases in Trust department earnings and fee income. At the same time, non-interest expense increased to $2.79 million or a 5.28% increase.

Commenting on expenses, Stanton stated, "The single expense that contributed the greatest to this increase was FDIC insurance premiums, which increased $3.09 million. Although the Corporation's largest subsidiary, First United National Bank & Trust, was recently ranked among the top 100 best performing mid-sized banks in the Southeast, all banks must share in the cost of helping to maintain the FDIC fund at adequate levels."

Despite a flat deposit and loan growth picture, shareholders' equity increased 10.9% to $34.3 million from one year ago. Primary capital as a percent of total assets, another indicator of financial strength, was 10.49% as of March 31, 1991, well above the 6% level required by bank regulators.

The Corporation paid a $29 per share cash dividend to shareholders on May 1, 1991. This maintains the level of dividends paid during the previous quarter.

First United Corporation has two banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust and First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A. As of March 31, 1991, the Corporation posted assets of $346.4 million, total deposits of $307.2 million, and capital resources of $34.3 million.

CIRCUS DAY PROCLAIMED — The mayors of Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park last week signed a proclamation stating that Wednesday, June 5, will be Circus Day in the greater Oakland area. Special arrangements have been completed by the Greater Oakland Business Association to bring Roberts Brothers Circus to town, according to Jack Jones, president of GOBA. Proceeds from the advance sale of tickets will be used for the many community activities and charities which GOBA assists in the community throughout the year. In choosing to bring Roberts Brothers Circus to Oakland, GOBA has set out to provide traditional, wholesome entertainment. "There will be clowns, animals, acrobats, live music, and fun for everyone," stated Jones. Tickets purchased before Circus Day help GOBA the most. A community-wide sale will be sponsored as Circus Day approaches. Pictured, seated, are Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, left, and Mtn. Lake Park Mayor Dave Turney; and standing, left to right, GOBA President Jack Jones, Bobino, America's first woman performing clown, and Teresa Feather, Circus Day chairman for GOBA.

Oakland Civic Club Receives Various Awards

The Civic Club of Oakland recently received six different awards from the Maryland State Women's Club for volunteer efforts and financial support of various projects and organizations. The honors were described to the members at a recent meeting of the club.

Among the guests at that meeting was Erin Sines, a Northern High School student, who spoke to the club about her experience as a delegate to the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation convention that was held in Columbia. Ms. Sines told the club that she heard various speakers from the Maryland legislature, colleges and universities, and the world of business on how leaders are developed, how to become self-motivated, and how to think for oneself.

Club President Martha Jachowski and Marjorie Jachowski attended the State Convention, where the Oakland Club was recognized for its work in six areas. The club was presented a second place award for the President's Special Project - "Improving Our Environment," which was chaired by Bobby Anderson. This involved getting a recycling program started in Garrett County.

Other awards included recognition for taking part in the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Program, a 75th anniversary scroll in recognition of 75 years of membership in the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The Oakland Club is 80 years old, and a certificate of caring for sending four Garrett County teachers the Kind Newsletter, which stresses respect for all living creatures.

The club also received a first place award in the Home Life Department.

Today's Living Division, for developing a drug directory, working with the Salem Youth Home and Cuppet and Weeks Nursing Home, and the club's financial support of $1,950 to organizations that help people with various problems. Members responsible for these activities were Bobby Anderson, Faye Dennison, Helen Wagner, Mabel Hauser, and their committees.

The club received a first place award in the Home Life Department, Economics Division, for its long-term care program which is being headed by a steering committee headed by Martha Jachowski. A seminar on long-term care will be held September 27 at Garrett Community College, the details of which will be announced later.

A report was also made on the number of volunteer hours donated by club members to various community groups. A total of 9,509 hours were donated to 39 different organizations by 73 club members during 1990. This represents 1,189 eight-hour days of work.

"We really had a busy year in 1990 and are looking forward to a bigger and better year this year," stated Mrs. Jachowski.

Also at the meeting, the club was presented a list of organizations that have requested donations and the members had prioritized. Monies were allocated by the executive board and approved by the membership.

It was reported that recognition was given to the club by The Republican Newspaper for the club's strong efforts in getting the recycling program initiated.

Mrs. Jachowski noted, that the 100th Annual International Convention of GFWC will be held June 8-10 in Arlington, Va.

Among the other guests at the meeting were Dorothy Cathell, Vicki McIntyre, and Marie Helbig.

Plans For GCC's 20th Anniversary Now Underway

Aa Garrett Community College (GCC) heads toward its 20th birthday in September, plans are underway to mark the anniversary with a year-long series of special events.

The anniversary celebration will kick-off with an evening reception to be held September 14 at the college, followed by a formal dance sponsored by the GCC Alumni Association at Silver Tree Inn.

Each month, a special event will be planned and carried out by faculty and staff representing a particular discipline at the college. Most of these activities will be open to the community.

Special activities commemorating the anniversary are being planned for Garrett County Fair week and for Autumn Glory week. In November, a 2010 Convention has been scheduled, at which time participants will plan and dream about what GCC might become in another twenty years," according to Joan B. Crawford, public relations.

Any member of the community wishing to help plan twentieth anniversary activities is asked to contact the President's Office of the college, at 387-6666.

School Board

ers) are the basketball in this situation, bounced back and forth, from board to board. We need to sit down and talk it out, instead of having some kind of power struggle."

The education board will wait for the commissioners' response to the clarification request before proceeding.

In other education board meeting news, the issue of the recent southern Garrett County elementary school study was discussed. Ryscavage has held meetings at several of the schools affected by the study, and said he has received comments that "in general are very emotional and highly charged as to the notion that we may be doing something that may not be properly aired."

Ryscavage went on to explain that the purpose of the meetings concerning the school study, which was completed by Altman & Altman Architects of Uniontown, Pa., is nothing more than to report on and attempt to answer questions about the study. The recommendation that has received criticism is the third of three options recommended: to demolish the five elementary schools of the southern county (Loch Lynn, Red House, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and Crellin) and consolidate the schools into two new schools, with one in Swanton, and the other somewhere east of Oakland.

While several of the school populations have opposed the option, the people of the Loch Lynn school have expressed a great need for a new school, and were open to the suggestion. Ryscavage will meet with the parents and teachers of Kitzmiller Elementary tonight.

Ryscavage stated that the board will eventually have to make decisions concerning the elementary schools, but that nothing has been decided as of yet.

A separate study was completed for this week's board meeting concerning the comparison of Allegany Co. schools to Garrett County's. The study was done at the request of a former commissioner, Ryscavage explained, to examine the situation concerning Garrett students attending Allegany schools.

Several parents from the Finzel and the Allegany/Garrett County border attended Tuesday's meeting to express their fears that the board may be planning to require all G.C. students to attend G.C. schools. They cited problems such as transportation and proximity to urban areas, as well as their 40-year right to choose which school system their children will attend.

Ryscavage assured the parents that the comparison was merely a study, and that the board members were only answering the request of the former commissioner in completing it. He and Mrs. Murphy stated that the education board has no intention of making any changes at this time.

More information on the comparison study as well as other topics covered during the education board meeting will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

MSP To Focus On Increase In Cycling Mishaps

Maryland State Police and local bicycle safety experts have launched a statewide safety awareness campaign designed to reverse an alarming increase in the number of deaths and injuries involving bicyclists on Maryland highways. The month of May has been designated as National Bicycle Month.

"We are teaching the three C's of safe cycling: Care, Courtesy and Communication," stated John T. Overstreet Jr., chairman of the Safety Awareness Committee of the Baltimore Bicycling Club. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service radio broadcast, Overstreet said bicycle fatalities have nearly doubled.

"During 1990, Maryland recorded 16 bicycle fatalities compared with nine during 1989," Overstreet said. "There were approximately 1,500 bicycle-vehicle crashes last year compared with 1,100 during 1989. Most of these collisions could be avoided if motorists would do a better job sharing the highway."

Although most accidents involving bicyclists are the result of operator error, bicycle safety experts recommend frequent bike inspections to help ensure a safe ride. Maryland State Police suggest some important things to look for:

"Is the saddle tight and at the proper height?"

"Are the reflectors clean, unbroken and positioned to pick up headlight beams?"

"Are the tires firm, properly inflated and free of cuts and cracks?"

"Are the pedals wearing out? Do they have reflectors?"

"Is the front wheel properly seated and tightly bolted in the fork?"

"Are the handlebars tight and set at the right height for the user?"

"Are any spokes bent or broken?"

"Are the tire valves straight and free of leaks?"

"Are the headlight and taillight bright enough to be seen at night from 500 feet away? Check your state and local regulations for mandatory use."

"Does the bike have a horn or bell that sounds loudly and clearly?"

"Is the chain snug, without broken or damaged links?"

"Do the brakes, whether coaster or hand, stop the bike quickly and smoothly? With hand brakes, check the shoes to make sure they grip the rims."

Bicycle safety experts recommend the use of helmets and protective clothing to help reduce unnecessary injuries and deaths on the highway. "Every bicyclist should wear a helmet," Overstreet said. "A helmet also gives you greater visibility."

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Here Comes the Bride

Legend has it that the first bridal shower took place in Holland after a father forbade his daughter's marriage to a poor miller because he didn't approve of her choice of husband. The daughter, determined to marry her true love, was "showered" with gifts by her friends so that she would be able to set up housekeeping despite the lack of a traditional dowry.

Today, bridal showers don't take place under such dire circumstances. Instead, a shower is a happy prenuptial festivity that often provides a welcome respite for the bride in the hectic weeks before the wedding. If you are responsible for planning a bridal shower, try to make it a relaxing and leisurely occasion while retaining a special and elegant atmosphere. One way to do this is by designing the shower as an afternoon tea party. The bride and guests will be pleasantly surprised and charmed by this stylish touch! Here are some ideas to get you started.

Create the proper ambience; set out your finest china and prettiest table linens. An arrangement of fresh flowers provides the perfect centerpiece.

Tea, of course, is mandatory. Whether you choose loose tea or tea bags, always brew the tea in a teapot. Don't limit guests to hot tea; tall glasses of iced tea will provide cooling refreshment. (Tea has a history of involvement in prenuptial rituals. In ancient times in China, a young woman's prospective in-laws would give her a gift of tea when she and their son were about to become engaged. If she accepted the tea, it was an indication that she was also ready to accept a marriage proposal!)

A typical teatime menu includes something savory, something sweet and all delicious. The recipes below will make a sumptuous spread.

One bridal shower tradition calls for a pink cake with a thimble or ring baked into it to be served. Supposedly the next bride will be the woman whose piece of cake contains the trinket! Creamy Rice Bavarian with Raspberries breaks with this tradition but includes as a main ingredient a traditional wedding food: rice. A symbol of fertility in ancient times, rice was originally thrown at the bridal couple to wish them many children.

While teatime treats are usually sinful, high-calorie concoctions, these recipes are lower in fat and cholesterol than their traditional counterparts. This is achieved by using low-fat dairy products and Knox® Unflavored Gelatine. Knox is an all-natural ingredient ideal for lighter recipes because it gives a smooth, luscious consistency to many recipes which generally rely on fat and sugar for their creaminess.

Crispy Corncakes

The crunch of cornmeal in these corncakes provides a pleasing contrast to the creaminess of the Crab Cake Terrine.

- | | |
|---------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup boiling water | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1/2 cup yellow cornmeal | 1 egg, beaten |

Creamy Rice Bavarian with Raspberries

The true star of the tea table will be this centerpiece dessert. For best results, don't pour the sauce until you are ready to serve.

| 2 cups cold water | 1 teaspoon vanilla extract |

How to Brew a Perfect Pot of Lipton® Tea

- Start with freshly drawn cold water. Cold water is aerated (full of oxygen) and brings out the full character of tea.
- Bring the water to a full rolling boil to release the full flavor and fragrance from the tea leaves.
- Preheat the teapot by filling with hot water and swirling around before emptying.

- Use one Lipton Tea Bag per cup to achieve maximum flavor, color and body.
- Pour boiling water over tea bags, cover and brew for 3 to 5 minutes.
- Squeeze tea bags gently and remove. Serve, if desired, with sugar, milk, lemon or honey.

Open-faced tea sandwiches can be prepared the morning of the shower, covered and refrigerated. To give sandwiches a nice sheen and prevent them from drying out on the serving tray, try this "Spritz."

Knox Gelatine Spritz

- 1 envelope Knox Unflavored Gelatine
- 1 cup cold water

In small saucepan, sprinkle unflavored gelatine over 1/4 cup cold water; let stand 1 minute. Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 3 minutes. Stir in remaining water.

Fill spray bottle with gelatine mixture. Spray onto surface of prepared open-faced sandwiches until lightly coated.

Unused gelatine mixture in spray bottle will gel, set in hot water to soften.

INDELIBLE IDENTITY

The fingerprint—that one physical characteristic common to all of us, yet different in each of us. Before our birth, God gives this unique mark to every human being He creates. We do not choose our fingerprint. It is given to us in its final form. It is the indelible identity of our physical selves.

God has also given an undeveloped potential with which we may give birth to other personal identities. Here, we do have a choice—free will. It is up to each of us whether we will choose to further our talents and abilities. An artist, a writer, a musician, a teacher, an athlete—there is a myriad of possibilities.

As you worship God this week, pray that He will guide you to realize and develop your particular gift, and to use it for His glory. Choose to leave your mark on God's world. Nurture your own indelible identity.

'Knight Rider' races into the year 2000

Futuristic film based on series

By Amy Schmidt

Whatever happened to Knight Rider? On Sunday, May 19, Knight Rider rides again when crime-fighter Michael Knight (David Hasselhoff) returns along with KITT, his thinking, talking car.

Titled Knight Rider 2000, the reprisal is packaged as a slick new futuristic film based on the 1982-1986 series that kids went wild over.

Could this be a pilot for a new Knight Rider series? "This is going to be one of three things," said Hasselhoff in a recent interview. "One, a Knight Rider reunion that will never be seen again depending on the ratings. Two, hopefully, a recurring movie of the week like Perry Mason (That was my initial idea, when for three years I've been making 9,000 phone calls saying 'Bring it back! Bring it back! Bring it back!') Or three, the pilot for a new series."

It's the 21st century in Knight Rider 2000. Handguns have been banned in major cities. Not even the police can carry them. Michael Knight is asked by Devon (Edward Mulhare), his old boss at the Knight Foundation, to come out of retirement to lend a hand busting up a gun-running ring. The problem is Michael's No. 1 crime-fighting partner, KITT, has gone to the great junkyard in the sky, and he must rebuild the car. The new KITT becomes a souped-up Dodge Stealth that's faster than light years and armed like Fort Knox.

Michael also discovers one of the super car's computer chips has been planted into the brain of a former policewoman (Susan Norman). (Imagine the automated Sean Young in Blade Runner and you've got the picture.) Now he has two robo-partners.

Hasselhoff, also the show's producer, had been pushing to put Knight Rider back on the road for some time. A chance meeting at a mall the 6'4" actor swerve back into the old Knight Rider groove?

"Around the world I'm loved as Michael Knight in a way you cannot believe. But I could never get away from him. And never did I choose to. I always loved being in Knight Rider, but I wanted to be in the movies," he said, feigning a whine.

And if the show doesn't go? There's always the new Baywatch, which Hasselhoff is producing for first-run syndication and in which he has cast his wife, actress Pamela Bock. ("Everyone liked her, especially me," he said.) Then there's Hasselhoff's singing career. The actor is a big-time recording star in Europe, where he sold 2 million-plus records last year. "My next goal is to get a record deal in the U.S. — or go to Vegas and become a lounge lizard," he joked.

'Seduction in Travis Co.' no manufactured tale

Lesley Ann Warren gets a tough part

By Amy Schmidt

At first glance A Seduction in Travis County, starring Lesley Ann Warren and Peter Coyote, looks like it could be a mishmash of any number of movies. It sounds like Fatal Attraction, it smacks of Presumed Innocent with a twist, and you may be reminded a bit of Jagged Edge as well.

But A Seduction in Travis County, premiering Sunday, May 19, on CBS, is no rip-off of what's been done before. It's based on a true story about a woman who develops a love obsession with her attorney after he defends her of a murder charge. Melanie Adams (Warren) doesn't believe Frank Maguire's (Coyote) assertion that he loves his wife, Karen (actress Jean Smart). Instead, she decides she must eliminate Karen.

The eerie incident actually occurred in Little Rock, Ark., in 1981, and is the subject of the book Murder in Little Rock. A Seduction in Travis County was filmed in Austin, Texas, and the names of the people involved have been changed for the telefilm.

Warren's role in the picture is one of her toughest ever. To prepare for the part, the actress talked with a psychiatrist in order to understand the motivations of a sociopath. "One of the things I learned is that they have something called a mask of reality, which is the ability to transform themselves and appear completely normal and socially appropriate in any situation when they are completely and utterly lying. I've never played anyone as completely delusional and sociopathic as this woman was and is," she said.

Elizabeth Taylor high-strung as she keeps a 'Night Watch'

By Steven Alan McGaw
Let's see the mail start rolling in (trickling in, maybe?) with your list of "guilty pleasures" videos. Send those in to Steven Alan McGaw, Video Bijou, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009. Thanks!

Night Watch (1973)
This movie's really not very well thought of and is genuinely pretty corny, but I still love it.

Elizabeth Taylor stars as the nervous, fearful wife of British businessman Laurence Harvey. One rainy night, Taylor looks out her window to the house next door and sees (or thinks she does) a horrific sight: a woman's beaten, bloodied body propped up in a wingback chair! At first Harvey seems loving and protective of his high-strung wife, but we soon learn of his ongoing romance with housekeeper Billie Whitelaw.

Was there a body, or wasn't there? Suspicions arise when Taylor keeps having the same vision, but there's never anything to be found. Obviously, the script offers nothing new, but I find it invigorating, nonetheless, and the performances are fine.

Incidentally, the screenplay was by Lucille Fletcher, who wrote Dial M for Murder. (And my thinking on this film is absolutely not colored by the fact I was in the play in high school.)

FRIDAY: A British actress' image is compromised by a diplomat in the rebroadcast of Indiscreet on CBS. Lesley-Ann Down and Robert Wagner co-star.

SATURDAY: Problems arise when Frankie hires Teddy on NBC's Sisters.

TUESDAY: Michael Douglas is the target of a Fatal Attraction. The drama also starring Glenn Close, is scheduled to air on CBS.

WEDNESDAY: Don't forget to tune in to CBS' American Memoirs. Test

Jerry and his pals have trouble getting seated at a restaurant on NBC's Seinfeld, Thursday.

Sigourney Weaver (center) returns to a world inhabited by Aliens, Saturday on CBS.

Marge and Homer Simpson and their clan continue to delight audiences regularly with their antics. The animated Fox favorite broadcasts Thursdays on the network.

Angela Lansbury keeps CBS' Murder, She Wrote, airing Sunday, near the top of the ratings.

Jill Clayburgh stars in the NBC telefilm Reason for Living: The Jill Ireland Story, airing Monday.

Glenn Close plays a woman obsessed with her married lover in Fatal Attraction, Tuesday on CBS.

James Brolin stars in the high-rise thriller Nightmare on the 13th Floor, Wednesday on USA.

Charissa Gibson is the co-host of ABC's top-rated Good Morning America, airing weekdays.

Dark Shadows fans have sent over 7,000 letters to NBC in an effort to save the low-rated show from cancellation. The network's New York and L.A. offices also saw picketing by aficionados carrying mini-coffins and signs reading "Don't Stake Dark Shadows." Ben Cross plays vampire Barnabas Collins in the drama.

The U.S. Supreme Court has thrown out a $16 million libel case against 60 Minutes commentator Andy Rooney. Rooney was being sued by an Arizona manufacturer for saying that Rain-X, a wipe-on windshield product designed to repel rain, sleet and snow "didn't work." The court has ruled such comments are protected by the First Amendment.

Warren Beatty is reportedly widening his waistband for his new film Bugs, co-starring Annette Bening. A personal chef dishing up five meals a day has helped the actor gain 20 pounds for the title role.

Don't look now, but Donald Sutherland and Julie Christie are teaming up again after 18 years. Sutherland and Christie, who starred together in the 1973 thriller Don't Look Now, will co-star in The Railway Station Man, a TNT drama slated to air early in 1992. Christie will play a middle-aged widow whose chance meeting with an eccentric recluse disrupts her solitary life.

G.C. CRIME SOLVERS HOLD DINNER -- The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization recently conducted a dinner and dedication ceremony for members of the group. First Sgt. Howard W. Graham, Maryland State Police, pictured above left, was honored with a plaque from the group in gratitude for organizing the citizens' assistance group, and for his many years of service at McHenry where he has gone far beyond the normal call of duty to volunteer his time and energies to help the community," said Floyd Baker, president of Crime Solvers. Pictured next to Graham is Don Sealing, an original member of the organization. Shown below is Garrett County Sheriff Van Evans, who was the guest speaker at the dinner. Evans noted the increase in county crime, attributing part of the problem to the recent escalation in illegal drug trafficking in the area. He praised the members of Crime Solvers for their efforts in providing more information to the police forces, which has enabled the officers to bring more perpetrators to justice. Ward Ashby, vice-president of the organization, noted that Crime Solvers exists today through the efforts of the sheriff and others. Evans is pictured in front of a poster announcing the "D.A.R.E." program, which is an award-winning project of the Sheriff's Office that educates the county's youth on the dangers of illegal drugs.

D.A.R.E. FINISHERS -- A group of Southern Middle School students recently received certificates stating that they have successfully completed the D.A.R.E. program, taught by Garrett County Sheriff's Office Cpl. Randy Sines. The program is a project of the Sheriff's Office, with the purpose of teaching middle school-aged children how to deal with the presence of illegal drugs, and how to say "no." Pictured in the first row, left to right, are Sines, Rocky Tichinel, Bobby Schrock, and Mrs. Jane Wildeson. Second row, same order: Sheriff Van Evans, Billy Lloyd, David Jones, David Shillingburg, Allison Swinson, and Mrs. Babette Smith. Third row, same order: Junior Lloyd, Robert Harper, Jay Kight, Richie Wildeson, and Mrs. Judy Cassidy.

Benefit Dinner For Red Cross Termed Success

"A resounding success" were the words used by Chairman Donna Heginbotham to describe the Spring Time Fund-Raising dinner held at Deer Park Inn, last Friday evening. "The professional and business community and just wonderful people really came out and supported this first-time event for the Red Cross," she said. "Even the weather co-operated."

Director Cindy Kutchman stated that, because the community was so enthusiastic, it would became an annual affair, taking place again the first Friday of May next year.

"It took a lot of effort by a lot of people," commented treasurer Debbie Frantz, "but it was worth it."

Ms. Heginbotham said a "special thank you" is extended to the owners of Deer Park Inn, John and Debbie Hamilton, "for their hospitality and help" and to manager Vivian Stacey.

"All over the country the Red Cross is becoming more visible. We have been here 100 years, but Hurricane Hugo and the earthquake in California have reminded us that every community must be prepared in the event of disaster," Ms. Kutchman said.

In the months to come, the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be sponsoring other fund-raisers. Anyone interested in becoming a Red Cross volunteer may do so by calling 334-3916.

A volunteer picnic will be held in July at Broadford Park, with the date to be announced later.

Potomac Edison Inspecting Lines Via Helicopter

Potomac Edison has announced it is conducting transmission line inspections using helicopters this month as part of the company's ongoing maintenance program.

Helicopter flights were scheduled to begin May 13 to examine transmission line hardware in the Western Maryland area, weather permitting. Crews will survey Potomac Edison's 500-KV and 138-KV transmission, 34.5-KV sub-transmission and distribution lines to look for equipment that needs repair or replacement.

PE says helicopters are used to scout the system, especially in outlying areas, because they can hover as close as 20 feet above the lines.

Inspections are conducted throughout the year by the company, which serves more than 320,000 customers in parts of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

TO ATTEND CENTER -- Mindy Jo Robinson, a fifth grade student at Friendsville Elementary School, was chosen to attend one of the 1991 Maryland Summer Centers for Gifted and Talented Students. Mindy will be participating in the course entitled "Traveling Through Tomorrow Today," which will be located at the University of Maryland on the Eastern Shore. The activities for the course are designed to provide a future awareness for the world. Mindy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Robinson, Friendsville. Also pictured is Mrs. Sheila Russell, resource teacher for the Gifted and Talented program. Mrs. Russell assisted Mindy with the preparation of her application.

How To Save Up To $43,380.51 On Your Mortgage.

Now you can save a substantial amount of interest on your mortgage and pay it off more quickly. It's easy with a Bi-Weekly Mortgage, new from First Federal Savings Bank.

The idea behind a Bi-Weekly Mortgage is very simple. Instead of making one monthly mortgage payment, you make 1/2 a payment every two weeks. So how do you save all that interest?

Simple mathematics tells you that 1/2 a payment every two weeks over the course of a year equals 26 bi-weekly payments—or the yearly equivalent of 13 monthly payments. So your mortgage is paid off more quickly, meaning less interest as well.

Your payments will be automatically deducted from a First Federal checking account, so you won't have to worry about writing two checks a month instead of one.

Still not convinced? Well, just take a look at how much you'd save on both a fixed rate and an adjustable rate Bi-Weekly Mortgage versus a traditional monthly mortgage:

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	10.50% Fixed (11.024% A.P.R.)
Term:	15 years
Monthly Payment:	$829.50
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT:	$414.75
Total Paid (Monthly):	$149,310.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$134,793.75
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE:	$14,516.25
AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 12 1/2 YEARS INSTEAD OF 15!

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	8.75% Adjustable (9.732% A.P.R. *)
Term:	30 years
Monthly Payment:	$590.25
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT:	$295.13
Total Paid (Monthly):	$212,490.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$169,109.49
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE:	$43,380.51
AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 22 YEARS INSTEAD OF 30!

*The annual percentage rate is subject to change after consummation.

Antibiotics: Effective Infection Fighters

Because of their ability to interfere with or stop the growth of infection-causing bacteria, antibiotics are among the most valuable of all the prescription medicines. Antibiotics commonly prescribed include tetracycline, the penicillins (includes ampicillin and amoxicillin), the aminoglycosides, erythromycin, and the cephalosporins. A relatively new group of antibiotics, referred to as the quinolones, are gaining in popularity because of their ability to treat some infections that previously required intravenous antibiotic administration.

Any one or several of many bacteria may be responsible for a particular infection. Since all bacteria do not respond to the same antibiotic, the bacteria should best be identified. The identification of bacteria in the body is determined through a test known as a culture. Often antibiotic medicines are not started until the results of the culture are known. If the organism identified is a virus, antibiotics may not be prescribed at all. Viruses such as those that cause the common cold do not respond to antibiotic therapy. All antibiotics should be taken as prescribed by the physician in order to receive the maximum therapeutic benefit and to prevent the emergence of resistant organisms.

Scam Involving Home Repair Contractors Noted

reently operating in Maryland.

A group which could number in the hundreds and is unofficially known as "the travelers" is soliciting door-to-door for home improvement repairs in the Baltimore area and beyond. This group has operated along the East Coast for many years. Mannerly and extremely polite, this group, generally working in pairs, will knock on a door of a residence and offer to do roof repair, seal coating, driveway paving, painting or any number of other projects. They will attempt to establish their bona fides by claiming to have just completed a job up the street or some other ruse.

Fogle went on to say, "These people are not licensed home improvement contractors. In fact, if you let them in your house, they are not above distracting a homeowner's attention while one of the pair quietly absconds with some of your valuables. Fortunately, up to this time, no one has been injured."

Vernon L. Simms, executive director of the Maryland Home Improvement Commission which is an agency of the Department of Licensing and Regulation, suggests these guidelines when dealing with a door-to-door solicitor:

*Don't immediately accept a proposal.

*Ask for references and check them out.

*Find out if he is licensed. Simms said, "Many times people use a contractor who is a 'friend of a friend' and they just don't bother to check with us to see if that contractor is licensed. If the contractor isn't licensed, there is very little our agency can do to help them recover any losses."

The Maryland Home Improvement Guarantee Fund, administered by the Home Improvement Commission, may grant some compensation if the claim is against a licensed contractor. Claims are limited to $10,000 per claim and $50,000 per contractor.

The Maryland Home Improvement Commission, established in 1962, licenses approximately 20,000 home improvement contractors. The home improvement business in Maryland is now a multi-billion dollar a year industry in the State.

For information, call the Home Improvement Commission, 333-6309 or (800) 492-7521 -- outside the Baltimore area.

Medic One! Medic One!

The following article was written by Cathy Chapman, RN, BSN, in observance of Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Week. Ms. Chapman is the Garrett County Health Department representative on the Region I EMS Advisory Council.

The beeper alarmed and then a voice announced "Medic One! Medic One!" I didn't wait to hear the rest of the message. I knew this was my signal to head to the Southern Rescue Squad.

I grabbed my purse and hurried to my car. As I drove to the squad hall, my hands were trembling. I wondered what the run would be like.

When I reached the squad hall five minutes later, the squad crew was ready and waiting on me. (I learned later that this crew was ready to go two minutes after the message was dispatched.) Two crew members were in the hall, one was at work two blocks away, and the fourth lives close by. Even though waiting on me lasted five minutes, they were still within the 10-minute response time established by the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management.

As we drove, I met the "Tuesday crew" — Hazel Stewart, EMT-A, a squad member for 16 years; Sue and Mike Saunders, both EMT-A's and squad members for 8 years; and Chris Comfort, CRT, a squad member for 8 years. Chris filled me in on the details of the run as we bounced along. A 20-year-old man who was an insulin dependent diabetic had experienced an insulin reaction while working outside. The West Virginia squad that responded to the call did not have an ALS (Advanced Life Support) crew member available.

An ALS person was needed to start an IV. The West Virginia squad contacted their county's central alarm, who then contacted Garrett Central Alarm to request ALS assistance. Garrett Central then dispatched Southern Rescue to meet the West Virginia ambulance enroute to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The crews of the rescue squads were in radio contact while they drove to learn one another's location. It was agreed to make the transfer at a church parking lot. As we proceeded, the Southern crew discussed who would make the transfer into the West Virginia squad van. Chris, being a CRT (cardiac rescue technician), was the only ALS crew member. She would accompany the patient and, if there was room, Mike would go as well. The Southern Rescue Squad van would follow behind.

Mike placed the supply box by the side door of the van. Everyone was ready. The mood of the crew was sober and subdued as we approached.

The West Virginia van was at the parking lot when we arrived. Quickly, Chris and Mike were out of the Southern van and into the West Virginia van. Mike obtained the patient's vital signs. Chris prepared the equipment to obtain a blood sugar as she listened to the West Virginia crew explain the care that had been provided to the patient thus far. She obtained the blood sugar, then started an IV on the semi-conscious man as the ambulance pulled on to the road.

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES WEEK PROCLAIMED — The week of May 12-18 has been declared by the Garrett County Commissioners as Emergency Medical Services Week in Maryland. A proclamation issued by the board of commissioners states that the Maryland emergency medical service system of care is the most advanced in the United States. Each year the system provides life-saving care for over 450,000 emergency medical calls by 911 dispatchers, first responders, emergency medical technicians, cardiac rescue technicians, paramedics, Maryland State Police medevac pilots, nurses, physicians, therapists and other dedicated individuals. The proclamation further stated, "It is appropriate that all Marylanders note and applaud the efforts of their fellow citizens serving as members of the team that cares." Shown above, left to right, are John G. Braskey, Garrett County Commissioner; Barry Beal, president of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad; Elwood L. Groves II, Garrett County Commissioner; and Rayma Weeks, president of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

As we traveled towards Oakland, Chris radioed the emergency room of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and informed them of the patient's condition, the treatment that had been provided, and our ETA (estimated time of arrival). As I watched Chris and Mike care for the patient, I was impressed not only with the way they interacted with the patient, but with the way they worked so smoothly together. I learned later that these four had worked together on the squad every Tuesday for the past two years.

It was only a few minutes later that we arrived at the hospital emergency room. The patient was wheeled into a room by Mike and Sue while Chris gave her report to an ER nurse. The run had taken 50 minutes.

As we rode back to the squad hall, the mood of the crew was upbeat. There was a sense of relief, but also, I think, a sense of accomplishment for a job well done.

I asked one final question — "Why do you do this?"

In the three years that I have been involved with the EMS Council, I have always wanted to ask that question. These people spend many hours taking classroom training. For example, an EMT (emergency medical technician) requires 110 hours of classroom training. To be ALS certified requires even more training. They donate many hours of service to the squad, at all hours, day or night, and in all kinds of weather. I have always respected the dedication of rescue squad people, but yet I have always wondered "Why?"

All four looked at me with surprise. It was as if they had never really thought about it. Mike was the first to respond.

"We're nuts! That's the only explanation!"

"I've done it for so long that I forget why," chuckled Hazel. "Actually, I wanted to do something good for my community and this seemed to be a good thing to do."

Chris gave the most extensive answer. "It's not like 'Rescue 911' where the care providers and the patients and their families become lifetime friends. We rarely see the people we transport again and rarely do we receive a 'thank you' for what we've done. But when someone does come up to you and simply says 'thanks,' it makes it all worth while."

"I guess it boils down to the fact that someone has to do it. It's a very needed service. If it were your family that needed the emergency care, wouldn't you want someone there for them?"

Westvaco Mill To Shut Down For One Week

Current economic conditions have caused Westvaco's Luke mill to announce a one-week shutdown of all paper-making, power, and pulp mill production facilities, according to a statement by Roger A. Dandridge, vice president and mill manager.

The shutdown will be in effect from Monday, June 3, to Monday, June 10.

Nearly 2,000 workers are employed at the mill, which produces about 1,200 tons a day of high quality, white coated printing papers.

Affected employees will be given an opportunity to take vacation in lieu of lay-off for the one-week period, Dandridge added.

About 400 hourly maintenance employees will be doing necessary work during the week which can only be done when the mill or certain of its components are out of operation.

Shipment of paper will continue from inventory, and warehousing facilities will operate. Salaried workers will be scheduled on a departmental basis.

Dandridge pointed out that Westvaco is in a "strong financial position" and that over six months ago, the company had developed specific plans designed to help the company deal with these economic conditions.

EMS Week Is Now Underway

The Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems has announced EMS (Emergency Medical Services) Week in Maryland is now underway (May 12-18). The annual observance recognizes the state's emergency medical services personnel for their "unselfish dedication to saving lives" in Maryland.

"This year's theme is 'A Team That Cares,'" stated Ameen I. Ramzy, M.D., State EMS Director. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service radio broadcast, Dr. Ramzy said Maryland's EMS system is providing some of the best emergency health care in the country.

"We have been able to combine the latest medical technology with the resources to significantly enhance the chances of survival among victims of traumatic medical emergencies," Dr. Ramzy said.

During EMS week, emergency health care providers are working with community groups to encourage participation in basic life saving techniques, such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

"We strongly recommend enrollment in a CPR course," stated Dr. Ramzy. "These skills can make a great deal of difference (life or death) in any household."

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Charter Writing Board To Meet

Correction Noted

In a story about the annual Democrat Dinner in last week's edition of The Republican, it was reported that State Senator Mike Miller, president of the Senate, had noted that a capital gains tax break had been taken away from persons making more than $1,000,000 during the 1991

General Assembly. Actually, that figure should have been $100,000. We regret the misinformation.

Teachers Learn Behind The Scene Bank Operations

A group of 10 Garrett County teachers from several elementary, middle, and high schools attended an evening seminar at Garrett National Bank in Oakland recently to see what actually goes on behind the scene in the business of banking.

The group consisted of three elementary, two middle, and five high school educators from different fields of instruction. The seminar was directed by Wayne R. Johnson, compliance and training officer of Garrett National Bank, in cooperation with the Garrett County Board of Education.

Teachers receive workshop, undergraduate or graduate credit after completing nine sessions at various business throughout the county. They must then successfully complete the written work required by the ACES, TIS Program. Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System, Teacher In-Service, University of Delaware.

Robin Blamble demonstrated some of the equipment on the main floor and explained the duties of a teller. They then toured the bank vault and learned how money is received and dispersed from the Federal Reserve Bank.

The group then heard presentations by George Evans, senior vice president of personnel and marketing, and Robert Frazee, senior vice president of loan administration.

Following dinner at Proctor Kildow Post 71, Johnson showed a video tape on various departments of a bank. The class then heard Dale Rodeheaver, senior vice president of customer service and security, explain the workings of an automatic teller machine and discuss new accounts, operation of the branches, and security and customer service.

David Cathell, senior vice president of operations, then explained bookkeeping, accounting, and the computer room. Sandi Winters, vice president, explained proofing and check processing, and Virginia Kitzmiller, data processing supervisor, demonstrated the machines used in that area.

Milford E. Beckman, president, gave a brief history of Garrett National Bank, its current goals and objectives, and conducted a

NEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Clearone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

SOME BRIGHT SPOTS IN AN OTHERWISE GLOOMY REAL ESTATE MARKET.

If there's ever been a silver lining, this is it. The ongoing upward spiral of home prices has taken a time-out. Which makes right now a great time to buy.

HOME PRICES MAY NEVER BE THIS AFFORDABLE AGAIN.

For how long is anybody's guess. But many home sellers have been adjusting prices in an effort to sell more quickly. In some cases, that means you can pick up on a real bargain. Current interest rates are also quite favorable: in the 10% range. And they could be getting better as some lenders forgo commercial real estate loans in favor of home buyers.

GOOD OPPORTUNITIES FOR WISE SELLERS.

Sell now? Move-up now. Consider that taking a price reduction on your home can be easily offset if you can buy a larger home at a similar reduction.

Remember though, that selling in difficult times takes patience, flexibility and the right help.

NOW'S THE TIME TO MAKE YOUR MOVE.™

Allow us just a moment to tell you how Coldwell Banker can help in tough times. Our Best Buyer™ Guidebook can make finding and financing a home a lot less frustrating. With our Best Seller™ Marketing Services Guarantee, we put into writing the 18 steps we promise to take in marketing your property. With all these bright spots -- good prices, interest rates, and moving up -- now is the time to make your move. Accordingly, Coldwell Banker is glad to assist you anyway we can. Just give us a call.

Grain Checkoff Referendum Set For July 26 In Maryland

The Maryland Grain Producers Association announces the date of the referendum for the Maryland Grain Checkoff as July 26, 1991. This announcement was made by the president of the Maryland Grain Producers Association, Lawrence Weeks, of Westminster.

The referendum will be held from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at county Cooperative Extension offices. Absentee ballots will be available from Extension offices after June 15, or by writing to: MGPA, 53 Salma Road, Edgewater, MD 21037.

To be eligible to vote, a person must be actively engaged in the growing of grain as an owner, tenant, or shareholder.

If passed by a majority of these voters who are eligible to vote, the Maryland Grain Checkoff Program will begin on October 1, 1991, and will be in effect for five years. An assessment of one half of one percent ($1) will be collected on the net value of each bushel of grain sold. The checkoff will be deducted at the first point of sale on all grain, with the exception of soybeans which is already under a checkoff program. Any producer who does not wish to participate in the program can get a refund upon written request sent to the MGPA.

The checkoff program is a self-help promotion program which allows all producers to combine their funds to support market development, research and education. Decisions on how the money will be spent will be made by a 17-member board. The 13 voting members of the board will represent grain producers from six regions throughout the state.

Under state law, checkoff programs are required to conduct referendums every five years to reaffirm support.

Maryland Grain Producers Association members believe a grain promotion program financed by grain checkoff dollars can stimulate the price and use of grain and pay back many times the small investment it requires.

Just 25 years ago most of the grain produced never left the farm. It was consumed by livestock and poultry. Today less than half the grain stays on the farm; the rest must be marketed elsewhere. As federal and state budgets decrease, the role of marketing and promotion is being met.

Research in biotechnology can open the path for efficient fermentation of grain and establish more uses for the by-products of fermentation. These changes would improve the economic viability of ethanol fuels which today cost more than regular gasoline to produce. It's estimated that today's ethanol market adds 10 cents to the value of corn.

Grain can be used as a raw material for wallboard, paper pulp, biodegradable products, deicers, and adhesives. In the food industry market, opportunities exist for grain sweeteners, exotic bread and noodle products, and pet foods. Due to its unique properties, grain gluten has new opportunities in meat and seafood analogues, the snack market and the aquaculture feed market where it improves pellet stability.

There are opportunities for increased grain exports. Exports of grain have increased three-fold since 1970 and there's room to increase this level by over 3.5 billion bushels by 1995. For every dollar invested in foreign market development work, grain farmers realize $100 in export sales.

More research and marketing are necessary to make these opportunities become reality. For every 100 million bushels of new demand created, a five to six cent increase in the grain market price results.

Those interested in more information may contact Lynne Hoot at 301-966-5771.

Funds will be used to develop and promote the expanded use of grain by finding new uses, developing new markets and expanding existing markets.

There are many new and exciting uses for grain products in manufacturing. Ethanol pro-

Dairy Assessment Refunds Tied To Conservation Compliance

A new ruling requiring dairy farmers to comply with voluntary conservation measures in order to receive refunds from the assessments levied under the 1990 deficit reduction program has drawn criticism from Farm Bureau and other agricultural interests.

The 1990 federal deficit reduction plan called for milk producers to pay an assessment of five cents per hundred pounds of milk produced in 1991 to raise revenue and discourage dairy overproduction. The assessment increases to a minimum of 11.25 cents for 1992 through 1995. The law provides for a refund to farmers who can document that they didn't market any more milk than they did the previous year.

The ASCS has ruled, however, that dairy farmers must comply with the voluntary soil and wetlands conservation measures of the farm program ("sodbuster" and "swampbuster") in order to receive their refunds.

The linkage between the assessments and the conservation requirements is like a tax, according to AFBF assistant director of national affairs Hyde Murray. "Farmers have no choice but to comply or they can't get their refunds," he explained.

In an earlier letter to USDA, Farm Bureau raised concerns about the regulations which tie farm program benefits to adherence to new environmental standards.

"We feel that many of these new standards are in effect property takings which reduce the use and enjoyment of private property by its lawful owners," the letter stated.

The regulations put many USDA benefits which are not directly related to farm production at risk for farmers and ranchers who may not meet the new standards.

Atlantic Dairy Co-Op Supports Two-Tier Pricing

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's board of directors has announced its support of two-tier pricing as a means to improve dairy farmer income by balancing the nation's milk supply with market demand.

The board's approval of a two-tier pricing plan is in response to current industry debate on the development of a nationwide milk inventory management program. The purpose of such a program, which is mandated under the 1990 Farm Bill, is to limit national milk surpluses by managing production on the farm.

By balancing the nation's milk supply with demand, dairy farmers will receive a more consistent price for their milk, said Robert B. McSparran, president of Atlantic's board. Two-tier pricing is a means of achieving this goal.

"A two-tier pricing program will tailor supply to the needs of the market," McSparran said. "It will benefit farmers by halting the roller coaster price effects we are witnessing."

In concept, two-tier pricing sets two price levels for milk. Farmers receive a higher or market price on milk produced up to a predetermined level, and a lower price for milk produced over that level.

In supporting two-tier pricing, Atlantic's board also recommended three provisions that should be included in such a pricing program. These include the non-transferability of milk bases outside the immediate family, new producer start up, and a two-year rolling average to determine milk bases.

The board believes that dairy farmers should be allowed to transfer their milk bases, but only to immediate family members. This transfer usually occurs when a farmer has decided to retire and wishes to pass on the farm to a son or daughter.

The board also agreed that bona fide new producers should share in the higher price of a two-tier system until they are able to establish a milk base. A new producer provision must be included to give young farmers an access to market, as markets grow and older producers stop shipping."

McSparran said. The third provision supported by the board is that bases be established on a two-year rolling average. A two-year average, according to McSparran, will correct off-years, where production is affected by weather or other situations, and help producers increase their market share.

While acknowledging that other details for a national two-tier pricing plan need to be developed, McSparran said Atlantic's action is a first step. "We need to have unified support for one inventory management plan," he said, "and Atlantic's board will work to achieve that goal."

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents nearly 3,500 dairy farm families in the seven-state region of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Nominate Your Favorite Cow To Be Featured During Dairy Month

"Get the Scoop on Dairy Foods" is the theme for the 1991 celebration of June Dairy Month. As part of that celebration, The Republican would like to "get the scoop" on your favorite dairy cow. Dairy cows are the basis of the industry and each dairyman, his wife and children or hired help has their favorite cow. The Republican Newspaper would like to recognize your favorite cow during June Dairy Month.

To nominate your favorite cow, send the following information to The Republican, c/o Bernice Kepple, farm editor, P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. Information needed includes the cow's name, production record, reason for nomination, owner's name, address, and phone number.

All nominations must be producing dairy cows; however, high-producing cows will not be the only ones picked to be featured. Your reasons for nomination may be that the cow was the first heifer cal born on your farm, or your child's pet cow, or a cow with unusual markings, or a variety of other reasons.

The owners of the cows chosen will be contacted and an appointment made for a photo to be taken. That photo and information about the cow and her owners will be used in The Republican's farm section sometime during the month of June. A 5" by 7" black and white copy of the photo used in the newspaper will be mailed to the owners of the cow as a keepsake.

Cows to be featured will be chosen by The Republican's editorial staff. All nominations should be mailed to The Republican by June 15.

All dairymen in Garrett and the surrounding West Virginia counties are invited to give their "gold medal" cows some recognition. Mail your nomination today.

By now a lot of you have noticed the new Mt. Fresh building located in the Oakland City Parking Lot. The opening date for the market is July 13 at 10 a.m. Also, the market will be open on each Wednesday afternoon at 3 p.m. We are also cooperating with Allegany County in opening a Mt. Fresh Tailgate Market in downtown Cumberland starting on July 11. If you grow fruits and vegetables or make baked goods or crafts and would be interested in being part of the Mt. Fresh Producers, call my office at 334-1990.

Big Business

McDonald's uses only U.S. produced beef at an estimated rate of nearly five million pounds daily (about 12% of the total U.S. beef supply). Overall, about 40% of all beef is marketed as ground beef and McDonald's share is one-fourth.

Moisture Content In Haylage

Probably at one time or another you have experienced trying to feed a haylage to animals that was either too wet or too dry. Either condition makes it difficult to formulate a well-balanced ration. My advice is don't cut down more hay than you can get into the silo before it gets too dry. Try to have the moisture content between 50-60%. If the hay is too dry, you are likely to have heat problems.

Causes of Poor Lawns

•Poor Quality Seed: Many lawn grass seed mixtures sold contain types of grasses that are not well adapted to our area. Many of these mixtures contain excessive weed seeds. Buy certified seed to insure that you obtain quality seed.

•Mowing Too Close: An insufficient leaf area for the development of a vigorous root system occurs when the lawn is mowed too closely or infrequently. Kentucky Bluegrass lawns should be maintained at a height of 1 to 2 1/2 inches; whereas Tall Fescue lawns should be maintained at a height of 3 to 3 1/2 inches. The lawn should not be allowed to get taller than 1/3 the desired height before mowing. For example, if the desired height is 2 inches, the lawn should be mowed before it exceeds 3 inches in height.

•Too Little or Too Much Fertilizer and Lime: A variety of problems arise from improper fertilization and liming. Weeds are favored more than turf when fertilizer and lime are applied at the improper time, particularly in the summer. Too little fertilizer or lime results in poor turf vigor, which decreases competition against weeds. Too much nitrogen fertilizer can increase drought and disease injury. Have your soil tested through our office to determine proper fertilizer and lime applications.

•Lack of Sunshine: Many turfgrass species will not tolerate shade and even shade grasses grow slowly with insufficient light. If the area receives less than 3 hours of direct sunlight each day, then the use of certain ornamental ground covers should be considered.

•Insect and Disease Damage: Decreased vigor and thinning of lawns will occur where insects and diseases are left unchecked. As a result, weeds will rapidly invade damaged areas of the lawn.

ASCS Director Kozier Speaks At Farm Bureau Directors Meeting

Mike Kozier, of the Garrett County ASCS Office, was the guest speaker at the recent Garrett County Farm Bureau directors meeting. Kozier discussed the dairy refund program, and how those applying for a refund will be affected by conservation compliance (see separate article).

He also reminded the farmers that any programs from the 1990 Farm Bill that they apply for requires an active farm plan for their acreage. "The key word now is voluntary," he told them. "Down the road it may be mandatory," he warned.

Kozier discussed a recent meeting of the Maryland Forests Association which he attended, and the Second Western Maryland Loggers & Forestry Field Day and Equipment Show to be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Friday, June 14, from noon to 8 p.m. and Saturday, June 15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. He stated that 20 percent of all forestland owners in Maryland are farmers, and said the Maryland Forests Association is an opportunity for farmers and loggers to band together.

He brought up the Wool Incentive Program, and announced that wool prices are down lower this year than ever. The Preston County Wool Pool will be held on June 14 this year in Kingwood.

President William F. DeWitt reminded those present to prevent manure drainage into creeks. He also reminded the farmers to keep pesticide records, to get a license and to read labels.

Asian Pears Show Promise For Maryland Home Gardens

Like the Liberty apple, Asian pears show great promise for Maryland homeowners who want to grow backyard fruit with a minimum of pesticides.

Familiar varieties of pears — like Bartlett and Bosc — require fewer applications of pesticides than do most apples, says Dr. Christopher S. Walsh, fruits specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service University of Maryland System.

But Asian pears require even less spraying. Since their attractive, ornamental foliage is not subject to disease pressures, no spraying is required until the trees start bearing.

Asian pears are round like an apple, Dr. Walsh reports. They also have the firmness and crunchiness of an apple; but they taste like a conventional pear. And they can be allowed to ripen on the tree. By contrast, conventional pears must be picked when green and kept in cold storage for four weeks to achieve the best flavor.

According to Walsh, the Asian pears grown in this country come from Japanese, Chinese and Korean parentage. So they are a mixture of various species. Chinese varieties appear to be the most resistant to fireblight. Japanese pears are tolerant of fireblight, but their degree of resistance is not fully known.

There are about 200 separate varieties of Asian pears; but only about 20 are available commercially. One of the best from the standpoint of flavor and backyard adaptation is Nijisseki (Twentieth Century), a Japanese pear often seen in supermarkets.

Asian pears cross-pollinate readily with the Bradford ornamental pear, Walsh says. And they have a comparable hardiness range. Since Bradford pears seem to be growing everywhere these days, growers probably won't need a second-fruited pear to pollinate an Asian pear tree.

Walsh notes that pears generally prosper in heavy clay soil — which is plentiful in much of Maryland — better than do peaches and apples. Pears are more suited to warm areas than are apples; their hardiness range is comparable to that for peaches.

April is the best month for planting pear trees in Maryland. Asian pears can be purchased either as dwarf or standard trees. But Walsh recommends buying standard trees and limiting their height to 10 or 15 feet by annual pruning. This eliminates the need for a ladder when picking fruit. Without annual pruning, Asian pears will grow large like a mature Bradford ornamental pear tree.

Standard Asian pear trees will produce larger fruit than a dwarf tree," Walsh declares. "And they probably will have a longer life." He notes that commercial growers use only standard pear trees. Dwarfing rootstocks are not recommended except for apples.

Pears should be kept to a single stake during the first year after planting. The trees should be planted about one inch deeper than they were growing in a nursery, being sure that the graft mark is above ground. If trees are planted too deep, their roots can die for lack of oxygen.

After the soil settles, the basin around the pear tree should be filled in before the ground freezes. This can keep the tree from standing in a wet hole all winter.

Pear trees are vigorous, so they don't need mulch or cultivation once they are established. They make good lawn trees, and the grass can be mowed right up to the tree. Normal lawn fertilization should be adequate for pear trees. If they're growing 24 to 36 inches per year, they're doing fine.

Half Of State's Sweet Corn Acreage Planted

By May 12, 51 percent of Maryland's sweet corn acreage was planted, slightly ahead of last year's 50 percent and the five year average of 48 percent. An average of 5.0 days was suitable for fieldwork during this past week, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, none of the topsoil was very short of moisture, 10 percent was short, 66 percent was adequate, and 24 percent was surplus. Subsoil moisture ended the week as follows: none was very short or short, 86 percent adequate, and 14 percent was surplus. All the small grains were in good condition across the state. Hay supplies were adequate. Pastures were in excellent condition.

Maryland's progress for the week ending May 12 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and the percentage of the five-year average.

Acreage Preparation, 85, 86, 80; Crops Planted: Spring Oats, 93, 97, 93; Field Corn, 62, 61, 54; Sweet Corn, 51, 50, 46; Potatoes, 96, 97, 97; Snap Beans, 62, 46, 36; Tomatoes, 64, 60, 56; Crop Stage: Winter Wheat Headed, 71, 57, 39; Barley Headed, 96, 91, 67; Rye Headed, 93, 91, 91; Strawberries Bloomed, 92, 91, 66; Crops Harvested: Alfalfa First Cutting, 15, 4, 10.

The average American consumes 14.3 quarts of ice cream per year.

Karen Engal gave a report on the food safety program that she, Debbie Barnard and Extension Agent Ted Sprangel are conducting among civic organizations in the county. She said the program is "doing great" and they expect to be speaking to several more organizations in the near future.

The Farm Bureau Women's Committee met at the same time and began planning several activities, including the Garrett County Farm Queen Contest to be held during the county fair.

The annual Garrett County Farm Bureau Picnic was planned, and will be held July 14, in the Lions Pavilion at the Garrett County Fairgrounds.

Dairy Month Ads Show Support

Area dairy farmers and businesses are showing their support of the dairy industry and the way of life it represents by buying an ad showing their support or saying "We're proud to be dairy farmers." The ad will run once during "June Dairy Month" in The Republican.

This ad campaign was the "brain child" of Sheila Bender Miller when she was Maryland State Dairy Princess in 1985. The campaign has continued and grown throughout the years, and is now in progress for 1991 June Dairy Month.

Anyone who would like to show their support in this way during the month of June may call Farm Editor Bernice Kepple at 334-3563, or Garrett-

Allegany Dairy Princess Committee Chairperson Nancy Savage, after 6 p.m., at 746-8174.

Weather

Maryland weather for the week ending May 10 was warm with varying amounts of precipitation. Precipitation averaged 0.82 inch, ranging from 0.73 inch in North Central Maryland to 1.10 inch in Western Maryland. Southern Maryland averaged 0.96 inch and the Eastern Shore averaged 1.03 inch.

Dairy Contestants Sought

All single young women who are between the ages of 16 and 22, and from a dairy farm, are eligible to compete for the title of 1991 Garrett-Allegany County Dairy Princess.

The contest covers Garrett and Allegany counties, with the winner of the Dairy Princess Pageant, held during June, "Dairy Month." The winner will be eligible to vie, at the state level, for the title of Maryland Dairy Princess.

Any single young woman who has completed her junior year in high school, is not over 22 years of age, and whose parents have been engaged in producing milk within the last four years or at the present time, is eligible. Also eligible are girls who have taken dairy-related 4-H or FFA projects (with the exception of dairy goats and dairy steers) for at least two years.

If under 18, the contestant must have her parent's consent.

She must be single, never married, have had no children and must not marry during her reign.

The Garrett-Allegany Dairy Princess must be available for personal appearances during the year of her reign, and must agree to meet reasonable requirements set forth by the regional and state committees.

She may not hold a farm or 4-H queen title that would cross over for more than two months during her reign as Dairy Princess.

The winner of the Maryland State Dairy Princess Pageant will receive a $800 cash award. The first runner-up will receive a $75 award and other finalists receive $35. The outstanding presentation/skit and Miss Congeniality will receive $15. The state title is honorary and does not involve the interruption of school or employment plans.

Man Convicted Of Sex Offenses In Circuit Court

A Central City, Pa., man was found guilty by jury of several sex offenses in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the trial.

David W. Daley, 30, was charged with second, third, fourth degree sex offense, unnatural and perverted sex practice, and assault and battery. The defendant's motion for acquittal was denied by Judge Thayer.

After the defendant was found guilty, Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and revoked bail for the defendant.

Daley's charges stemmed from a November 1990 incident at which time he allegedly sexually abused an 11-year-old male at an Accident residence. He then threatened the victim with harm if the child told anyone about the incident. Several months passed before the boy did tell his parents.

Daley's defense attorney was John R. Toston.

In a separate case, charges of child abuse and assault and battery against Richard R. Craver, 38, Swanton, were not prosecuted by order of the State's Attorney James Sherbin.

The charges stemmed from an incident in December 1990 at which time Craver was accused of beating a 16-year-old female with a leather belt repeatedly, causing bruises on the teenager. Before charges were dropped, Craver pleaded not guilty.

THWARTED ATTEMPT - The Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter attempted to land on Md. Rt. 38 Tuesday afternoon to transport Kimberly Horn, Corinth, W.Va., to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. The landing was unsuccessful at that location but the helicopter did retrieve Horn at Garrett County

Memorial Hospital a few minutes after the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported her. Horn was involved in a motorcycle accident. Oakland volunteer firemen were also dispatched to the scene by Garrett County Emergency Management. (See separate story.)

Fourth Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The fourth rabies case of 1991 was confirmed this week by the Garrett County Health Department.

A diseased raccoon apparently entered property owned by Leroy Bolding on Rt. 560, and was tread by Bolding's two dogs. After donning protective gloves, Bolding shot the animal.

Both dogs were vaccinated against the disease, and one of the animals will be revaccinated. Both pets will be observed for 90 days, according to Tina Buckel, health department sanitarian.

Buckel noted that Bolding was wise to wear protective clothing when handling both the rabid raccoon and his dogs after the encounter. All persons should wear gloves when handling diseased animals as the virus can survive for approximately two hours on the coat of an exposed animal.

Buckel also noted that the health department will conduct another rabies clinic from June 3-7. Locations for the clinic will be announced, she said.

Bradley Manor Hearing Continued Because of Legal Technicality

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and several witnesses traveled to Baltimore Monday to testify in the ongoing bankruptcy hearing concerning the future of the Bradley Manor housing development. They were not given the opportunity to testify, however, as a witness for Morton Sarubin, developer/owner of the development, was on the stand for the length of the hearing, which lasted approximately two hours.

After Sarubin's witness, James Humphries, stepped down from the stand, the presiding Judge Schneider called a recess. After ten minutes, Schneider returned and stated that he wished to

Ryscavage Discusses Funding Of Several Projects With Commissioners

Braskey Suggests Bond

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, met with the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss topics covered in the education board's recent meeting. The majority of the issues discussed involved funding problems. After Ryscavage had completed his presentation, Commissioner John Braskey suggested a possible reintroduction of a bond to cover the mounting costs of the school system.

Ryscavage told the commissioners that some questions had arisen among school board members concerning an auxiliary gymnasium at Northern High School. Some months ago, the commissioners had voted down the idea of bidding for an architect to do the job, with Braskey being outvoted by Commissioners Brenda Butcher and Elwood Groves. However, several weeks later, the issue was raised again and Groves changed his stance on the issue, thus the school board was directed to start the bidding process.

Education board members were not agreeable to this, however, for various reasons. Board President Beverly Murphy stated that Northern was also in need of eight new classrooms, and she felt the classrooms were more important than the gym.

"I'm not advocating that we overlook the need for a gym, but I think we should conduct a study to determine which is more important."

Other board members expressed concern about bidding costs, and asked if the commissioners were going to cover the cost of bidding the project. Ryscavage had drafted a letter to the commissioners prior to the board's meeting concerning the cost, but had not received an answer at meeting time.

More Asbestos Discovered At Southern High

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, announced at last week's education board meeting that more asbestos has been uncovered at Southern High School. The removal of the material will cost approximately $40,000. The superintendent has contacted Senator Barbara Mikulski and Congresswoman Beverly Byron to elicit their assistance in receiving more funding from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The asbestos was discovered in the cafeteria. Apparently, a several-inch wide band of the material was found, which completely encircles the room. The removal of the asbestos has begun, and students are eating lunch in the gymnasium. The cost of the removal has been estimated at $20,000.

Man Convicted Of Sex Offenses In Circuit Court

A Central City, Pa., man was found guilty by jury of several sex offenses in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the trial.

David W. Daley, 30, was charged with second, third, fourth degree sex offense, unnatural and perverted sex practice, and assault and battery. The defendant's motion for acquittal was denied by Judge Thayer.

After the defendant was found guilty, Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and revoked bail for the defendant.

Daley's charges stemmed from a November 1990 incident at which time he allegedly sexually abused an 11-year-old male at an Accident residence. He then threatened the victim with harm if the child told anyone about the incident. Several months passed before the boy did tell his parents.

Daley's defense attorney was John R. Toston.

In a separate case, charges of child abuse and assault and battery against Richard R. Craver, 38, Swanton, were not prosecuted by order of the State's Attorney James Sherbin.

The charges stemmed from an incident in December 1990 at which time Craver was accused of beating a 16-year-old female with a leather belt repeatedly, causing bruises on the teenager. Before charges were dropped, Craver pleaded not guilty.

THWARTED ATTEMPT — The Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter attempted to land on Md. Rt. 38 Tuesday afternoon to transport Kimberly Horn, Corinth, W.Va., to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. The landing was unsuccessful at that location but the helicopter did retrieve Horn at Garrett County

Memorial Hospital a few minutes after the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported her. Horn was involved in a motorcycle accident. Oakland volunteer firemen were also dispatched to the scene by Garrett County Emergency Management. (See separate story.)

Senator Hafer To Be Memorial Day Speaker

about the members of my administration. It is nice to know that they recognized a need and acted quickly to respond."

LEGISLATIVE REVIEW

The board of trustees reviewed a legislative summary for Maryland community colleges and the passage of the new funding formula was discussed, as well

Fourth Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The fourth rabies case of 1991 was confirmed this week by the Garrett County Health Department.

A diseased raccoon apparently entered property owned by Leroy Bolding on Rt. 560, and was treed by Bolding's two dogs. After donning protective gloves, Bolding shot the animal.

Both dogs were vaccinated against the disease, and one of the animals will be revaccinated. Both pets will be observed for 90 days, according to Tina Buckel, health department sanitarian.

Buckel noted that Bolding was wise to wear protective clothing when handling both the rabid raccoon and his dogs after the encounter. All persons should wear gloves when handling diseased animals as the virus can survive for approximately two hours on the coat of an exposed animal.

Buckel also noted that the health department will conduct another rabies clinic from June 3-7. Locations for the clinic will be announced, she said.

Bradley Manor Hearing Continued Because of Legal Technicality

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and several witnesses traveled to Baltimore Monday to testify in the ongoing bankruptcy hearing concerning the future of the Bradley Manor housing development. They were not given the opportunity to testify, however, as a witness for Morton Sarubin, developer/owner of the development, was on the stand for the length of the hearing, which lasted approximately two hours.

After Sarubin's witness, James Humphries, stepped down from the stand, the presiding Judge Schneider called a recess. After ten minutes, Schneider returned and stated that he wished to

Ryscavage Discusses Funding Of Several Projects With Commissioners

Braskey Suggests Bond

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, met with the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss topics covered in the education board's recent meeting. The majority of the issues discussed involved funding problems. After Ryscavage had completed his presentation, Commissioner John Braskey suggested a possible reintroduction of a bond to cover the mounting costs of the school system.

Ryscavage told the commissioners that some questions had arisen among school board members concerning an auxiliary gymnasium at Northern High School. Some months ago, the commissioners had voted down the idea of bidding for an architect to do the job, with Braskey being outvoted by Commissioners Brenda Butcher and Elwood Groves. However, several weeks later, the issue was raised again and Groves changed his stance on the issue, thus the school board was directed to start the bidding process.

Education board members were not agreeable to this, however, for various reasons. Board President Beverly Murphy stated that Northern was also in need of eight new classrooms, and she felt the classrooms were more important than the gym.

"I'm not advocating that we overlook the need for a gym, but I think we should conduct a study to determine which is more important."

Other board members expressed concern about bidding costs, and asked if the commissioners were going to cover the cost of bidding the project. Ryscavage had drafted a letter to the commissioners prior to the board's meeting concerning the cost, but had not received an answer at meeting time.

Rodney Durst, board member, stated that he felt

More Asbestos Discovered At Southern High

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, announced at last week's education board meeting that more asbestos has been uncovered at Southern High School. The removal of the material will cost approximately $40,000. The superintendent has contacted Senator Barbara Mikulski and Congresswoman Beverly Byron to elicit their assistance in receiving more funding from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The asbestos was discovered in the cafeteria. Apparently, a several-inch wide band of the material was found, which completely encircled the room. The removal of the asbestos has begun, and students are eating lunch in the gymnasium. The cost of the removal has been estimated at $20,000.

Fourth Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The fourth rabies case of 1991 was confirmed this week by the Garrett County Health Department.

A diseased raccoon apparently entered property owned by Leroy Bolding on Rt. 560, and was treed by Bolding's two dogs. After donning protective gloves, Bolding shot the animal.

Both dogs were vaccinated against the disease, and one of the animals will be revaccinated. Both pets will be observed for 90 days, according to Tina Buckel, health department sanitarian.

Buckel noted that Bolding was wise to wear protective clothing when handling both the rabid raccoon and his dogs after the encounter. All persons should wear gloves when handling diseased animals as the virus can survive for approximately two hours on the coat of an exposed animal.

Buckel also noted that the health department will conduct another rabies clinic from June 3-7. Locations for the clinic will be announced, she said.

Bradley Manor Hearing Continued Because of Legal Technicality

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and several witnesses traveled to Baltimore Monday to testify in the ongoing bankruptcy hearing concerning the future of the Bradley Manor housing development. They were not given the opportunity to testify, however, as a witness for Morton Sarubin, developer/owner of the development, was on the stand for the length of the hearing, which lasted approximately two hours.

After Sarubin's witness, James Humphries, stepped down from the stand, the presiding Judge Schneider called a recess. After ten minutes, Schneider returned

Ryscavage Discusses Funding Of Several Projects With Commissioners

Braskey Suggests Bond

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, met with the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss topics covered in the education board's recent meeting. The majority of the issues discussed involved funding problems. After Ryscavage had completed his presentation, Commissioner John Braskey suggested a possible reintroduction of a bond to cover the mounting costs of the school system.

Ryscavage told the commissioners that some questions had arisen among school board members concerning an auxiliary gymnasium at Northern High School. Some months ago, the commissioners had voted down the idea of bidding for an architect to do the job, with Braskey being outvoted by Commissioners Brenda Butcher and Elwood Grovas. However, several weeks later, the issue was raised again and Grovas changed his stance on the issue, thus the school board was directed to start the bidding process.

Education board members were not agreeable to this, however, for various reasons. Board President Beverly Murphy stated that Northern was also in need of eight new classrooms, and she felt the classrooms were more important than the gym.

"I'm not advocating that we overlook the need for a gym, but I think we should conduct a study to determine which is more important."

Other board members expressed concern about bidding costs, and asked if the commissioners were going to cover the cost of bidding the project. Ryscavage had drafted a letter to the commissioners prior to the board's meeting concerning the cost, but had not received an answer at meeting time.

More Asbestos Discovered At Southern High

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, announced at last week's education board meeting that more asbestos has been uncovered at Southern High School. The removal of the material will cost approximately $40,000. The superintendent has contacted Senator Barbara Mikulski and Congresswoman Beverly Byron to elicit their assistance in receiving more funding from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The asbestos was discovered in the cafeteria. Apparently, a several-inch wide band of the material was found, which completely encircles the room. The removal of the asbestos has begun, and students are eating lunch in the gymnasium. The cost of the removal has been estimated at $20,000.

Man Convicted Of Sex Offenses In Circuit Court

A Central City, Pa., man was found guilty by jury of several sex offenses in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the trial.

David W. Daley, 30, was charged with second, third, fourth degree sex offense, unnatural and perverted sex practice, and assault and battery. The defendant's motion for acquittal was denied by Judge Thayer.

After the defendant was found guilty, Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and revoked bail for the defendant.

Daley's charges stemmed from a November 1990 incident at which time he allegedly sexually abused an 11-year-old male at an Accident residence. He then threatened the victim with harm if the child told anyone about the incident. Several months passed before the boy did tell his parents.

Daley's defense attorney was John R. Toston.

In a separate case, charges of child abuse and assault and battery against Richard R. Craver, 38, Swanton, were not prosecuted by order of the State's Attorney James Sherbin.

The charges stemmed from an incident in December 1990 at which time Craver was accused of beating a 16-year-old female with a leather belt repeatedly, causing bruises on the teenager. Before charges were dropped, Craver pleaded not guilty.

Defense attorney for the defendant was Robert Watson.

Norman A. Jacobs, 57, Lonaconing, was found "not criminally responsible" for an incident that resulted in the following charges against the defendant: five counts of assault with intent to murder, five counts of attempted murder, one count of reckless endangerment, one count of possessing a dangerous and deadly weapon, and five counts of assault and battery.

Letter Of Praise To GCC From Gov. Schaefer Shared With Board

The Garrett Community College Board of Trustees met Tuesday evening where Dr. Stephen J. Herman, GCC president, shared a letter of praise from Governor William Donald Schaefer.

The letter stated, "Thank you for your letter regarding the restoration of $61,000 in state funding to Garrett Community College. As you probably know, many letters cross my desk and many are either requests or complaints. Your letter, however, was a delightful and refreshing change, which helped to place in perspective what government service is all about."

The letter continued, "Garrett Community College is a vital resource to the citizens of Western Maryland and I am pleased that we were able to provide additional funds. I also appreciate your kind words about the members of my administration. It is nice to know that they recognized a need and acted quickly to respond."

LEGISLATIVE REVIEW

The board of trustees reviewed a legislative summary for Maryland community colleges and the passage of the new funding formula was discussed, as well as scholarship reform.

Dr. Herman noted that GCC won't see as many increases as previously hoped if the state's financial picture does not improve substantially.

A break down of the budget for community colleges did allow for state aid in the amount of $115,674,800, an increase of $4.3 million from last year; $1.3 million for challenge grants; $7.75 million for capital projects (a reduction from the $8.4 million submitted by Gov. Schaefer); $16.3 million for the new community college of Baltimore; $1.9 million for NCCB capital projects; approximately $600,000 to fund staff

Seventy-Nine Receive Diplomas During GCC Commencement

The 79 students who received Associate in Arts degrees and certificates at the 19th annual commencement of Garrett Community College last Saturday heard speaker Clarence M. Bacon tell them that their education was not finished, but just beginning.

"To be successful, you must be willing to serve your community and your country," the director of the Maryland Veterans Commission told the graduates and their families.

Following the conferral of degrees, special awards were presented to outstanding students by Dr. Lillian Mitchell, Dean of Academic Affairs. Debbie Baker and Dianne Rice were named recipients of the Ann Dillgard Scholarship awards to continue their education. Outstanding transfer student award was presented to Kimberly Czuchrey, and the outstanding career advancement student award to Todd Metz. College president Dr. Steve Herman presented the award for outstanding contributions to

Fourth Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The fourth rabies case of 1991 was confirmed this week by the Garrett County Health Department.

A diseased raccoon apparently entered property owned by Leroy Bolding on Rt. 560, and was treed by Bolding's two dogs. After donning protective gloves, Bolding shot the animal.

Both dogs were vaccinated against the disease, and one of the animals will be revaccinated. Both pets will be observed for 90 days, according to Tina Buckel, health department sanitarian.

Buckel noted that Bolding was wise to wear protective clothing when handling both the rabid raccoon and his dogs after the encounter. All persons should wear gloves when handling diseased animals as the virus can survive for approximately two hours on the coat of an exposed animal.

Buckel also noted that the health department will conduct another rabies clinic from June 3-7. Locations for the clinic will be announced, she said.

Bradley Manor Hearing Continued Because of Legal Technicality

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and several witnesses traveled to Baltimore Monday to testify in the ongoing bankruptcy hearing concerning the future of the Bradley Manor housing development. They were not given the opportunity to testify, however, as a witness for Morton Sarubin, developer/owner of the development, was not there for the length of the hearing, which lasted approximately two hours.

After Sarubin's witness, James Humphries, stepped down from the stand, the presiding Judge Schneider called a recess. After ten minutes, Schneider returned and stated that he wished to give the Oakland Associates/Sarubin approximately 60 more days to prepare a ballot to be distributed to the creditors in the bankruptcy case. Oakland is a creditor, as are the Garrett County Commissioners, although the commissioners have not been mentioned thus far in the case. Other creditors include the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Oakland Associates, which consists of several Baltimore businessmen.

Mayor McCain explained that the ballot is part of the bankruptcy process, and that the town has completed two such ballots thus far. The ballot simply asks creditors if they agree to the plan set out by the Oakland Associates.

Since Sarubin changed his plan as of the last hearing, which was April 29, a new ballot must be developed. Sarubin's first plan was to renovate the 100 units into 75 new units, and sell them individually. His latest plan is to renovate all 100 units, and use Bradley Manor again as a low-income housing development. McCain said that the town, HUD, and the commissioners will not support the plan, and will defeat the Oakland

Braskey Suggests Bond

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, met with the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss topics covered in the education board's recent meeting. The majority of the issues discussed involved funding problems. After Ryscavage had completed his presentation, Commissioner John Braskey suggested a possible reintroduction of a bond to cover the mounting costs of the school system.

Ryscavage told the commissioners that some questions had arisen among school board members concerning an auxiliary gymnasium at Northern High School. Some months ago, the commissioners had voted down the idea of bidding for an architect to do the job, with Braskey being outvoted by Commissioners Brenda Butcher and Elwood Groves. However, several weeks later, the issue was raised again and Groves changed his stance on the issue, thus the school board was directed to start the bidding process.

Education board members were not agreeable to this, however, for various reasons. Board President Beverly Murphy stated that Northern was also in need of eight new classrooms, and she felt the classrooms were more important than the gym.

"I'm not advocating that we overlook the need for a gym, but I think we should conduct a study to determine which is more important."

Other board members expressed concern about bidding costs, and asked if the commissioners were going to cover the cost of bidding the project. Ryscavage had drafted a letter to the commissioners prior to the board's meeting concerning the cost, but had not received an answer at meeting time.

Rodney Durst, board member, stated that he felt

More Asbestos Discovered At Southern High

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, announced at last week's education board meeting that more asbestos has been uncovered at Southern High School. The removal of the material will cost approximately $40,000. The superintendent has contacted Senator Barbara Mikulski and Congresswoman Beverly Byron to elicit their assistance in receiving more funding from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The asbestos was discovered in the cafeteria. Apparently, a several-inch wide band of the material was found, which completely encircled the room. The removal of the asbestos has begun, and students are eating lunch in the gymnasium. The cost of the removal has been estimated at $20,000.

The Garrett Community College Pipes & Drums, pictured above, will perform as host band of the Fourth Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 1, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

The band began in August 1979 as the "Garrett Highlanders," organized by Charles P. "Chip" Evans and Fred A. Thayer. A class of eight students started the course of instruction at Garrett Community College, and formal instruction in piping and drumming are now part of the curriculum at Garrett Community College, where all interested parties are encouraged to join in instruction and/or the band. A member of the first class was the Reverend John A. Grant, who continues as a band member and as Clan Chief of the group. Chip Evans acts as Pipe Sergeant and Fred Thayer serves as pipe major and instructor. Thayer currently serves as chief judge of Maryland's Fourth Judicial Circuit.

The band's first public performance was at Wisp's Summerfest in July 1980, and public performances have continued regularly since that time. They have performed at the McHenry Highland Festival since it began in 1988 and also perform annually at the Autumn Glory Festival in Oakland each October. The band was officially adopted by the college in 1989 and is sponsored by the College, the Garrett County Arts Council through a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, and Westvaco Corporation. The band led the dignitaries in the opening ceremonies of the 1989 Whitewater World Championships at Frostburg State University, and will play at various points along the route for the grand opening of Interstate 68 (old Route 48) on Friday, August 2, beginning at the Sideling Hill Information Center near Hancock. Band members also participate in the "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose" Party and Robert Burns Birthday Celebration, held annually at Deep Creek Lake. Tartans worn by this band reflect the clans of its members--Rose, Grant, Stewart, Gunn, Mahone, Colquhoun and Buchanan.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Besides art items, on the auction block this year will be antique salt glazed crocks, a stay in a three-bedroom condo for a visit to Disney World, and a painting by Pittsburgh artist and lake resident, Robert Yonke. Also slated to come under auctioneer Tom Henline's gavel is a gourmet eight-course dinner for eight, prepared by Charity Janssen and Diane Thayer, and served by their husbands, Jan. W. Henry of Fables, ceramics by James Stump, flower arrangements by Ren Roy, flowers of Cumberland, and an etching by Jeanie James.

All auction items may be previewed during the cocktail hour preceding the dinner party. Reservations for tables of eight or ten may be made by calling Ferne Belmonte at 387-6371. Tickets will be mailed.

Oakland Man Found Guilty Of DUI; Handgun Violation Not Prosecuted

An Oakland man who was found guilty of DWI and failure to drive right of center had a charge of carrying a handgun against him not prosecuted in a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office, according to records in Garrett County District Court.

The case of William C. Metz was heard by Judge Jack R. Turney who ordered that Metz forfeit the handgun to the state.

Metz was given a 30-day suspended jail term, fined $500 ($300 was suspended), and ordered to serve 12 months of supervised probation for the DWI charge. He was fined $25 on the traffic charge. A charge of negligent driving against him was also not prosecuted in the plea agreement.

Metz had been charged by the Maryland State Police on March 24 on U.S. Rt. 219, near Mt. Nebo. A search revealed a handgun in his jacket pocket.

BATTERY CASE

A Mtn. Lake Park man, in a plea agreement with the state, was found guilty of battery while a charge of child abuse against him was not prosecuted.

Charles P. Hacek, 27, was found guilty of battery on a four-year-old female. Judge Turney handed him a six-month suspended jail term, fined him $50, and placed him on 12 months of supervised probation.

Hacek was arrested on March 29 by the Maryland State Police after an investigation revealed that he had struck the child with a two-inch belt leaving black and blue marks on the child's lower back and buttocks. Hacek resides with the mother of the victim, according to police records.

DNR CASES

A number of cases were heard in District Court last week as the result of arrests made previously by the Department of Natural Resources Police.

Michael J. Thomas, 33, Oakland, was found guilty of hunting game birds in closed season. He was fined $300, but Judge Turney waived $200 of the fine in lieu of 40 hours of community service.

Thomas had been arrested on April 6 by the DNR Police for hunting wild turkey in the Sang Run area.

Randy R. Mellinger, 21, Oakland, was found guilty of hunting game birds in closed season. The Judge also fined him $300 and waived $200 of the fine in lieu of 40 hours of community service.

Mellinger, too, was arrested on April 6 in the Sang Run area.

Jody W. Friend, 23, Oakland, was also found guilty of hunting game birds during closed season. He was given the same sentence as Thomas and Mellinger.

Jay T. Bickerton, 26, Elizabeth, Pa., who had been charged with fishing non-tidal waters without a valid angler's license opted to pay the set fine of $50 in lieu of going to court. He had been charged by the DNR Police on April 13 in the Bear Creek area.

Paul D. Klingelhofer, 21, Baltimore, who was found guilty of fishing non-tidal waters without a valid angler's license also opted to pay a $30 fine before his trial date. He had been charged on April 6 near the Glendale Bridge.

Donald F. Insley Jr., 29, Tyaskin, Wisc., was found guilty of fishing non-tidal waters without a valid angler's license, along with Jane K. Insley, 28, Hebron, Wisc. They both opted to pay set fines of $30 each. They had been charged on April 20 at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

Charles L. Wilt Jr., 28, Grantsville, was found guilty of possession of trout in a delayed harvest and of possession of bait in a delayed season. He was fined $15 on each count. He had been charged on April 4 at the Casselman River.

BENCH WARRANTS

Two bench warrants for failure to appear in court were issued last week by Judge Turney.

One bench warrant was issued for Larry D. Hoffman who was to face drug and drug paraphernalia possession charges.

Another was issued for Denzil Eugene Moyer who was also to face the same drug charges.

Grant County, W.Va. Man Killed In Saturday Accident On U.S. Rt. 48

A Grant County, W. Va., man was killed early Saturday when his van overturned some eight to 10 times along U.S. Route 48, just west of Grantsville, according to a reported filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Robert Lee Sturgeon, 23, Shoals, was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Herbert Leighton, Garrett County medical examiner, following the 4:31 a.m. accident.

Tpr. J.T. Bentlojewski investigated for state police and reported that Sturgeon was traveling at an apparent high rate of speed in the westbound lane of Rt. 48 when the vehicle traveled off the roadway, crossed both westbound lanes, and then overturned numerous times in the median strip.

Sturgeon was reportedly ejected from the van upon impact, said police.

Northern Rescue Squad personnel and Grantsville volunteer firemen were dispatched to the scene by Garrett County Emergency Management.

Funeral arrangements were not made available at press time.

REMAINS "STABLE"
In a separate automobile accident which occurred on Tuesday, a Swanton woman remains hospitalized in "stable" condition, according to a nursing spokesman at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Susan Renee Tichnell, 19, was admitted to the local hospital in guarded condition following the 1:30 p.m. mishap in which her vehicle overturned several times, according to reports filed at the Maryland State Police.

Tichnell was reportedly operating a Geo tracker southbound, about one and one-half miles from Md. Route 135, when the vehicle ran off the right side of the road. It then crossed the center line and struck a ditch before crossing the road a second time. The vehicle then overturned three times before coming to rest in a ditch, said police.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Kitzmiller volunteer firemen to the scene.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT
A Corinth, W.Va. woman remains a patient in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following a motorcycle accident Tuesday afternoon on Md. Route 39, just west of Oakland.

Kimberly A. Horn, 29, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and then transferred to the Cumberland Hospital by Medevac helicopter, where she remains listed in "stable" condition with a broken leg and internal injuries, according to the Oakland City Police who investigated the accident.

The accident reportedly occurred when Horn lost control of the 1977 Kawasaki she was operating and struck a guardrail, throwing her some 22 feet into the air. She again struck a guardrail upon her descent.

Cpl. Ernest Alexander is continuing his investigation in the 5:22 p.m. mishap.

ANOTHER INJURED
An Oakland man sustained injuries Saturday morning when the vehicle he was operating on the Cranesville Road crossed the southbound lane and struck a tree.

Phillip Pepe Jr., 18, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad where he was admitted for injuries, but has since been released, according to a nursing spokesman at the hospital.

Tpr. S.H. Anderson investigated for state police and charged Pepe with failure to keep right of center in the 7 a.m. mishap.

TRUCK WRECK
A two-vehicle accident last Thursday involving a tractor-trailer resulted in one man being sent to the local hospital where he was treated and released for minor injuries.

Robert Sines, 55, Friendsville, was transported to the local hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The driver of the tractor-trailer, John R. Beeson, Kokomo, Ind., was apparently not injured.

State police said the accident occurred on U.S. Route 48 in the westbound lanes when the tractor-trailer struck the 1988 Ford truck being operated by Sines, who had slowed in the lane, causing the rig to jack-knife. Both westbound lanes were then blocked for a short period of time.

Police said Beeson was unable to avoid striking the Sines vehicle. Sines was subsequently charged with negligent driving.

GNB's 1991 Charity Golf Tourney Kicked Off With Party

Over 100 people from local businesses, friends of Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., and Garrett National Bank recently kicked off the third Annual Garrett National Bank Charity Golf Tournament with a wine and cheese party at the Oakland Country Club. This was held in appreciation of those who have and are going to participate in the golf tournament, set for Friday, July 26, at the Oakland course. Hospice of Garrett County has been selected as the beneficiary of the 1991 tourney.

Several corporate team sponsors have already submitted their $500 registration fee. This entitled the sponsor to a four-man team, carts, greens fees, prizes, and food and refreshments after the golf outing. Those pictured above represent several of the corporate sponsors. There are still some team openings and information may be obtained by contacting Luke Stuart of Garrett National Bank, 334-9483, Brenda Butcher of Hospice, 334-5151, or Oakland Country Club Pro Shop, 334-3883.

Hospice will be the third non-profit charity to receive the proceeds from this golf tournament. Garrett Organization for the Handicapped was the first and Ruth Enlow Library Children's Books Foundation was the second. The first two tournaments raised a total of almost $25,000 and Garrett National Bank is hoping to turn over as much or more to Hospice after the golf scramble this year.

Businesses or individuals who would like to help Garrett National Bank help Hospice may be an associate sponsor for $200. This entitles them to attend the festivities after the golfing.

Single entries are also welcome. The fees are $90 for a non-member of the Oakland Country Club, and $75 for a member of the club.

Some of the prizes team players will be receiving are: golf bags, golf balls, travel bags, other golf accessories, and gift certificates.

Millford E. Beckman, GNB president, said, "Garrett National Bank, its Board of Directors, stockholders, officers, and employees are very proud to be able to support the local non-profit organizations which perform such important tasks in our community. This is part of our way of saying thanks for all you do for our fellow Garrett Countians."

GCSO Probes Thefts: Total Loss Over $8,000

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating several thefts in the area, which have resulted in a combined loss of over $8,000.

Robert Johnson of Superior Sand Corporation reported a breaking, entering, and theft of numerous tools from the corporation that occurred between 4 p.m. on April 24 and 6 a.m. on April 25. Unknown persons apparently used bolt cutters to cut open five master locks on the gate.

After entry, the burglars removed numerous items, including air wrenches, saws, grinders, welding rods, cotter pins, wire crimpers and connectors, brass fittings, drill bits, and several other items. The total loss in the crime has been estimated at approximately $5,489.

In a separate incident, the theft of $1,450 in building materials was reported by Jerry Humberson of Humberson Homes, Inc., McHenry.

CHARITY GOLF TOURNEY SPONSORS - Plans are being finalized for the third annual Garrett National Bank Charity Golf Tournament, the proceeds of which will be donated to Hospice of Garrett County. A number of local businesses have already become sponsors of the 1991 tourney by contributing $500 registration for a four-player team. Pictured above are persons representing those businesses. Kneeling, left to right, are: J.R. Giotto, of Giotto Enterprises; Randy Rodeheaver, Rodeheaver & Associates; Cathy Lohr, Lohr Distributing; and Phil Davidson, Davidson's Army/Navy. Standing, same order, are: Gary Shafer, Englander's Pharmacy; Rob Sharps, Butcher & Singer; Marion Richardson, Time/News; Bill Cheeno, Liberty Bank; Brenda Butcher, executive director of Hospice; Craig Wengert, BGS&G Companies; Millford Beckman, president of Garrett National Bank; Max Messenger, Wood Products; Wheeler Stewart, Oakland Country Club golf pro; Judy Devlin, Book Mark'et; and Dick Devlin, Inc. Other sponsors who did not have a representative present for the photo include: Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, MCI Communications, and Beltzel Corporation.

Humberson told police that sometime between 5 p.m. on May 13 and 7 a.m. on May 14, a person or persons entered a house which is under construction in McHenry and removed items such as two metal insulated doors, 150 cut boards, nails, 30 tubes of caulk, insulation materials, two ladders, and sealing foam.

The house was open at the time of the crime, according to the police report.

Wade Janoske, Oakland, reported the theft of eight windshields taken from an outbuilding on his property.

Janoske told the officers that the windshields had been stored in the building for some time, and the removal of them apparently occurred sometime between January and April. The property is located on U.S. Rt. 50, west of Table Rock Road.

Maryland State Police are reportedly assisting in the investigation of this crime.

Mark F. Arnold of Frank Arnold Construction, Oakland, told police that someone removed several items from his truck cab on the night of May 14 while it was parked on East Oak Street.

Arnold reportedly went to his truck on the morning of May 15, and discovered that the glove box was open.

Upon further inspection, he realized that a culprit had stolen a Stihl 028 chainsaw, one saw case, a radar detector, and a lock level. Also taken in the theft was a box of cigars, which Arnold had purchased recently to celebrate the birth of his child.

The total loss in this incident has been estimated at $480, according to the report.

In a separate case, another Stihl chainsaw was reported stolen. Randall W. Guthrie Sr., Swanton, told police officers that the chainsaw was removed from a machine shed on his property sometime between May 8-13. The shed is located approximately 40 feet from the victim's residence.

The chainsaw's value has been approximated at $400. Francis Henderson, Damascus, reported a breaking, entering, and theft at his secondary home located on Steyer Mine Road.

Police responded to Henderson's home to investigate, and found that a person or persons had broken a window in order to gain entry. Once inside, the culprit removed a half gallon of whiskey and two six-packs of beer.

The total loss in damages and stolen goods has been valued at $123.

Investigations into these crimes are continuing, according to the police report.

It Isn't Enough...

Plans for the annual observance of Memorial Day, including parades and solemn ceremonies at local cemeteries, have been finalized by the various veterans organizations and other groups. It is both important and appropriate that all American citizens take at least a few moments to extend tribute to and remember those who paid the ultimate sacrifice to protect the freedoms we all enjoy.

However, a few hours of ceremony, speeches, music, and rituals per year are not nearly enough to appropriately honor those who died for freedom. Those of us fortunate enough to be alive today in this country can best honor them by understanding and utilizing those freedoms every day of the year. Really, what good are our freedoms if we don't use them? But how do we use them?

Such opportunities are abundant each and every day. For example, there is presently a major crisis brewing between the Garrett County commissioners and the Board of Education over budgetary matters, with the county teachers basically caught in the middle. The bickering goes on and on among these various parties, but we believe that the real solution to the problem lies with the public at large. Now is the time for all citizens to use their freedom of speech and expression to make their opinions known to the persons involved. This can be done by writing letters, by making a telephone call, or via a personal visit. As always, the letters to the editor column in this paper is an avenue to utilize both freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

The teachers will be using their freedom of assembly this evening when they convene to discuss what course of action to take in response to the budget cuts by the county commissioners.

There is, on a regular basis, opportunities to exercise our freedom to vote on candidates and issues.

Each of us has the freedom to present grievances to our elected officials in the form of petitions that can force certain issues to a vote of the people.

Finally, we should utilize our freedom of worship, in whatever form we choose, to seek guidance, understanding, patience, and comfort that will help us address not only public issues, but also private concerns.

Each time we employ our freedoms in an attempt to increase the common good, we pay the highest honor possible to those who laid down their lives to guarantee those freedoms.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In recent weeks, a great deal has been written about the Brady bill in the national press. Unfortunately, much of that has been written and said about the bill is untrue.

While every American feels very sorry for all the pain and suffering that Jim Brady has had to endure, the bill named after him must still be debated openly and honestly.

A few weeks ago, Congressman Charles E. Schumer (D-NY), chairman of the House Subcommittee on Crime and Criminal Justice, held hearings on the Brady bill.

Unfortunately, opponents of the bill, including Congressmen and expert witnesses, were barred from those hearings. Apparently, Congressman Schumer has about as much respect for the First Amendment as he has shown for the Seco.

Among those not allowed to testify was Jacquie Miller, one of the victims in the highly publicized "assault weapon" shooting at the Standard Gravure printing plant in Louisville, Kentucky.

Like James Brady, Jacquie was severely wounded and is confined to a wheelchair. But unlike Brady, she was not allowed to testify as a pro-gun witness. You see, Jacquie was armed, and had she not stopped to render assistance to a victim of the shooting, was within seconds of ending Westbecker's mad shooting spree with her own revolver.

I am pro-gun and support the right to keep and bear arms. The Brady bill is not a harmless waiting period, but a permit-to-purchase law. It would change gun ownership from a right to a privilege that could be granted or denied at the whim of a police chief. Whether you are pro- or anti-gun, wouldn't you agree with the public's right to know this information?

If you need further information, I would recommend that you contact Gun Owners of America (703) 321-8585. They are a Washington, D.C.-based pro-gun lobby group that can provide some balance to anti-gun groups like Handgun Control that wrote the Brady bill. Sarah Brady is chairman of Handgun Control, Inc.

Sincerely,
L.B. Cotton

To the Editor:

I read the pros and cons of Bradley Manor. At one time it was decent, low-income family housing. It had insulation, privacy. As a friend of an elderly gentleman at 36 Buena Vista Drive, I would like for you to take a picture of High View. His bathroom ceiling is off. No insulation. He lives with his son, three rooms, no privacy; no police protection. This is in the city of Oakland.

I doubt very much if this is put in the paper. I have no connections with HUD or anyone. I'm a concerned citizen for the elderly, unprotected people who live on social security.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Georgia Weimer

The Poppy Story

From the battlefields of World War I, weary soldiers brought home the memory of a barren landscape transformed by wild poppies, red as the blood that had soaked the soil. By that miracle of nature, the spirit of their lost comrades lived on.

This poppy, as a memorial flower to the war dead, can be traced to a single individual, Miss Moine Michael, who on impulse, bought a bouquet of poppies — all that New York City's Wanamaker's Department Store had — and handed them to businessmen meeting at the New York YMCA where she worked, asking them to wear the poppy as a tribute to the fallen. Today's poppy distribution is the ultimate result of the impulsive action on the public. When the 32nd Division came home to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in June 1919, a refreshment booth decorated with poppies was twice stripped of its flowers and contributions were left on the counter. Volunteers collected these contributions and used them for the benefit of disabled veterans.

From this, Mrs. Mary Haney, a volunteer that day, took the idea to raise money to help with the veterans' rehabilitation to Milwaukee's American Legion Post #1, and in 1920, on the Saturday before Memorial Day, the Post distributed 50,000 poppies and received contributions totaling $5,500.

During this time, Miss Michael returned to her native state of Georgia and urged all members of The American Legion to wear the poppy as a tribute to their fallen comrades. In 1920 the Legion's Department of Georgia adopted the poppy as its memorial flower and took the concept to the organization's National Convention in Cleveland. In 1921 the poppy was adopted as The American Legion's official flower, replacing the daisy.

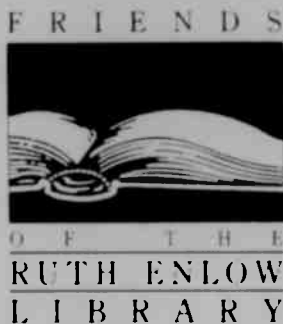

The poppy was adopted as the memorial flower of The American Legion Auxiliary at the first National Convention in 1921. The resolution also stated "that contributions be promoted for the sole purpose of aiding in veterans' relief work."

The first poppies were silk, made by French war widows and orphans, but by 1922 the first American-made poppies were produced by veterans in Minnesota hospitals. The program grew as the hand work was found to be physically and psychologically beneficial to hospitalized and disabled veterans. In 1924, the organizational ability and skill of the Auxiliary in this vital rehabilitation and fundraising program was recognized by The American Legion and full responsibility was placed in their hands.

While many versions of the poppy have been produced over the years by other organizations, the Auxiliary poppy has remained much the same — made of crepe paper, each petal affixed by hand by a hospitalized or disabled veteran. The tag which carries the Auxiliary and Legion emblems clearly states that it was made by a veteran.

At the present time veterans at the Day Care Center in Baltimore and a couple disabled veterans living at home, are making the 100,000 poppies purchased by the units in Maryland each year.

Wearing the poppy is a personal statement which simply says, "I remember."

While shopping recently I picked up several pairs of argyle socks. Brenda asked me if I was really going to wear them as they were a radical departure from my usual drab (her word) clothing. I replied that many men upon reaching my age suffered a mid-life crisis and began wearing their shirts unbuttoned in order to display gold chains and graying chest hair. This often leads to consorting with younger women which in turn frequently results in divorce proceedings. I told her since I couldn't afford any of that, I was just going to change my style of socks. I call them my change-of-life socks.

Speaking of changes, Greta Edgar and Sheila Edwards have been elected to fill vacancies on Friend's Board of Directors.

Two book endowments have been received raising the number of fully funded endowments to thirty. The first is in memory of police officers who have served in Garrett County and is from Garrett County Lodge #99 of The Fraternal Order of Police. The second is from Charles and Dorothy Morris in honor of their great grandchildren Crystal and Rebecca Dornburg.

I have recently read two non-fiction books that I would highly recommend. Motoring with Mohammed by Eric Hansen is fascinating. Hansen spent the early seventies traveling in North Africa, Asia and Australia. He was shipwrecked on an island off the coast of Yemen in 1978. He buried his travel journals on the island. Motoring with Mohammed is his story of the shipwreck and his subsequent return to Yemen in 1988 to retrieve his journals. This is an intriguing portrayal of Arab culture in Yemen and is especially interesting in the wake of the barrage of information we received during the recent war.

Last Chance To See by Douglas Adams and Mark Cawardine is a description of travels to various parts of the world to do a BBC program on endangered animal species. They observed or attempted to observe Komodo Dragons in Indonesia, River Dolphins in China, White Rhinos and Mountain Gorillas in Zaire, Kokopis in New Zealand and Fruit Bats on Mauritius. Adams usually writes comic science fiction novels and Cawardine is a zoologist. This account of their travels and encounters with these exotic creatures is informative and amusing.

The Mind Wanders

by Pam Ashby

Oh, there are so many annoying people and situations with which to deal. But how we deal with our pet peeves and how we would like to deal with them are generally worlds apart.

Take, for instance, the difficult person who is so full of self-importance that when you ask him a harmless, yet essential question, he finds it necessary to stare coldly at your two heads while telepathically informing you that you're too stupid to live. What I normally do is back down, and with my tail between my legs, walk gingerly around that immovable object, kicking myself and apologizing profusely as I scamper away — rat that I am for existing. I secretly wish I had the nerve to place several rusty needles into the steely eyes of that cold statue before me who is posing as a human being. At the very least, I want to inquire sarcastically of the rock, "My, but you're wonderful, aren't you?"

But I don't and I won't.

And how about the big, smelly, loud, obnoxious goon who, without fail, plops himself down in front of you at the movies — every time? If there are other available seats, I'll move. In none are available I might muster enough courage to say "Shhh!" in my best outdoor voice as the goon laughs loudly at an inappropriate, tense, silent, tender scene. What I long to do is arrive at the theatre armed with my defense arsenal. Then when goony acts up I would hand him a bar of soap, a can of deodorant, a bottle of shampoo, a hair brush, clean clothes, toothpaste and brush, and finally a muzzle to shut him up as he is escorted to the nearest exit by Hulk Hogan.

But I don't and I won't.

What about the alien jerk who pulls out in front of you, causing you to slow from 55 miles per hour to 10 miles per hour in three seconds flat? He then proceeds to drive at 15 miles per hour, gawking at everything and running off both sides of the road which does not facilitate passing the idiot. Not to worry. In 50 feet or less he will undoubtedly turn off onto the next exit with no signal whatsoever. What I do in this situation is practice "sign language" and my "French." What I'm dying to do, however, is put my "James Bond" special auto into action. Fire one! Large rubber bands spring forward and meet their target "right up side his punkin' head." Fire two! A forceful gust of wind propels the jerk's car forward to a decent speed of at least 50 miles per hour. Fire three! Large sheets of steel fly to their destiny — the exit the jerk thought he was going to take. Fire four! A driver's manual falls right into the lap of Mr. Selfish Inconsiderate Jerk Driver.

But I don't and I won't.

I'll just smile and endure people who constantly interrupt public meetings, line jumpers who feel their time is more important than mine, nasty store clerks who would rather gossip than ring up my insignificant purchase, hardened criminals who demand that their "good" name be kept out of the local newspaper . . .

I do and I will.

commissioners was the recent southern elementary school district study, which concerns the current condition of the Red House, Loch Lynn, Crellin, Bloomington, and Kitzmiller Elementary Schools. The contractors who completed the study, Altman & Altman Architects, Uniontown, Pa., recommended that the five schools be consolidated into two new schools, one located in Swanton and one somewhere west of Oakland.

The superintendent informed the commissioners that he and several members of the school board have visited each population of the schools involved, and have discussed the project at length. Ryscavage said in his opinion, the schools against the consolidation issue were Bloomington, Crellin, and Kitzmiller. He said he felt that the Red House and Loch Lynn school populations expressed some interest in a new facility.

A decision about the elementary schools will have to be finalized in mid-October, Ryscavage said. More work will be done in studying the situation.

Al Ringer, assistant superintendent of schools, curriculum and instruction, was present to assist Ryscavage in explaining another recent study completed by the education board concerning Garrett County students attending Allegany County schools. The study was done on the request of former commissioner Ernest Gregg, and has caused some controversy among Garrett Countians who live in the northeastern section of the county.

Ryscavage explained the findings of the study, which were gathered by using the 1988-89 school year. That year, Garrett County spent $223,565 in tuition costs for approximately 150 students to attend school in Allegany

County. Garrett County would have paid $289,000 to educate the same students in their home county, but Allegany Co. did receive $218,905 from the Maryland State Department of Education for taking these students, bringing the total received by Allegany Co. to $442,470. In the 1988-89 school year,

Elder Abuse -- A Growing Epidemic

Part Two

by Adina Broade, Director
Garrett County Agency On Aging

In part one of our series on elder abuse, the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging endeavored to educate the community of what elder abuse is, who the victims and the abusers are, and some of the reasons abuse occurs. Part two will provide you with information on what needs to be accomplished to stop it and some ways you, the reader, can help.

The information provided has, in part, been taken from the Scriptographic Booklet, Channing L. Bete Co., Inc., entitled "What Everyone Should Know About Elder Abuse." Copies of these booklets are available free of cost by contacting the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, 301-334-5856 or 301-334-9431.

What Can He Done To Stop Elder Abuse?

Greater public awareness is essential if we are to stop elder abuse. As identified in part one, an estimated two million elderly are abused yearly. This figure alone indicates a lack of understanding and knowledge of an appalling problem.

Legislation is required to help the elderly utilize the courts so they may obtain treatment for and protection from further abuse. Also needed are "immunity statutes" in all states which would protect individuals reporting abuse from law suits.

Negative attitudes toward the elderly and disabled must be changed through education. As a nation we should revere our elders, regarding them as valuable members of our society having much to offer.

To lessen the stress involved with caregiving, more resources must be made available including meal delivery, day care, home health aides, transportation, counseling assistance with daily living tasks, and respite care.

How Can You Help Stop Abuse?

Be a friend to an elderly person, offering understanding and sympathy. Assist an elderly person by providing transportation, home repair, and assistance in seeking information and resources.

Caregivers who are suffering from stress should seek support groups in their community where they can openly discuss the problems and conflicts they are experiencing with elderly relatives. Ask for help from other family members. Utilize available services such as respite care to enable the caregiver to enjoy some time away. Make time each day for an enjoyable activity to help to alleviate stress.

Individuals who suspect or are aware of an elderly person being abused (physical, verbal, emotional, financial, exploitation, and neglect) should report it immediately. Contact Department of Social Services, 334-5404, 334-5409, or the Police Department.

Elder abuse can be stopped but it is up to all of us to assure that it does. We must actively lobby our local, state, and federal governments to provide needed funding and legislation to prevent this tragic epidemic. For further information about available resources in Garrett County, call Area Agency on Aging, 334-5856 or 334-9431.

Sheriff's Office Notes Arrests

Several arrests were made and bench warrants served by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week.

Homer L. Smith, 30, Inez, Kentucky, was arrested on May 16 for driving while intoxicated (DWI). Dep. J. Murphy apparently stopped the defendant after observing him driving erratically on Rt. 219 South. The arrest took place at 12:30 a.m.

Zane T. Rigglesman, 19, Deer Park, was charged with DWI after Murphy stopped him for operating a vehicle without tags. The arrest occurred on May 18 at 12:30 a.m.

Darlene M. Elliot, 49, Friendsville, was arrested for DWI on May 17 at 9:30 p.m. Murphy arrested the defendant after observing her operating her vehicle in an erratic manner on Rt. 42.

Larry B. Stemple, 29, Friendsville, was stopped Sunday at 9:25 p.m. on Water Street in Friendsville after Murphy observed him driving erratically. He was then charged with DWI.

Michael G. Casteel, 32, Friendsville, was cited with DWI on Sunday at 10:30 p.m. Officer Murphy stopped him for speeding on Water Street, according to the report.

Warrants for the arrest of both Linda M. Wells, 27, and Mark J. Wells, 26, were issued this week after a domestic altercation between the two persons.

According to the police log, the couple were involved in an argument on May 16. During the altercation, Mrs. Wells reportedly had a pocket knife which she had been using to work on a bicycle, and she apparently threatened Mr. Wells with the implement. Although the two reports differ as to what followed, both of the defendants received minor knife wounds during the argument.

Linda Wells was charged with reckless endangerment and battery, and Mark Wells was charged with one count of battery.

The warrants were served on May 17, according to the report.

Stephen E. Beckman, 32, Oakland, was served a bench warrant on May 19. Beckman was cited for failing to pay fines and report to a probation officer.

Leslie A. Anderson, 29, Grantsville, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant on May 20 for failure to pay fines. The bench warrant was issued from the district court of Garrett County.

Douglas E. Halterman, 28, Oakland, was served a bench warrant for failure to pay a fine for a DWI charge. The bench warrant was served on May 17.

Matthew T. Evans, 25, McHenry, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant issued from the Garrett County Circuit Court. Evans apparently failed to appear in court on May 16. He was served with the bench warrant on May 18, according to the report.

Log Church Opens For Summer Services

The Garrett County Episcopal Missions, consisting of St. John's, Deer Park, and Our Father's House, Altamont, announced this week that regular Sunday services will commence on Sunday, June 9, at the Log Church, at 11:30 a.m.

The services of the Log Church will follow the format of the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer. In keeping with the practice of the Episcopal Church, Eucharist will be offered each Sunday. On the second and fourth Sundays, the Eucharist will be preceded by Morning Prayer, just as it is done at St. John's, where services will continue each Sunday at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m.

This year, regular attendees at the Log Church will be invited to participate in the preparing of the altar, cleaning of the building, care of the grounds, and the reading of scripture, serving with members of the year-round congregation of St. John's. All are invited to attend the opening and to continue to worship with us on a regular basis. All traditions and denominations are welcome.

MSP Investigate Reported Thefts

The Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, are currently investigating several reported thefts in the area.

Tfc. DW Broadwater is seeking information on a theft that reportedly occurred between 4 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday.

Charles G. Bailey, McHenry, told police that someone stole an antique wooden rocking chair from the breezeway of his home. There are no suspects at this time.

A theft that occurred last Thursday (no victim or place listed) is being investigated by Tpr. J.T. Bentlejewski. Apparently, unknown suspect(s) stole parts from a Jeep vehicle including the radio and speakers.

Jerry L. Durst reported that his brown leather wallet and a check for $52 were stolen at Southern High School last Friday. Tfc. P.R. Brown is heading that investigation.

Persons with any information about the thefts are asked to call the state police at 387-5511.

Mtn. Lake Park Man Injured In Cycle Accident

Mark A. Grimm, 28, Mtn. Lake Park, was treated for minor injuries at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and then released following a motorcycle accident Wednesday morning.

According to published reports, the 7 a.m. mishap occurred when Grimm lost control of his cycle when a deer ran into his path on Md. Route 135, near Bloomington.

Grimm was reportedly taken to the local hospital by Tri-Towns Rescue Squad.

RIG OVERTURNS

A tractor-trailer loaded with one- and five-gallon containers of drinking water reportedly overturned on U.S. Route 48 near Orleans Wednesday afternoon, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police.

Tfc. C.R. Hager noted that Steven C. Taylor, 30, Friendsville, was not injured in the 5:10 p.m. mishap when the rig he was operating struck a guardrail and then overturned onto the guardrail. The rig came to rest on its right side.

The right lane of traffic remained closed about 20 minutes while the water was loaded into another rig.

State Highway Administration responded to the scene.

Bradley Manor

Oakland ever requested it.

The Mayor and Town Council as well as a large percentage of the Oakland population are against the renovation of Bradley Manor. The troubled history of the development, its partial location in a flood plain, and its current state of disrepair are three main concerns of those who are against any type of re-development.

The mayor explained that he went to the hearing to give testimony concerning the flood plain situation and the general negative sentiment of the townspeople. Watson was in attendance and was prepared to testify about the zoning problems. Other persons at the hearing were a fire marshal and an expert building inspector who were both to speak about the near impossibility of renovating the current buildings.

However, as stated, no witnesses for Oakland were given the opportunity to take the stand Monday. McCain said the group will return on July 31, which is the tentative date of the next hearing. The ballots will be in at that time, and McCain said he hopes that Oakland's witnesses will finally be able to state their case.

The Oakland representatives asked Schneider to order the Oakland Associates to provide Oakland with their plans for the July 31 hearing, which is standard procedure. However, the judge denied the request. Therefore, the Oakland representatives will not know what to expect at the hearing, which will possibly leave them at a disadvantage.

McCain did note that two of the Oakland lawyer's objections were sustained at the start of the hearing.

Bankruptcy Attorney Robert Gordon, of Shapiro and Olander Law Firm, Cumberland, is representing Oakland, and agreed to appear Monday free of charge. He has agreed to do the same on July 31.

MSTA Issues Report That Blasts New Performance Testing Program

The Maryland State Teachers Association issued on Tuesday its preliminary findings on new state tests to the State Board of Education, based on reports from its 37,000 members in the state's 1217 public schools.

The association had warned the board May 9 of widespread confusion in the schools and told the board to cancel the tests until they had been piloted and field tested.

"There are reasons no other state has rushed into this new type of testing," declared MSTA President Jane R. Stern "and our experience in the past two weeks has confirmed them."

The association president challenged Board President Bob Embry to submit the tests to an evaluation of all teachers administering the tests before deciding to repeat them next year.

The tests were created earlier this year by McGraw Hill & Co. from questions drafted by panels of teachers as part of the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program. They cover math, reading and written English.

MSTA is making seven recommendations to improve the state's testing program.

1. To determine what is actually being tested and its relationship to student performance, submit the tests to independent evaluation by testing experts at Educational Testing Service, FairTest, and University of Maryland.

2. Publish the test battery's rationale and statistical basis for public review.

3. Cut in half the time devoted to the several state tests by creation of a single, coordinated program.

4. Shift the focus of the program from state investigation and regulation to student diagnosis and improvement.

5. Administer the tests earlier, and grade them in time to be of use during the semester given.

6. Conduct an audit of education funds actually spent on the new testing program, including the hidden costs required of local jurisdictions, and make a cost-benefit analysis.

7. Eliminate security measures that demean teachers; involve teachers as professional partners in the testing process.

Reports from schools indicated:

"Many test questions were easier than expected; others presupposed curriculum not taught."

"Many questions were repetitious and redundant."

"The entire school was disrupted because all classrooms had to be reassigned for test-taking."

"Practicing and taking tests this year has consumed more than a month of student instruction: the California Test of Basic Skills in April, the new MSPAP tests in May, and local tests in May/June; e.g., and entire battery of local criterion-referenced tests are scheduled for early June in Prince George's County. That is too much time taken from instruction."

"Handicapped children were frequently frustrated by the questions and the self-confidence that teachers had been carefully nurturing was dashed."

"Answers sometimes presupposed use of a McGraw Hill textbook not used in a school."

"The haste and lack of preparation were costly. The SMS TALENT SEARCH students participated in an SAT (scholastic aptitude test) review in January. Loula Nawcomb made arrangements for the review and approved the letters given to the students. A number of the students demonstrated considerable academic aptitude by scoring high on the SAT given this winter at Garrett Community College. The SAT is required for admission into most of the nation's colleges and universities. Two of the students, Bob Aspinall and Christian Coviallo, earned outstanding scores on the verbal portion of the test and were awarded certificates of distinction from the Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth. Megan Battista and Christian Coviallo earned outstanding scores on the Standard Written English portion and were awarded certificates of distinction. Many of the students were recognized for notable academic achievement and offered special opportunities for unique career exploration and academic enrichment.

board spent more than $10,000 the day before the test to send an errata sheet for the math test by overnight Federal Express to each elementary school in the state.

"The cloak of secrecy and security before the tests alienated teachers and made them feel distrusted and unprofessional. They resent the hand of big brother descending on their classroom."

"Some questions on the Language Arts test were culturally biased, in that they presupposed experiences not common to all students; e.g., fishing, school councils."

"Directions in the teacher manual did not jibe with directions on test; e.g., references to questions 1-8 when questions 1-6 were in the test booklet."

"The writing test reversed the usual allocation of more time for pre-writing and first draft and less for revising and rewriting."

"Students were not allowed to follow the usual practice of seeking peer input for their written drafts in the Language Arts tests."

"The math test was a reading and calculator test; calculators had to be borrowed from the high school because they are not part of the elementary curriculum."

"Some questions on the math test were unclear; e.g., asking for a count of children at tables 'placed end to end.'"

"Children had to make exact measurements with taped rulers in bad repair."

"In the absence of instructions to the contrary, children used extra paper, provided, for extended answers on the language arts test; later their teacher was told their answers would not be counted.

Stern suggested that before proceeding with the testing program, the State Board redirect reform efforts by sitting down the MSTA leaders to work out ways of assisting teachers and children told their answers would not be counted.

Stern suggested that before proceeding with the testing program, the State Board redirect reform efforts by sitting down the MSTA leaders to work out ways of assisting teachers and children to succeed at school. In particular, she stressed the importance of setting staffing levels to give children the personal attention and follow-up they need to get beyond the limits of assembly-line learning.

Rams Hammered In Regional Playoffs By Middletown, 13-0

Southern High Coach Jim Bosley said going into Friday's Region 1 Class 2A playoff contest that Middletown was the best team in the region, despite being seeded second in the standings and the Middletown players proved him right as they drilled the Rams, 13-0, and then went on to top Allegany on Monday for the regional title.

The Rams managed only one hit against senior Brian Helfer, who is being recruited by numerous Division I colleges, while Helfer and his teammates pounded out 13 hits against Southern's ace Brett Rice and Bobby Evans. Middletown scored three runs in the first inning, five in the second, and five in the third, which forced the game to be called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Scott Rice led off Middletown's first inning with a walk and then scored on a triple by Helfer. Greg Lucas, who finished with four hits and drove in five runs, followed with a single to score Helfer after stealing second. Lucas was brought home on a sacrifice by Brian Keller.

Tom Brucheg led off Middletown's second inning with a single. Kline reached base on error, and Helfer was hit by pitch, which loaded the bases. Lucas and Keller followed with back-to-back two-run singles and Joe Oiler added another run-punching single to make it 10-0.

The five-run third inning was highlighted by a two-run homer by Lucas and a two-run single by John Barowski.

The only Southern hit on the night afternoons was a single by Jeremy Bosley in the third inning.

"We knew Helfer was a real ace, but we didn't expect them to hit the ball so well," Coach Bosley said. "We really needed a low-scoring game to have any chance of winning."

It was the Rams' first appearance in the regional tourney since 1988, before which they made the playoff nine straight seasons under Bosley, who remains the area's winningest coach.

The Rams concluded the 1991 campaign with a 14-5 record.

Sinusitis: Causes and Cures

The sinuses are air-filled cavities inside the bones of the face and are connected to the nasal passages. The sinus cavities are lined with a membrane that produces a sticky liquid called mucus, or phlegm. Under normal circumstances, the sinuses are kept clear when the mucus that is produced drains into the nasal passages.

If the sinus cavities become blocked for any reason, as from the congestion associated with a cold, they do not drain as they should. Sinusitis (inflammation of the sinus membranes) results from this poor drainage. Sinusitis also may be the result of an allergy. Sinus membranes may be sensitive to dust or other things. Bacteria may accumulate, resulting in sinus infection.

Sinusitis often causes pain and tenderness above the sinus cavities, the pain being felt in the face, forehead, and eyes. Some persons report that the pain is worse in the morning, easing as the day goes along. The infection associated with sinusitis usually is not serious and often can be cleared up with a course of antibiotics. It is necessary to take all the antibiotic medicine prescribed. Narcotics or less powerful prescription pain relievers help relieve facial pain. Nose drops (nasal decongestants) may be prescribed to lessen nasal inflammation and congestion.

When your doctor prescribes a medicine for you, be sure to tell him about any other medications you are taking. Ask him about any possible side effects of the medicine he is prescribing. Some medications do not interact well together, and some people have uncomfortable reactions to certain drugs.

Volunteers Key To Golf Event For Habitat

"To make our charitable event become a reality, we need a strong volunteer effort, and Habitat's upcoming golf tournament is a perfect example. We are very fortunate to have the community spirit in Garrett County that makes these fund raisers possible," stated Sandy Flanigan, fund raising chairperson for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity.

Mrs. Flanigan continued, "The Golfers Scramble for habitat, scheduled for May 31, is a major fund raising project for our chapter. The following members of the golf tournament committee have been meeting regularly to finalize the details: Francis Grimm, Wayne Johnson, Mike Whipkey, Craig Wengerd, Jeff Orr, Mark Ruhe and myself. The Golf Club at Wisp, represented by Mark Ruhe, has been especially helpful in encouraging potential registrants."

The volunteer effort is also being through prize donations given by local businesses. The New Car Dealers Association, backed off the donations with a check to support the winning prize for the putting contest. Also, prizes are being donated by the following: Bob Martin, Insurance, Dabney & Sons, Supply, D.I. Wisp Industries, Lane Distributing, and McElvies Restaurant.

Less Ingram, chairperson for the volunteer committee, commented, "Several of us will be busy on the day of the golf tournament. It will take many hands to handle the registration, conduct the contests, etc." Her committee consists of Sheila Edwards, Mary Glatfelter, Denise Lemley, Jill Cathell, Betty Hosen, Craig Ingram, Ray Strubin, Wendell Keaton, Len Eiswert, Jo James, Charlie Pariseau, Cathy Pariseau, Charlie Toets, and Rita Grimm.

All proceeds from the event will support Habitat for Humanity's efforts in providing affordable, attractive housing for Garrett County families who do not qualify for conventional financing. Selection of homeowners is determined by actual need as determined by the condition of the current shelter, the ability to pay the interest mortgage, and the character of the applicant's household. Garrett County Habitat for Humanity is funded and supported by the generosity of local churches, businesses, and individuals in the community. The Garrett County Chapter has built 20 homes and improved 50 others since 1983.

Interested golfers should contact Mark Ruhe at the Golf Club at Wisp by calling 301-357-4911. The entry fee per player is $75.00, with a team sponsorship including four players and signage donation of $375. Checks should be made payable to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. A portion of this fee is tax deductible. The deadline for registration is May 25.

TOO LITTLE TOO LATE - This single by Northern High School's Harrison Foy in the seventh inning of the Huskies' Region 1 Class 1A playoff game against Williamsport Friday afternoon at Garrett Community College was too little too late, as the young Huskies were defeated by the senior-dominated squad, 12-5. Foy went on to score, as did two other Huskies in the seventh inning. The Huskies finished with an 11-5 record and will lose only two seniors to graduation this spring. Photo by Craig Speicher.

Huskies Eliminated From Region Playoffs By Williamsport, 12-5

It had been 15 years since the Northern High School baseball team had made the regional playoffs, and with only two starting seniors on his team this year, Husky Coach Phil Carr expected that dry spell to stretch to 16 years. However, the Huskies finished the regular season with an 11-4 record and were seeded second in the Region 1 Class 1A tourney that began Friday.

Williamsport, Northern's opponent in the semi-finals, was a senior-dominated team, with seven in the starting line-up, and their experience proved to be too much for the young Huskies, who were defeated, 12-5, Friday afternoon on the Garrett Community College diamond in McHenry.

"Their experience against our youth was too much for us," Carr said.

One of Williamsport's seniors was starting pitcher Todd Reiff, who held the Huskies hitless until the bottom of the fourth inning and went on to win his sixth game in 11 starts.

The visitors took a 3-0 lead in the top of the second inning, as Northern starter Jerry Uphold walked Dwayne Myers, gave up a single to John Lewis. Dan Reese then singled home Myers and Don Trumpower knocked in Lewis and Reese with a double.

After scoring another run in the third, Williamsport put the game away in the fourth by adding five more runs. Reese singled to lead off the inning, stole second, and came home on a J.D. Koogle grounder that was muffed by the Huskies. After Rob Lauver walked, Coach Carr sent freshman reliever Derek Mason to the mound, trailing 6-0.

Rob Whittington kept things rolling for Williamsport, however, by hitting a single. Jerry Resh was then hit by a pitch and Reiff followed with a two-run single. Lewis then singled again to account for the fifth run of the inning.

The Huskies finally got on the score board in the fourth inning when Mark Beals and Chad Sines reached on walks, Jarrett McKenzie singled, and Dennis Deigert followed with another single to score Beals. Then Sines came home on a fielder's grounder by Paul Edwards to make the score 9-2.

After Williamsport added three insurance runs in the fifth, the Huskies came back to score three in the bottom of the seventh. In that inning, Deigert walked, Harrison Foy singled, and Chad Anderson walked to load the bases. Pinch hitter Todd Burdick then smacked a three-run double to conclude the scoring.

The win upped Williamsport's record to 12-7 and sent them into the regional finals against Clear Spring.

Although pleased with the success of the Huskies this season, Coach Carr said he is already looking forward to next year when he will have seven seniors in his line-up.

operations of the state board during the coming year.

ASSESSMENT PLAN

Don Storck, director of planning and institutional research, brought the board up to date on the draft of the assessment plan mandated by the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Storck noted that Phase I of the Assessment Plan is directed to collecting, evaluating, and reporting information on the collective performance of students, based on common indicators and specific aspects of the overall educational program of the college.

Phase I will be systematically implemented in accordance with a schedule over the next five years and will serve the following objectives: to ensure compatibility and comparability with the college's plan; to provide for the compilation and comparison of longitudinal data and measures to support meaningful trend analysis; to utilize effectively the research capacity of the new computer-based management information system being installed at the college; and to provide for periodic evaluation and modification of the initial assessment plan.

The final version of the plan will be available to the board members at the June meeting.

ACADEMIC REPORT

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, reported on the recent 19th annual commencement. GCC graduated 68 transfer students this year and 11 career students.

Dr. Mitchell noted that one-third of the transfer students have already been admitted to four-year colleges.

The academic dean then announced enrollment figures for upcoming semesters. She stated that 23 students are enrolled in the mini-semester. Some 100 students have enrolled in the summer semester which represents 13.33 FTE. She said that fall semester looks "very promising" as 175 students have already enrolled, representing a 69.87 FTE, a marked improvement.

Commissioners.

In his requests to the commissioners, Dr. Herman stated, "I hope you will look favorably upon the request although it exceeds your stated guidelines."

Dr. Herman then listed, in detail, his reasons for the level of the county funding request which include: state funding reductions in the amount of $94,682; Middle States Association Accreditation funding commitments (some prior problems at the college were the result of underfunding); management information system (insisted upon by the Middle States Association); GCC sign to be erected on U.S. Route 219; and salary equity issues brought to light with the published salaries of the Board of Education staff.

In the Maryland House of Delegates, Hafer serves on the Finance Committee, Joint Committee on Economic Development Strategy, Joint Committee on Energy Pricing, and Joint Committee on Pensions.

The annual parade will form in front of the Oakland Railroad Station on Liberty Street at 9:45 a.m. and will begin at approximately 10:20 a.m. It will travel west on Liberty Street to Wilson Street, north on Wilson Street, east on Center to Second, south on Second to Alder, south on Third to Oak, east on Oak to Fifth Street, and north on Fifth to the Oakland Cemetery.

The Color Guard will be provided by Proctor Kildow Post 71 and SAL Squadron 71. Bill Meyers, Randall Kahl, and Moses Miller are in charge of the ceremony at the Oakland Cemetery, which will begin at 11 a.m. in front of the grave of the Unknown Soldier. Music will be provided by the Southern High School Band and the Garrett Highlanders Bagpipe Unit.

Moses Miller, 2nd vice commander of the Post 71, is in charge of the parade. Any group or persons still wishing to participate, may contact him at 334-3835 after 5 p.m. or call the American Legion at 334-2228.

More Asbestos

More asbestos insulation was located around the chimney flue. The cost of this removal job has also been estimated at $20,000.

The superintendent explained that a total grant amount of $553,264.00 was received by the board from the EPA originally, to be used to remove ceilings and insulation containing asbestos.

To date, the board has used $416,569 in removing the material, leaving $136,695. Approximately WEBELOS TAKE GOLF LESSON - Webelos members of Den 1, Cub Scout Pack 31, recently participated in a golf clinic held at Giottey's Driving Range near Oakland. Wheeler Stewart, golf pro at the Oakland Country Club, instructed the Cubes on the basics of the golf swing and each boy had a chance to test his skills by hitting a supply of balls.

$144,000 is needed to remove floor tile that contains asbestos, but the EPA stipulated that funding provided was to be used only for ceilings and insulation.

Ryscavage requested the $144,000 be granted from the EPA to remove the floor tile, but the request was denied. He now has written to Mikulski and Byron to explain the situation to them, and to ask for their assistance in this situation.

"We are simply trying to do what the law requires us to do," Ryscavage stated. "I think it's rather ironic that the left over funds cannot be used, by order of the EPA, to remove more asbestos."

The superintendent will also include in his request the recent unexpected bill of $40,000 to pay for the removal of the cafeteria and chimney asbestos.

SPRING CONCERT SET — Northern High School Band and Chorus will present its 1991 Spring Concert on Friday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the NHS catatorium. Directed by James E. Board, the band will perform a variety of selections including Patriotic Fantasy by George M. Cohan, Themes From Thus Speaks Zerk by Strauss, The Afternoon Of A Faun by Claude Debussy, O Cool Is The Valley by Vincent Paratchelli, Sunburst by Eric Osterling, and Salute The Duke!, a tribute to Duke Ellington, arranged by Paul Yoder. The chorus will perform A Good Old Vaudeville Show, arranged by MacHuff, for an evening of "good old-fashioned entertainment." An intermission will be held between performances with refreshments provided. The public is encouraged to attend the sole performance to experience the talents of students at Northern. Admission is on a donation basis. Proceeds will be distributed equally between the band and chorus for their use in purchasing needed supplies and materials.

CPR Instructor Training Slated

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor a CPR instructor training class in the near future. All persons interested in becoming an instructor are asked to contact the chapter at 334-3916 and leave their name and telephone number. Callers will be contacted once a date and location of the training sessions is established.

David Bardsley, instructor, said that persons do not need a medical background in order to be trained as CPR instructors.

Ryscavage

jr. high to the more advanced students. No foreign language was shown offered at Frost elementary.

Southern middle, Westminster middle, and Bloomington were compared, showing a difference in foreign language offerings as well. SMS offers three languages, French, Spanish, and German. No foreign language is offered at Bloomington, while 90 days of foreign language is offered at Westminster, but the type of language was not noted.

The comparison of Southern high, Westminster high, and Allegany vocational technical schools showed several variations, mainly because of the different philosophies of the institutions, Ringer explained. Core classes (English, science, math, social studies) are very similar at SHS and Westminster. Allegany vo-tech does not offer college preparatory core classes.

Northern and Beall were compared, and both have similar core class offerings.

The differences in the secondary schools include Allegany's accelerated track in math culminating in calculus. A similar program in Garrett Co. is under development, according to the study.

Allegany provides an accelerated track in science which culminates in physics II. Garrett does not provide this. Both counties offer band, chorus, and general music, but Allegany also provides orchestra studies, voice, ensembles, and other courses in string instruments.

Other major resources of the counties differ, such as Garrett County's Camp Hickory Environmental Education Center, which provides a five-day residence for fourth grade science studies, day use for all grades, life science camp for seventh grade, and gifted and talented resource. Allegany offers a one day outdoor experience at Rocky Gap.

The Garrett County planetarium is used in articulation with the elementary science curriculum, and the middle and high schools take advantage of the planetarium's offerings as well. Allegany uses the Frostburg State University planetarium, with programs presenting by the FSU consultants. The computer resources in Garrett County are extensive, more advanced than several counties in the state.

After presenting the study to the commissioners, Ryscavage again explained that the comparison was simply a study, done in answer to a previous request of a former commissioner.

However, persons in the northeastern part of the county have voiced concern that their children may be forced to attend Garrett County schools as a result of this study. The majority of the parents in that part of the county are "ardently against" such an idea, and held a meeting last evening with members of the school board and Commissioner Butscher to express their views. Ryscavage told the crowd of over 100 persons that no action was planned, and that any development of the issue would be properly publicized.

A similar meeting will be held with Bloomington residents on Tuesday, June 4, at 7 p.m. in the school. Ringer explained to the commissioners that in the current schooling situation, Bloomington's sixth, seventh, and eighth graders are lacking the most in programs, as they have no home economics, no industrial arts, and no foreign language.

During the discussion of these items, Commissioner Braskey suggested the reconsideration of a bond.

"I know this may not be a very popular thing to suggest, but I don't know where else to go," Braskey said. "I was opposed to the bond issue before, but the situation has changed over the years. I think we are the last county in the state that hasn't gone with a bond. I'm sure it would relax the budget."

Braskey went on to say that paying for projects on a "pay as we go" approach is proving to be impossible, mainly because of the tightening budget problems throughout the state and nation. The other commissioners had no comment, and Braskey mentioned that the bond idea was his own, personally.

Not mentioned during the discussion was the 14% cut request of the commissioners. Ryscavage explained later that he has sent a letter to the elected officials, requesting clarification of the cut. He had not received an answer as of press time.

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED PROPERTY TAX INCREASE.

The County Commissioners of Garrett County propose to increase property taxes.

- 1). For the tax year beginning July 1, 1991, the estimated assessable base will increase by 4.6%, from $14,483,408 to $538,357,271.
- 2). If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $2.24 per $100 of assessment, property tax revenues will increase by 4.6%, resulting in $534,775 of new property tax revenues.
- 3). In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the property tax rate should be reduced to $2.14, the constant yield tax rate.
- 4). The County is considering not reducing its property tax rate enough to offset increasing assessments.

The County proposes to adopt a tax rate of $2.24 per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 4.6% higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $534,775 in additional property tax revenues.

A Public Hearing on the proposed property tax increase will be held at 7:00 p.m., on June 4, 1991 at Commissioners' Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, MD.

The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call:

334-8970

counts one through five. Counts six through 17 were not prosecuted. The defendant also pleaded not criminally responsible. Thayer committed Jacobs to the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene for institutional care and treatment. The charges stemmed from a February 10 incident at which time Jacobs allegedly parked a tractor across a road, and then shot a gun at three individuals, wounding one seriously. Authorities later determined that Jacobs was not capable of realizing what he was doing at the time of the altercation because of several types of medication he had taken. Representing Jacobs was Robert C. Hesson.

EXPERIENCE TRAILSIDE DINING

Break out the fishing tackle. Ice up the cooler. And strap on the backpacks. It's time to hit the trail again.

Whatever your plans in the great outdoors, make trailside dining simple, nutritious and delicious. All it takes is a hearty menu, a little preparation before you leave home and smart packing.

If you are eating more than one meal on the road, pack each menu's items together for simpler unpacking. Use the most perishable items first, leaving canned or dehydrated foods for later meals.

On the trail, you'll discover plastic food containers such as those in Rubbermaid's Servin' Saver™ line useful to help prevent foods from leaking or being crushed.

These reusable containers are economical and environmentally considerate since you won't have to buy and dispose of perishable wrappings. Use the empty containers to bring home such necessities as soiled laundry, or for safe transit of natural treasures like pine cones, fossils and sea shells.

For a fresh outdoor salad, before you leave home, parboil green beans, broccoli florets, red onion rings, zucchini and carrot slices. Add bell pepper strips and splash with a wine vinaigrette dressing and fresh basil or mint. Packed in a cooler, it will toss and marinate itself as you travel.

The best sandwiches are those made just before eating. Carry fixings in separate containers and let everyone assemble their own on site. It's more fun, too!

Here are a variety of trailside recipes sure to satisfy hearty appetites after a day of fishing, hiking or boating. Most of the work is done before you even leave home, so it's a snap at the campsite.

RAINY DAY MULLIGAN STEW

Mulligan Stew is much more than a plain campfire stew. This one contains both beef and chicken and simmers slowly in red wine with a mix of fresh vegetables. Prepare at home if desired, tote in a plastic tight-sealing food container, then heat in your skillet at campsite. If it never fails to rain when you camp out (and your campers have big appetites), this recipe can add a hearty warmth to a damp day.
